edited 2 and a half years later, a year after uploading JA notes from 01-20 in both pdf and htm form [the latter with the bowhue shift per day trick via /font code visible in by now ancient browsers only. replacing them with 2 /span <>s improves thinks ... like recognition in Libre Office Writer .. which i use to transit htm to pdf] ... Once this is finished ij'll do a one column version to not frustrate copying attempts.

the 'dayhues' follow sequence as shown on top but the dates have many gaps in the first 2 thirds of using this colour bg .. from sunday 22nd of march, 1star, k248 onwards they all get at least one line ... and a much older / earlier / more embarrassing bowcobble attempt can be seen from maandag - 11skywalker 193 - on down ...a couple of times ... but be warned, they look very odd compared to say that neat permie image i have ... but that does not specify the colours used and i am too boomy to peel them out of that image file .. maybe someday .. and then i'll prolly be tempted to recolor all over again it's hurting me too much [post socratic poisoning] to do long sessions tho ..

A many million year overlapspans covering bird's eye view do it for you? prefers to 'mirrorealize' (in-, ob-, per- and convert) any and all of them into the from outer space 'inscapismistrees' like that Aurini guy with his hourslong adoration of the latest in insular fantasy: a new Nolan flick named 'interstellar' ... for which all he needs is his fancy leathers, sportscars, clean headshave, smokes, booze and, of course putting the more blatant and chronic aspectrality of anti-feminist absolutative expression on hiatus, ... after all that's what outer space is ultimately for -- towards the end of the first Critical Omissions show last tuesday (30th of december, they get uploaded as mp3 a few weeks later on the freedomslips facebook page) there's a great rant on defense tec as functional expression of sexuality gone wrong. A hatred based sublimation ... Nietzsche and all that big book jazz ...jada yada

Each of the resented and therefore wrongly and fiendishly compensated (for) imperfections is only a tiny bit like the Israelite coping mechanism - oping to cope with the burden of the transport / dust / stale / surprises sprung and favoritisms played karma -but they do add up and snowball rite along their ever further and deeper desertifying (desertifyinger for short) ways; the effigy specialists who built potemkin and shoot in hollywood, leak a phoney conversation or two (*haahaah!!!! I actually agree on that of course .. but will she ever see rock as i do; will she ever visit remineralize.org (pretty sure her mentor Jose Arguelles did) and suspend happy core chore / game / challenge / wish lists along the treasure trails weavable between centers of gravities and the liminal, extreme outer reaches of periphericalevities?

yesterday was my dad's kin (on most powerful day of the year as per 'sacred symbols' spread, echoed in HDS) and that of Morsi .. which reminds me to tell yall he was congenial and good to friends but he had to apply the usual inequity bit in order to develop a type of mercantile insularity that made him feel attacked by my arguments and shout me down, i 'mummed' up (following mom's example), contrast this with the fact that i have a striking voice, as do my parents and Morsi must have one too if he got as powerful as he did. This brings me to the contrast between rockstardom and my entry into rocky secret[ion]s like no other. The audual insularity a solid affords (a word Negarestani borrowed and ran with as i realized last week; his paf appearances are actually worth joining i guess, .. anybody wanna get me invited there?) really is a thing to 'undergo' and mime for a few good deals and hefty chunks of times hi and lo before a purchase and grasp like mine, like that of Cernunnos, .. Jesus (homeopathic remnant clearly discernable once eyes opened) can ripen. Improvising into a helmet alone on the road for miles by the thousands (*on my 'fuck off/rot op' money), like i did, managed the rest.

ps: 20-30 years ago i began playing with visualizations of myself in South America for the following reason: the travel money i received in those years were earned from commissions on frozen hindquarters sluiced to greece through rotterdam by kin 167 ... hence i figured i have an obligation to combat overgrazing in argentina especially .. and also to help them share in the profits just a little more than they have, which is probably negligible compared to my share.

and so, if the crisis keeps building on eurasia i might reconsider .. but russian as a language sounds more sympathetic to me than spanish (are you learning?) and when i see the old way of cooking with rocks in a pit and huge huge amounts of wood (ok if all your forests are left standing instead of carted off for western pulp pubs and furnitures) i get shocked and discouraged at once.

this 43m docu is, i feel, the most accurate portrayal and placement of the writer / bon vivant / conceit James Joyce .. and it reflects accurately also, on some of his great admirers: Marshall McLuhan and by extension Bob Dobbs ..

ira koska (russian speaker in switzerland) said he loves Joyce (in french) ? yeah, much to admire there .. but .. to, in Finnegans's wake, come no closer to being unambiguous regarding touching base (*the 'mugful of mud' phrase) in a space of 700 pages -- all the other references to basic functions [and -ality] completely muffled, veiled, muted, cut-up, maimed - derived from hifalutin terminology but not escaping [the act of] Joyce peeling them out of their perversions and delegations, make believe leveragings and projections unscathed nor/or restored -- one has to conclude he just did not fight himself as free of his surroundings with a good ear for the future as the head honcho of achieveradio.com makes him out to have done every weekend (usually for over 24 hours at a time - claims to be over ninety, that fauxing fraud) . Bob goes to great and absurd length to posit being unbiased complete, cover all angles (even angels) etcetera but in fact completey taboo and off-limit the primary and primal form of touching base, pre- and trans-empirical forms of anonymity and tactility - kinda like what Cairns is on about in his work on inorganic origins of life, easily repeatable in the next fresh rockdust containing puddle you care to observe closely - he is in fact, positively phobic about it .. or worse .. after all, his whole put on cat be taken as much more satanic than the secretive varieties of those endeavors, claiming not only a hold on mainstream but leading it and in completely shameless ways, unaware of their hierophantic dictachosis. Pride is a serum of life but lends itself to promoting death. Joyce was basically an alcoholic yet such a good fuck he did not get fat. Went blind though.

.. say, .. can you help me open a russian bank account or are only citizens good for the 17% interest? ... or maybe we could go picket the Kolomoiski estate with some good banners and cameras ... you up for that?

i agree though that

A TREE IS A CARRIED ACROSS ('translated') ROCK

loses ground as quickly as he can though .. cause he's a dislocation syndrome suffering turtle isle occupier after all if women hadn't objectified and mercenarized men it would have never come to this lunatic raveage ...

What he DOES best is demonstrate ability to derive glee from stolen secrets .. parade these in themselves tricks used to steal as proudly as a joyrider hits curve and curb; he himself is constantly scheming to corner or boasting he has cornered the market .. (note the paranoia he reports between McLuhan and him, sent as a spy initially).

A strong voice is a highly prized thing and we cannot say Bob has limited himself to an average size repertoire but he pretty well sticks to the performance frequency schedule .. which is eating into his dreamtime even more than his ambition to be the biggest prancrunk on earth already does.

We are maltreated to one trivial factoid out of a sordid life after another ... spiked with vital nutrient cocktails. Joyce was kin????

My life has many similarities with Bob's and i don't take being shrugged off and ignored lightly ... so expect more exposure of the ways Bob's theatrics tie in to the thinking processes that have turned herbal lore into a pharmaffia industry ... etcetera.

no pill is without side effects (let alone THE pill) and that you believe and express this, is outrageous and disappointing. DDT? it's macho to pretend chemicals don't hurt you; a complete traitor to grounding like radio head Bob Dobbs talks about organics as 'chemical bodies' (just one egregious example of a default may are bred to, a slightly overprotective indoorsy smothering is enough).

what about all the body building powders, growth hormone industry ... no effect?

one could argue that extreme femaleness - militant/politicized feminism following victimhood weaponization [over]rules ((which)) Otto Weininger pointed out to Freud - is a direct effect of the pill you never saw women with completey out of sink breast sizes? No effect? Come on bud i sentence you to redoing the first portion of this vid .. so i can write a nicer comment! soft and rubberized plastics used by the sex industry can easily vy with hormone disruptor effect from 'the pill' dontsja thonk?

the artistic rendering is like a 'find the cheats and skews 'zoekplaatje' but one way to bypass all these 'beyond the line colouration' (rot op naar je eigen koeleur ... he burrugie meester pomphouder sluiswachter?) is this:

1 3 6 12+1 24 = 3x19 it's one nine two now (planetary human) and we're on our way to where Douglas Dietrich will explain Operation High Jump to us tuesday nite when it will already be 195 (cosmic eagle) ... not i am using the terms i had the most adversion to and objections about, comparing it to the 'easier' (just more linear) phase of life progression used in astrological housing which you can then / next challenge yourself applying to the zodiac zoo.

but back to the timewave (which nobody in the still substantial but shrinking followership has managed to 3d very much, let alone the full 4x7x13) round of them which looks a lot like a swastika when flattened out to put to paper .. slam, press and oh .. god .. see it enter the oppressor stream and add to that devilsteam already. No wonder the weather has to work so hard to distribute and dilute all the deadly shite. Anyway, where were we ... oh yeah, reminding you of the natural 7foldness Jose named 'resonance' (in the middle of 13, therefore the octave position .. so the very best starting point to weave 1:13 2:12 .. and so on .. then do cross-stitch and so on till you follow basketweavery all the way to silly wire artists like Rodenites) ... i'd use the tidied tide tie in tonery arts to spin rock myself but that's just me i guess. a tripod .. rope a huge bolder (drill a few pinholds) and tie it to a bearing suspended above it in a tripod able to bearlift the whole thing from it's perch (to be as smooth as possilbe already and more so after each spin the bearing enables) via a pole over the tripod with some arms ('wings' - clad framage). call it a flag at work. (none of these real whippy fabric damaging sounds round here please). Windmusic is a dutch virtue Aboutaleb's children's children won't even understand .. if they should be so unlucky that their forebears can't seem to retrieve the sense to retrace the missteps of their parents.

end of part 2 he connects the fact he drove a prius since 02 with a myeloma diagnosis in 08 ignored his instinct about 'something is sucking it out of me' feelings when turning the car's key for a deadlly long time it seems.

while watching the beginning of that part yesterday i realize Jahrun warned against the pharmaffia as much as i do in the last few years but his 'contacts have had even more averse outcomes than the battles i fought.

As a type is he is quite comparable to me, classic hypochondriac, oversensitive, overexcitable and spoiled guys who feels all the modern toxload effects magnified 10s of thousands of times owing to their dna wiring being that old (see branching theory as per Andrew Lehman); iow, i see a guy much like myself .. and he drives the same roads and then walks quite similar paths to the ones i looked up, over, ventured onto and then retraced and retrieved my steps from for the most part ... mostly due to trying to honour my mother's settled ways while i was providing her companionship care (08-13), propping up the wings she never quite made use of despite the connection (capricorn = rooster - she had a very fierce cackle ... i have a feeling it was a greatly contributing factor to her shunning social situations by and by).

Then i see him victimized by medical superstitions as much as my father (on top of the pharmaffiose exposure dad had to brandnew plastics [for all the wraps which went in between single grams weighing breadmeat slices for instance] or perhaps i should say the former transpositions the true evil of industrial products onto completely innocent even vital substances), thanks to Stephanie Seneff, who helped me realize last week that dad succumbed to the anti cholesterol hype!!! ... which i had help jumpstart with my aversion to baking grease and rancidity, trying to look nutwards more and more (though i never got to a fullblown stage of making milk from nuts) only to find out years later about the war on cholesterol ... obviously a satanic US fad and pharmaffia morosity / monstrosity.

So .. .to sum up: yes, he and i are trying to deliver justified warning and yes this causes an unrest among our peers which can easily backfire and multiply, even and especially at the hands of those you try mobilize against (after all, they have a range of routines for helping you search for the quilty party and will readily point out their next prey as your next weak point and vice versa).

Yet also, .. yes, we are hypochondriac underappreciators, saboteurs of efficiency and pathetic sissies, he's just been a whole lot more extreme, contradictory and self-destructive than i have.

... it's a fine line ... we're edgy people and can slice through the thickest quite thinly.

ignored his instinct about 'something is sucking it out of me' feelings when turning the car's key for a deadly long time it seems.

while watching the beginning of that part yesterday i realized 2 things:

1 -- Jahrun warned against the pharmaffia as much as i do in the last few years but his 'contacts have had even more aversive outcomes than the battles i fought.

As a type is he is quite comparable to me, classic hypochondriac, oversensitive, overexcitable and spoiled guys who feels all the modern toxload effects magnified 10s of thousands of times owing to their dna wiring helping a layer /branch from waaay back (before all this 'dopage' go live / come alive - see neoteny.org by Andrew Lehman); iow, i see a guy much like myself .. and he drives the same foodfad roads and then walks quite similar fitfreak paths to boot, much the same ones i wandered and ventured onto, stumbled upon, repeatedly looked up, over .. and then retraced and retrieved my steps from for the most part ... mostly due to trying to honour my mother's settled ways while i was providing her companionship care (08-13), propping up the wings she never quite made use of despite the connection (capricorn = rooster - she had a very fierce cackle ... i have a feeling it was a greatly contributing factor to her shunning social situations by and by).

2 - i also view him, thanks to Stephanie Seneff, whose digital acquaintance i made last week, as a victim of medical superstitions, quite as much as my father. On top of the pharmaffiose exposure dad had to 'turn over' / buy/sell brandnew plastics [for all the wraps which went in between single grams weighing breadmeat slices for instance] and congested road exhaust - he ended up in the middle of the war on cholesterol.

To my shame i helped jumpstart the insecuritization regarding foodstuffs with my aversion to rancidity of baking grease, trying to look nutwards more and more (though i never got to a fullblown stage of making milk from nuts) only to find out years later about the war on cholesterol ... obviously a satanic US fad and pharmaffia morosity / monstrosity. Naivite can be broken in very counterproductive ways.

So .. .to sum up: yes, Jahrun and i are trying to deliver justified warning and yes this causes an unrest among our peers which can easily backfire and multiply, even and especially at the hands of those you try mobilize against (after all, they have a range of routines for helping you search for the guilty party and will readily point right to it as their next target [your asset falls prey to their thanatopianization] .. as your next weak point, source of suffering and vice versa crosswise twice - profit for them).

Yet also, .. yes, we are hypochondriac underappreciators of a dime turning based status quo, saboteurs of efficiency (and of boastful robustness illusions, pride) and at our worst, shirkers, pathetic sissies, he's just been a whole lot more extreme, contradictory and self-destructive than i have.

2 Responses to The Tzolkin Spiritual Compass ---- January 9 Rohaan Solare says: ----- Jaap, thank you for your post on Tzolkin Cosmology. I would like to clarify a few things for your readers. Tzolkin Cosmology (TC) is a phrase that I have coined and it's also the name of a new domain of science that I too have founded. The 'Tzolkin' part is a Mayan word for a non-astronomically based cycle that some unknown Mesoamerican group discovered over 3000 years ago. ----- Up until the publication of my exposition on TC, the Tzolkin was thought to be nothing more than a cultural invention. My work provides empirical verification for the existence of the Tzolkin cycle and the legendary lore behind it. ----- 'Cosmology' means: the study of the order of the universe. The Tzolkin cycle, it turns out, is a deep order cyclical process that seems to be generating every aspect of our reality. Tzolkin Cosmology, means the study of the order of the Universe according to my observations and studies of the Tzolkin cycle and code. ---- In the year 2000 I began to study the Tzolkin code and track the Tzolkin cycle for self-verification purposes. The Tzolkin code is the language used to model the Tzolkin cycle. The only information I received from ancient Mesoamerican sources on the Tzolkin cycle is the bare bones 37 unit Tzolkin code and some assigned descriptors. ----- The lore behind the Tzolkin code says that it functions as a divinatory and as an astrological device. That's all I had to work with. Everything in the text, except the 37 unit code and their descriptors, are my findings, wording, discoveries, and description of the Tzolkin cycle and code. ----- Tzolkin Cosmology is then an empirically verifiable model on the nature of Reality, and of how our reality, in all its aspects, unfolds and changes day by day. TC is not presented as 'a theory' but as demonstrable facts of nature. warmest regards to all. in comments, Ruben quoting MHeley:

Calendars matter! ----- 'Back in the Babaji Ashram in Cisternino, I was having a deep debate with Calendar Sensei Dr. Arguelles about the Leap Day story. We discussed the finer points of intercalation, but I remained unconvinced. I left and joined the devotees meditating before a fire puja. As I sat meditating, Dr. Arguelles walked by and whispered in my ear; "Zero Zero Hunab Ku!"

"All is synchronized in time."

and that's after the slightly more delusional words:

The calendars had a social purpose as well, they were not just ornamental, or the province of a privileged elite. Similarly, the day '0:0 Hunab Ku' is a reminder to us that calendar's have a dual purpose- they are maps of the cycles of time, but they are also the 'Operating System' of a culture; the means by which events and people are synchronized. Our understanding of the cycles of natural time is always a work in progress. This was true even for the Classic Maya. The apparent paradoxes and contradictions involved in apparently conflicting interpretations of calendar systems are merely clues to comprehending a greater truth: all human calendars are approximations.

that last bit i thoroughly agree with ... here's missie222 responding (on that verflixte leapday appendix):

.. it falls short. It always will. Because it is a new paradigm that cannot be contained in what is known.

ok, 1/4th day difference in a year is 13 days in 52 years ... and how many doots exactly?
28 = 39 .. so 52 = 78 - a 13th = 6, so 72!!!!
... not that it matters much ...

Comment by Jay Woods yesterday

I am a little upset as I feel I have been duped! I believe now is the time to address the issue of the effect leap years have on the Dreamspell T'zolkin count!

I believe that the Wizard's count (Dreamspell/ 13 Moon Calendar) was meant to synchronize Kin 34 with the Mayan Kin of 240 [6 Ajaw] - meaning that Kin 1 on the Dreamspell would be Kin 55 on the Mayan Calendar... a difference of 54).

I am not meaning to cause any harm in addressing this issue, I just think it needs to be publicly addressed because I know I have asked a few people and no one has a clear answer. Aida (bless her heart and soul) and I have even gone so far to discuss the start date of the 13 moon calendar (December 10, 1989?). This information now seems so obvious after following these cycles for a few solar rings that it seems people are intentionally keeping it from the unknowing.

That's why I propose that everyone on this 28th anniversary of the Supernova Quetzalcoatl 1987A go to Starroot - Mayan Oracle find your "traditional Maya count" signature add 54 to it (subtract 260 if it is above 260) then look at a Dreamspell T'zolkin and decide for yourself the effect leap years has had to clear up past karma this has caused.

Kin 229: Red Galactic MoonGalactic Agent 198, 144 & 77 (December 10, 1989 count) creating the Discussion of the Truth project.

Is there another way to keep track of the lost days like as you mention adding 13 days every 52 years? Juryt and others may have something to say about this as he/ they seem to understand moon synchronization!

Juryt replied: Yes, I study a 19×19 matrix with 0-360 units called the Stellar Clock. This is dividing the circle in degrees and represents the measurement of space (or Outer Time). Not only is it related to the clock and the zodiak (map of the stars) — the matrix also connects the Tun (18×20 days) of the Mayan Long Count with the Gregorian calendar (including the leap day). This is fascinating in our study of "Outer Time" in which can now learn more about the relationship between the sidereal / synodic day, the tides of the ocean and three different Moon cycles (sidereal, synodic and draconic). This 19×19 matrix has a strong foundation in ancient knowledge at many metalithic sites around the planet (Stonehenge for example). Besides that, many crop circles appeared that gave us clear direction to this subject.."

In the Lunar Ring the number 19 also plays an important role: it synchronises the Lunar Ring on the chessboard with the calendar. It does so by use of the Metonic Cycle, which counts exactly 19 calendar years or 235 synodic, 254 sidereal and 255 draconic Moon cycles, isn't that interesting?

Comment by Jay Woods 17 minutes ago: Please check the "Gregorian" date March 7, 1988 on the Mayan T'zolkin and the Dreamspell T'zolkin. --- starroot.com/cgi/daycalc.pl Without leap years, Jose's signature should be Kin:259 Blue Crystal(12) Storm(19) just following the logic that his signature without leap years would be his Mayan signature (Kin 205) + 54.

--- This day is 3 days after a full moon and 7 days after the first leap day (Hunab Ku 0.0) of the Dreamspell!

--- Thanks for the post and information, lots to consider.

--- To Aida: I was just meaning that we discussed the start date of December 10, 1989 already feel totally different this morning ... but be sure that'll be the back and forth in contrast rich eb&flow such as you have prolly already gotten used to expecting from me, ... i wouldn't say 'gotten used to counting on me for' cause it's not even doing myself much good, how could it benefit others?

other times i am proud of what i did and convinced the world would be worse without it not least amongst which is putting cresters in savantistic perspective (the followinks of the partichlymebeates may vary) it is unbelievably weird to live with one's exitbound mom for years, go out for a few weeks and then return to that now empty house .. from which i kept an eye on the worst through a screen that probes two ways and tends to 'cave' in many ways. It 'lends' a very false sense of security on the one hand - not the least amongst them - but more invasively, it 'discovers' [at great 'decourt' - profusion, obsolescence, diseconomizes], caves in and washes [up, down, over and out] more than the few [self]chosen as icon to be showered with glory of the elect and/or those hyped into scapegoatdom with floods of emotion or worse, bruises and/or burial by debris of 'indigneosity'.

speech is a poor and impoverishing medium, how could i convey the beauty of this word, or have the feeling it now exists forever and google will attach 'early user/adopter if not coiner status to me forever ... rite? but perhaps it's nothing more than homage to the 15m of duh fame phrase McLhan came up with ... consciousness as the thinkblink on the brink .. gone before you know it ... and most other time it's the slow deep dark grind and rockpolish covered in and fed by white and soft stuff of a kind that can easily break of a symbol (mercedes star) when sliding off a roof (as happened to me this week)

Ok I interpret it as you would base your purchasing based on the race /nationality [indigneosity??] of the owners as that is what you said. I would ...

two weeks on the road in and back out of switzerland in the house i was kind of already finding peace with the idea of dying in, but came to feel was not securely in my possession at all ... yetslough of the travel dirt, slip away from all that slidey snow and mud on the farm, struggling with ruggedness that from here looks far and foreign ... and i am back into routine inwardness [remorse in a deadly struggle with self pity and other navel noodlings] ... which is likely to be as extreme as the years of 24/7 outgoingness i lived as a shelf-aisle [shallfail] & road or pathside tramp (germans use this word for hitchhiking) so tempted am i to drop reality as if it were a bad dream, that i even rationalise this horrible sloth (this house is not in any way practical or useful, specially not in the long run ... and time just may be very critical) and manage to convince myself the authorities will never get to execute the now 3 year old inheritance tax (taking half) on ordinary citizens, having its hands full with criminals.

worst one could blame my dad for is paying the migrant workers above average as a rule and thus having an amplifying effect on the streams of them. Yet as is, the leftie gvts have not just tried to outdo that kind of damage ... by undoing any and all good effects - so wonderfully described in the book 'Deutschland in schwere zeiten' - don't listen to those decrying nazis for using slave labour .. they were pioneering the ideal model of returning migrant labourers home richer and wiser - and i love the luxury of considering visiting their graves, precious enough to take the gamble only the superrich can take without endangering all their possessions,, like this house in my case.

I should at least try transfer ownership by offering it cheap against the right to rent and die here .. as i tried to help my mom do .. which went horribly wrong thanks to a hole in my defense against the pharmaffioicy.

obviously my life is kinda useless .. i write my way through it like a guy in the dark with a tiny flashlight ... fresh writs already left behind for nobody to see ... i won't be the james joyce of holland after all ... these boxes of memorabilious cellulose surrounding me (my own pretty much illegibly non linear scribbles ... the ritual accoutrements for which [light, pen and paper by bedside] i have long since abandoned) .. which [for lack of {spread out along} aislespace] i can't even shift and resift to benefit some sort of product quality -- the completely unknown PParcHive ... it's perhaps the savant syndrome, Keyserling with his mutually irreconcilable diagram productivity, Jose doing a similar thingie, all streetpreachers filled with more phrases than they have time to spew and gurgle around -- will most likely end up goin into a goddamn waste container .. just not a police one at some protest or other.

residue : monuments

the psychological incompleteness that manifests as monumentality disperse any and all surplus funds via eurotopia, crestians like parada13, more purely permie efforts (thank the gods for people like Geoff Lawton), land trusts, ecovillages (facebook.com/levendbouwen), whistle blowers (Douglas Dietrich, Ryan Dawson, Ken Jebsen), etcetera ... without immediate personal involvement ... that moment will perhaps come .. as i told you before, it's not unrealistic to expect alzheimer within a decade ... but i am not feeling quite THAT renunciatory about it yet; paying people to study my work and get it multiply presentable might remain a pipe dream (i am already too misanthropic to start advertising for it, no hope that will work better than my commentarian efforts) .. and as for crest, ... well, it's [synchronotronifying] is] as much an authentication key as it is work in the key of autistication. You will be familiar with a related yet suprising angle on that sentiment as i expressed it before, variously, here and there, in similar shorthand:

step 'rite' up to my steepness mind rond[w]rap learn to see monuments as residues residual monumentality monuments are a kind of psychic residue monumental residuality
the psychological incompleteness that manifests as monumentality cue pyramidality, .. the ritualized battle fields the incompletene compostition that is monumentality the incompletene compostment that spurs monumentality the incompletene compostage that 'creates' monuments the incompletene comportment that escalates up and into monumentality stepped, staired and escalated monuments are symptoms of psychological incompleteness, ... breaches of hygiene and spirituality aside: did you ever come across the guy who claims the pyramids were built with waterchannels and locks ... one could imagine the synchronotron as a dance/flow of musical chairs applying to lockload eh? fluids in different colours too.

If thepyramid were a pulsepump / fountain of sorts though ... we'd have to find waterways (conduction chunnels) going all the way to the top .. which nobody has as far as i know

How were the pyramids of egypt really built - Part 1 ----- pyramidsreallybuilt -- 2,311 subbers ---- 775,655 clicks counted beginning from Jun 14, 2012

Watch the detailed step by step guide here.... <http://youtu.be/C1y8N0ePuF8>

When construction project manager Chris Massey set off on a surprise trip to Egypt it seemed he was in for a relaxing time - a cruise down the Nile, a hot air balloon ride over the Valley of the Kings, sunbathing by the Red Sea and guided tours of the most spectacular ancient structures in the world...

But wherever he looked, he saw problems with the perceived wisdom on how the pyramids, temples and tombs of the pharaohs were built:

If limestone blocks were dragged up a mud brick ramp to be placed at the top of the Great Pyramid, where is the evidence of this huge ramp? How could materials such as wooden rollers and mud bricks take the strain put on them by tons of stone? Thousands of men are supposed to have dragged the building blocks across the desert in the searing heat - how did the ancient project managers keep morale up amongst the dusty and tired workforce?

Surely there must have been an easier way? Massey looked around him and saw the greatest resource available to the Egyptians - the waters of the mighty Nile.

This engaging account is the result of Massey's pool-side ponderings, in which he gives a detailed alternative theory of how the ancient Egyptians could have used water to their advantage to make pyramid building much easier.

Pyramid Hydraulic Ram Water Pump (1of3) ----- CSIWEMBLEY - 1,738 -- 47,365 Feb 28, 2010 ----- John Cadman ----- Back in 2000, I built a scale working model of the subterranean section of the Great Pyramid. It is only the subterranean section and I don't know the total purpose of the entire Great Pyramid. The subterranean section is a water pump (by-product) and a hydraulic pulse generator (primary function) It aggressively resonates the King's chamber.

This layout is completely different than Edward Kunkel's work (The Pharaoh's Pump) and it does work. I am not affiliated with "The Pharaoh's Pump Foundation" in any way. --- It has been in Dr. John DeSalvo's book, "The Complete Pyramid Sourcebook" and Edward Malkowski's book, "Ancient Egypt, 39,000 BCE" Supported and endorsed by Dr. John DeSalvo, Dr. Patrick Flanagan, Dr. Kirti Betai, Joe Parr, Chris Dunn, etc.

Nothing a germophobe semi-savant like McLuhan and accolyte Bobber would ever take a hint and get a clue about of course.

"LATE NIGHT IN THE MIDLANDS" Talk Radio Programme As Hosted By MICHAEL VARA...

i discover this a month after the fact ... due to the relevant post on the freedomslips facebook page having been private for a good while (along with others which appeared out of hiding); it's a new program on Revolution Radio which has a program 4 days a week by Sean David Morton ranking 17th while the mainstream ones don't appear among the first few thousand ... such is the future fading though as yet great power of cumbersome & pompous mendication merchandising media. Too bad we can't go hibernate till then ... but moving to russian eco-villages could work ... not a peep from those 2 swiss holiday guides i wrote this week just yet though.

my micro wants to fuck with you makro my dear little runaway diagrammarian count downer, .. count grounder ... timegear grinder .. take a little polisher from 55 wilyaz? part of your make up willy nilly no?... if you catch my drift ...

" =.. starfamily ... looking for clear receptacles that aren't full of a whole bunch of things" (one hour nineteen minutes in). These types of formulaicisms are, imho veiled euphemism for ... rocks.

Just one of a never ending stream of examples illustrating just how this cult sets you up to betray earth [l]y fullness, .. it's weight, .. rock ... i am trying to complement this cult as follows: give the easy and very much at hand ('voor de hand liggend = obvious in dutch) stages in the processes - which one can witness, stimulate and delight in - which help 'it' become soil .. in the fullness of time, as they say, 'rite' of way.

"it's a time release program"

so is my ('chas wheel' [ification] of a) prayerwheel loaded with rocks (both rolling ones and those getting so intimately mingly they lighten up), ready for daily need coverage / proper burial .. cicli sization?? Hollywood never will discover the art of compost toiletry, too go lacticklishly noble i guess. Deep seated resistance to the very source of their own succes ... high density thru hi hygiene ... get people to carry your shit and spread it far and wide ... i'm goin in ...

In other words 'smetvrees' (germophobia), the inverters trying to pretend anchoring / grounding can be done in the stars. there was a stage in it's development permaculture was idealized much .. and in fact like any sect they leave precious few measly slots of time to deal with chunkier lumps of it, bent as they are on accelerating synchronicity (leglock, eyeshut and countdown tricks galore). It's kind of like the worst permie courses .. which never leave the drawing boards very far throughout, before the dispersal.

if i was jesus what would it be to me? source of pride, reason to rehash fond memories? ... don't think so ... quite to the contrary in fact ... do the right think and the rite thing is always the closest at hand yes .. but lockleg shuteye or savant schemery brainstorm to deco you next (jetset) 'social' bash aint quite the way i don't think.

hi Piet; I hope you had a good visit with your sister, and that all is going well for you. My partner [kin 240] and I went to Golden Bay on kin 240. Next morning, I had a wonderful reading from Grayham 195, which has me very excited about the future. He pinpointed the optimal time to travel, and so much more. Then on Monday, Neil came by to transmit a specific date he received from spirit [which was triply-confirmed alpha-numerically] which exactly [and independently] coincides with what Grayham indicated. So, in the next few days, I'll be changing my departure date one last time :) I see that your 'Earthy and Elegant' e-mail was removed, but I'm still hoping my new ticket includes a flight to Europe. The info from my 'Solar Witness' friends [195 and 194] means I'll have less trepidation about flying alone, yet more time [almost 2 moons] to arrange a travel buddy, so 'it's all good'.

A Clitoris is actually an undeveloped penis; since we all, at some point, are both male and female in the uterus, before the dominate gene takes over, the penis on a female and a male is actually the same. And once the dominate gene takes over for a male, the clit actually develops into a penis, so technically, when a girl says: suck my dick... I guess it's kinda politically correct...

you will see it if you scroll down the rocksoiler G+ page

.. under which i posted my perrenial and fundamental objection again.

listening to Bob a little more i feel confirmed in my take on his depth of analysis falling far short of grounding also and achieving valence in the realm of autistication .. which, being such a top dollar commodity, merely SEEMS to have anything to do with authentication, no matter how innovative they think they are with selection criteria.

at the other G+ place i made some room for old acquaintances, .. heavy intello folks with a numonotional streak i'll just paste last nite's notes below ... wanted to tell them about Jose's ... whatsjumacall it gematria but passing connections along (which i long thought was my strength and duty) is very severely hampered if you haven't got your archive at beck and call ... and now i bought a brandnew computer ... that is 10 years old .. so though it shows videos better/sharper ... it has no stamina .. nor storage.

Covers Newton's quest for the "unifying constant" found in 2520 and links it to the creation of God and to His influence within creation – centering on Jerusalem's Temple Mount. Rehearses Newton's achievements and, in particular, his relationship to arcs and light (49°) and the 2520. Brief discussion on the Universal Lampstand of Zechariah 4 is given and a final overview of Newton's discovery of calculus and how it relates to the "Ark" and "Arcs."

Was a bit disappointed when you quickly and w/o explanation retracted your 'Earthy and Elegant' suggestions. The offer of Dutch residency was intriguing.

I see that your 'Earthy and Elegant' e-mail was removed, but I'm still hoping my new ticket includes a flight to Europe. The info from my 'Solar Witness' friends [195 and 194] means I'll have less trepidation about flying alone, yet more time [almost 2 moons] to arrange a travel buddy, so 'it's all good'.

... it's a mystery i did find a trace of it under the thread called 'Ecuador', where i wrote this:

use this house as base .. for at least as long as i can stand it myself .. also i could be your raghauler/roller to various destinations from here (tibet, russia, greece) ... northern spain (although i'd suggest driving there)

... pp?? .. ahh .. passport ... do you want dutch citizenship? i offered douglas dietrich but he's busy keepin a benign eye on aquino i guess would a simultaneous CtBiT at parada13 be an option, 2 138s organizin ... what could go wrong rite?

march 13: Re: Earthy and Elegant...Heart-y and Gallant yet there is no trace of this i can find so you named this thread, including the 'Re:' right??

.. and so, .. you classify this as a retraction: confiding over too long a distance a function of your keeping yours? would a round trip auckland to pick you up help? haha!! come on, you couldn't have that assault on my immune system and that of the earth on your conscience could you? man up and jump on a plane, i'll meet you in madrid in 3 days

Hopefully you weren't affected. I'm still here--until Spectral 8. Final postponement! Were you ever able to hear that latest interview of SS? When I read about it, was sorry to see that they said SS founded the L of T and wrote the 7 CHC volumes; no mention of Valum Votan! Was a bit disappointed when you quickly and w/o explanation retracted your 'Earthy and Elegant' suggestions. The offer of Dutch residency was intriguing. I'm working on a blog to post while it's still the Solar Moon. So much happening during it! I hope all is well with your financial and familial challenges. Claire 138

he does 4x2 hours on RevRad weekly and quotes that Faal person along with the other far out analyst, in japan .. Fulford quite regularly. ::::: Hhe has the ability to both charm and disgust me ... kinda like most people i have feelings for (including myself), let alone strong ones. ----- i did not retract much other than picking you up in Oz (unless i develop / acquire a reason to be there) ... but offering marriage without qualifications would be unwise. If i were capable of unconditionality i'd have a very different life.

the 'intriguing suggestions' are in our thread called 'Ecuador' .. you confused yourself adding 'Re:' to a mail title that is yours not mine.

I faked a marriage once before in my life ... so perhaps i owe .. someone to return the 'favor' .. we'll see ... if i can commit to a dry and unselfishly altruistic version of make believe while you match it with a grateful one it will surely work. Marriages for residency have been a massively employed ruse for decades here. Not so sure it's any more legal and unquestioned than it was and proly is in the States though. as it turned out i wasn't in danger of being reported just yet yet i have taken another risk: using my sis/in law's bookkeeper .. we'll see how it turns out ... might be fine .. since i wasn't actually reregistered in Holland untill 09 (from 77 forward till then i lived unreg'ed) ... guess i wasn't feelin/seein a future for myself in other than Holland ... then the worst days of the year hit: the ones where the farmers empty their farmbarn cesspits .. on the first pretty days of the year ... i am sooo soo unstable a person when you come to think of it, a fucking lieaf in the wind !!!!!

My apologies Piet :) You're right--I was thinking of the text in 'Ecuador', which is still there. Thanks for clarifying that so graciously. I'm glad to realize you didn't 'retract' and that your honor is intact :) Since you said that you had offered residency to a guy, I thought there was another way to residency, besides marriage. Goy Guide to World History - 4 -- Yoryevrah -- 2,940 ---- 101 views Apr 11, 2015 ----- THE BATTLE FOR THE SOUL
Using Byron Jost's unfinished film, 'Minority Report', part four of Goy Guide to World History documents the caustic impact of Freudianism, the Frankfurt School, and Boasian anthropology on America's mind and soul.
Featured are Kevin MacDonald (Culture of Critique), E Michael Jones (The Jewish Revolutionary Spirit and Its Impact on World History), and three other Jew-conscious goyim, Canadian Paul Fromm (Stormfront Radio), James Joseph Sanchez, PhD; and to date an unidentified individual, the Unknown Scholar.
Documented here is the extraordinary assault on Christian and/or ethnic cultures, leaving Jewish identity intact.

Michael Aquino commented on a video on YouTube.
Where his claims concerning any past association with me are concerned, Dietrich is a complete liar.
Nor was there any "satanic child abuse" at the Presidio of San Francisco. The 1986-7 sensationalism there was nothing more than a publicity and money scam by a "play therapist" and get-rich-quick parents happy to use this excuse for multimillion-$ claims.
As an afterthought of the scam against the chosen target - a hapless and completely innocent day-care teacher - Army Chaplain Larry Adams-Thompson and his wife attempted a similar $3 million claims scam targeting Mrs. Aquino and myself. It was exposed, there were no charges against us accordingly, and court-martial charges against A-T were suppressed, presumably to avoid embarrassment to the Corps of Chaplains.
For full details see my book Extrme Prejudice:
<http://www.amazon.com/dp/1500159247>
As for Dietrich's many and extraordinary claims about himself, I think the audience would be wise to ask for independently-verifiable documentation before believing any of it. To date he has refused to retract or apologize for his campaign of lies concerning me, and he is not financially worth suing.

25,710 Apr 2, 2013

The Fibonacci Offset Rotary Steam Engine (FORSE), also referred to as the FE-2, has ten (10) primary key components, one of which is the rotor. The rotor is offset to the housing, and in some instances, the rotor is offset to the housing in two directions. In the FE-2 engine shown in the video clip, there is a single offset. (The FE-4 incorporates a double offset rotor.)

I mean the origin could just as well have been utterly benign ... a golem troll gimmick thingie with pragmatic roots - however much devolved to an empty spectacle meanwhile, all throng n crowd conditioning miniaturizes instead of putting the friction to rocks and feed the micro world to expand in the only way it can be done responsibly, taking the -alistic- out of empi[ri]cally.

The Temple of Set Explained by Dr. Michael A. Aquino ----- TheLipTV - 115,226 --- 1,467 -- Mar 19, 2015

The Temple of Set evolved from the Anton LaVey's Church of Satan, and Temple founder Dr. Michael A. Aquino explains how Setians seek to remove the Judeo-Christian context from their pursuit of enlightenment. The two universes--both objective and subjective--are discussed by Aquino, as he explains the context of black magick, individual consciousness, and the will to be a god unto oneself. It is a short and fascinating excerpt from the full length uncensored Buzzsaw interview, hosted by Sean Stone.

"Reminding us that rituals were a means of teaching before speech, Renterghem begins with a review of Gaia, the Shaman, and the birth of myth. He shows how the symbols of our 20th century Christmas can be seen in an expanding light. The Christmas tree can be linked to the tree of fire or the tree of knowledge; mistletoe can be linked to the symbol of lightning, fire and sex and so on.

This book is worth the modest $16.95 for the gorgeous illustrations alone, many of which we've never seen before. There is a beautiful full-color centerfold depicting the family tree of Santa Claus beginning in 10,000 B.C.E. with the horned shaman, Herne, the Spirit of the Great Hunt, and tracing how he evolved into Pan for the Indo-European Culture (8000-4500 B.C.E.) and Greek Era (2000 B.C.E.), into Cernunnos for the Celtic Culture (1000-750 B.C.E.), through the Roman, Germanic/Nordic Cultures and up to the 20th Century and the Cult of Saint Nicholas. "In the early Middle Ages," says Renterghem, "the Catholic Saint Nicholas was supposed to take the place of the pagan gods whose feasts had been celebrated on his saint's day. In actuality, the customs of the pagan Herne/Pan and the Nordic/Germanic god Wodan blended with those of the saint."

Art is too general a term to ask that question of if art is the language of emotions. To the conscious mind, the visual arts are the language of reason and creative theory-formation as where the acoustical arts is most defiantly the language of emotions. Music is more likely the venue to stir our emotions as where the visual arts are the venue that intellectually inspire us!

When you truly want to be released from this earth dream there is no power that can stop you from attaining liberation--never doubt it. -- Yogananda, Kin 102 As we make our way through this holographic earth matrix, energies can get intense and perceptions can become distorted or confused at times. The Book of Jubilees (Hebrew: Sefer haYovelim), sometimes called the Lesser Genesis (Leptogenesis), is an ancient Jewish religious work, considered one of the Pseudepigrapha by most Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Protestant Christians. It was well known to Early Christian writers in the East and the West. Later it was so thoroughly suppressed that no complete Hebrew, Greek or Latin version has survived. It is considered canonical for the Ethiopian Orthodox Church, where it is known as the Book of Division (Ge'ez: Mets'hafe Kufale). In the modern scholarly view, it reworks material found in the biblical books of Genesis and Exodus in the light of concerns of some 2nd century BC Jews.

The Book of Jubilees claims to present "the history of the division of the days of the Law, of the events of the years, the year-weeks, and the jubilees of the world" as secretly revealed to Moses (in addition to the Torah or "Instruction") by Angels while Moses was on Mount Sinai for forty days and forty nights. The chronology given in Jubilees is based on multiples of seven; the jubilees are periods of 49 years, seven 'year-weeks', into which all of time has been divided. According to the author of Jubilees, all proper customs that mankind should follow are determined by God's decree.

One thinking person here? These geometries are of course mentioned most everywhere these days. The creative and structural processes...

However most appear to miss the reality of the situation, in which these geometries stares one in the face, so to speak. It's all essentially "bars" to a prison.

Just as with the Torus, which is the crux structure and process of the Multiverse...

All this is scientifically validated. But again, what you won't hear is what it does TO US (our ethereal counterpart). It creates our prison. So why is everyone so gaga over this stuff? The usual reasons... It's Too obvious for one.

The Torus, if you will note, is, in essence, for those traversing it's surface like we do in matter, a Treadmill..... As in get set for the Next Kali Yuga etc and so forth. It's this... Unless there IS a way to get off the Wheel for good. Is there? Why are You here reading then!? Stuck here on earth? It likely wasn't your idea to come here as to New Age mantras etc. This kind of thinking scares folks so it's only natural to have contentions. Like people "chose" to be burned alive...

Also, the model above of the solar system, the Paths, are wrong. That's akin to the flat earth model. The "Ecliptic" is for convenience Only. it's not a reflection of hint hint, 3D reality. It's more conical shaped overall.

But all the above is why you will still be exploited by the system, have regular and ongoing challenges, never know what is Really going on etc and then die. Also why animals must feed On each other. This place Is a Hell like Realm, if not as close to hell as one can get. It's a legacy of trauma.

So there's of course the idea of luck, good and bad. It's not really about a payback type of karma. We really judge ourselves. But it's clear luck is distributed... who knows the reason for it's favoring whomever while the next innocent person gets a bullet in the face.

But bullet, face as well as will etc are due to those geometries above. So what about goodness and love etc? Fair question.... But may be meaningless; when you live within a food chain.

But is is all predicated on Consciousness. This alone may be our saving grace. Need to cut Through, so to speak, all those bars as indicated above! This or be a puppet.

there's a right way to get and stay high: don't remove scaffoliage for fear of being followed in too thick a throng and feed it from it's minutest most innumerately numberless, easiest to mobilize simplest and all outweighing levels (i mean soillife of course). i put up some pics of breathing fuller doohickies [due to someone making the Leonardesque sprockets on an octa triliptical ..is that a word?] around 1999 (go to poetpiet's 'Blabsabs' page) along my journey looking for a cheap and mobile way to may very fine dust [fresh clay / mud / compost / soil out of reducible rock/oxides .. first to second base / breath .. hullooooww].. the secret to all pasts and futures of giantisms iows, duuuu scalability, . . . to have your kids clambering around your tensile objects is a prelimberment working up to breathers in/as and for living limbs for one thing .. and so much more .. riight?? Anyway i found out now and it's way closer to very simple prayerwheels than all this merkaba woowoo which frankly disgusts me.

i sifted thru all advice good and bad more succesfully than i managed to help others find it / follow me and my reaching out via thread comments must seem downright Quichottic by now (as the NSA sure as hell isn't gonna turf, weight and present us our ideals in the ways Andrew Lehman vided about just before his demise at the hands of the pharmaffiosi whom he greatly underestimated focusing on the environmental precursors of their shenanigans too much). My basic peace tool proposals, if i ever get 'm built or manage to see to their simulation at least (not bloody likely either due to gamergayterse busy signal) looks much more like a mellow roller coaster ferris wheel prayermill boulder polish gauntlet array than all this merkaba woowoo which frankly disgusts me.

though there are also very slow hours in his 20 hour weekend sessions

Bob is a slacker, a radio man with a very loose and easy schedule most of his life, which he attempts to make up for with 16 hours long sessions on weekends lately, in what he claims his nineties, a sales trick to try and pawn off his naturalborn talent to indulge egomania like no-one else i heard, read or know about as the effects of some expensive drops he sells which brings us to the possible fact rumour has it he pals up with, and acts as a social worker who accomodates the escape fantasies for, a federal fraudster .

Bold nachtraeglich

As i see it he simply is incapable of turning his impulse to pull pranks, a secular pilpul i guess, off, a fatal flaw he acquired by tangling with the church of subgenius; in this video he reads an account of himself written by the head of that church, Reverend Stang, some years ago, which appears to not be online at the moment

19:37 my time, 6h behind EST (13th minute on the 4th file i am running / recording today - this here is the third) bob begins to read the account of an interview* where he once again spells out scenarios, dictates his very sick wishes, blacker than anything folks have interpreted stuff like the bible to mean and instruct them to realize but he calls himself prophetic and accurate. Do you get the picture here? .. now just wait, in a minute he will again proclaim how uniquely clearsighted he is and his groupies will chime in.

the rest of my response also added as 2nd comment to the 2012 vid by the Toronto conspirer (somewhat expanded):

... i uploaded a fresh Bob file just before midnite ...
did you ever try listen to him after my various namedrops?
did you catch the one of a former co-worker on the drop subject who accuses him of patent fraud and the man he pretends is a type of quetzalcoatl to be a fed prisoner for fraud in reality?

maybe he is the psyop he has claimed to be all along ... to get away with this much absurdity.

all the stuff claimed about obama and prince harry, .. he simply 'assumes the virtue' (i mean vice) without forgetting to 'encompass dualities' (the John Ray of Body Electronics advice, .. that crazy jewish way to bet both sides, have your cake and eat it too rot).

luckily he is drowning in the tsunami of hangouts, podcasts and other internetradio case of abused talent and case closed ... or am i gonna be sorry i haven't tried his wonder drops ... which he claims to in fact immortalize him ... although staying young is due to the 'd-cell' which he was taking since the 70s (you will prolly appreciate his talent to throw dates at his audience ... quite slim through the years).

he threatens to (indirectly) kill critics within 18 months, claims to have caused half the atrocity of wwII for profit of the type that gets you into the puppetmasters behind the bilderburger cabal, .. to have given mooses his tablets ... and on and on 20 hours at a stretch last sunday he is robotic and runs an efficient fantasy world ... spoilt rotten and committing fraud with his very own date of birth (if you ask me).... did someone else plan(t) this life out or what the hell is going on?

my skepsis towards Jose certainly found plenty to chew on with this guy the slow times are truely pathetic and the good ones brill
... so ... what do you think?

a media melange by an accolade in toronto no doubt iON and the End of Time uploaded at zero zero zero zero hours

most of the latter half is a Startrek snip collage, the clip around 49m of 1:14:00 is taken straight and borrows heavily from Jose Arguelles man: "will become resonous" girl: "so beautiful, .. harmonic resonance, so beautiful, it's trying to speak to us"

ion can be funny when he does a James Joyce esque rant ... but more often than not he has this morose silence habit which bob blames on adressing him improperly ... or improper questions at him rather this file is quite useful to realize how unoriginal and .. did i already say it? .. bears emphasis .. ROBOTIC this prime slacker / bohemian wanna be elite snake oilman is; he ferreted out intellectuals with a zest that reminds me of my younger years .. his wife is halfway decent as far as a doctor goes but if she really wanted to reach the common good level -- instead of claiming everything is gonna have to go thru them to be saved .. even to stay alive thru the rough patches ahead ... including banking becoming bob security box participant ... or should i say victim -- i'd be hearing her about rockdust tibetan twist ... the wonderdrug's main ingredient is barley

the ants outside my front door have made beautiful patterns of sand extruded from beneath the pavement slabs ... roughly around the places i crushed nuts for birds all winter, a (roughly) 10, 6 and 7 hole constellation the neighbourhood was ornamented and decorated, in the past weeks .. as were a bunch more around ... it's the monarchy club's doing ... sort of overlaps with the churchism around here (quite strong, unlike most bible belt bizzes that fold and buckle the world over although Douglas Dietrich predicts enormous growth of christianity in africa)

1:07, a little revisit with Bob on periodicity ... underlaid with mayan imagery.finishes with

"it's a harry potter world, the more ascended you get"

or ... it's robbing the children ... burdening them with debt, lies and audio archives ... trying to commodify and monopolize neoteny even.

if bob weren't so puny and clearly the classical model / stereotype of the formerly institutionalized for megalomania ('grootheidswaanzin') one might fear ... or hope, depending on what side of his gated community tecdefense you think you can land the softest ... his type of inclinations to hold great promise, possessed of/with a high potential to go as influential as he thinks he is and the loads of being more so he seems to continue plotting to become.

i think on the whole one can say that archetypally he plays no role as much as the very very involving mother, hysterically reinforcing boundaries and protective of everything he pretends to own* (most of if flippantly for moments at the time but tied to a steady and managable stable of anchor people ... i followed a similar strategy guiding my surf behaviour and James Joyce as well as William Irwin Thompson captured my interest too)

i will have to admit that he is way more succesful than i am, a trend that will continue as death seems to hold the better cards in my book, having become more and more dismissive (though still surrounded with the stuff i once hoped to see others treasure and synthesize under my guidance), iow, he annoyingly enough kinda keeps claiming the field i meant to shine in, namely, the 'one' .. at the head of the council of 10biljan (ref to his 'secret council of 10' raps, a staple in his repertoire).

Hi Piet; There are rivers like that a few hours south of Nelson. There are 4 beautiful oceanside spots to launch from within a 20 minute drive, so I've only kayaked on a river a few times. I am glad to now know of Phillip Callahan, and have begun perusing this: rexresearch.com/callahan/callahan.htm
I'd also like to read the only book he owns 2 copies of: 'Irish Heritage' [since I am named after my 100% Irish Grandmother :)]

It is curious how Callahan went off the radar with Dan Winter—with whom Grayham 195 is now in contact. I'm also happy to see that you are checking out the work of Alex Putney who now lives in Ecuador. I've enjoyed reading 7 of his books, and am awaiting the publishing of the remainder of his latest, 'Akasha'.

this is the one i made into a vid do i have to redo the vid??

could be this one:

Achieve Radio5 (half hour, saved at 8 in the morning) the violence dogma occurs in the middle, him reading an old interview w himself replete w jewish dissimulation 'principle' [in]statement

it's the knot magazine article which author hough later uses again in a bigger rag he begins reading 2:19, a blogpost a day later has the full text:

J.R. Bob Dobbs / Knot Magazine / September 1990

<http://ionandbob.blogspot.com/2015/05/j-r-bob-dobbs-knot-magazine-september.html>

the follow up/rework contains evidence Bob was already planning his snake oil heist:

Although he looks to be in his mid-thirties, he will tell you that BOB is much older than he looks, and is, in fact, in his sixties.

ophenel hobab as the Moses instructor and prebobincarnation mentioned before all this .. gets into aids and mir around the 25th minute; it's the final part of the show hypothalamus, the wall street lady*, and bobfest transcript (evergreens) respectively (first 2 with ion ...

* = the prophecy of the CoSG (rapture 98) was 10 years off (late); bob was already heavily involved with the evergreens before ending his ckl stuff and leaving Toronto

12th minute mentions new stang interview the thing i meant to upload initially elusive as yet, this one quotes Stang and Bob sparingly (available as txt):

<http://ionandbob.blogspot.com/2015/05/things-get-ugly-in-world-of-underground.html>

the one quoting Stang

by Robert Everett-Green -- The Globe and Mail, 30 March 1993

A 'sacred scribe' and an acolyte of McLuhan are in a dispute over a messiah that may be no more substantial than an advertising logo

Rev. Ivan Stang is in a fury. It's hard enough trying find slack in a world controlled by pinks, without someone coming along and pinching your messiah.

perhaps a good time to admit (again) i get a great big kick out of doing / redoing my own work; something Bob does religiously / routinely .. whereas i avoid it ...

on this 'answers to comments' (and fairy tales 101) vid itself the Cs are disabled. Hmm .. I like to claim reality for the work of Marten Toonder (long taken as a mere children and fantasy storybook writer/illustrator, in Holland, 'mere' Holland, alas) and wouldn't trade experiencing his work with even the best colourful arts our Sylvie feeds us.

As to the Seth Speaks materialists and the like .. i did a thorough analysis of Michael Topper, active in this field during it's big push to displace native issues, whose writings (but not tapes) survived him (New Thunderbird Chronicle, laid out in the pamphlet sector of unfucked food coops around santa monica around the time i happened to 'ghoster' about there) but as with similar take downs (to touch) of other fakers like Laurence Rickels and Bob Dean/Dobbs, it awaits data recovery service.

another split: she's on about outer space parasites who decided on a detour to take our planet and their comfort lies in climates of suffering and imposing it ... yet ... near the end she plays a hebrew minstrel there isn't another language that sounds as hateful and suspect to me, even if the singer makes an effort to be gentle with it.

wednesday - 20th, 8hand, kin 47

.. might have to continue searching ... unless i mistook bob summing up the veil from behind which he operates for stang quotes ... but i do seem to recall that the new stang that went up and down again got read by him (also?) at some point why no blogpost on that though if so????

i'll go check the 5th for a minute

bob referred to the 93 article when he spoke of the 22 year fraction

The Greatest Artist Alive Today by Gerald Belanger 22 April 1992

so, .. he was over 2 weeks late celebrating it*, ends with B&C = A&E - Belanger: shut up bob, my brain hurts
- bob: want a plum?

* - 4 days before that anniv. a critic (modemac) changed his wiki about bob slightly: disambiguatebob.com

http://www.modemac.com/cgi-bin/wiki.pl/Bob_Dean

Conclusion

Having said all that, let me clarify why Dean angers so many members of the Church of the SubGenius. It has nothing to do with him calling himself "Bob Dobbs" – heck, anyone can call themselves that, and there really are people out there named Bob Dobbs. What upsets us is this: if you read any of the SubGenius books, watch the videos, listen to the Hour of Slack, or read alt.slack or any of the blogs out there, you'll see that Ivan Stang is a guy who goes out of his way to credit people for the hard work they've put into their contributions to the Church – often for free. People post stuff to alt.binaries.slack or send him packages, tapes, books, and whatnot, and rarely if ever ask for anything in return; and in return he gladly acknowledges their efforts and plugs their stuff.

All Dean has ever done is try to get attention for himself. Every word that comes out of his mouth is "Me, me, me!" Everything he ever writes is "Me, me, me!" He's spent twenty years trying to grab credit for the Church of the SubGenius, even though he has not contributed one whit towards it. Without this charade, he would be nothing more than a completely unknown kook who shows up at Marshall McLuhan "media" events and calls talk radio shows. All of his attention has come from his claiming to be "Bob Dobbs" and lying about his so-called "inspiring" the Church, which is why he keeps it up. His reputation, what little it is, consists entirely of material stolen from others. And that's why I see no reason to give him the attention he so desperately seeks.

However, new online venues like Wikipedia, YouTube, podcasting, and blogs are giving kooks like Bob Dean more avenues to spread their word online. This is great if you're an unknown kook trying to inform the world about your importance and self-worth. But if you're trying to take credit for someone else's work, then you'd better be ready for when you are called to prove that your claims are no more than a puff of hot air.

An advocate struggling boatrefugees entering the Netherlands as land of their destiny (as typical)
He inspired the revenge - seat on november 6 2014, saving the tree-money for Participants Groeninvesr - GIN giving the Kings Trust ..What an Offer you made, dear Jacobs Ladder!

this man is making the months into 27 (3x9)days, inspired by the 28 moon peace calendar <http://2013andthemysteryqueen.wordpress.com> ... neither of which keep the month steady on a single point of the cycle (in which case we could start splitting (and greying) hairs over the range it wavers back and forth a frac within that [time of the moon], as all are, never indivisible point).
It's these idiotically wrong ways of dealing with rolling distance (do a gravity wheel with/for me why don't ya!!!) which makes a cycle complex as one then wants to see how many laps before a return (cumple..., etc) which gave 19 the 'volksport' impetus numero uno (sun and moon return [to same galactic or solar backdrop, dunno which] after 19 years) and all around the now obscure discoverer (traces in Bahai and all islams) began to compose in multiples of it for ages .. best collector became ubiquitous (even) as (of course) the sport obsolesced and standard fare .. much like any fibrockade (householdgood), .. a fold with the bills all stuck no beleaf ...

anyway, what i was gonna say is that this, dear Cees is at least half way sensible .. but i usually make head nor tales of your cryptic explanations, you are welcome to spend a day or two here and try if you like.

Bob showing the better side of himself ... attitude wise ... no boasts, not a trace of pride, just probing ...
His subject matter however, is everything BUT.

Early McLuhan book with lots of empty space and shattered shown as falling letters, repeatedly applied to identity (shattered repeatedly) .. but it's all about (urban) dwelling spaces and musical chairs, jostle, jive and statusrollercoastage of throngs (Bob projects it's validity to planetary scopes and scapes - moron), nothing about grounding ... it all castleism with the drawbridge pulled up, basically ...
Transpositioning of the needful deed (the word crunch comes by around minute 41)

"violence is a quest for identity inspired by technical innovation"

... he could have added 'combined with erosion of ethics and jewish 'demographic in[ter]continen[t]ce'
meme activation

Bob claims this work contains the shorts for the books appearing in subsequent years.

white privilege is a myth perpetuated by those who hate white people no, it's based on the good and global name of the likes Cernunnos is the last literally crumbling plus demonized exponent of .. a type that may have had precursors who also got forgotten triggering the pyramid fetish. Just a hunch .. but i am good at those .. proof across the net since 96.

I am talking about bravery gone ethical .. dealing with death outside the body (rock to soil) .. kinda like moving from indiscriminate spermswirl to communal dance and cultural achievement / skillsets.

first quarter of the next hour Bob plays a bit (conversing with 'legend') where he seems on drugs, agitated .. over natives being awarded landtitle ... over folks going back to pre visual pre acoustic tactile cultures (ayahuasca) and about the collapse meme which cannot happen because people keep typing and it does not have any application to the chemical body (Bob in stark denial of the E-waste effect).

2015-05-10--0900 back to stalking stang .. brian comes on, dave newfeld too ... worster poem on bob (walker warner) .. 'this magazine' intvw is next (halfway):
modemac the one who asked bob for it but caught 'bot' (as the dutch say).
the second Hough thing (90) i guess ...
dwnldd

towards the end Dave N goes into detail about the heart of the plagiarism case (the money) .. kinda funny ... but it does do strike me as a front. Honesty about an old heist to cover for a much brasher and bigger one (ion drop shite).

conclusion (regards my impression he read stang): it was this Hough piece, surely; my earliest note remarks on 8 local time (11h diff w hawaii). I won't turn it into a vid though .. a blogpost mebbe ...

That's what I mean by saying visionary awareness is obsolete. It's on the personal level. When it's obsolete, that means it's a cliché'. We all have it, and have it in varying degrees of intensity going up the wave or down. But in terms of communicating to other people, if they've disappeared and are not listening or having their own experiences, what common ground do we have?

David: Maybe I am not understanding what you mean by visionary experiences or visionary perspective.

bias implied in the word "visionary" tv = fantasy (live / collective)

there's a particularly loathsome canadian media figure (abusing a very pleasant voice with what he burdens it with .. top of the line goin in, worst comin out kinda thing) on the scene i have been keeping a squinty eye on for .. oh .. 6 years already ... he played some stuff from his toronto days in the early nineties (towards the end of them) in which he asserts that content = electric ground in as far as there is truth to that, this may be why feminism in canada does have such a great jump on it's competitors, no??

.. what if the chinese managed to implant a sino soul into a white man, let's say this man is Bob Dean who is getting more and more strident in/with assertions of his hegemoniac disposition and acts like a vaccine / probe / intrigant, meant to infect and habituate the west to sensibilities that will soon rival and proolly topple it's precursor and weaker form:

35th minute they make a critical mistake in a misguided effort to emphasize cyclicity in a way quite as unethical as retroactivation of law is a perversion of really dealing with pollution. They posit that blending rainbow colours makes white .. but only the reverse is true.

Light is all of the colors in one: white. When the wheel spins up to the right speed, the colors blend into a near-recreation of white light. This "white" wheel is created because your eyes cannot keep up with the rapid rate at which the individual colors are spinning! - See more at: <http://www.stevespanglerscience.com/lab/experiments/disappearing-color-wheel#sthash.kM62Keiv.dpuf> from 2-2.10 is pretty good explanation of the run away rundown of the chemical body cause of the boycott usurpation and sedating of it by the tv body.

larouche can't gather force, can't get any worthwhile help good enough to achieve his object: restoring physical soundness and wholisms of the past.

MoM16 -- 3.40 (heard the 18th)

4.28 = Bermuda Swift code for Butterfield and Butterfield spelled out by Ion and Bob calls it the queen's basket. They like to paint themselves as o so subversive every seven and a half minutes while they are only really trying to talk listeners into dupedom, buying their little snake oil drops (apologies to snakes, victimized since day 1). i wrote Bob 2 days ago, answering his WIT posts: thanks for the old news Myster SnakeOilGag. How's the demonic laughter therapy comin by the way? (* - see 3.01 note on MoM 17)

Ion is innovative design and Google obsessed:

<http://informationfarm.blogspot.com>

MoM 17: Michael Hollingsworth wrote a play on the history of the Indians.
Bob thought it worth mentioning ... so it prolly isn't.

MM was associated with Leonard Cohen (committer/ee style).

28th minute on MoM 17 we get eye witness material about Barger's heavy stuff ... then it's on to 77 78 about a Toronto thing with Fiedler (who was kinda hostile to MM apparantly).

just before minute 55 = 10 thunders, 11th would be cyberspace. Scott Taylor emphasizes the paralysis in front of a tv, Bob tries to limit the damage with 'of the chem body', as if we're corked and cellared into the matrix already.

mcwilliams did 'impact of television' 86 (Jerry Mander-like, ST recommends it)

Bob scolds a guy for not reading WIT right after his recommendation 20 years ago but does it by repeatedly referring to the email i answered (got blocked i guess). Then later he scolds his thingamajig fella for repeating himself then he eats and settles down a lot. Disgusting and annoying and deceitful man. *all of Maui in fact (MoM morphed and genetically defected to McLuhan under Maui, their latest gag ... listen for the reruns). Gutenberg came well after formation fighting so some downpeggage is in order.

Alphabets derive from calendars (the mix of sequences), pure organicism, 'chemical bodiment', something this pair of assholes scoff at and pretend to rise above no end, doggedly, dogmatically, mechanically and in full denial thereof, making it repeatable performance and symptom enjoyment. I call it sofisting, intelloathsome version of fistmaking by drone.

The alphabet as medicine wheel calendar can serve pagan premodern plantation kinds of care and respect for trees. Great big hints are scattered throughout literature. A book about the 1830 Demoiselle protests in southern france ('Forest Rites'), the Tree-Alphabet chapter of The White Goddess, etcetera.

~~~~~ There is a guy at Youtube who uses his theories a lot, and on one hand I like what he says, because he is seriously questioning the mental illness myth, but then he will INFURIATE me when he begins equating 'real mental illness' as opposed to 'spiritual emergency' and compares the former with archaic indigenous culture. The Emergence of Integral Consciousness in Europe

Drew quotes himself:
<http://www.hiddenmysteries.org/themagazine/vol12/articles/epi-justice1.shtml>

I debunked Ken Wilber in my masters thesis: Like Fraser, Pribram, Žižek and others, symbolic transference of spiritual power to linear thought and language is the problem traced by David F. Noble that has created the modern "religion of technology" which that we are now tracing back to its ancient western origins. The inherent western killing of heretics and "primitive peoples," by considering them "pre-cognitive," is explained from by a purely formal analysis of repressed epistemological error. Unfortunately even the successful grand theorist Ken Wilber falls into the trap of advocating linear western evolution based on a deterministic brain model that does not fully process the findings of Pribram's resonance analysis. (118) Wilber subsequently incorrectly portrays indigenous cultures as inferior and backward-i.e. claiming that their sustainable indigenous knowledge systems are merely accidents reflecting their lack Western technology. Ironically the central text of Tibetan Buddhism, a philosophy from which Wilber draws heavily, commonly called "The Book of the Dead," has its origins in the indigenous Bon culture and is literally translated as "Liberation by Hearing in the Intermediate State." (119) Wilber criticizes social theorists for "eulogizing" tribal cultures, when in fact currently 4 to 5,000 of the 6,000 human cultures are indigenous, still existing with distinct languages, but extremely threatened by corporate state elite policies. There is extensive evidence of indigenous cultures commonly interacting in a reciprocal relationship with the environment as a conscious value system. The outstanding examples of unbalanced indigenous development patterns that Wilber incorrectly suggests are the norm, are due to particular breaks in those cultures from extreme influences (like dramatic climate change and colonialism). Wilber does not recognize the fact that there has been a strong backlash against indigenous research, precisely because of its psychological threat to the linear western worldview. His use of Hawaii to explain his theory of holons is an inaccurate portrayal of genocidal U.S. imperialism - in fact he claims the contrary occurred. (120)

The song is "Festival" by a band called Pan. They were around in the early 90s and at one point performed the song on the Pyramid stage. Don't think the song was ever released. We've got plans afoot to do a soundtrack album and it will definitely make it onto that if so.

anybody wanna splice my fantasies into a movie like this (for sake of microclimatic reverb? .. the 'breadcrumb' trail w staying power ... the one that doesn't even peak till 10s of years afterwards?) you'd have to trace the poem behind my PPduhPP thumb to the thoughts on including tibetan prayerwheels into the church organ / gravity wheel roll out ... and it's off to the impartial party starting w step one ... not a twice nineteen in her and say hello to 'the mystery queen' and 2013 for me if you happen to chance upon her ... the pope has preceded her step onto Ecuador so it could do with a little relief i guess ... her who's kin is 138 and a fairly pivotal vantage on the tzolkin if you care to spin it.

This short paper forms just a small part of the Partition Theory section of my upcoming book, The Numerical Universe, which sets out to show that there exists a primordial, numerical, geometric and musical structure to the Universe.

The proposal is simply that there is only order in the universe; that there is no chaos and that we are not all here by virtue of some incredible stroke of luck.

The universe is instead shown to be the effect produced by a perfectly balanced, always in equilibrium, numerical order, inherent to the decimal system of numbers 0 to 9.

The Numerical Universe is currently being released and sold as an on-line book in 2 Parts.

369 DNA Geometry for Stretch & Winding Strings. - ThePaulTM - 259 views Oct 23, 2014

NEW DNA STRING DISCOVERIES. This shows how a DNA string can go from a long straight string to a helical string and then to a tighter coil and more discoveries are found with the Metro & Vector infra-structure. This geometry can be compared with 3 RGB pixels because only 3 bends are used for staying in the 10_20 Phi vector gyro infra-structure of order. It also shows the importance of the 3 bends 3,6,9 that gives the helical creation maybe seen by Tesla about a hundred years ago. It can be a 10 coords system other than 3 coordinates of XYZ. Elements could be in this system. Chaos theory makes little sense because it is like saying ( " it works by magic" ) it does not show logical workings in 3D geometry. For five years these many original discoveries of 3d fractal order & DNA geometry in 3D reality are never mentioned and ignored. Maybe many brilliant scholars follow books in 2d & do not have the eye for seeing perfect order in 3D. Maybe these discoveries of perfect 3D order will have to wait for the next generation to see Plato 3D geometry back in fashion again.

The ratio of Fibonacci numbers is also well represented in nature, but it is not the high nth iteration of these that have relevance, it is the fact that they occur everywhere there is life and replicated and differentiated in evolution.

----- January 29 Rhuben says: Every fifth Fibonacci Sequence number is divisible by 5 also; 10th : 55 = 5 x 11 -- 15th : 610 = 5 x 122 -- 20th : 6765 = 5 x 1353 etc... ah .. right .. well, .. in 'dreamspell' i am kin 55 (of 260) and my work can be called planetary (check the playlist called 'my crushing passion'), the quality of 'tone 10 (produce / manifest / perfect); the synchronotron by the way is a 21x21 grid i thought you'd find intriguing. Just don't get tangled up in it. No animations exist of it as of yet whereas earlier tzolkin revivals did receive that sort of 'update'.

Your site looks very interesting Anthony. I am glad to find someone else who believes and helps to show we have a wonderful mathematical & 3D geometrical order to everything in our universe. Thanks from Paul.

dear folks, take a look at my 'savants' playlist and note the diversity .... wouldn't you all enjoy being part of a themesteam that can find (found / fund) common ground? I dare say i can crystallize it .... you Anthony are the second strong confirmation, in tandem with the first, the man responsible for the 'synchronotron' (your opinion on which i'd love to see/know) that 55 is one of the largest and largely unknowns as it applies to the mentations (and applications thereof) it kindles and cares about/for.?

Anthony Morris +ThePaulTM Thanks Paul - you may also like www.marketharmony.com

you know this fella called Meegan always on about numbers in Dante?

'why 10' doesn't ring a bell ... care to drop another hint??

Thanks Guys, More and more people will start to realise there is a wonderful order. Things may look complicated for scholars to figure out, but if everything is controlled by their chaos theory there will be no springtime.

55 is the central axis - the carbon tree of life and it is found in the integer partition table located on the 12th Stage Value for the Number 21 - please see the summary papers re Partition Theory on my website at

You show interest in 55. Ok I am into the 3D geometry and not much with the numbers. In my video the non-chaos Metro I show that it works like a processor. It keeps travelling around the ten pair vector system and when the sphere is full, it does not repeat but goes forward to a new dodeca sphere to start at 10. So top and bottom just like a Lorenze effect we could have 110 that splits into 55.?

Hi Piet; Just now saw your calls. I've been without a computer for 2 days, since Oma spilled coffee on my computer. Should be fully operational on this new one after tomorrow. Was glad to see you donated to a good cause. I have two more worthy recipients for you...a few hundred $ would make a big difference to them. It's late here and I've not slept much lately, so will explain when we Skype. Time is going quickly, 5 days left in New Zealand! Hope all's well with you :}... 138

In other words, lots of stuff which, once popular enough to make fortunes and now throttled by the more and more ruthless and distorting rivalry amongst more and more monstergangster and demonic monopolies gets deleveraged / shifted from their also more and more regulated venture markets to a completely broken up diy set of cultural givens, rights which get secured by state circulations of the constituents parts ... and in that sense ... decommercialized, personalized .. that is to say, monetization recalibrated to and kept chugging on a friendly low key non-profit pitch .... doing the sad work of reviving a world tortured out of existence long since.

one of THE most important people / elders and guides for and of the rainbow internation / family / connection / meaning puzzlers / questers and prayerwarriors - Jose Arguelles / Pacal Votan made a count which has today as the red [k105] opener of the blue castle (one of 5 x 52 days plus 1 makes a year.. at the 105th of which we have 260 left - a full tzolkin), speaking of the solar round; in the tzolkin itself, that kin number (1serpent / k105) leaves 160 .... which has been a heavy number on the truth telling / time .. 'into joint' front; ... some chunks of time catch a little more turbulence than others, as do sections of the human family, .. the bipedalians ... the treeswingers .... the eagle friends ... the soil makers .... the future is for the inclusives who's perceived threats can turn to not only promises the closer one examines them ... but filling real needs and larders full ones as well ....

not only that but they can't wait until they manage to organize interplanetizen 'warz' (dutch: dwars = breathwise, bombastic and ornery; be 'wars van' something = showing aversion, being hostile), profit from them, mine, produce and write 'bonds' for them addlebrain schemes, fired by the special forces of literacy (=make believe) ... running scared / sacrificial minions up ever steeper mounds instead of feeding the little ones (in soil) with them for miles around .. so that flood escape treehouses are available for all homeys and passers thru.

So actually even the term God comes from the Indo-European root word Gott which means Bull just as Brahman also means Bull - and so this is tied to the plow-based farming from wheat monoculture that the Vedic-Brahmin culture brought with it when it spread into India. This is obviously a huge emotional pressure point - but the science - the new DNA analysis has proven this spread of wheat monocultural farming beyond a doubt and confirms just exactly why Vedic religious terms are the complementary opposite of Persian religious terms. For example my name Drew means Druj in Persian or Druh in Sanskit - one means Devil and the other means Angel or God. I forget which is which but you get my point - they are complementary opposites or you might even say dualistic symmetries.

Terence was born and raised in Paonia, Colorado, and by 1985 I had relocated to Boulder, Colorado. At the campground I helped empty garbage and clean washrooms. An old hippie storyteller was staying for the summer in his run down trailer. At night he kept a fire and people would gather, drinking beer and telling stories. He had some kind of ancient wisdom thing running through his veins. He called me over once, in the heat of a mid-afternoon, and said he had a book for me. It was Tony Shearer's Beneath the Moon and Under the Sun, published, like Waters' Mexico Mystique, in 1975. This was a book that I didn't grok the importance of until years later. But it stayed on my bookshelf and was ready when I was. Shearer was a storyteller, had lived in Mexico, and was the first to present the Mesoamerican calendar as a sacred path or wisdom teaching, valid for humanity today. He also originated the August 16, 1987 date that was later appropriated by José Arguelles for Harmonic Convergence. I've since come to respect Shearer's pioneering work as a poet, visionary, and storyteller, all the more needful of acknowledgment considering that Arguelles stole his thunder. Although I was quite taken by Arguelles's books Earth Ascending, Mandala, and The Transformative Vision, I instinctively recoiled at Mayan Factor (1987). It seemed oddly hollow, distinctly ... twisted. I didn't really get what the attraction was. By the way, when Harmonic Convergence happened (August 16-17, 1987) I was in Chicago, at a Peace and Music Festival organized by my brother Bill. I remember meeting someone who told me of the HC events, but although I'd already been to Mayaland, it didn't register as something I needed to join. Later I did quite a lot of research into Arguelles and Dreamspell, and received inside stories from his circle that revealed a lot of what was going on there.

wow, shades of the HBO series 'Carnivale'

At the same time, there was a revelation of anti-Christ like energy in Ivan. At that moment on the stoop I may have thought that he was the Antichrist. And in that perception there was also this implicit knowledge, or awakened memory, that we had opposed and battled each other for lifetimes.I was conscious of no animosity toward Ivan, or feeling of immediate physical danger from him. I knew that there was a powerful bond between us, though I also realized that our relationship had always had an edge of racial competition.

When it comes to defending my own concepts as the ones that are correct (core act), closest to doing ones duty and fulfilling the obligations of living most fully human i am liable to attack the dreamspellers - and assorted counters, economists, agronomists, sociologists, psychologists, etc .. although there's a large and generous wallop of complementarity in the 2 ways of champ and chump change - as harshly as Jonathan does .. but in the face of the latter's i am quick to jump and unreservedly come, almost reflexively, except for right now, to Jose's defense .... odd that eh?

a reply to: jonnywhite ----- I believe there is a part of the brain called the cingulate gyrus that has been imaged to be hyper overactive in various conditions such as depression, anxiety and obsessive-compulsive. From what I understand, it is largely mediated or lubricated, so to speak, by serotonin. When there is a chemical imbalance, which can actually occur from misdiagnosis and drug side effects, or lack of social/physical intimacy (love, sex, companionship etc), this region becomes overactive and people experience rumination, holding grudges, etc. It is another part of Dr. Daniel Amen's work where he measures blood flow in the brain to determine which areas are either under active or over active. He's one of the only guys doing this right now. I saw him on PBS, which is usually always cutting edge. That was also the channel that put Joseph Campbell's work to wide popularity as well.

My friend Jonathan Zap is really into transpersonal psychology and is also on a disability pension and is homosexual and quite used to a solitary lifestyle due to societal repressions and such. So he has a website where he shares a lot of his insights into various psychological difficulties. This issue of rumination is quite important and can be very severe, especially for certain types of people. Ironically, the disability lifestyle i.e. too much spare time on one's hands, actually compounds this rumination. He calls it 'psychic entropy' or mental ping-pong. The mind basically starts to cycle and eat itself! And since neural pathways can be set up, it is basically a constant reinforcement to do this activity, like feedback in an amplifier. So he does recommend distractions, constructive activities - even things like having audio books handy to focus on during long stretches of time like driving or whatever. And of course, meditation..

Amaya Aum: This is wonderful, given the background of all your other info I've seen & love. However, just a suggestion: This video* could be soo much better. Why not show the whole i-ching, the 64 of the I-ching, and then the 64 of the star tetrahedron? There's one other I've seen (thrive, i think, clip) same, only shows the first star not the whole thing:

Salvia users in general may not be analytically-minded enough to realise it, but everything they experience when they smoke it is a direct result of their own auto-suggestibility running riot. That is the irony of the stuff. I have been smoking it for five years or so. You can use it to contact your own id. Your id may very well also be your own superego, but seen from the other side: there is a newish jewish school of analysts who follow the equation  $id=ego$ , led by a certain Dan Merkur. In any case, whatever it is, it doesn't say much. But you can feel its independent intelligence, quite distinct from that of your 'own'. It's a disagreeable feeling, at first, even if you have already accepted in theory that there are other centres of consciousness inside you in addition to the one you regard as your ego.

All of this agrees with the work of Neuroscientist exponent Dr Ernest Rossi PhD, student of the late Dr Milton Erickson MD, where we have seen for over 60 years how imposed or suggested mental changes have impacted people physically. There are plenty of studies showing how the colour of multiple personality schizophrenics' eyes change colour to that of their alter ego upon changing persona. What Dr Rossi points out, is that it is not the DNA, but the 'gene expression' I often wondered why people who engage in firewalking who panic and believe they will get blistered do, and those who don't, don't. At the Firewalking Institute of Research and Education, we've seen this each year for over 35 years. I would love to do a controlled study.

The future spiritual-mental evolution depends on holding multiple views simultaneously, of seeing the inherent harmony in all forms of order whatsoever, and of experiencing non-dual unification of self and other.

Because there was a long break in this Mayan tradition, this Wizard's Count of the Dreamspell is known as "reformulated Chilam Balam," for what was known in ancient times as "Jaguar Priests" is known in today's world as "Earth Wizards!"

Jaguar priests of Lowland Yucatec Maya

The purpose of the Chilam Balam Count was to establish a basis for understanding that there exists a synchronic order of time, completely apart from what is usually referred to as the Long Count, the linear count of days (BC 3114 - AD 2012)

Speaks about Galactic Culture and the three main parts, Art, Science & Spirituality. In this opening of the day, we shared a few OHMS and circle prayer, hand in hand with each other. WE ARE ALL ONE! "We are connected by invisible ties.." do you hear this song?

3:51 "for those who don't know"

i think with a crowd that thin there'd be nary a soul there who isn't a cultcore member .... how come you aren't discussing what you are doing wrong to be such a newbie draw fail even with aaaaaall the stops pulled out ...?

towards the end of this 8m we see they are about 50 folks and is a tune so new it is carried by a mere handful of them.

'we are connected by invisible ties'

allow me to contrast with a (recurring) thought i had strolling a half a mile from my house yesterday, basically on drained swampland w blackpeat soil for the most part ... and lots of them lacking the mineral supplies ... visible in cattle with sores, triggering this recurrent feeling:

my strategies were many (splendoured jewels) and as often cast before swine instead of practiced at least in succession, thus in fact wasted on me and adding to the enormous karmic burden i 'tors' (sorry, dutch).

Such as the EARTH/SCAPE WRITING* i thought up (in the period before visiting the Tor enduring harm.

converg. at the time in fact) rather than carried out; wonderfully sound practice and fully consistent with, since complementary to, count keeping (innumeracy / numonotationalism = like yin and yang, no?)

hint: all hyper blippie, ueberhippie, no downlow trippie, firm firm grippie too much macro stardust, too little micro rockdust

* - taking (quite a few) wheelbarrows of (fresh) dust to (subtly) write ['trace'] a few words on a patch of playingfield size land .. a name, a date, the origin of the dust, the rock you helped 'see' and soak up the light ... and then perhaps chanting to myself ...

i core act unto invincible times

... or something ,,

you see, ..had i done this routinely (instead of trying to recruit help with my little commentarian missives much like this one) .. on many marginal bits of land, the change in flora quality, kind, and hue would have become more and more obvious and noticed and undeniable, easier to document, etc .. over time ...

photographed from the air, or blatantly legible after a grazing session left the letters visible in/as shortened grass (a few reports to this effect [animals go for quality and in fact demand if .. if we only listen] exist from past decades) ... of course, if and when confident about escaping prosecution, i could apply thick enough to do an immediate raw version recording of the writ (in fields near big trees or cliffs) before being washed off the plants, into the ground .. and the waves of organic reiterations would become like music structuring bars, keeping time to have it .. echo through the ensuing growing seasons ... in a crescendo that could have earned me the fame of all my heroes combined by now (not yet the actual zenith of it but well on my way to beat their nominal [de/dis]value).

Tell me, if jesus came back, would he be shocked about having been made into a miracle god instead of being famous for the practical, ego bloat lancing which humbles, grounds and happifies he seemed to have a knacksack full for?

bob's pleasant voice was noted early on people would reward him with attention for verbalizations of course his repertoire was limited in the beginning but the pressure of expectancy, which he tried to accomodate, soon led him to and let him make stuff up, using various degrees of ridiculousness to turn a particular section of his audience/clientele throngs too thick to be comfortably catered to, away, weeding the too exacting out so the more gullible hangerons wouldn't be too backtalky and interrupt him too much ... that's bycause his desire and appetite to dominate grew as he aged.

this admixing of duh fable into and onto his tecpsych analysis (borrowed and stolen left and rite) is a telltale sign about the preferred composition of his target audience, which he realizes better and better as the sick and narcissistic shtick control and culticity increases; his early radio audience may have contained at least as many females as males ... but more and more often, for longer and longer stretches lately, it's pretty much females only (and mushhead men at best) don't miss part2 which begins with very up close account of McCain (governor of Az), demolition man since day 1 on Soviets + Americans as equally rootless superstructures, no matter how much they try make over indiv. vs .coll.

While we were all looking the other way, sacred Apache land (that was also property of the American people as a whole) was sold to an Australian-British mining company that will soon have the rights to leave a 2-mile crater in the area. How did this happen? Senators John McCain and Jeff Flake slipped the deal in at the last minute at the bottom of a much-needed military defense spending bill. Apache have been camped out on the sacred site of Oak Flat ever since, and this young warrior, along with a handful of others, traveled to NYC all the way from Arizona to try to bring attention to her people's plight.

Let's help this story spread and let this real life rebel know that she is not alone, and that the American people won't stand for this betrayal to us all.

Two Year Promise Chiricahua Apache Documentary Rose

WhiteHorseGraphicArt -- 14 -- 4,069 --- May 23, 2013

TwoYearPromise.com ----- As Chiricahua Apaches fight for their freedom and their right to exist, a greater power called the United States of America wanted to rid the Chiricahua Apache of their homeland, beliefs and culture. As it is noted, the Chiricahuas were the fiercest of all Native American Fighting Groups and did not go down without a fight. Thru trickery, lies, deceit, and the TWO YEAR PROMISE the United States was able to remove the Chiricahuas from the American Southwest completely and nearly destroy their culture. Thru twenty-seven years of imprisonment, the Chiricahua people still exist today and are still able to tell their stories of survival. "This Documentary is objective, its conclusions sound and fair, without embellishment of the facts and in accordance with the historical record" EDWIN SWEENEY. Rose Enjady interview.

when you get to minute 1:06 it begins do you feel the joyful part?

where every thing starts rolling on its own and your heart takes a leap like on your motorcycle

that's the falling fifths... the chords take a leap frog sequence B to E to A to D .. then it was so fun so he takes you on a nother ride a moment later .. same sequence ... if you listen to the rest it will keep coming back -- the fun part the falling fifths and you'll start to anticipate it .. here it comes .. its coming ..watch out and all of a sudden ... it sweeps you up --- WEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!!! off we go taking the fall fifth by glorious fifth but don't be fooled that its all because of pure light in life oh no it's the devils' chord that makes it fly like that the wheel I mean the ferris wheel up on that hill see embedded in every other chord is the devil's chord..the tritone (one half step short of the perfect fifth as they call it, two notes, six half steps apart (instead of seven)) tension, discord, unrest, longing..all the causes evil, packed into those two notes six half steps apart, sounded simultaneously and oh so adeptly and timely (you have to know where to place the and when..set your wheel up for when we are ready to fall in utter gleeful abandon and roll with the devil and the angel, flip-flop-flip-flop..down we go) do it again let's do it again papa Beethoven please!!!!

i am happy you are happy and your posts are considered by me to be top of the world's writing cause i get hindsight confirmation from them almost everytime, likewise of this piece (see below) .. but i nevertheless view the scapes and cultures there differently, the mountains just as denuded as the formerly thickly forested gringofied portion of turtle isle ... badly in need of a massive runoff slowing swale digging and replant remediation for example, as you know i counsel dial back and phase out of (open) fire use reduction, replaced by soilmineral reduction (a tide turning inversion of the former in phact) but that applies practically everywhere.

Synopsis

In a remote mountain valley in Ecuador, coffee and sugarcane farmers face the dismal prospect of being forced off their land to make way for a mining project. Unprotected by the police and ignored by their government, they prepare to face down the invaders on their own. Their resistance ultimately leads to a remarkable and dangerous stand off between farmers and a band of armed paramilitaries deep in the cloud forest. In a world dominated by news of massacres and terrorism, Under Rich Earth is a surprising and poignant tale of hope and determination.

Sinopsis

¿Qué pasa cuando una compañía minera virtualmente desconocida recauda millones de dólares en Toronto para financiar un proyecto en Ecuador, el cual campesinos locales están determinados a frenar? ¿Hasta dónde irá la compañía para imponer su visión de progreso y obtener ganancias? Bajo Suelos Ricos cuenta la historia de un extraordinario choque entre familias campesinas y la poderosa industria minera global. En un remoto valle en Ecuador, campesinos se enfrentan con la posibilidad de serán forzados a dejar sus tierras fértiles para abrir camino a un proyecto minero. Determinados a defender la tierra que ha sido colonizada por sus abuelos, ellos se unen y arriesgan sus vidas para detener la compañía minera. Su resistencia los lleva a un histórico enfrentamiento con un bando de paramilitares armados y escondidos en el bosque nublado. Apasionado y provocativo, Bajo Suelos Ricos trae las voces críticas de las personas cuyas comunidades están divididas por fuerzas globales.

it shows collective struggle .. some hilites: 56 paramilitary men hired by a canadian mining company ferreted out of the hills by all villagers who surround, disarm and then lock them up in their church (all this after earlier confrontations over a blocked road resulted in teargas attacks and drawn weapons) until the minister flies in a week later and takes over, withdraws the mining concession ... scuffles with pro miners happen repeatedly over the years ... and on and on .. for the last decade almost, .. during which, by the way, the mining company loses it's place on the canadian stock market (and changes it's name to continue operation) via DC influence (what did they get in return one wonders? .. the fact perhaps, that a much bigger paramilitary force, as a type of revenge perhaps? .. after giving the police even bigger bribes, shows up and takes the protest leaders in custody????). The mining company that took it's place is chilean ... but all these multinationals aren't in any sense national at all of course.

climaxes today (magnetic20) w an attempt to stop a digger for a while after a massive illegal freeway crossing - the bridges will be blocked, those are the rules of the game in the macabre 'feindbild action theatre' all 1984er crowdsterics subject 'msolves to ... which proves once again that EURO methods, 'exemplary' (cough) hyped fads, masspsyops and the whole gamut of mediafied mooringloss and -loosing inscenations, once transplanted and exported to rougher less feminarchofied cultures and more delicate grounds ... result in all sorts of disasters. Take the increasing agricultural machine cost / size effects for instance .... on forgiving lands like dutch soils which take a beating and bounce back up no time, they are temporary, hence negligible, ... but devastating in less robust surrounds.

And so likewise, a little pushing and shoving, a shout and a curse here ... translate to real bullets and real blood overseas in rougher neighbourhoods ... and covert colonists, .. the internet ... will make sure, that more and more explicit 'thou shalt mix and multumulturalize' instill interdependencies and remotations which are not instant/galactic at all but require all that 'dead corner/dark place roadwork installment to make inroads turn to scars, devolve to maimings and stoop to outrite amputations on and of previous norms and balance, usually to get at subterranean wealth / toxicity (synonymous for multicultural but it's the pc hygiene service that will not halt at murder to suppress this 'hidden ground' no matter how much of an impossibility this is in days with telepathic bass lines beginning to grind out 'duh ground' afresh and foRealz).

15th of august

In about a week's time a greek protest camp will settle in 40k from the place where the huge confrontations went down around goldmining concessions in greece for the last half a decade. Up to 40.000 head protests, some chased with teargas bombs from a length of 7miles by the police. kids from villages near which a few mining trucks got torched taken in for interrogation (given no water for an entire day) and ... see my few words on escalations above plenty or webresources listed ... but the last blog post is 2 years old:

GUADALAJARA, MEXICO----- On July 10, 2013, Under Rich Earth (Bajo suelos ricos) screened in Guadalajara, Mexico as part of the Documentadas Cine Club Debate Series.

Recent correction (my mother corrected me). I was of the impression that the bible study (Tabors) next to the Kingdom Hall who had the hall keys and would OPEN up the hall for meetings, that the son was incest with his sister. However yesterday mom said no that was the father abusing daughter. So I correct that, because I would not want the brother to feel shame for things he didn't do. I once sat next to a neighbor at a bar, who noticed who I was and told me 30 years ago it was not his mom always getting the blame for stirring legal complaints against my father's unkept property, but that it was his dad who did it and played so good and silent, talking to my dad while back stabbing him. SO you see, elders problems is THEIR TAKING SIDES.

11:11 Synchronicity New Age Deception --- alotus9 --- 3,764 -111 views Aug 9, 2015

Before we weren't 24 Hours starring into our phones, we never saw anyone mention synchronicity before. Infact, if you put your phone down and walk in nature around trees and lakes, your chances of seeing repeated numbers decrease. Seeing repeated numbers is a sign you need to go out in nature and put the phone down, and maybe watch your surroundings. The digital age is pure deception

Then here is the internet site that holds all my independent academic papers, which goes into the esoteric science codified into the sacred scriptures to teach the word of God.

If you read any of these papers ask yourself why is Catholicism and its priests hiding this esoteric knowledge from the laity. If you can answer that question you are a long way on the path to obtaining knowledge of God.

Ende Gelaende - 350.org that day you mentioned (k131) i did go a long way to curing myself in public and plain sight, at the corner i had chosen for shade and proximity to the hardware tent from where a corridor between densely tented field and hosts home led to the handful of workshop tents more explicitly than quite a few others devoted to personal 'psygiene'.

I lay on a huge length of black fabric slated for protest slogan painting and began to try loosen the knot in my left shoulder, taking time to push at the edges of mobility impediencence installed by hanging on elbow and forearm behind a computer too slow to keep up with me. Gradually i was able to rotate my arm with my hand staying in touch with the ground again, after well over 2 years with none of that. I used the pointholding technique John Ray taught me in the eighties and which i was delighted to hear used on my nephew who had a similar problem by a nearby doctor to whom i did not go as he works in a city, all of which i avoid even to the point of going without organic foodstuff sometimes, unlike earlier in my life, when i used to ride the bike 19k back and forth to Rotterdam just for lavish choice on that score (and to visit the library, cured of that also).

Nearby were a few banner painters and their banter was very soothing, they brought up rainbow family, able to conceive at a gathering after lots of fruitful attempts (i just hope the fresh members won't become part of 'death camp').

It made me emotional to realize there will always be plenny of liddul mistakes and problems at hand which respond to hands on attention to distract you from devastating ones, too remote to reach and too large to solve for any single person or even many serial lifetimes .. and quietly in Balasana (childpose) i cried over it all minus nothing.

thank you for the link. I can't really grasp all that or even a little bit but im glad you are tuned to its, the wave spells

I do feel the wave spells I mean I live them I think your image is draped across my brain like a warm blanket in freezing temperatures .... such a suprise .... the pic of you with JA has proven highly distortive. You seeing me is prolly just a matter of clicking the camera icon cause i got a shock doing a vid test and seeing myself .. live .. in a tiny window (my obsessive internnetting / commentarianism really shows) ... now i should call my provider and get the wireless deblocked ... i asked them to in a vain attempt to point out the E-smog probs being a lot worse than wire waste pollution (which i think is the case); the wires work twice as fast here as well so it's a no brainer ... and the house isn't much to see really ... so i guess it can wait.
I subscribe to but one, yours.

as a lark let me say this:

I look forward to hiring a motorcycle and being your chauffeur for the last 2 weeks of your stay there should you wish accompaniment / chapperonage into europe.

when you get an account send me the specs and we'll test a little money transfer mini cooper (the car) and lots of other corporate undead body minions done sponsored a journey with 8 vehicle and lots of 'couleur locale' in expensive camera close up ..... at an hour and 46 minutes we see the first take of the full mandala construction, a process intercut with landscape panoramas to the end of the movie. .... we see that each quarter has a blue bar of nine segments below 2 hearts, then a roster of 11x5 in 5 colours, 2 of the single unit (mirrored in a manner reminiscent of the tzolkin), 3 of the 2nd, .. wait, i have to try find it again, lost earlier notes i wrote ....

one sees that the minimum number of blocks with one colour is in the blue quadrant (under those metal double claw thingies the lamas make vortexian gestures with and use to break the mandala by the way; .. that leaves 10 of the blue instead of 14 as on the red station / quadrant).

none of the images google offers come close to offering that kind of detail, at least not in the time i'm willing to invest searching for it ..

in amsterdam, during storms, i used to pick up bent umbrellas and strip them of their fabric (got at least a hundred); the one with this pattern ended up knotted around my second [new] orange UK pulp paper bag, given to me when the first one went to tatters, found in the ditch by glastonbury 1995, w broken yoghurt containers in it.

then, the thing with ABN and RBS happened, prolonging my life of miming an already curious connection to orange (parents big royalists, me a baghwani for a few weeks, a hunter / woodworker garb wearing legal alien on turtle isle ... etcetera).

--- yup, only 354 days left until everybody abruptly stops talking about mayans.
+++ or thinking about mayans, or acknowledging that huge city building ancient American Civilizations existed at all.

dear laura (and Douglas?):

a few notes providing background to allusions and references i managed to blurt in snipshort format and were not even halfway fleshed out and stated in full enough fashion to stop irking me unless i pen and send you this here repair ('repiet')kit:

'uitgerekend' on 13eagle is the dutch way of saying 'on (... such and such a date) of all times' in the implied sense of 'choice/intent to offend' ... interchangeable with 'nota bene'.

In 1987 i happened to be in Glastonbury out of curiosity .. since, although the Dreamspell boardgame* came across my path a few years earlier#, its formalism had turned me off and away instantly (though i did also read the then mere manuscript form of JA's 'arcturus rising', which is a novelization of the harmonic convergence and transcendental meditation / tibetan religion memes).

\*- a boardgame / calendar and pseudo mayan count which differed from the old maya count by 49 days between 2004 and -08, till 2016 it will be 47, etcetera .. so  $47 \times 4 = 188$  .. years from now (2114), they will converge. don't ask me why then .. thelawoftime crowd/cult presently does over 800 day long count intervals which will climax at a pretty number in the 4th millenium coinciding with the already announced return of Pacal Votan ... gotta love the length of those galactic sabbaticals ...

i shared a few pertinent posts early this morn on G+ .. which can indirectly lead to remineralize.org (a newsletter since the eighties, a cover of which shows me as the header of 'rocksoiler' shows).

- I saw my first Dreamspell boardgame /ID (you are another me) kit upstate NY, while camping in Dan

Winter's barn, which i had simply occupied till he showed up and for a while longer after i convinced him i was a candidate buyer for the whole farm. your other guest at the time, Andrew Bartzis, tangentially from the Golden Mean magickian 'circlesquirm' (stable) is well acquainted with him (they appeared on the same newearth hangout quite a while ago)

Daniel Winter can be noted partaking of and slacking off of .. disciplines in a to me somewhat suspect manner (what happened to the promised hours of footage with Philip Callahan which never showed up) though not quite as mangly as 'Bob Dobbs' goes about scholarship.

Arguelles and Winter never appeared together as far as i know .. but might have at some psychotronics todo or other (the former was very suspect to Drew Hempel who hews to sino directives [qigong] of deepening the rift / gulf / cleavage between mind and spirit .... valleys wild and valley filled ... hard choice either way ...)

as i said JA was the only woowoman i trusted ... i should have added .. enough to try - or better yet, .. trust myself to succeed and not just try to - complete and complement .. which works out to taking (!BACK!) half the calculatory(*) prowess into a very tactile sense and application of it's meaning .. leading strait into the innumerable and the disappearance of throngy rituals due to dearth of sacred sites and jealous rage based scarcity and the 'rationage' sides of the skill applied in too 'dorknoperish' (bureacratic / nonimaginative) top down a fashion.

There is no conflict between Dreamspell and the Long Count. They are merely two different standards that serve two different purposes, both operating with different applications of the same system. The synchronic order harmonizes all timing systems, including the Long Count, all lunar calendars, etc. Currently, between February 29, 2004 and February 28, 2008, the difference between the Dreamspell and the Long Count is 49 days. Between 2004 and -08, the difference was 49 days, till 2016 it will be 47, etcetera. Hence today, Kin 196 Dreamspell, is Kin 147 Long Count. (Northern) Winter solstice 2012 will be Kin 207 Dreamspell and Kin 160 Long Count.

People who believe that there is a conflict between the two systems are still immersed in dualism and are fixated on being right. The future spiritual-mental evolution depends on holding multiple views simultaneously, of seeing the inherent harmony in all forms of order whatsoever, and of experiencing non-dual unification of self and other.

sacred sites and fetish symbols (crystalizations of mating ground rites) are the other side of the front 'building' (arms build up) coin ... every one of which is an overture and opp to border beautifying but most often degenerating into a distraction from and blocking of that .. of which i seem the only one to see certain essential aspects clearly and simply .. yet to others incomprehendably. Of course a reference to cars nad junkyard parts to improvise a metal version of the old mortar pestle style meal making without reference to the sword moving busily rather than stuck in stone ... to turn stone into the process that makes for, and better than without that, breadgrain in the first place requires a degree of complexity too longwinded to pull off in a skype conversion unrehearsed, let alone someone's second skype conversation ever, which it was for me.

Claire, is it just as relaxing for you to work on synchronicity numbers as it is to play poker? what exactly are the differences except pay? I am thinking of offering you to reverse that situation .... and secretly wouldn't mind if you throw in a reversal of your platonic feelings towards and not out of some sense of obligation or gratitude .. iow, my offer is not conditional on us mutualizing a visceral need for a mate ... which i think i do have (and you don't strike me as frigid either) ... however suppressed and residual i seem to succeed in holding it down and keeping it at bay.

what i thought was 13eagle was really 12eagle (crystal eagle)
this is in fact a 'hinterher' confirmation of the day's directions, memes, foci and hi-lites (cliches, archetypes ... bad bugaboo precedents, intentions bulgebudabuttin to burst into 'proactivitalization', vision trying to squirm into provision, etcetera) .. in this case cause i not only, as nearly every day, spend a few moments in search of likeminders, but actually reach out and present a bunch of them in a very close to death spasm of hope (that) i might yet be the crystalization point for them and apply whatever i saved for close to half a century in order to apply it to just this purpose, namely do an intentional community, micro break away, john galt like society for the intelligent treatment of gravity.

finally, no Douglas, this is not just a goofy visual effect bent art project; 3m worth of looking into a sample of those concerned with crushed rock, stone flour, remineralization (mineral fertilizer) and 'wat dies meer zij' should convince you it's about content ... but hey, it's an easy mistake to make. - When my internet finally was connected at 5 p.m. last night, I discovered alarming e-mails from Amazon and others, about orders I supposedly placed for over $4,000. Also annoying is the cash machine that now owes me

$1,800. I', going directly to that bank on Monday, after I increase my internet speed--I won't be able to Skype until that happens--or even watch a 5 min. vid. I am looking forward to reading the article you sent by Reuben S--Thanks so much! Also disturbing for this community is the fact that the U.S. Embassy has filled Hosteria Ixchayluma with Marines for the next month, [I stayed at that beautiful spiritual place when I first arrived and it's so incongruous] and other troop movements here.....Hmmm... How is Europe these days? How many refugees is Holland taking in? Smiles, Claire today was open monuments day, balmy war though overcast since the wind changed from northerly to southerly ... nipped into the neighbouring village church for some organ tunes ... on my way to the big river town i did middle schooling in way back for bread and two huge mason jars of mayonaise ... with a stop on the way through a very mazy interior deco store with outdoor portion containing all sorts of plants .... new sites every time i go by once a moon or so.

the townsquare there had historic societies and trades / crafts (ambachten) display stands (smithies, fishnet weavers, duckbreeding basket weaver, mini sculpture oven, and a few more).

Stopped at one to transcribe a poem on the back panel of a farmer's cart boerenkar.nl ... hey, nobody is using that url .... how odd ....
it's actually boerenwagen.nl

here is the intriguing poem:

't gezwolte water stinkt. Hoe vuurig blinkt omhoog de gladde (gladde?) water ver (weg) van 's hemels regenboog. O Noach! Boerebazuin vertroost u met dit teken, God zal zijn trouwsverbond O'er al zijn volken steeken.

Doubt the refugees will show as far into rural territory as i am but a few might.

there's a swiss news agency that claims the whole arab spring thing was done on purpose to flood the EU with refugees ... some kind of 'jew' (khazar) on white hatred i guess is what they mean without actually saying it. They just blame america, the bully under direction of the great big alienator since poisoning their own brood with literacy to the point of creating a caste of machinic humans, precursors of the well and truly lifeless variety of pretty, pointless and to some, strangely comforting pattern generators; bunch of 'calendarts' perverts!!

speaking of which, i shall hunt down the fairly large monochrome embroidery piece i saw at the end of the day in the monument nearby, an entire old style farm that was taken down a few miles away (encroached by expanding road) and built back up at the edge of the village here, with special place for a local novel writer.

it's 'merklap' style (cross stitch i guess) ... and fuck me if it's not very synchronotronic ...

he reason for this upheaval of emotion, inspiration and energy is the fact that i think i am finally beginning to kick the porn habit ... largely responsible for my inadequate response to mom's check out process i am sure i think my expressions of hatred for his all out narcissist and despot 'grootheidswaanin' gluttony actually words from an exceptional human being:

I don't know if I ever told you..but a few years ago I began to see rocks in my dreams, pebbles, river rocks, rubble. They would appear behind my eyelids as clear as IMAX film. Like they were sent. When I would register their Being they would get clearer, like a lense sharpening its focus. Sometimes they would move, even in slow motion, or fast as if they were being projected by a Benevolent sender. I mean Benevolent because seeing them always made me KNOW there was a higher Being present..Then I would wake enveloped in this feeling of an exsistence of something beyond me..

hmm, i think not ... we've got more of a fence than a sieve here ... and so i find your "tiny little" deceptive as most of these strata steepers, spike raisers and command line/squiggle alphabet metastatizing stootbrapper tend to be in my experience.

I appreciate how closely you're studying the video. You've got an interesting style of writing, it's very free. It feels like you're the voice of dissent here, one of my favorite voices to come into relationship with, because there are usually interesting insights to be gleaned...

One of the reasons we posted this video was to engage our audience and discuss these ideas a bit. So feel free to reply if you have anything else to say on this - I imagine that you do.

I won't pretend to understand the mechanisms of sigil magick. For me it represents the intention to take one's obsessions and concentrate on them until they reach a point of utmost concentration. At that point, there's nothing left to do, so the concentration relaxes and the mind is freed up to focus on other things. The symbol thereafter becomes a container for the experience of intense concentration experienced by the practitioner. At least, that's how I've experienced it in my own practice.

I liked your squiggle alphabet metastatizin stootbrapper line, it kinda sounds like it was intended to be an insult, but then it also sounds like jazz, it's got that far out sound to it...

Hmm... that lady you're referring to is Casandra, one of my best friends... She's an amazing woman with a great heart and a strong mind. I'd prefer you didn't speak disrespectfully.

As for the scientific evidence for QAL as a natural contraceptive, it's not a personal anecdote, the herb has a history of being used for that purpose in folk herbalism. That being said, we are not condoning it for those purposes and would advise that anyone seeking alternatives to conventional contraceptive consult a naturopathic doctor.

As I 'stream of conscious-ly" flow through my overly full days, which hardly ever go according to plan, I am disappointing several people who are accustomed to speaking with me on a more frequent basis, or are waiting for the next blog.

This is an amazing place and, after 11 years of isolation in New Zealand, I'm rather popular here. There are so many wonderful people, so many invitations, and so many interesting things/events to attend. There is often spontaneous live music [sometimes Ecuadorean, sometimes Gringo and sometimes both], beckoning me from the town square which is 2 blocks away.. One goes to the corner for some groceries and ends up in conversation with a variety of people. My phone is constantly receiving texts and calls.

My best intentions to write get constantly pushed back till manana [?tomorrow] I guess this is what living fully in the present looks like. 13:20 versus 12:60. Living off-line more.

On Friday, I'm going to a "Living Foods Luncheon" at the home of a Russian couple. I'm looking forward to talking with them.

Today I rented a little house outside of town, so will have more 'down-time'. I'll also keep a small studio in town for it's rooftop 360 degree view of the mountains that ring this valley.

I also need to begin attending to passport/visa and residency issues. There are also several friends and relatives who plan to visit. Right now I'm going out to search for my cat who is in heat.

Today, the whole world is in synch with Ecuador's Rhythmic Day and Night. This is the most I've written in a while, so I hope it suffices for now. Do you mind sending me the link to the 4th Reuben Skywalker blog? Thanks.

Moving here sight unseen was the right thing to do! More brave souls arrive every day :}

As the Ecuadorians and ex-pats say,

"After more than 38 years on the road, working for major international news and feature magazines, then following my own interests, I've finally unpacked in Vilcabamba," Ives says. "It feels good. It feels like the small town I grew up in in Ohio. For me, the place manifests the heartbeat of Ecuadorian Andean culture. What takes place here is reassuringly universal rather than place-specific." El Cine de Vilcajovens Mar 2013

A Saturday night crowd at El Cine de Vilca-Jovens.

As he has for most of his life, Ives continues to take pictures, although now it's at his own pace and subjects of his own choosing. "My images share traits that most of us long to be reunited with: sharing, family, natural beauty, familiarity of ritual, friendship, and an unhurried pace of life," he says. He finds these traits easy to find in Vilcabamba, reflected in the local scenery and lifestyle. McLuhan's Novel - 21 -- 104 views .. Sep 18, 2015

Bob's preface for "Understanding Media" for real, overlaying the work of Marshall McLuhan, and solving the Fall with his meta-non-physical, non-linear Median Ecology. For doing this, Bob Dobbs-Nevert, reccurs to Charts; in this case the Ulysses Charts, both "The Gilbert Schema" and "the Lineti Schema", evoke a new interpretation of the work of James Joyce anticipating the IONic phenomenon, presenting the extensions of our organs, perception, and archetypes by Media, as explained by McLuhan and completed by Bob. The schemas where made to present the structure of Ulysses one day Odyssey; but they have another purpose in the iONic Median Ecology Bobbyssey, as Bob will be explaining in the next videos. To be continued...

Linati schema for Ulysses

This schema for the novel Ulysses was produced by Joyce in 1920 to help a friend (Carlo Linati) understand the fundamental structure of the book.

The U Ching is the name given to a discovery of the interconnected number frequencies of the 64 hexagrams in the I Ching. In applying this new/original number logic we learn how the synodic cycle of the Moon (Lunar Ring/Outer Time) synchronizes with the orbit of Earth and Moon around the Sun (Solar Ring/Inner Time). These two cycles describe together a script in the galactic seasons of 0-64 days. In this cycle there is a chapter a day, which we find on the left side of this home page.

In following these three cycles of time we continue our telepathic experiment in the Second Creation. In studying these cycles of natural time we explore the relation of the genetic code/DNA in time. How and why did I became U?

Outer Time - Inner Time - Galactic Time - Synchronicity

Outer time is horizontal, linear time. It is the time we perceive with our senses. Outer time is following the Lunar Ring, measuring the synodic cycle of the Moon in 13 x 29,53059 days. All of these 384 days are related with one line of the 64 hexagrams, because 64x6=384: synchronised on the Arcturian Chessboard.

23 September 2015, day 4 of Moon 3, Electric Moon (20 Sept - 17 Oct)

Inner Time is fourth dimensional time, as perceived by a trained mind. Inner time follows the Solar Ring in measuring two orbits of Earth around the Sun in 0-729 days. All these  $2 \times 365$  days are described by one Hexagram of Inner Time in a matrix of  $27 \times 27$ , perfectly synchronising the sidereal cycle of the Moon.

Galactic time is a script that repeats four times in the Harmonic Module . These four galactic seasons of 65 days are known as the  $20 \times 13 = 260$  days of the Tzolkin, a fractal of the orbit of our solar system around the core of the galaxy. Every day in one of these galactic seasons is connected with one hexagram in the U Ching.

if you had studied my take on the [eco]spiritual meaning of 'stones', the connection between rock and human pressures (clean, mechanical) to either self destruction of uplifting religiosity would hold few secrets to you too.

you are outraged over something that is actually simple to understand ... and especially for you since i have made known my awareness of the tuscon mashid connection to Arguelles' 19 'terratowary' to you a long time ago .. and if you had studied my take on the [eco]spiritual 'omgang' (literally 'going around' in dutch but it means connection / contact) with 'STONES' (borrowing your emphasis).

Admittedly, relevant passages and puzzle pieces are tough to ferret out of a 20 commentarian career that has as yet to be systematized etcetera (i even unintentionally wiped out a few years of yt cs from a channel name change but i save copies before even pressing post buttons hither and thither) ... you are waaaay ahead of me in that respect, hahaah!!!

Anyway, ... had you taken my hints, the connection between rock and human pressures (clean, mechanical) to either self destruction of uplifting religiosity would hold few secrets to you too (at least regarding the

Here's one such recent relevant 'top up':

as to your solicitation of presenters i would like to offer a set of [maverick] reflections on innumeracy and numerosity; in- and outbreath ... and how to turn the sheer/shear and verticality of rock to the grounding cheer of rockdust; turn too steep and spikey a social stratification to the more fractal and scalable happy medium of multistory treehouse habitation, turn dry deserts to lush gardens ... cities to parkscapes, america back to turtle islanders, palestine back to palestinians ... feed the fish ...

tie the whole crowd / concentrate / edifice / stockpile / beancount, build pressure complex to crampy ratios/rations / foils of formality / fistmaking outlooktraps in such a way 'STONES' release integration serving GRIT/'FINERY' via effort / force applications directed at compost, run off elimination, gully repair, growing soil where it once covered now bared STONES.

allocate least AND most achievable status to soilbuilding, water retention etcetera ... let's wildly imagine the word islamification having become synonymous with 'gardenation' ..... weren't the softy segment of early zionists up to such a 'grounding' program and failed for lack of integrating mentioned pressures (that pesky hi testosterone component[,/ which] parenting seems to refuse responsibility for .. since it takes low leveled parents (both sides) to cause that prob in the first place 'diabolically' enough; see neoteny.org)

I offer a resolution via the compost heap and a truly consistent program of calling the tide turns between pressure builds and their fruitful dispersals and diffusions, diversities, diversificatiosn and putting well defined and policed distances between those willing to war and others willing to peace in order to have the growth factor firmly on the side that offers potential bully boys to not go but forego the bullification route ... reflected in aspects of life right down to the very currencies we choose ... a fresh dust lozenge as 'coin of the realm' ties to (Reims depictions of) Cernunnos flanking Apollo and Mercury (and teacher to folks like jesus?)... to bring us all back to archetype / lifestyle views that do dovetail perfectly with what the Crest like initiatives in SA are already doing - ecoaldeasabayaya.blogspot.com

- UCF(or FUC) comes to be the Essence of the Potential Effect in each activation. - Some examples:

-  $217 + 219 + 117 = 553$  (-441) = 112

-  $378 + 252 + 384 = 1014$  (-882) = 132

- And look this special number (relationship) appearing today.. What a message !

-  $252 + 124 + 303 + 378 + 384 = 1441$  ! ... (-1323) = 118 (*) // (1_441,144_1)

CHILDREN OF THE FOREST (Chenchus)

SRUJANA MOVIES -- 9 -- 4,053 .. Apr 21, 2014

This award-winning ethnographic documentary film made by Sathya Mohan PV, deals with the socio-economic and religious life of the Chenchus, the only Telugu speaking prehistoric hunting-gathering tribe living in the Nallamalai forests of Andhra Pradesh, India. They are a conservative tribal group and have not made many changes in their lifestyle or tried to adapt to modernity. They live in the enclosed space and geography leading a life of an unbroken continuity.

Family of deceased British Army officer calls for investigation of "cult"

DaAdmin Miscellaneous- 2013-01-23

By Linda Rogers

The family of a 27-year-old British Army officer who died of cancer in November (2012) have called for an investigation into the brainwashing tactics of a group who claimed they could cure her cancer. Leaders of Innersound, who have a clinic in London and are recognized as a cult by UK experts, dissuaded Naima Mohamed from having the chemotherapy that could have saved her life. Innersound 'masters' claimed she would recover from their meditation and therapy alone, and that chemotherapy was poison.

December 20, 2014 -- Time Travelling

We are also in the first day of the 39th harmonic that goes until kin 156 Yellow Cosmic Warrior. That's why it is called Cosmic Output "Express the Intelligence of Presence". Every harmonic is, at the same time coded by one of the 64 Codons or Hexagrams, and one of 64 UR Runes, the Codon activates the third-dimensional organic body --or instinct, while the rune does it on the fourth-dimensional etheric body, or telepathy. This current Harmonic 39 is coded with Rune/Codon 55, in Law of Time terms named Wisdom Arousing: Telepathy Becomes Time Travel. This Codon 55 happens to be the gate where the mutation announced by Ra is taking place, transforming our emotional awareness. In Human Design, Gate 55 is located on the Solar Plexus. According to Ra, this mutation that initiated in 1781 with the discovery of Uranus will be complete on the year 2027, its first Plutonian cycle since, when the Global Cycle "needle" moves (backwards) from Gate 37.1 to Gate 55.6. :::::::::: gate 55 -- Mutations, 2012 and 2027

Please watch the first section of Design Perspectives 003 and 007 here before continue reading so you understand better what this Mutation and Global Cycles are about:

(You can also watch episode 005 and 009 to get nice complementary information)

And Oh! Please, if you didn't yet, you can also watch episode 072, where in the first part Alokand Diaz talks about Gate 54 (Red Queen's Personality Sun) and after that, Ra Uru Hu talks about the meaning of 2012 from a Human Design Perspective! Juicy!

Please note the influence of number 9 in the coding of these, episode 72 (8x9), Gate 54 (9x6), inverse to 45 (9x5), the 9 Center Being, and remember, we are in the year of Red Lunar Moon, that is kin 9, seal 9, tone 9 !!!
Nonetheless, in the measures of the cosmic cycles that are contained in the prophetic visions of Dr.Arguelles as well in the information that The Voice transmitted to Ra (where it announced amongst other things that the subatomic particles called <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Neutrino> do carry mass, something that Quantum Physicists confirmed some years later after Ra's statements) we are told to be on the verge of a new cycle, the famous and commonly over-interpreted New Age, the Age of Aquarius, a new 13 Baktun cycle (or according to a different interpretation an extension of the 13 baktun count to Baktun 20, to be completed in the year 4772) and with that, the arrival of the Rave, what Arguelles called Homo-Noosphericus, where according to the Human Design System we will be able to start noting the development of the Emotional Consciousness, in the Solar Plexus center, carrier of Gate 55, the one that is producing the mutation since 1781, year of the discovery of Uranus, when we left the 7 chakra system and started living as 9 Center beings and into "Form consciousness".

Note: Also did José Arguelles include a concept of an eighth and ninth chakras in his work, specifically in the Mystery of the Stone where, to the 7 known chakras 2 more were added as the Root of Root chakra (connection to the Heart of Earth) and Crown of Crown (connection to the Noosphere or Planetary Mind), nonetheless in the Human Design system transmitted by Ra Uru Hu, this takes a totally different dimension, at including all the circuits, channels and gates that interconnect the 9 centers, where we learn no to take any more decisions from the mind and the conscious personality learns to sit back as the passenger of the vehicle, driven by the Magnetic Monopole that is situated at the G Center. We will also develop in further posts this topic to which Arguelles referred as the Quantinomio Citobárico, and that's another of the announcements that the Voice made to Ra but this one hasn't yet been confirmed by the "scientific community" on JA:

It was maybe because of an Open Solar Plexus pressure to avoid truth and confrontation, he kept himself always being very polite and kind even with those who wanted to discredit him, probably attracted by his hanging 55 (Gate of Spirit) looking for those to provoke him so that he could perceive his spirit and moods. This gate brings fear of lack of passion, thus taking him to get deeper and deeper into the mayan mysteries of time.

The Gematriculator is a service that uses the infallible methods of Gematria developed by Mr. Ivan Panin to determine how good or evil a web site or a text passage is.

Basically, Gematria is searching for different patterns through the text, such as the amount of words beginning with a vowel. If the amount of these matches is divisible by a certain number, such as 7 (which is said to be God's number), there is an incontestable argument that the Spirit of God is ever present in the text. Another important aspect in gematria are the numerical values of letters: A=1, B=2 ... I=9, J=10, K=20 and so on. The Gematriculator uses Finnish alphabet, in which Y is a vowel.

Experts consider the mathematical patterns in the text of the Holy Bible as God's watermark of authenticity. Thus, the Gematriculator provides only results that are absolutely correct.

Debunking Dan Gleason, the "Jesus is a Circle" guy

By R. A. McGough | Published: November 8, 2014

The early Christian Sacred Geometers called a circle with a circumference of 888 units "the living Jesus" because the diameter of his circle is 282 units, which is the gematria value of the Greek word bios (BioV), meaning "earthly life."

~ Daniel Gleason, www.jesus8880.com

The quote above typifies the raving lunacy Daniel Gleason publishes on his site. There is not one shred of evidence that any early Christians drew a circle with circumference of 888 units and called it "the living Jesus." How then could he make such an assertion? The answer is simple; he believes his numerology proves that's what they must have been doing. He has since changed his words to "may have called" in response to my email asking for his justification. He said he would restore the original assertion after his book with his numerological proofs is published, as if mere numerology, without any textual or historical evidence, could prove what early Christians actually did and said. +314 -- Debunking Myself: What A Long Strange Trip It's Been

By R. A. McGough | Published: October 4, 2014

My Vision Quest, Rainbow Gatherings, Grateful Dead, and LSD ----- So how did a promising graduate student working on a Ph.D. in quantum physics morph into a Christian mystic fixated on numerology and the Bible Wheel? It began in 1987 when I got a divorce, quit college, and embarked on a three thousand mile bicycle trip from Seattle to Los Angeles and back which I thought of as a "vision quest." I was burned out from six years of hard science and felt a deep need to find the "meaning of it all." My mystical inclinations caught fire after spending a week with thousands of "New Age hippies" at the 1988 Rainbow Gathering in the Davy Crockett National Forest. It was an amazing experience. Imagine 5000 semi-clad hippies dancing and singing in the woods. Everyone called each other brother and sister. We all shared food, laughter, and friendship. The love was palpable. Everyone was into some variety of spirituality; most of it would be classed as "New Age" or "Eastern" though Christ was held in very high esteem by many. It was an exceedingly eclectic "hippie religion" if you will. Symbols from all religions were freely adopted. When the gathering ended, I began hitchhiking back to Seattle and passed through Santa Cruz which was teeming with Rainbow folk who had come for the Grateful Dead show. I met a man who called himself Pan. He had a staff with Mickey Mouse on a crucifix, smiling and waving. He gave me a tab of LSD and a copy of his "Theory of Everything" which he titled "A Damned Good Guess." I met a woman who had flown in from Connecticut for the show. She was into the Tarot and we became fast friends. She had a vial of liquid LSD so we split my tab and her liquid and sat on a park bench by a cliff above the ocean and below a perfect blue sky. The heavens opened and we shared visions of God (to borrow a metaphor from Ezekiel 1:1). That's why LSD is called an "entheogen" – it often evokes an intense experience of the divine. The vision spanned the universe and all the world's religions and I saw they were one. This became a new goal for me, to find and express the unity underlying all the world's religions and reality. I had become a mystic.

I found every variety of esoterica and mysticism very intriguing, especially things like synchronicity (meaningful coincidence), the I Ching, Astrology, Dream Analysis, Jungian Psychology, Tarot, and the Kabbalah (which introduced me to Hebrew numerology). I fell into a habit of magical thinking which the wiki defines as "the attribution of causal relationships between actions and events which cannot be justified by reason and observation. It is a type of causal reasoning or causal fallacy that looks for meaningful relationships of grouped phenomena (coincidence) between acts and events." This became my primary way of interpreting my experiences. I used "associative thinking" in my analysis of dreams and synchronicities. Basically, I came to believe that "meaningful coincidence" was itself a kind of evidence of mental, spiritual, or supernatural causation that revealed the hidden unity underlying the reality. This opened me up to a series of synchronicities linked with "prophetic dreams" that ultimately led to the information presented on this site. I tell the story of that long, strange trip in my article Why I became a Christian.

THE RAINBOW SWASTIKA - A REPORT TO THE JEWISH PEOPLE ABOUT NEW AGE ANTISEMITISM

As NA leader Dr. Jose Arguelles puts it, this initiation is a passive "surrender to the higher galactic intelligence", involving "receptivity" and something he calls "a galactic imprinting" [not specified if this is spiritual or physical]. This imprinting will be done in groups and will trigger "an actual evolutionary shift of major proportions... homo sapiens on the evolutionary scale will be ended." (Meditation Magazine, published by the Intergroup for Planetary Oneness, Summer 1987) Arguelles indicates that individuals must make the choice. But the channeler for the spirit guide "Alder" says that the "world Initiation... is being brought to birth by a universal access [sic, application?] of Pain and of Pressure", which she/he says is "leading naturally" to the right choice. (Vera Alder, The Initiation of the World, p.109) [So much for voluntary cooperation... but this fits in with what we are told about the tactics of spirits hoping to become "walk-ins".] Hannah Newman (author of quote above here) claimed that the New Age movement is Nazi:

McLuhan's Novel -- September 2, 2015 at 12:42 AM

McLuhan commented in several occasions that he was talking about the "occult", the new hidden ground; connecting dots and creating patterns beyond only the information given by main stream media and the Gutenberg Galaxy; exploring as an anthropologist, all human expression and medias. The same goes to Bob Dobbs, who has been studying not only McLuhan for 40 years, but Wyndham Lewis and Joyce's works and its influence in McLuhan. Because he knows the real hidden ground, he dared to explore with other unconventional "media", to explore the last extension of man by the Non-Physical. To do so, he resorted to medium, like the Evergreens and iON. A way to illustrate this, would be with the movie Annie Hall, the scene in which Woody Allen is trying to make a point as he discusses with a McLuhanite, and he just takes God himself, Marshall McLuhan from behind a cardboard ad, and asks him to intervene to see who is right. Then Woody Allen says: "Don't you wish real life would be like this?"; well it is for Bob, he has decided to go further in the exploration of media, and include his discoveries using channeling and Non-Physical, he wants to know and asks the directly the source, Lewis, Joyce, McLuhan, Zappa, etc. His discussions are available to listen, as he is also extremely generous and makes his own archive public. Bob Dobbs-Neveeritt is in a position in which he has no need to be afraid of losing his reputation. But the main result of his explorations of McLuhan, the Wake, and the effects on media on cognition and perception has led to major discoveries and breakthroughs in the creation of a new environment which obsoletes the electric environment and the android meme. You could think of this in the same way in which a cathedral was built, it would take several generations to finish the project. The whole evolution of media, all the Gutenberg Galaxy, were actually only part of the process of our evolution to retrieve the iONic-technologies affecting us and the environment in the Now- here.

I have been studying Bob for years, and it has taken me 6 years to understand the magnitude and relevance of his output. It is worth exploring, join the Bobyssey in our journey back to Ithaca. Like McLuhan said, "it would take a week to explain" all Bob's main patterns, but you can go and explore him in the ether, and even start engaging the new technologies, and the new environment as it is being created and explained by Bob and iON.

Jesus the Mash Potato king

Do not let the humor of this be taken as a mockery. It is a lesson in language changing as cultures spread far away from each other. I have learned that Mesh and Mash are the same word however you choose to pronounce it. And it clearly comes from Messiah because it is used as the word smear (or smash or mash) in smearing oil upon chosen people. Now because Peleg the founder of Ur is called Mesh, you might think he ruled as Messiah (the Mesh of Yah) but the records which call him king also indicate that he did not rule but that he had his son rule for him and his son was not called Mesh. It is thus clear that mesh WAS the oiler not the oiler, the smearer not the smearee, the anointer not the anointee. And this explains why grandpa Shelah (Shiloh) who comes to town to bless the one who becomes king is never called Mesh nor called Messiah. Shelah blessed Reu in year 137 when Shelah was 100 when Reu was only 6 but defining him as king was meant as TOP of his skills in astronomy understanding what his father Peleg did not. It is Peleg who smears and anoints and chooses a position of KING in his son Reu claiming the authority came from patriarchal head Shelah (Shiloh) when in fact no patriarch in the world existed until Peleg and his wife retained ALL grandsons, and ALL great grandsons to obey the city. ALL fathers promising their sons to their grandfather (Peleg). This enslaved mankind in the excuse of supporting and supplying family first.

The point is that the Mash or the Mesh is still with us in English and still referring to SMEARING the potatoes. Mashing. And this extends even into the sun's name Sham-Mash or Shem-Mesh as the name of the sun when on day 40 of the depleted rain the sun rose up with RAYS that smeared the earth and people and plants creating distinct-lined shadows that had never existed before. The Mesh of Ray had been created, the arrows (Eros) that shined down and smeared (meshed) the world, shining on the heads of people. One can see how words reverse when a fabric mesh or fish mesh reduces light and makes shade, when in fact it is called a mesh because it covers over all, it casts out over, as the sunlight of rays are cast out over all. BUT reversal occurs when shadows are cast over all, when in fact the shadows cast by bright light will singularize all things, versus a shadow (overcast) of all things into gloom. The smear or cast over becomes reversed in definition just as we can do with any word at all, reverse it with actual other meanings we have given them by this reverse logic. It can be bad, like saying Judas is our savior for sacrificing Jesus.

DEFINITIONS

Note: Dividing a number by 1 does not divide it into smaller parts and is therefore misleading.

This is the source of all confusions about why number 1 is not prime.

The Unit {U} = Whole number that is indivisible by any number (not even itself).

Prime number {P} = Whole number that is divisible by itself only.

Composite number {C} = Whole number that is divisible by itself and other primes below itself.

Additive Prime {AP} = Prime with a prime digit sum.

{AP} = 2, 3, 4, 5, 11, 23, 29, ...

{C} = 4, 6, 8, 9, 10, 12, 14, 15, 16, 18, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 30, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 38, 39, 40, 42, 44, 45, ...

In verses 1 to 5 of chapter 89, it says:

By the Dawn. And the TEN nights. And the EVEN and the ODD. And the night when it ends. Is there an oath in that for those who PONDER. And in verse 30 & 31 of chapter 74, it says: Over it are 19. And We have set none but angels as guardians of the Fire, and We have fixed the number (19) only as a trial for the disbelievers, in order that the people of the Scripture (Jews and Christians) may arrive at a certainty and that the believers may increase in Faith and that no doubt may be left for the people of the Scripture and the believers, (that the Qur'ân is sent by God) and that those in whose hearts is a disease and the disbelievers may say: "What does God intend by this example?" Thus God leads astray whom He wills and guides whom He wills. And none can know the hosts of your Lord but He. And this is nothing other than a reminder to mankind.

----- What do the TEN, EVEN, ODD and 19 mean? What is it about number 19 that will cause some people to believe and others to increase their faith? A few years ago, Mr. Kourosh Jamneshan created a table by placing the chapters in one column and the verses in another. In a third column he added the numbers in the first two columns as follows:

When done with all the chapters, he found an amazing result.

What was that amazing result? Exactly half of the numbers in the third column were EVEN and the other half were ODD. How could that be possible? 57 EVENS and 57 ODDS. Amazing. Isn't it?

Hi Piet, Thought you'd be interested to know that the musician at an event yesterday is spreading the word about Permaculture . He is also good friends with Alberto Ruiz, whose father opened the Tomb of Pacal Votan. He'll visit Mexico again soon. He's writing a folk opera called "Rights [rites] of Nature, commemorating Ecuador's decision to grant rights to our Earth :) Planning to leave for Mexico later this week. Sophia gave birth to 3 kittens on Thanksgiving 11 days ago, and finding a home for those 4 creatures is the reason I am not already there. How are you?

i'm ok, claire, thanks for asking my daughter's mom passed away last week

she hasn't written me since her visit in 09 but instagram shows her working in a Mnpl restaurant ... i wrote her that her gramma passed on the same kin her mom was born on coming up in a few days, the grand mars return (3xtz) of what turned my life around and froze me in place at the same time .... i hope you keep up with my doings via my rocksoiler accounts on youtube and G+ ... about the only places i appear in public anymore ... other than riding to the bakery and butcher shop that lake you planned to go to looks nice and green

.... but you are still in Ecuador???

i am going through my notes from the beginning ofl this decade ... basically taking all the tweet like linkage out (mostly rotted anyway) and leaving the little aphoristic style entries i worked on perfecting (as good and as bad as i could - a dutch way to express diligence).

now and then i have a warm correspondence with the piano player in Austin who's vids you may have seen me fave and which can be found that way ... but other than that ... i am still the old curmudgeon evry buddy avoids .....

my deep ambivalence regarding Arguelles hasn't resolved either on the one hand i use the kin system -- and crave writing such as yours (very rare these days; jannis doesn't quite do it for me, as his recent gsb entry proved, shows a pic of him with young daughter though, that was nice ... he prolly sent you an alert did he not?) -- and on the other i remain convinced the entire literacy / numeracy scheme is very harmful scam leading to unbearable (and unbearably imitative / sacriligious) complexity which encourages regimentation, automatization, machinic metabolism, SF memery and other run away stuff ... most of which explodes before the evil dreamery runs out of drive ('drowsarousadrift').

Especially Bob Dobbs drives this home ... he did a 9 to 12 hour set of weekend sessions on Zappa (whom he supposedly champions as much as James Joyce's last book, 17 years in the making and filled with portmanteau nonsense word[disfigurement]s from start to finish. Reminiscent of drunken slurs like nothing else, something his father imprinted him with).

He does get a lot of the mechanics of metastatization sequentiality, races, runs and rankery right but becomes unsufferable when on his hi brag horse and believing it funny. On the contrary, his sense of humor grows from the toxic substrate of utter vanity and is dangerously diseased.

the mexican princess who has been his main sidekick for this lives in berlin and was in zapatista land on holidays in the mid nineties, when Commandante Marcos made appearances. Not only that, her family practically owns that whole province. I told her she was being a ninny for one of the most open yet still one of nastier cults possible this day and age.*

this i gleaned from tuning in to his crap intermittently (his bad rote habit emogamut runthru is quite reliable and the overtures of his lifeblood, vanity - a virus he picked up in NYC) -- out n out, but unoutable since all who fault him for it [i find it insufferable myself as noted] are, according to him (latest vid sg1yTf9d-8U towards the end), closet vain and repressed / illusory nest egg hoarders -- which crescendo in to minutes and minutes long climaxes every time, are spiked throughout requiring frequent turn offs and aways.

i was trying to say that during my note cull action i came across lots of links from mexico and am not sure i posted them to your blog at the time .... would you like me to send them to you???

don't be a stranger so long again eh???

hi and lo culture is meaningless when lo is no lower than ghetto and still urban (w functional labour division taking sewage worries away). Bob self impaled on elation stake is hardest for me to take, .. have to skip it in fact ...

i think he maintains a sense of humor that is diseased ... on a par with the sewage he pretends to be capable of transforming .. in actual fact just an attempt to steal the charge from pollution clean up memes, without intention to factually do so; other than to claim his inner circle has bought immunity [visavi grave threats of contaminants, all from the processes he won't stop waxing woefully waffely eloquent about] thru the holy communion drop transactions .. goaoaoad ..how very catholic ..

One of the curious things about Jupiter is that it has a cluster of 2 asteroids groups, one situated 60 degrees ahead of Jupiter orbit called the Greeks and the other situated at 60 degrees behind the orbit of Jupiter called the Trojans. These groups are found at L point 4 and 5, and remain in sync with Jupiter as it rotates. Hildas Orbit With Lagrange Points Lousy Additionally at L3, opposite Jupiter resides the Hildas. This is a thin belt of asteroids that exists between the main asteroid belt and Jupiter's orbit. This group is in a 3/2 resonance with Jupiter and creates a triangular shape that stretches from L3 to the Greeks and Trojan asteroid clusters.

i am sure i am the who has written about cernunnos more than most and so i hope this puny can serve as a conduit for those intent and bent on the titanic task of, helpfully, 'me uit of my misconceptions te therapeuteren', for the curious, for those who realize the cernunnos (as shown in reims, flanked by attentive roman gods) has THE oldest pedigree in shamanland, on the shamanglobe .. AND is the most accomplished, Jose notwithstanding. But he would have none of it ... unless the part of the effect is my kin being rq's 4th oracle quarter seal .... diiiinnnnnnnggggg So, ... i hope this comment will not be taken as the yukkie type comment that just can't be tolerated in this ritual highly formalized sacred space ... room for only one at the top before and after the lonely all ... do seek it all out and search it all about, take a wall down and knock on heaven's floor.

response to comment on my DD vid on Islam that's one way to look at it but .. it's unfair to fault their 'hi-tastetestsareone' bluster boys as unguided missiles just cause they their network are loose and sneaky compared to the pompously delusionally self-righteousness with which the west perps their 'talent' hunts for triggerbutton pushers and joystick heros .. i mean marines and such this proves to me that the savant / nerd / code / calendar aspects of that collection were as much a [denk]sport[ / volkssport] in the third of the great empire tied toadied and shekeled monotheism screeds as in the other two. Hardly a redeeming factor at this point i know but just the same ... don't be too myopic .. safer to condemn literacy altogether .. specially since it's greatest benefit (as that of all carve chisel, grind, engrave, impression making) was the 'waste' (it's 'expression', the eminently compostable and basic hygiene ingredient - why put up with shit without it rite?): dust and detritus, mineral replenishment outside of floodplains even as the latter were choked and cut off thru canalization, wherewith empires called all ensuing curses 'over zich af'.

But .. you really did NOT already expect a Buddhist type answer? Where do you live. Monsanto land .. St Louis or sumthing? just turn your google imager to dreamspell .. which went thru a number of iterations ... fructaferitious floods of .. 'thrusight' .. and stuff .. as i said before .. he's the only woowoo man i trust (jose arguelles that is) but that don't mean he had some serious lacunas / flaws / biases ... (reminds me of that Barbara Kingsolver book about Trotsky by the way ... one of if not THE last book i bought new comme to think of it) ... but i am practically sure all your linearity and fine lineizm is invested and rested in you hair ... i just had an argument with a semi-colleague and scolded him for not immediately associating 'grey zone' with roothairzzz ... and i'll have to go check that cause i failed to show on my G+ page for some reason (sometimes a comment edit will do that). Be well and i am a long thickhair as well by the way ... or would you rather hear about my modest size feet?

i'm on the opposite side of the (chinese) zodiac as well, solar-round-wise too nearly, with just a moon off, you lion me dog kinda thing. i am aware of the extremes at either end of their respective to a fault driven talents and i love to teach longhairs but my teeth are offputtingly small, my ears flap and my mind transcends humanity itself .. so you can perhaps GUESS my teacher market value.

+RockSoilerToil TaleTattler

I can "perhaps" your "teacher market value"? Did you omit a word? Teaching is my profession. I doubt that your mind transcends humanity (but I did say "doubt" just in case it does). As you know, my Chinese zodiac sign is the dragon, and though I do not buy into such things (see previous post), I like that idea. Surprisingly, I think that I might like you.

gwendolyn2001 - 5:01 AM: Oh, by the way, I could read your cards and tell you much--not that I believe in such +gwendolyn2001 did you mean 'perhaps improve' ? .. omit a word (yourself)? Mine could be 'guess' .. or ... guess my low .. guess my non-existing .. guess my failing and flailing teacher market value .. and orphaned, cellulose, boxed and stacked, signin and signifyin away in(to) silence, missing the mark('it').

ps: did you read cards for a living?
are you still a school teacher?

Cards? i used to fly by the 7thunders.com system but it aint free no more ... i carried that (Olney related) book around with me.
Read away, shall we skype or googlechat or ... ?

+RockSoilerToil TaleTattler -- chinese dragon = western leo .. but you prolly know that .... even without be'leavin' such much .. i believe in clay coins and the banker who invented them, shaman of highest hairroot degree: the antlered one; Cernunnos ... a dissertation on whom by Dorothea Kenny i've just picked up the scent of again, ... after 30 years ... what would the world come to without us long haul flakes eh???

I do not like cities as a general rule and the bigger, the worse. The Maya are all dead and really, we don't know what they thought. I don't buy into the zodiac nor stars/planets having anything to do with a person's personality. I am also not Samson and my brain power does not reside in my hair, though my sexual power might. I musta missed the Kingsolver book on Trotsky, but it can't beat The Poisonwood Bible. - gwendolyn2001 don't think a banker invented clay coins but I do believe that at first, "coins" were just counters/markers for cattle or other material goods.

We know so little about Cernunnos as to know nothing, but antlered gods have been around since we invented the concept of deity--most likely, the Sorcerer of Trois-Frères is the first inkling. I live and breathe mythic "stuff." It has been an abiding passion since I was seven years old.?

come time and inclination i'll send a few of my brief remarks strewn around threads on money, soil, myth, leadership, therapy, etcetera. They come down to the same thing but i have a horror of formulaic repetition .. such as the bd 'oracles' that began this thread; .. thinkg is, Arguelles (JA as i shorthand him) was prolific to a fault. He has a disciple in spain, into expressive dance and hippie stuff but he repeats a lot of the 'diagrammar' with machine language like fidelity. I used to say i liked him as a painter (just like that cetacean concerned whtie in hawaii discovered recently does, he and his mate make a living painting mandalas on pebbles).

so far it seems like he's working up to an accurate description of spirituality as it exists today in SA, the 'sub'continent with the plant cultures of staples fame ... right?

But in light of what got, meanwhile, firmly tacked on there in the way of permie-pragmatricks, no longer entirely accurate (a homeopathically speaking high dilution is often also a more potent one) and it's the part of (general & universal) PCness that hasn't gone cultural and wrong but stuck to the (aim for) pre anthropodian basics like air and water ... wanting to roll back the mother of alienation, delegation, 'disempowderment and ghetto stackery (w staggering sociographics not far behind and often revealed as instigators): the sewage 'system'.

Systemicism is as 4dimensional an art as time and the 'praise/revival' lies in this: raise stone, blow (squeeze, spin) life/space into it and the happy medium between prayer and prey is 'empowderable'.

I read the cards for a psychic line for about three weeks about 17 years ago--that was all I could take of the BS. I am still a teacher, all online by preference. :)?

here's a few thoughts:

whack/blite X blite\whack = yerggrey .. right?
step down good and evil all the way to a grounding pragmatics and you deal with light and heavy (via light and heavy parhips) if you understand what the organic (produce/lifestyle) markit is good for you may perhaps be persuaded to give the thought that psychedelics inspires/d, spurs/red and opened / ignited a desire for it the time of day.

Still reading? Well, .. suspend your paranoia for a moment. What if i tell you that there's a combinatoric / natural / contrast / 'weeromstuit' / polarity set of reasons for generations to not copy faithfully, specially if they got mixed more than usual, migrated much further than usual, etcetera. Compare it to the need for fallowness (under less than ideally permie conditions); often a child will have nothing like a hard time to see the fails and faults of their peers and in a mix of reaction and choice try to beat a new path, leave one perceived dangerous, etcetera.

How do you know for sure Wasson wasn't one of them rare guys who saw evil and tried a radical turn away from it?

I appreciate your song analysis but were the beatles trying to warn cryptically enough to not betray sources, run risks from too 'stifffootedness' the dutch say too stiffly held a foot ... meaning a foothold held too uncompromisingly ... etcetera.

I have no doubt Jose Arguelles had run-ins with dark secrets (princeton / Reiser, thanks Drew Hempel) and added a few of his own to the mix not quite making it from innumerate to innumeros via nerdy numonotions but the paths of mavericks are stoney in many senses.

i tend to be grateful to these people and try to take pity on their faults.

as you please milady ... since you mentioned cards .. i have a decades old question about the difference between the 'mundane' and sequential spreads of the 'ancient symbols' (regular deck basically); i didn't at all attentively read the olney book i possess but did look for an answer. Never found it ... guess it has something to do with what Arguelles calls the 'lost chords' (destruction of Marduk, now the asteroid planet ... wanna take any blame for that, being of the catclan via your dragonmake?); take your time questioning yourself before you get back to me for maximum brilliance of your asynchronicity talent

+Sam Serghini (Greenleaf) i am 57 and on the first time exploring younow (subsidiary of youtube with live shows only) i stumbled into the room of a 14 year old and after she made a cute remark about my nick she asked my age and promptly said 'would you mind leaving the room then?' i apologized, she said no need ... but it left a nasty taste for me .... resonated with other rejections, for instance: in 09 i began pleading with the local authorities (having assumed 'mantelzorg' - a care task, .. not a duty ... it vs mantelzorgplicht = 675.000 : 153) to give me vacant space to use rentfree so i could run an alcohol free library / tea house for the young (otherwise prone to alcohol abuse [komazuipen]) and though i had proven rapport with youths (on account of my skeelerskills) i was refused (kids here are not raised for books and sure; they are as dangerous as the forms of sexual diversity instrumentalizable in the power and influence wielding game and all the better so the more taboo they are, .. in other words VERY dangerous). I know the drawbacks of signs and symbols like nobody else i know and could elucidate, circum- and prevent them from developing with a 200 fruitboxes full of almost as many subjects worth of personal 'mementa' ('duidelijkheid, ... aan de hand van mijn levensverhaal', makkelijker dan aan dat van iemand waar al millenia heftig over gevochten is lijkt me) and the city hall stood empty for 5 years ... as did many in neighbouring villages due to a temporary fusing hype ..... gelukkig nieuwjaar and may the gregorian irregularities and fractionalities lose terrain to the dreamspellian ones, a 3tzolkin = 1mars measure .. which has a related (assimilationist / spiritual / native peoples friendly) and well documented life at the bottom of it also ... come to think of if, why hasn't jordan thought of such things a looong time ago already?

Another good, good show. When the topic moved into Eve explaining other theories about humans' evolution - how once the human organism was female only and how someone or something genetically manipulated our ancestor by 'breaking the leg of X to get the Y' and therefore the male - this fits hand-in-glove with Glen Kealey's work. I came very late to Glen Kealey's so only have about a dozen mp3s most of which is Glen Kealey talking to a young man called Jerd which go back to 2008 or thereabouts.

It is impossible to get hold of any of his booklets and he is rather old these days, but his information was definitely blocked a long time ago. Alan Watt was once, I believe, a consumer of his material.

Kealey and Watt's assertion is that the beings that are sabotaging humankind are inter-terrestrial forms, Kealey calls them Neanderthalers or Deans of Thalers or Deans of Dollars that are related to humans, but live, according to Kealey, in the moho-discontinuity a place of crystalline structures and forms which is on average 30 miles below the earth's surface.

I always ask myself, when listening to Mr Kealey - is his story madness or complete genius - without access to more information, it is impossible to know, however, it is interesting that, out of the hundreds of hours of listening to many, many different radio hosts and guests and subject matter I have done, a lot of the subject matter seems to ally with Mr Kealey's work in one way or another.

Thank you Joanna for some fab work.

In the case of the monotheistic tomes / residues / ammo stockpile / fuckfolio .. wholly scraptours ... whatevz .... they tried to capture, tame, train and weaponize the phenomz of the oral world so the latter squooze onto perkamental delicacies, themselves impossible without sieves!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

i've never heard such run-on diarrhetic and chronic rhetoric of refusal to leave macro generalities and descend to the 'humiliating', 'puny' micro end of polarity - you don't get to multi- without passing by bi-polarity and it turns one into a the monopolist one purports to lament, criticize and pretends to be out to cure. ... quicken a rock for me buster .. and if we coordinate and plan for your launching prowess i may be to return it so size reduced it starts to fructify the square meters you do that from after the next rain on it at the latest ..

+newearth (dzjeez ...well, buck you too then) the 49th minute you ask a question too difficult for her (what reason is there to suuggest we were once a more peaceful, more united species?) and so she starts to spout time frames instead ... but the fresh rockdust as the 'offal' / liminal byproduct / 'derive' / etcetera of all that stone work goin on may very well have been the real reason. You see, ... the dominant form of employment involved stone work and pretty fine bits at that were plentiful as the 'waste product of a veritable 'tombrace' (mine bigga than yourn), meaning lots of gravel and dust ...which, if people, probably just instinctively, not necessarily consciously* mixed in with compost, a foundation for vigor would be a given.

* in fact i contend jesus attempted to bring this 'bringing 'dead' 'discarded cornerstone' to life' to the attention of his peers, proolly learnt from the most ripened form/stage of the most ancient and universal shamanic type leadership to be had in his day (cernunnos, seen in reims with roman gods in attendance), his fresh clay lozenges as the magical attractor rewarded him the title 'zoo keeper' for (nooo, he wasn't primarily a blood and guts satan / hunter folks, get your minds out of the gutter, at least for a mo), when the ravaging of woods began the string of basics being sacrificed in the pursuit of 'iron agism and up' (metallurjizzmz more and more toxic and out of the hands of jesus-like defenders of truly defendable defense earmarkability, demonstrated by cernjunnos with his lozenges of soil fructifying life constituting fluffed, washed in and grown out rock. That's how i would frame the time locked into rock too tightly to run anywayzz ...)

The Quran, the Bible, and the Islamic Dilemma

Acts17Apologetics - 59K

The Quran affirms the inspiration, preservation, and authority of the Christian scriptures (including the Torah and the Gospel). Yet the Quran contradicts the Christian scriptures on fundamental doctrines (e.g., Jesus' death, resurrection, and deity). By affirming scriptures that contradict Islam, the Quran self-destructs.

Of course Crowley had learned Hebrew, as a chess game one might say, where his "Open Letter to Rabbi Joel Blau" is a pertinent checkmate as regards the 'Jewish question' the Beth Din, 'the House of Judgement' .... as well as the rest of the crapulous creeds....

https://niqnaq.wordpress.com/2016/01/11/niqnaq-records-its-approbation-of-this-self-mocking-track/

Now you must understand that a prime motive on the Jewish side is scorn. If the goys can be allowed to make fools of themselves pretending to learn "hebrew magic", while in fact remaining ignorant of even the first and most basic rules of hebrew pronunciation and grammar, then so much the better. It gives us (Jews) something very amusing and revealing which we can show to our young sons when they reach the age of discretion, and they ask us to explain to them the true nature of the relationship between the Jews and the talking beasts (the goys). Indeed, if the child shows aptitude in such things, we may demonstrate to it that it is possible to persuade the talking beasts to invoke demons upon themselves, which they do.

about to post this ... even better defense of JA though of course i use him to jump off like he did so many before that i'd like to point out the fact that Douglas Dietrich has begun to co-operate with Andrew Bartzis (associate of New Earth Nation[alist?] Sacha Stone on timetravel) and that he condemns anybody .. even those he seems to intensely collaborate with, like christheauthor.blogspot.com ... from the moment on they are willing to and/or actually appear in public with the man he was ordered to be liason for, the temple of set founder Aquino and about whom he speaks often in borderline self-incriminating ways. Sean Stone being one of those ... and so the comment below will do me no good .. at least not in DD's eyes.

I'll be reading the 5 comments which mention him on the only blog i visit every day shortly:

His 'count' differs a[n over time diminishing] number of days from the socalled 'long' one. He predicted a return in the 4thousands but perhaps there will be a suprise appearance long before then, when the two counts run abreast for example (sura and verse lenghts in particular, sequentiality of which are as mysteriously shuffled as the 'Life' [[vs the 'Mundane] carddecks many of the skilled readers use, are), .. then proceeds to write himself, including an alledged previous incarnation of himself, dug up in Palenque 1952, King Pacal, into the script, as i said, going under the 'artist' name of Pacal Votan to point to the 'nothing buried about it' depth of insight reached at that stage of his development, pre 'synchronotron' (a 21x21 gridtrix / mashtrick which 'rememorates' and [p]remixes the whole range of pageantry / sacrifice stacked on top of fair division / irrigation tiers from times cultural yet barely memorial) ... and the 'fuck your shimmy' surviving turtles dance on albeit in dwindling numbers.

Your Dreamspell Signature represents your Potential, your Destiny. It is the intuitive, feminine aspect of yourself that is pregnant with the knowledge that you are being yourself now.

Your Classical Signature represents how you get to your potential - what you must do, what action you must take. It is the masculine aspect of yourself that knows what you must do, in the real world, to truly fulfill your potential.

Update on the theory :) October 2012

Women, hands down, seem to resonate with their Dreamspell signature more than their Classical Signature and, interestingly, it seems as though men who are more Feelers than Thinkers (take the Jungian Quiz to find out what your personality type is), perhaps more in touch with their inner female/anima/Venus/Moon, resonate more with their Dreamspell signature as well. Pretty interesting!

TOMORROW JULY 26th: For many ancient peoples, including the Dogon and Egyptians of Africa and the Maya of Central America, the great star Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, was the galactic marker. The heliacal rising of Sirius – July 26 – commenced the Egyptian year, and established the 1460-year Sothic cycle – the return of Sirius to the same place in the sky. During this same time, the .25 extra day per year accumulates for a total of exactly 365 days, or an additional year. Hence, the full Sothic cycle is 1461 years. Note that the Sothic measure is fractal as well. In other words, every four 365-day years there are exactly 1460 days, but in that time there is one accumulated day, hence 1461 days! This is why Sirius presents the logical galactic time marker. lawoftime.org/thirteenmoonfaq.html

Dear Dan, years ago you said you filmed hours and hours of footage w Philip Callahan. I may have missed your explanation, if any, as to why the countless searches for it afterwards were all fruitless, on my part at any rate. Would you mind giving it here (again, as the case may be)? A link would suffice.

Until you post and/or i find a decent answer elsewhere i have to keep ranking you to the far woowoo side of the likes of Rense et al.

I suspect the reason has to do with your fixation on electrickery which finds mere chunks of gravity, pure clean honest theyt be though, too far 'beneath' whatever woomage you seem to feel obligated to lift and hold up instead, despite of that.

Gravity can be rolled up (and down) profitably so simply it's astounding if you've thought about it a few decades (for which your library was a great boost, thank you).

You however, seem to find it suspect, frightening even, so afraid does it in fact make you feel that the spin-up devices which inflame imaginations like yours fabulously for decades and decades now, will not free, not be free, but create 'unfreeing' (of some sort offkiltering) o horror, gravity instead!!!! .... whereas i seem to know, along with a select few, though many try, how to gain from 'throwing' (more like rolling, or stepping, easier still) weight around to great avail ... and a little elevation would be nice .. even though the principle functions in depths, colds and darks just as well.

One man who believed he had a lot to do with them circles was Jose Arguelles who i qualify as a shaman and who's last partner did a rare post just to day to which i tried to respond to .. again (she never let[s] me even though the oracle she claims to take guidance from has my number in the prospective position; it's the same 'seal'/'tone' combo David Bowie lived under by the way, but he was thoroughly urban and didn't stand much of a chance to penetrate to depths of understanding indicated from getgo for that reason alone [it takes a good wallop of favorable earthy aspects either way; Ann Margaret didn't make it either]; if he ever saw any of my remarks on just how just and profitably space in rock can be 'inploited' he didn't let on).

The Earth and myself are one mind"

This refrain (3 repeats) for your post is initially spoken by "seers, medicine people, sages", iow, folks as rare as Arguelles himself. It amused me to sniff out as many of those as i could (browsing libraries of the kind folk hosting my wanderings, in the course of which i think i puzzled more pieces of a UNIVERSALIZABLE utopian puzzle / BLUEPRINT together .....)

...to begin entertaining realistic hope of a watertightness that is functional (but that may be the wild oats of the Rothschild's using me to ventriloquize the type of bullshit that made Mao cause disasters - check Greg Hallett when curious if my source is reliable) .. and swale [WATERSLOWTH] based, a concept that i learned of in the early eighties but only sunk in a few years ago .....

..... than anybody i know in my 'field' ..

ORIGINAL STORY 1/16/16: A militant leader on the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge told OPB his involvement in the occupation has resulted in the loss of his four foster children.

Robert “LaVoy” Finicum and his wife Jeanette were foster care parents for troubled boys. Finicum estimates that over the past decade, more than 50 boys came through their ranch near Chino Valley, Arizona. The boys often landed there from mental hospitals, drug rehabs and group homes for emotionally distressed youth.

“My ranch has been a great tool for these boys,” Finicum said. “It has done a lot of good.”

That represents an enormous loss of income for the Finicums. According to a 2010 tax filing, Catholic Charities paid the family $115,343 to foster children in 2009. That year, foster parents were compensated between $22.31 and $37.49 per child, per day, meaning if the Finicums were paid at the maximum rate, they cared for, on average, eight children per day in 2009.

“That was my main source of income,” Finicum said. “My ranch, well, the cows just cover the costs of the ranch. If this means rice and beans for the next few years, so be it. We’re going to stay the course.”

Susan Seymour Hedke - 223 -- 3,233 .. Sep 3, 2012

The aspects in the heavens on the latter half of September 4 2012 and into September 5 (Universal Time) suggest another possible large earthquake. The most likely area of occurrence would be in the Pacific Ocean or in the seas and lands around its rim. This could cause a tsunami. Earthquakes and storms tend to peak about the same times, even if in different places, and in this case too storms may also cause flooding and damages on one side of the globe while earthquake occurs on the other!

You will witness a Mathematical Deceptive Number Manipulation tactic/trick. And additionally, an important miscalculation by RK concerning the total counts of Allah - GOD.

This is not going to be easy for the 19ers at all because I used to be one of them a long time ago and it was difficult too. Nonetheless, I believe you all need to see the Truth about this as there is a much more significant meaning and warning about "Over it is 19" -- 74:30.

Artistic Detachment in Japan and the West: Psychic Distance in Comparative Aesthetics by Steve Odin (University of Hawaii Press) (PAPERBACK) takes up the notion of artistic detachment, or psychic distance, as an intercultural motif for East-West comparative aesthetics. Specifically Odin examines the notion of beauty as a function of psychic distance in Western and Japanese aesthetics, including both the philosophical and the literary traditions.

It was created in 668 A.D. by the the great Avatamsaka Sutra Master Uisang (625-702) of the early Unified Silla Dynasty of Korea. The picture above illustrates the strange pattern in the Chestnut Forest: nested synchronicity and nested microcosms. The cicada, mantis, magpie and Chuang Tzu the hunter line up on the tree branch in ascending size and hence ascending danger. Each creature follows its inborn nature within its own microcosm, unaware of the impending danger from behind. With the Third eye, Chuang Tzu could see the hidden and repeating pattern of predator and prey to which he himself participated, but in having that vision, he risks losing his inborn nature by acting outside of himself. The solution to preserving his inborn nature against the exposure to vivid synchronicity is to maintain his quietude, even when he is moving.

The most fundamental text of Korea's Hwa-eom school of Buddhism remains the Ilseung-beopgye-do [????, Chart of the Dharma-world of the Single Vehicle] by Master Uisang [??, 625-702]. It is commonly called the Haein-do [Ocean-Seal diagram], and Gaya-san Haein-sa Temple, one of Korea's largest, most important and most famous monasteries, is named after it. It is also called the One-Vehicle Dharmadhatu [Buddha-Realm] diagram, and simply the "Song of the Dharma Nature by the Venerable Uisang".

have some kabbalah on me
February 21, 2016 – 10:13 am

The Black Magicians summon up larval entities from the continuum of inchoate consciousness to become perverted into vampiric forms, by means of the one continuing rite of human blood and flesh which remains to the species, viz, the circumcision. This rite in its most savage form is performed on the unprotected infant neonate at age eight days, producing such agony as to allow the vampires to completely enter and saturate the child's soul, irrecoverably. Is there any difference between this and the 'Christian Kabbalah' (or occultists' kabbalah) of Dion Fortune, or even Helena Blavatsky, in terms of vocabulary? Not much. But unlike them, I do not believe in 'God'. In my system, the "shell" (or physical) universe is eternal and uncreated, as in Spinoza.

That is, you can say Nature is God, which he did, but because it has no freedom at any point, it is no better than an idiot. It cannot think, it just does, according to a 100% cause-and-effect determinism, if it is not interfered with by the development of consciousness (the "sparks") within itself, which might push its inherent mindlessness away to some degree for a while, here and there. Clearly the universe as a whole is going nowhere: it is extremely important to realize the difference between us and the ancients in this respect. Seeing only this world, they could conceivably imagine it was heading somewhere, towards some sort of perfected end state. Looking at the entire universe, it seems obviously steady-state, and attempts to say it is going somewhere, or comes from somewhere, just look like bad mathematics, maths beyond its limits.

I do not say the sparks 'fell' into the shells, but 'developed' there. This is indicative of where I differ from the Lurianic kabbalists. In my view, it would be wrong to postulate the pre-existence of any sort of consciousness, prior to the physical universe, because this would imply the Creator God again. Consciousness has to be accidental and a posteriori to the physical or "shell" universe, just as the material atheists always say it is. The consciousness ("spark") that accompanies an intelligent human throughout its life has gradually condensed from the same inchoate continuum the vampires came from (though not for the same reason), and it may certainly be trained (by the correct spiritual sciences) to remain coherent with personality, intact beyond physical (or "shell") death.

The realm of the spirit to which the Black Magicians have monopolized access, is none other than the realm of Death, or the Devil. This sounds sinister (and it is in the sense of the left-hand emanation, 'sinister'), but it is in fact completely obvious and banal according to Jewish thinking, which is the relevant one. Resh Lakish (in the Talmud) says "Death, the Devil and the Yetzer ha-Ra (the evil tendency) are one." Life is good; death is evil. This is a truism in rabbinical or talmudic Judaism and from it are innumerable conclusions routinely deduced. So that is all that is meant.

The realm of the discarnate spirits ("sparks") is non-spatial, but they can visit us here in the "shell" universe. To them it does not exist at all. They perceive only spiritual phenomena, that is, phenomena originated at the level of the "sparks". They are not aware of the shell universe as such, only insofar as they see it in our minds or (perhaps, to a limited extent) remember it. They often seem 'idealistic' in temperament, like human 'artists'. Their imaginations are no longer constrained by the shell, and they are tempted to despise the darkness and squalor of our minds. From there to vampirism may not seem far to them – RB Option 2 has led to an entire tradition of mythological study, beginning perhaps with Carl Jung and moving through Northrop Frye, Joseph Campbell, and James Hillman, perhaps even into integral thinkers, such as Ken Wilber (who claims Campbell as an early inspiration, and whose work is comparative to its core) and William Irwin Thompson (who is highly critical of what he sees as "chauvinism" in Campbell's work, but who nonetheless reads and approaches mythology as a mirror of psyche.) It is this kind of archetypal, psychological, and spiritual reading of Mythology that is featured heavily in my course and which is one basis for reading it critically in a Literature classroom.

Joe Atwill on Woodstock, Beatlemania and the British Invasion

thkelly67 - 1,090 - 317 views .. Mar 17, 2016

Joe Atwill returns to the show to discuss the Dionysian rock festivals of the 1960's, the Beatles and the British Invasion. We talk about how the rock festival fad of the late 1960s was part of a mass mind control experiment. We also discuss the Fab Four's ties to Freemasonry and the likelihood that the entire British popular music scene of that era was a psy-op targeting the American people.

WIT plays a small but significant role, at the end of part 1 for instance he claims change first manifests mythically and in the end politically. Well, .. if Cernunnos began what anybody, even i could finish, i'd have to allow a political party to form around me .... any volunteers??

May 9, 2015 -- Between Two Ages, New Age, The Sixties - for Kate

This series, from 1981, began my long career with Ideas. I had done a few things for the programme in the early 70's when I began freelancing for CBC, but it was only after a chance meeting with Ideas producer Bernie Lucht in the entrance hall of the old radio building at 354 Jarvis St. in 1980 that I began to work for the show in earnest. At that meeting I told Bernie a little of what was on my mind and he suggested that what I was thinking might become an Ideas series. Why didn't I submit a proposal? he said. Up to that point most of the work I had done for the CBC was concerned with public affairs. In the mid-70's I had worked on the CBC's morning show out of Vancouver – first as a story editor, then as executive producer, and finally as co-host – and then had taken some time away from the CBC for reading, writing and reflection. At the time I met Bernie, I was ready for a new adventure, and his suggestion to root my work in my own concerns fell on fertile ground.

I came of age in the 1960's and identified myself, more or less, with the New Left. I probably had some intuition from the start that this identification was an attempt to pour new wine into old skins, that something larger than conventionally defined politics was afoot, but it was not until the later 70's that I really began to try to think the whole matter through and to face up to the fact that my "political" views didn't really fit on the inherited left-right spectrum at all. Perhaps an age was ending, and a new one, for which political classifiers barely existed, was trying to be born.

this portion quoted to Joe and tim:

Between Two Ages was my first attempt to reflect on this idea, and to bring together a constellation of thinkers in support of it. I approached it nervously and was astonished at the cooperation I received from the people I wanted to interview. I was equally surprised by changes in my own voice which I noted when I was recording it, by a new resonance which voice teachers would say comes from opening up the diaphragm but in this case seemed to result from an opening in the heart. Today, thirty five years later, I am embarrassed as well as touched by my naiveté, but it was the first step on a long road, and it was well taken, both in the sense that it was well-received by colleagues and listeners, and in the sense that it led me on to greater understanding.

infinitely preferable to the exclusive, relentless slag and slander here .... lucky i don't have to choose though eh??

According to Brzezinski mankind has moved through three states of evolution and we are now in the middle of the fourth and final state. In some ways the secular Brzezinski analysis is parallel to Jose Arguelles' The Mayan Factor, a mystical calendar of the world divided into periods. According to The Mayan Factor, our world is also presently in the final stages of dissolution, culminating in 2012 when it passes to higher levels of consciousness.

If coldness is the appropriate response to seeing time still imprisoned, ten billion years from now, then Greer's vision is chilling. For it to be compelling, however, would take far more.

Though only implicit, it would be grudging to deny Greer credit for the excavation of a crucial reactionary proposition: Nothing will ever break into the vaults of time. This is not an assertion to which Outside in is yet ready to defer.

Just noticed that I've been accused of having "anthropomorphized capital" (by NBS). Gnon, no!

The point is this: If you think there's a difference between capitalism and artificial intelligence you're not seeing either at all clearly. The Austrians already understood that capitalism is an information processing system, and the decentralized robotics / networks types on the other side grasp that AI isn't going to happen in a research lab. 'Anthropomorphism' has nothing to do with it. Complex Adaptive Systems are the place to start.

If you even vaguely understand what a convergent wave is, you've got most of what you need to discuss the topic, but if you haven't read this classic you're probably wasting everyone's time.

ADDED: A (left-wing) Marxist discussion of the topic (and one that leaves most Neoreactionary musings in the dust).

You might care to experiment with salvia sometime to verify that in fact the hallucinatory objects you can see forming into incipient consciousness from the continuum, are all solid nafs (nefesh, in hebrew). The continuum is nothing more than that. And since nafs souls are very much subject to the principle of indiscernables, they not only seem to be all the same (while all being different), but actually are so. They form into rudimentary self-consciousnesses the moment you look at them, from where you are on the level of the ruh (ruach, in hebrew). These are the souls that can be managed by TV etc at the level of the nafs. There is a potentially infinite number of them, because the continuum is infinite in extent. They seem idiotic and repetitive because the nafs truly has no memory. Anything you put in front of it, it will bite, like the proverbial donkey on the stick with the carrot. If you are weak-willed, you will be unable to retain your detachment and will be immediately sucked in by them, thereby losing your ruh level in what may become a habit, then finally a permanent inevitability and inability to ever regain what will then no longer even be remembered clearly but seemed to have been somehow higher – RB

And since nafs souls are very much subject to the principle of indiscernables, they not only seem to be all the same (while all being different), but actually are so...

As you can see, the various figures harmoniously add up to almost exactly 17 years. In this time, Mars performs 8 circles (maybe perfect / maybe not - yet gradually, helically-precessing circles around the Sun'/Earth 'axis') around both Earth and Sun - with no need for ellipses or accelerating/ decelerating orbit velocities. The only "non-harmonious" thing in this model - if you will - would be that Earth (which only rotates on itself) is placed slightly off-center of the circle making up Mars's 8 oppositions (which is when Mars passes closes to Earth in its 778-day cycle).

Here follows a set of simple calculations I have performed for the time lapses (Earth days) observed/ predicted for the 2003 > 2018 Mars oppositions:

Aug28, 2003 > Nov7, 2005 = 802 days

Nov7, 2005 > Dec24, 2007 = 777 days

Dec24, 2007 > Jan29, 2010 = 767 days

Jan29, 2010 > Mar3, 2012 = 764 days

Mar3, 2012 > Apr8, 2014 = 766 days

Apr8, 2014 > May22, 2016 = 775 days

May22, 2016 > Jul27 2018 = 796 days

$45 \times 17 + 5 = 780 = \text{mars cycle}$

Bycause i am eminently fit and equipped to understand THEM -- having had a father with will and means to spoil me rotten as well as an arsenal withh fully loaded, constant and subtle, most of the time mild and nonjudgemental ways to call attention to that (very nasty) vice in and around me, and again, hardly taking them personally except for once when i was 6 or 7 -- i feel like an almost moral obligation to go to bOb and offer him [or send him a mail asking to accept] a cure for his SELFISH AND SPOILT WAYS, [cause they are impossible to stand and become more and more so as he degenerates from hiding them, pretending and claiming to dissemble them to taking outright pride in them ... and searching out those who grant him such powers, culticity by the book]

his intello talents (predilections, vices 'waarmee hij, zoals ieder, zo goed en zo kwaad als het ging schipperde') were allowed to crystallize their aspects haphazardly along the browse, pick over, dismiss, move and cow cowardly till you can brag into the mirrorXmike from a distance safe enough to stuff recruiting bottles with 'messages' [commands!] all the time; over 30 years of toxtec audiofiles with hysterical proofs of predestined last laugh patentholder and worldrule dictator haven't even begun to weigh on his conscience ... perhaps Trump really IS all Bob's fault cause that's just another 'dish it all out and be subject to none' formula wielder / applier, .. just more vulgarly focused on 'chemical body' affairs - Bob manages to hide an insult and tip his hat to secret masters for most perhaps but not for me - all of them filtered thru both sides of that same pharmaffiose coin: deception/dependance and bribery

Truth Theorem Radio Interviews Ben Couwenberg

"Hi my parent love given yet corporately slave used name is ben couwenberg, however i am, ahh messages from stars earth other people etc..

I grew up mainly in australia, i lived in holland also; where my last name is from. I study full time at uni and have at the same time done a type of compression period 2007-2012 ghost degree wherein i just read frantically all that i could on anything new age new knowledge science uno .. whatever.. expanding my knowledge base..

then i got sick of facebook deleting my accounts for not following their box rules so i initiated consciousazine.com to store information at.

consciousazine is the online magazine wherein each page has one author that is their page, anyone has a chance at a page provided they r in alignment somehow or fit in somehow.. for instance i wont have a porn page.. then the subject pages can have multiple authors..

anyway im just really interested in moving humanity forward as that moves me forward as i am not separate from my society or world, i live in it.. it advances i can then advance and so forth..

therefore im keen to go on talk radios and spread messages in other ways than just consciousazine.

so hi ?? an g'day from down under. dont worry about me worry about the messages i bring."

Why Spiritualism has affinity with Permaculture -consciousazine.com

In this episode of the $30 Bandit Food Plant Teaching Series, Benjamin Couwenberg from www.consciousazine.com takes us through what spiritualism has to do with permaculture. ~Obi ben Couwnobi dude, your hysterical energy stems from the suppression and denial of the fact that all the ascension woowoo is the inversion / betrayal / per-, ob-, reversion of and failure to .. root (plain and simple) / loyalty to heritage (retrieval of it if lost and strayed from it, abducted and vectored away from it by stuff like bibles / bully boat CULTures) .. back where heavy lifting services radially centered spirality. This is a common plight of all whities operating under occupation status imprinted by said alienators (reverse the reversal .. not easy i know ... I'd be interested to know where to find your experiences in Holland so i can elaborate on the above).

ps: permaculture is the best universalization (geluk bij een ongeluk) achievable .. but yours if flying off the handle.

extra painful to write this to a man calling himself 'Tibet Sun' as the faith of the red race threatens to run over them roughshod .. instead of ripening the rites of the prayerwheel into a fully loaded prayermill version that enables the stilling of their hunger for colour FULLY ORGANICALLY, growing oases after oases; gearing up to descend and heal desertifiers, toxificators, demonizers, empty beat party 'mammimals' ...

This episode starts with Mr Lens introducing Fran to the nerve centre/broom cupboard of Shamanic Freedom radio. Before switching over to the interview with Kira Young, Mr Lens asks Fran to help him with his car, which leads to another comedy “domestic terrorism” scenario.

During the interview with Kira Young, many topics are including psychopaths in the work place, in charge and within the alternative communities, vote rigging in politics, Agenda 21, how we lived before the internet, diseases caused by bad food and how this plays into Big Pharma’s agent, money, and much more.

Kira presents a radio show called The Bridge with Kira Young, and writes a blog called Psychopaths in charge, which can be found with a quick Google search.

a quote from 19=260 (dedicated to R Khalifa) by Jose Arguelles who promotes a "second Quranic dispensation." (god is math, god is number): his last great work is a 'synchronotron, a 21x21 pyramid/square/cube dealie; he made efforts to convert the Vatican and therefore can be classified / lumped in with a another great big numb[ERR]nut who writes himself into the greatest possible narrative: Brian Golightly Marshall (for whom, other than Jose, i have little affection .. though the late Jose has enraged my many a time too in the past).

"Because of my efforts to alert the Vatican regarding the proposal to reform the calendar, replacing the Gregorian with the Thirteen Moon Calendar, I also discovered that the Vatican Observatory, the Specula Vaticana, was also located in Tucson 85719. How could it be that Khalifa and the Vatican had ended up in the same general neighborhood, and now I, with my discovery of the Law of Time, had established a third point of convergence in zip code 85719? The only answer is that God guides whom He pleases, and reveals to whomsoever He pleases, whatever He wills."

a little later he takes the liberty of taking the 300 from sura 18 to mean 3 years (not instead but alongside Khalifa's full 300+9 we had left on this tortured beachball since 1980 - see p. 467, Final Testament, Appendix 25) and apply to both Khalifa and him (he's full of tricks when it comes to 'schotsje lopen' [fashionabilizing fraction fetishes .. relentlessly] ... feels not quite as abominably fake as the seance style of [psyob] Bob Dobbs with his latest counterpart 'JW' / 'ion' .. out in the open sect with huge online archive) or as abject as french JDLers threatening Soral and Dieudo in public rallies (with impunity) but it's reaching nevertheless.

V.24.3 = decimal 243, same as Kin 243 Blue Solar Night; that is tone 9, seal 3 and  $3 \times 9 = 27$  "heart of nine." In the ancient meaning Valum signifies 9, while Votan is the earliest variant name of the Akbal (Night) glyph, which is why Valum Votan signifies Heart of Nine. Kin number 243 then is the frequency of the heart of nine:  $243 = 27 \times 9$ , or nine squared  $\times 3$ . In vigesimal code 243 is written 12.3 (20  $\times$  12 + 3). In decimal code 123 = kin 123, Blue Rhythmic Night, galactic signature of the day the jade mask of Pacal Votan was revealed, November 27, 1952. As a frequency, 123 =

41, interval of God x 3. Three is the root of nine, while  $123 \times 9 = 1107$ , or  $41 \times 27$ . This number, 1107 ( $4 \times 27$ ) the interval of God (41) moved by the Heart of Nine (27), is the "restorative cube frequency of the Return of Quetzalcoatl" as revealed to Valum Votan

over 500 acres

Rich in biodiversity and tended by dedicated farmers who cherish the land, Shire Farm is a true natural haven

In the heart of the beautiful Lincolnshire Wolds is the home of Shire Farm, one of UK's largest biodynamic farms, where we lovingly tend the land as nature intended and grow ingredients for the multi-award winning biodynamic skincare brand AEOS, Pegasus Parfum and Aura-Soma.

By adhering to strict biodynamic farming methods – holistic and self-sustaining with high standards of animal welfare and deep respect for the earth – we're able to grow the purest, most active ingredients possible, all without the use of artificial fertilizers and pesticides. A good example is our spelt – a highly nutritious alternative to wheat and a true skincare hero thanks to its high vitamin E and essential fatty acid content.

Picture this...

Covering over 500 acres amongst rolling hills, Shire Farm is a delight to the senses. At the height of the season you can feast your eyes on the vivid reds and yellows of poppies, calendula and sunflowers and inhale the heady aroma of clary sage, lavender and rose while bees and other pollinating insects busily buzz all around. Black Zwartbles sheep and Dexter cattle roam freely on green pastures while our golden fields of spelt are a picture of countryside idyll. Rich in biodiversity and tended by dedicated farmers who cherish the land, Shire Farm is a true natural haven.

Dev Aura, a beautifully restored country rectory, is the residential training centre for 'Aura-Soma Academy'. Dev Aura is an independent colour education and training academy which organises and hosts courses on the Aura-Soma Colour-Care-System® and the wisdom-teachings that support it. Formerly the home of Aura-Soma founder Vicky Wall, Dev Aura, meaning 'House of Light', has become a place of peace and inspiration which embraces visitors and students with a sense of the depth and caring that goes into everything we do. ----- Over the years we have lovingly tended Vicky's gardens and her famous hugging tree, incorporating a meditation sanctuary and private nature-nooks for study and contemplation. We also refurbished and expanded the interior to hold some 80 students in the training room which is joined to a solarium and dining hall open to the light and greenery of nature. ----- The Aura-Soma Academy offers a full programme of educational and training courses at Dev Aura for teachers, practitioners and any who are interested in learning about the mysteries and meanings of colour and related subjects. Located in the small village of Tetford in the Lincolnshire Wolds of England, Dev Aura is also open to day visitors for a personal colour consultation or tour with a member of staff to learn more about our work in the peaceful and gently restoring vibrations of the centre. ----- As our course schedule permits, we also offer Dev Aura as a conference and course venue to other organisations. We can accommodate approximately 25 persons within the Dev Aura residence, up to 8 in the cottage of Shalom, situated within the Dev Aura grounds, with additional space provided in the village and its surrounds. We offer seasonal vegetarian meals made with our own biodynamically grown vegetables and herbs from Dev Aura's gardens as well as our 500-acre Shire Farm or neighbouring organic farms. We recently acquired another 44 acres next to Dev Aura which has been converted into Demeter-certified biodynamic farmland as well.

first clever thing i see him say:

That same concept applies to all sequences. Within that triangular sequence of: 1, 3, 6, 10, 15, 21, 28, 36, 45, 55, 66, 78, 91, 105 - the fact that 10 is in the 4th position gives it a 4-ness which it will share with any number which is in the 4th position of any other sequence.

he must have just channeled the number to oil combo assignation

Square

Forming progressively growing squares of 1x1, 2x2, 3x3, etc will give us the square sequence: 1, 4, 9, 16, 25, 36, 49, 64, 81, 100. This sequence will have an innate 4-ness in the same way that the triangular sequence had a three-ness because of its shape.

The four and the square shape symbolise stability, the four elements, materialism, structure, tradition, orthodoxy, organisation, order, routine, logic, definition, reason, convention, protection, and practicalities.

he jumps from tet to square to pyramid arbitrarily enough, then starts stacking the latter (feeling the need to scale/lever something or other, oh .. the vagaries of accumulation .. sigh):

sorry pal, but i think they're ugly, useless and fail to make sense ... at least on this page .... a picture of them stacked into pyramid shape with the sun shining on 'm will be vastly better but nowhere near beating photographs of minerals are you kin55? (to 'guy' comes back so i resend to central) or that a buddy of yours in the anthropology club?

i go to a bd farm called noorderlicht in hoornaar every week for raw milk by the way here's a few notes on your coloured oil / number theory (can you refer to the chapter where they are connected? I mean, i am curious about the assignation process ... and in my book 'inspired' is/means arbitrary ... all colour comes from grey dust in that book too) anyway, i think Red Queen / SSouth owes it to herself to explore kin 55 .. the more the merryer ... may we grow into a giant .... mythical creature that enters a pantheon somewhere down the line of planet lineages ... .. and may the cooperation come quick enough to move me into a garden fit for my retirement ... i am sorely oppressed by old past and new neighbours and an even more weighty conscience & consciousness radiating set of spinning juggling balls in my head mission:

Zero degrees is not something you can plan. We did not know this when we bought Dev Aura which was given on a plate at a cost of £65,000 and that was more than all we did not have at the time. When we bought the farm it too was all we did not have. Zero degrees. Exactly the same as Dev Aura and we ask ourselves is there any significance to this;

The movement of the nilotic line and how these ancient lines girdle the planet.

The meridian line.

All the stories regarding the year 2000 and

The beacons on the planet on this line marking the light and the fire on the grid.

We come to this place and we have been given a future sacred site on the planet, which has already been identified by people who have been working with landscape for a long time. This is not of the past but of the time that is to come. There is a Naga city on the land. All the information is waiting there to be disclosed.

Conversation between Claudia Booth and Avani for the magazine Free Spirit.

Aura-Soma, a beautiful system for the evolution of awareness, that combines the energy and frequency of color and light to those of minerals, gems and of plants. It came to the world in the eighties thanks to the inspiration of Vicki Wall, an English pharmacist and chiropodist, that received from the father, a cabalistic master, the gift of clairvoyancy and the old knowledge of Paracelsus on the law of signature of the plants.

<http://www.spiritofmaat.com/archive/mar1/aurasoma.htm>

Like her father before her, Vicki Wall was endowed with "second sight"; in other words, she could see the aura that surrounds all human beings. Her father belonged to the deeply religious Hebraic group known as Hassidin, and was very interested in the mystical aspects of the Bible. He was a Master of Kabbalah and Zohar, traditions from which he inherited knowledge of the medicinal and therapeutic uses of herbs and other plants.

<http://www.oshocircleschool.com/calendar/course/9-levels-letting-go-and-cosmic-powers-quetzalcoatl> the course

We all know the importance of Letting Go, on the Personal and Collective-Karmic Level, when we reach the Closing of a Cycle, be that Galactic or Historical or a Phase in the Circle of our Life, and we need to move forward. The 7 Levels of Letting Go course was based on the work on 7 Equilibriums, all multiples of 13, from 13 to 91, 13 being in the Tarots the card of Death, that represents the Final Letting Go. Here we add B104 Archangel Chamael, all the Love for Ourselves we need in order to Let Go and B17, the Troubadour Bottle, to open the way for the future birth of B117, that will represent an important Shift in Consciousness. In the Tzolkin, the Mayan Harmonic Module, 13 represents the Solar Tribe of the Red Skywalker, seal that is associated to the Mayan Prophet Quetzalcoatl, the Plumed Serpent. Therefore 13, the Cosmic Tone, is the power appropriate to him. The 20 stages of the conscious-superconscious evolution of Quetzalcoatl are represented by the 13th tone of the 20 Wavespell of the Tzolkin/Galactic Spin- the attainment of the 20 Cosmic Powers.

In relation to the 9 Levels of Letting Go we will refer to the first 9 Wavespells and the first 9 Cosmic Powers, interfacing the bottles with the seals, from the first Power of Cosmic Prophecy to the Power of Cosmic Navigation. We will work also with the 3 Stars and see on which level (mental, emotional, physical) the Letting Go will take place.

4 days after i see the 22 seats around oval table meeting room up the stairs, on the side of the 2 giant fivesided windows that look into all of the BD animals launching in the barn from above the heyloft level, RQ posts about a BD farm in the 'middle east' of the UK

the aurasoma mix number assignments came organically and simply resulted from shelfspace / packing logistic pragmatics ... but of course turned out to be numerologically correct and fully in line with "world domination" (creaky joke croaked by the old mike himself near the end of that interview i just listened to) .. by present crop / alt.pharmacoid customers of feely sensitized and feely dominated millennialist legions and speaking of heirs ... i just don't believe in the story of the farm that fell into their lap (7 years empty vicarage) via donated funds ... i very much believe a primary tie between mike booth and vicky hall was the prospect of inheritance, period.

So ... if you like to have a mascotte skeptic on board to lend the concept a little more veracity than your token 'independence declaration' from your douche status (the very thing that shocked my dad about having to deal with my leanings to and pref for the 'kneusjes' care delivering camphill type outfits of holland ... obviously plenniful ever since industrial poisons began working on the 'vagrant semiticization' fall out - also known as khazar influence, happy kabballah tree climbing charlatansofties!!!!) the conclusion: i am worried about rq ... she'll never penetrate surrounding 'moronics' to the point of being able to appreciate me ... and i have my doubts you will (too many reservations in the way, reflections from the past that stick to the mirror as long as i am not giving a chance to wipe them off out and away to renew shine and splendor ... THE theme of this series of notes .. which it now time to end).

.0FECBF. = a fave 'span' ....hilite promised in last file... but i see i had already been at the coloration here ... decided to do wavespells at the time apparantly... and that's what i'll stick with [edit nearly a year later: nope, changes are per entry but the sequences are messed up] .. the tzolkin has 20 glyphs in waves of 13 days .. haven't made a 20 colour spectrum yet ... i tried 13 day wavesets in some of the JA ["José Argüelles" ] files here and there but they only make complete sense when an entry series runs for 13 sequential dates ... i was just beginning my muckery ... have you read the 'Grau denken' book by Sloterdijk yet ... or at least tried??? Please do ... he is always on 'paraparallel' tracks to me ... as if he wants to build a bridge to my work .. but doesn't quite dare to fully ... complete it .... sigh .... some of my later generation choices were used here and there [later than 2nd or 3rd, shown above k144]:

Solar wave [9th] ... one of them begins on ...april 3rd ... beginning of 9th wavespell, kin 105 = magnetic serp ... Planetary 'wave' [the 13 day run/'week'] begins 16th of april = 10th wave ... Spectral wave begins the 11th [on the 29th] ... Crystal wavel [12th] = 12th of may .... Cosm 24th of may begins the final wavespell to tell you the truth, after all those warm colours i didn't have the heart to continue with the red assigned to the start of the cycle .. so i used a nice, easy and neutral one ... the crux of wet and dry overlap and integration, the fecund grey of clouds and dusts .... again, check out Peter Sloterdijk's 'coloring' book [2021 - a political history lessen in the middle, emotional correspondences fill the first part ... and i haven't listened to the rest yet ...fromtexttospeech.com is an exceptionally generous site ... cudos to them!!!!!!!!!!!!!!]

IRONICALLY, ALL THE ABOVE IS [added to and copied on the 22nd of februari 2021 ... ps: and august 15th 2022] FROM THE PARALLEL / MOTHER PILE FILE ...and this one here has none of those killer colour complications, just a preferred combo.

Maybe to not distract from the true 'hi-lites', the content ['diepgang' is a much prettier word, 'depth penetration' where 'gang' is many things: corridor, speed {{gear in german}} spreading it's 'bore' in words like 'gangetje' {{tranquility}}], overly much with merely formal ones [however much 'presentation' tries to be the {{{supersatanic selfcial'}}} arbiter of god knows what all these days]: Pim Conradi (totally practical and graceful Bucky guy) and variously suprising lights lit & fit to hit on [and triggering same to shed from] the spinning firmaments of insular savantry's paradoxical appeal via the likes of Ralph Ellis ..

Exploring the Mysterious Altavista Petroglyphs of The Texcoquin Shaman - Algis Kemezys - Apr 29, 2016
This is our hike into the ancient site of the Altavista Petroglyphs in Nayarit, Mexico.It takes about 30 minutes to hike in from the last point on the dirt road. They say there are many hundreds of the petroglyphs spread across a 22 hectares. We journeyed to the heart of them to a place called the "Kings Pool" or "La Pila del Ray" and I personally took a bath in the Kings Pool. This religious site which represents ancient Science, Art and Technological symbols is currently used occasionally by the Shaman of the Huichol People to do their sacred ceremonies that keep the world in balance with the right amount of rain. The petroglyphs date back over 2000 years. This place was also Aztec once upon a time. While there, Honest Mike reads a few of the information posters along the way which make the whole site so intriguing because the symbols represent ancient shamans science, technology and spiritual beliefs. It is thought that The Apostle Matthew travelled in this area turning folks to Christians. ----- Note: The Altavista rocks were probably associated with the mythical Tamoanchan trees connecting the underworld, earth and heaven.

Broadcast of March 19, 2012: Magic Squares

The special guest for this broadcast of Pateo Radio was the Canadian researcher Raphael. His websites are Kachina2012 and AT37. In the multidisciplinary work of Raphael, the Magic Squares play a central role (click here to read a paper about this). In conversation with talk show host Johan, Raphael explains this and much more of his findings.

<http://www.pateo.nl/PateoPedia/Disinformers.htm>
about 50 people are listed here

Sacha Stone [33]: Sacha Adams-Stone likes to see himself as a New Age guru. In reality, he is working for the Jesuits. He also has a malfunctioning short-term memory, which is probably a side effect of mind-controlling him. All his projects, like New Earth Nation, the Humanidad Foundation, and the International Tribunal for Natural Justice (ITNJ), are contributing to the very opposite of what is proclaimed, as these projects are in reality all about the further enslavement of humanity. His websites are Humanidad (link), New Earth Nation (link), and ITNJ (link).
José Argüelles [6]: Joseph Anthony Arguelles [99] (1939 January 24 – 2011 March 23) was a New Age author who invented the Dreamspell calendar by altering the genuine Mayan Tzol'kin calendar. He also invented the 13 moon calendar, and the so called "Day out of Time". None of these inventions originated from the Maya. Furthermore, he asked both the pope and the UN for permission to spread his self-invented ego-calendar. Need I say more?
Michael Aquino [11]: As a former member of The Church of Satan, Michael A. Aquino (born on 1946 October 16) founded of The Temple of Set during the summer solstice of 1975. He is a victim of trauma-based mind control created by the Monarch program (link).

"When was the last time you said, I love you, to yourself? Or the last time you said you were proud of yourself? Said you were cute, smart, funny? You're with this identity for the entire duration of your existence...why not cultivate a relationship with yourself by appreciating yourself." — Children of the Tao at an hour 10m we hear his take on the saul/paul psyop in service of rome .. a rome friendly judaism .. .. strikes me the judean way of pyramidal and spikier, more piercing pinnacled is to build from the bottom, gather enough new bottom layermen and lay/liewomen around to lift the entire edifice to a new tierlevel, one remaining one ....

they sacrifice by 'natural spread', selling their female line of access to dronework / funding / liefactories ... and so in that sense yes, the top tiers seem inviolate / uninvolved .. but the program dictates a bleed/blend to the bottom layer .. the outer edges of their influence ... which can go incredibly far (off target / professed ideal / adhered to praxis, etc) and yet via the transformative power of anonymous money (gold worship basically, .. samo say mold), maintain ties; look, for instance, to the direct line of Adelson (globalist gamble industry mogul) and his pokerfacemaking Trump [talk about honest mistake to maximum suffering leverage] to the ruling party of the globalist main haunts/den/capital: israel.

likeyou.com = Philosophical Toys

The Synchronotron system was revealed to José Argüelles/Valum Votan 18 years after the discovery of the Law of Time (1989). It began with a dream initiation at the beginning of the Resonant Moon, Red Magnetic Moon Year (January 10, 2007), Kin 117. The number 441 was heard in a dream instigating an on-going process of decoding. He discovered that this 441 cube matrix is a living system of information transmission that is always occurring; the cube is being transmitted to the larger mental field of the solar system and then into the planet.

The reason why the 33:33 Matrix is called the Original Matrix of Gar, is because its fundamental sequence of 33 is coded by the 33 runes of the Anglo-Saxon Futhark set, of which Gar is the 33rd rune. This is the same rune that sits at the centre of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix. The centre of the 19:19 is a portal to the centre of the 33:33.

and that's exactly what's wrong with what i mentioned earlier today*, instead of making the center the 'holy' place where water and rock churns into each other some- and anyhow, we put a sitting human there .. director of what activity exactly .. ?????? my my, what wonderworkable wheelofsamsara-show-stopp-offer you are ...

take 2 ('ho' loads milder):

"this is the same rune that sits at the centre of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix."
would you mind alleviating my fears regarding the meaning of that rune being irreconcilable with my clear notion of what 'centering' means (derived from rainbow gathering attendance during the eighties), to wit: the 'holy' place where water and rock churns into each other some- and anyhow.

Surely you don't mean to tell me you have no and/or distract from your need for the freshest and best to be readily at hand to cover, contain and enter a mutual / complementary process with your fresh hot steamy shit .. daily??

now, performing a marriage of rock, finely powdered, made from contributions to the center and carried home, to meet match and mate, with the finest 'intimacy product' (aka turd) you can deliver daily.
--- If you have trouble with my take on 'centrality' (the fundamentals of give and take, the how to lighten, lift and grow up) see early studies at poetpiet.tripod.com

The Romeo Section mirrors Bob's observations made during his visit to the UBC in 2013. In fact, most of the locations featured in the show are on the UBC campus, close to where Chad and Angela lived, and where Bob spent most of his time during his visit.

Reporters also took note that Gillian Chung had already changed her name from ??? to ???. When asked if it was in search of marriage destined by fate, she bluntly said that was said from reporters. In fact, from beginning to end, she did not like her new name at all. However, her management company said that it would be good for her career, so she changed it. She said that she also has mixed feelings because she has already used this name for so many years. But, she also indicated that the word used in her previous name (third name change) was too refined and gentle, unlike herself.

The nine church windows at right highlight some of this process, each in its own way. The first, having a scientific angle, is by Prof. Em. Roland Omnès, published in 1999. The second is a brief essay by David Brooks, published in 2006 and complements the first article from a social and cultural perspective. In the third window, Prof. Dr. Paul de Chauvigni de Blot, SJ, discusses spirituality in business life (probably the 'hardest nut to crack' in our times). In the fourth, Marja de Vries looks at these "Times of Changes" from a longterm societal perspective. An excellent article then examines the 'halfway point in time' to 2015. In the sixth window, Aubrey Meyer explains contraction, convergence and 'stringularity'. Window 7 makes an appeal to humanity: dissolve the boundaries between the physical and the metaphysical. Our eighth church window is dedicated to Pythagoras Renewed, and No. 9 to The Natural Theory of Dealism: "21"..

Jesus: King of Edessa | The TRUE origins of JESUS CHRIST w/ Ralph Ellis ----- Russell Scott - 9K - 52,914 views .. Mar 16, 2013 ----- THE RUSSELL SCOTT SHOW - Was Jesus actually a Syrian King? What is the true identity of Josephus Flavius? What did the real 'crown of thorns' look like? In fact, one could go as far as saying that this is the interview that the Catholic Church has been dreading for the last 1700 years and may end Christianity as we know it. And this is not advertising hyperbole, this really is the end of the Christian fairytale that Jesus was a mere pauper artisan. We now know exactly who Jesus was, and he was far removed from the stereotype pauper imagery we have been told (or sold). Readers can now visit his city, see the ruins of his citadel, gaze upon his statue, and even handle his coins.

Visual demonstration using regular polygons

(Ref. 10) In 1599, Galileo Galilei tried to find the area under a cycloidal arch by comparing the weights of the generating circle and a cycloidal arch made of the same material. He conjectured that the area sought is about 3 times the generating circle, but he thought the ratio must be some irrational number and gave up his experiment.

Galileo Galilei is the person who gave the name "cycloid". --- The proof that his guess was actually correct (exactly 3 times) was given by Roberval in 1634.

my retry+ (the whole shebang below)

at the end of writing this epistle i realize the main theme is one that plays out big in our dear colleague's thought .. since the game of G0 plays out on a 19x19 fieldsboard

The Synchronotron system was revealed to José Argüelles/Valum Votan 18 years after the discovery of the Law of Time (1989). It began with a dream initiation at the beginning of the Resonant Moon, Red Magnetic Moon Year (January 10, 2007), Kin 117. The number 441 was heard in a dream instigating an on-going process of decoding. He discovered that this 441 cube matrix is a living system of information transmission that is always occurring; the cube is being transmitted to the larger mental field of the solar system and then into the planet.

The reason why the 33:33 Matrix is called the Original Matrix of Gar, is because its fundamental sequence of 33 is coded by the 33 runes of the Anglo-Saxon Futhark set, of which Gar is the 33rd rune. This is the same rune that sits at the centre of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix. The centre of the 19:19 is a portal to the centre of the 33:33. /Quote

instead of the accepted comment posted on k142 after he posted this, i now find this there:

For all the Synchronotrons out there heres some more interesting dimensional math to confirm the theory that the Synchronotron21:21 is inherent of the larger OMG33:33

Jose Arguelles defined the countdown to 2013 as :

"The measure of the first six cubes define the inter-dimensional shift:

$5^3 = 125 = 3$  Storm Year

$4^3 = 64 = 4$  Seed Year

$3^3 = 27 = 5$  Moon Yea

$2^3 = 8 = 6$  Wizard Year

$1^3 = 1 = 7$  Storm Year " ... Total = 441 "

Jose had the first impulse of the 21:21 in a dream during 1 Moon Year, 2006-07.

1 Moon year 2006/07 was 7 years before Galactic Synchronisation 2013.

This implies that Jose had the first dream within the  $7^3 = 343 = 1$  Moon Year As demonstrated in this article,  $7^3$  is the Highest Density Super Cube of the Synchronotron. It is the Infra-Cube of the Base 21:21 Pyramid Hologram.

Therefore, Jose's calculation of the countdown to 2013 in cubic density is now :

$5^3 = 125 = 3$  Storm Year

$4^3 = 64 = 4$  Seed Year

$3^3 = 27 = 5$  Moon Year

$2^3 = 8 = 6$  Wizard Year

Total = 784.

$784 = 28 \times 28 = 7 \times 4 \times 7 \times 4$

Was Jose aware of this when he released the Synchronotron to Planetary kin? on a 6th dimensional level of course, in human reality, it would appear not. Two stream become One Mighty River !>

Plot ---- White Vengeance tells the story of two brothers contending for supremacy during the fall of the Qin Dynasty, which ruled Imperial China from 221 to 206 BC. As rebels rose, the nation fell into chaos. Liu Bang (Leon Lai) and Xiang Yu (Feng Shaofeng), became leaders of the rebellious army, and also became sworn brothers in battle. Xiang Yu and Liu Bang are close friends who both serve King Huai of Chu. King Huai uses a plot, saying that whoever can subvert the Qin kingdom in Guanzhong would be the Lord Qin, in order to benefit from the competition between Xiang Yu and Liu Bang. Xiang Yu is over-confident. He fights against the main force of Qin army, and entrusts Liu Bang with Yu Ji (Liu Yifei), the woman he loves. Liu Bang expresses his love to Yu Ji and takes the chance to invade Guanzhong first when most of Qin army is outside fighting against Xiang Yu's army. Xiang Yu is furious & betrayed when he found it. Xiang planned to kill Liu at a banquet held in Hong Men, during which Zhang Liang (Zhang Hanyu), the mastermind of Liu Bang, and Fan Zeng (Anthony Wong), the mastermind of Xiang Yu, have a direct confrontation. But who will emerge as the winner from this epic battle and survive to claim their path to the crown?

in which an ancient form of chess plays a huge roll, it resembles what the dutch have had worldchamps in: dammen .. all stones are the same and the squares are just about double that of a normal chess board (a pincer move allows elimination of lined up / closed in opposing stones); at a time when leaders of many insurgent armies get together for a strategy parlay, they can't think of a more sensible way to decide who's voice counts more than that of the senior plotter, also an avid weichi player but who has meanwhile gone blind; the challenge acceptor offers to play blind .. but i don't think they go for that in the end mnemonics is the biggest money spinner but the luck factor .. and/or the synchronicity one at the other end of that spectrum .. BOTH leave the system rigid split and .. tragicomic way of putting it .. on the skits ... cause it does exactly not roll, move and dynamize that which weighs heaviest on hearts and minds, recurs both urgently and timelessly, it does NOT perfectly orb these weights to facilitate ease of movement; it cannot rituale and sacralize procession / progression in other 'weighs' than personification, substitution, serial sacrifice ... to animate means to roll them rocks ... it's a great warning to me that even a guy like arguelles apparantly never saw the point, never grasped it, .. and an even more alarming sign of trouble that Stephanie South, despite her 55 in outcome position, hasn't even shown me the first sign of courtesy of acknowledgement this late in the game, let alone more than ONCE .. and she prolly won't able to get it in one go, should she start.

BOB: Yeah, 1965. And 1965 is the date I pinpoint McLuhan on my chart. See, I have the Decad-Dance, the period from '47 to '57 is replayed by the Android Meme, and the time-point of that is 1960. Then McLuhan does '57 to '67, the satellite, post-satellite phase, and his impact is 1965. Then William Irwin Thompson is '67 to '72, not '67 to '77, because the first two were ten year things, now it's getting.... time is speeding up, so he does '67 to '72, five years. That's William Irwin Thompson, and I round him off in general in 1970, and then Kroker is '72 to '77, and I round him off as the 1980's when Baudrillard..... that scene started to have an impact. A little ahead, because the chart is effects preceding causes, so it's showing what was coming. And then me, I'm '77 to '90, and my main concentrated date, if you had to pick an arbitrary time, is 1990. Now, you point out '65, and that's relevant, we'll call that the McLuhan zone, and this is what's happening here: a key phrase in Finnegans Wake, which McLuhan spent his life translating, is 'Here Comes Everybody'.

SA: Yes. HCE. That's the parallel I was going to draw, actually.

BOB: Yeah, you knew that much, you knew that. And we'll get into your music reality because John Cage, under McLuhan's influence, did a roaratorio with the ten thunders.>

6.10.0.0 denotes harmonic 936, the passing of 936,000 (6.5x144,000) days or kin from the initiation of the cycle in 3113 B.C. In addition, 936,000 accommodates the key fractal 26 in that 936,000 = 2,600 tun of 360 days each.

Numerologically, the date 936,000 kin (9+3+6=18-1+8) equals 9, as do all factors of 9.

The greatest harmonic number, however, is 13 66 560:

13 66 560 divided by 360 = 3796 Tun (tun = 360 kin).

13 66 560 divided by 365 = 3744 Haab (365 kin = Haab, or solar year).

The difference between 3796 Tun and 3744 Haab = 52 (13x4). 52 = a "calendar round" of 52 solar years synchronized with 73 sacred calendar cycles of 260 days each.

13 66 560 divided by 72 = 18980, the number of days in a 52-year "calendar round."

A 52-year calendar round = 52x365 or 260x73.

13 66 560 divided by 73 - 18720 = 52x360 or 260x72. (Note Super Nova Assassin, the brightest SN ever was recently detected on K73) 13 66 560 divided by 9, number of the Lords of Time = 15 18 40.

151,840 kin divided by 365 = 416 vague solar years (Haab).

13 66 560 divided by 260 = 5256 Tzolkin or sacred calendar cycles.

13 66 560 divided by 2920 days = 468 Venus-solar cycles.

2920 divided by 365 = 8; divided by 584 = 5

13 66 560 divided by 37 960 = 36 cycles of 104 years; 104 years corresponds to one conjunction of the Venus, sacred calendar, and solar cycles.

13 66 560 divided by 8 = 170 820 or 468 vague solar years.

While we will go into detail later regarding the significance of some of these abovementioned cycles—the calendar round and the Venus cycles in particular—it is sufficient here to merely contemplate the amazing capacity of the harmonic 136656 to accommodate so many different factors and cyclic figures.

If we are to take the number 13 66 560 as the number of days from starting point 3113 B.C., we arrive at 9.9.16.0.0 or A.D. 631. This date is the equivalent of 3796-tun cycles of 360 days each or 3744-haab or solar cycles of 365 days each. The difference between the 3796-tun and 3744-solar cycles from the date 3113 B.C. is 52.

If we add 52 years, the number of years in a "calendar round," to the date 9.9.16.0.0, A.D. 631, we arrive at the date 9.12.8.13.0, or A.D. 683. The number of days elapsed from 3113 B.C., the commencement of the Great Cycle, to A.D. 683, is 1385540, or the equivalent of 3796 vague solar years - vague because leap-year days are not included.

first emperor of a unified China in 221 BC He ruled until his death in 210 BC at the age of 49. Calling himself the First Emperor after China's unification, Qín Shǐ Huáng is a pivotal figure in Chinese history, ushering in nearly two millennia of imperial rule. After unifying China, he and his chief advisor Li Si passed a series of major economic and i get a letter from Texas

Well, everyone I really love IS crazy. really. I mean really. because they are in tune with the other reality..like you were when I read your journal that you let me read for the first time in all your life (I feel it a high honor, at this late date) The first entry was listing off Birthday presents people had sent you.. The list was going along as planned til you got to my gift. You wrote nothing of my box of clothes which you need none of at this point, (Betty Clark having provided you with enuf hand me downs for life) but instead wrote that Piet had sent you a Happy Birthday and had found out thru the mayan calendar that you were a red Solar Serpent..and you wrote what I had told you...that I was a serpent of some kind too...(so you were not to feel alone)..When I read this, I thought my God. She's still in tune with exactly what matters most. Love. And finding Love..lost Love..elusive Love, ineffable love, love only of the imagination..burning always beyond reach in the heavens like an untennable satr..oh I meant star... maybe satr is good..what does it mean...I know you know what entropy means..but what does satr or saytre mean? please tell me...

when I lost my grasp of Piet (je)(that's his dutch nick name his mother called him) at age sixteen, when he blew thru me and my young life and then left..it was you who filled the gap the wind had blown thru my soul, with your understanding of the impossible, of love that never ends and always widens, your whole life long...

When I was sixteen I swore to my self and to you, that I would go insearch of him my whole life long, even if it took finding a perfect City to come home to...You YOU You and only you understood..and believed in me though I was made of gossamer wings invisible....

well, on your seventy ninth birthday, which was aligned with Thomas Pynchon's (author of gravity's Rainbow, a fact Pietje was adamant I relay to you) you received the news that I had found my dutchman, tied to a Tibetan prayer flag of many colors, a rainbow of colors, flapiing in the high Tibetan mountain air... triumphant...Criumphant...

Subject: the City and did I mention that I did build the perfect city, in Your house, and because of YOUR house and Its permeableness to sunlight and birdsong, music and Word. The eternal Word that IS Everything; polyvalent, infinitely porous..... mutating as it rotates on ite axis through time and space...

Building this 3 tower 21 floor Confucian edifice on a Malaysian lake began in 2009

.. and i expect to be a guest of honour there for my getting out ahead of pack sight (but in plain 'site' since 96) in matters of finetuning the list of viable 'pacifture' ingredients ... don't you agree Douglas Dietrich? You don't realize it yet, but i show what's right with the world as elaborately as you show what's wrong with it.

china's 'machismic' obsession with martial takes on manhood has turned most of it's territory to desert over the millenia ... 'it' hasn't even learned to sheath swords in stones, much less make it do something useful there. How many years have i held the mineral metabolism principles up for all the world to see now? Enough to attract some help upholding them by now ... i speculated ... a long time ago ... but a good start would be to study what John Liu has documented. A damn sight more elaborate than the few slides from the chinese village that supposedly transformed after starting adoption of and practice from your rulebook.

nope, america was and is the halfway house between crusades and WWz zionism 1.0 and 3.0 (i've been calling it 'demographic incontinence' and 'splintercontinental demograxix')

".. America was formed in rebellion to this very thing" that cruelty 'thing' was named by James Demeo although he discounted women's totally changing roles as aridification progresses; i'd simplify it though and call it 2.0, .. the halfway house between crusades and WWz .... zionisms 1.0 and 3.0 (perhaps that'll vectorize better than what i've been calling it: 'demographic incontinence' and 'splintercontinental demograxix')

A place were alternative ideas may stand on their own without the illogical biases of those who think they have the only viable way to view the world, yet hope that in the metaphysics of it all we can find certain truths and facts that stand for the benefit of humanity and the solving of our world problems.

Quasinos Beyond the Casinos = By the terms quason and quasonino (quasino) I am not necessarily suggesting particles but the principles I call this as an analogy to particle physics. Such modern speculations as well as certain religious notions help in the understanding of these abstract things as a model. It is gratifying to have such wide and deep understandings even when vague and intuitive. The poet in me likes the wordplay and restraint in their creation as some sort of minimum of the new or reduction to what is necessary. I may not find the right nuances of words nor how they are specially defined and used by others- but I can also see the beauty as well as the frustrations of communications of the vision of others such as TGD and string theories to which I can feel the excitement of their own perception as concrete that they have found and want to share in their own journeys of enquiry and realization of the unity, the intelligibility we see into surprisingly new frontiers for the body of human learning.

yeah, so far beyond them that you sees no need to reference commemorate or hindsight enlighten those who are trying to keep and/or catch up.
that's disgusting use of y'ol' poetic licence ... gggrrrrr

no 'chances', coins, and/or dice on the page either just chips (once, and a few 'changes')

With hope then that in our entanglement and debates in the marketplace of ideas the fog lifts on our adding some grains of unity to biology and physics, like living things that are even sustained in isolation, and like self evolving computer chips that dedicate part of their circuit to make antennas with witch to communicate, value a message, we search such unknowns, desire yet dread immediate challenges to our worldviews and agendas that surprise us, can support or threaten us as they come, as seems so myself, out of nowhere.

<http://resonaances.blogspot.nl/2014/05/is-bicep-wrong.html>

Is BICEP wrong?

The BICEP claim of detecting the primordial B-mode in the polarization of the Cosmic Microwave Background was a huge news. If confirmed, it would be an evidence of gravity waves produced during cosmic inflation, and open a window on physics at an incredibly high energy scale of order  $10^{16}$  GeV. Possible implications were described in detail in some 300 papers triggered by the BICEP announcement. But, among this understandable excitement, we have been aware that the signal has to be confirmed by other experiments before the discovery is established. Back then, Résonaances precisely estimated the chances of the signal being true at 'fifty-fifty'. It appears it's the latter fifty that's gaining an upper hand...

Monday, September 7, 2009 -- Origin of the Pe Sla

For those who have asked me about my chatroom nick here I explain the origin of the term Pe Sla (Lakota Souix, close to my Cherokee lineage of my grandmother, linguistically.) That is what I mean when I say I am the ghost of departed quantities, a nova as I am interested in the skies- and when first on the native american chat room to talk with my Objibway friends I was asked for a nick that came from an attribute of mine.

The savanah and then the prairie- what is above as what is below in a sense- what better way to dwell in the spirit and peace of a zen garden than that place where over some period of time beyond the quaternions of the sparks within us that we have not really confused the map with the terrain, the scalars and vectors of what is changing or invariant in our space and time.

She bends in an arch like the first of mothers, her milky way presenting and dancing in the window- first the dream then the awakening- in all this dreaming we are exhausted but are still strangers to each other, father time and mother earth.

<http://pesla.blogspot.nl/2009/09/tetraphonics-music-of-spheres.html>

Friday, September 4, 2009 ----- Tetraphonics (Music of the Spheres)

I add a supplemental image to emphasize the cycle nature of tree note forms- the minor stands as if time against the past present and future of the diminished, major, and augmented triad: Again we have the dark fluid concepts as in the galaxy formation evolution.

Another zen garden of our virtual guilty pleasures as on the PBS radio lately, the Jean Ferraca show on Earth, is the idea of Permaculture. A permanent agriculture and yet a permanent or sustained culture in itself. Yet it is not wide open evolution of the struggle or survival of the fittest but our intellect intervenes but not in the slash and burn destruction by the plow.

What then of such radical reductionism that as a Darwinian idea it does not take into account the ecological balance of things? Now wonder it cannot answer the ultimate origin of life and holds it all a matter of randomness over some history. Yet in the proteins (as per the science new activity on that chat forum) we find that just beyond our categories of extensions into the unknown without closure that the proteins themselves may arise anew from the non-coding genes (thus to make us in a sense culturally different from the apes). What can science say that will not address the real philosophy of such things? Is it not closer to some idea of the spiritual wherein maybe those who connect the emotions and the health of the genome are right after all. But if they are it is the science that becomes obsolete at a dead end after all as its growth is artificial thus less than the psychological and sociological as a basis of knowledge. This idea of a philosophy of science is more in tune with the permaculture (hey, why are so many addicted to that trivial game on facebook, Farmville, they import gifts of bananas and harvest corn- I wonder if the message instead of natural balances is one of monoculture?)

The Autiscontinuum and its Quasifinite Spectrum

<http://pesla.blogspot.nl/2015/06/the-autiscontinuum-and-its-quasifinite.html>

In the extremely trivial and replete profound act of counting the Quasic grid view for our preternatural ontological phenomenology does seem logical. The 24-ness of things may each be a center or the totality of them have no center of simple topological connections. The symplectic view moreover can be extended to higher null faults in interconnected dimensions where the 24-ness or ultimately the 384-ness in 4D is also a symplectic view so as to extend relative and absolute physics. I note the simple doubling of triads, trichords are 24 and 24 as if a shadow but over the DNA compass for any given tone center we see the 3+1 formalism between the two sets as to which is the grounding major chord and its variations. For now I call this version of the quasic plane the Autisticcontinuum as our conceptual and constructible entities as physics. (Atcm) as regarded positive and concrete. ----- Posted by L. Welcome to the 2016 Crystal Rabbit Moon Edition of the Noos-letter

If we could see our species-wide thinking layer as a sphere covering the whole planet we would see it as a faulty patchwork web, politically, religiously and ideologically divided, morally obtuse, saturated by the effects of profit-making greed - and anything but unified. It is the wildly inconsistent and incoherent play of forces within the noosphere, that perpetuates and propels the political, religious, nationalistic and corporate decision-making that shapes the everyday world. Until we truly become conscious of it, it will remain out of control and continue to wreak havoc on the biosphere. —José Argüelles

Contemplate the meaning and evolutionary purpose of the noosphere as the self-reflective mind or mental layer of the planet. ---- Contemplate what it means that we live in an interactive universe. ----Contemplate Earth as a whole system where all parts effect the whole. What thought-vibrations do we wish to emanate to the whole? -----Contemplate the relativity of our thinking and our assumptions in relation to everybody else's thinking and assumptions - and perhaps we may wish to rethink our whole program.

In the pulsar cosmology of the wavespell, the 12th position or tone, corresponding to the 12th Moon of the 13 Moon year, completes the third dimension mind pulsar that began in the fourth moon, the Self-Existing Moon of Form. This 12th position signifies the cooperation of form when we take stock of past actions and prepare future actions. You like to make it sound so "complex" and beyond the pale so you can sound as though you KNOW ALL and the others KNOW nothing.. Your attempt to sound elitist fails.. You sound schizophrenic. Only so many blocks can be stacked before the tower falls. It is the same with "conspiracies" You can only have so many connections before the idea of hidden happenings must be busted open and can no longer be viable, as the map becomes too dense. KISS is the best way to train the masses. After only a small periods of time they will self correct to the cattle shoot on their own by attacking each other with very little prompting.. It makes more sociological sense than speaking in elitist tongues or dropping made up words and terminology.>

torture in order to shut down the anti-Phariseic dissent, believed that decapitating sacrificial victims or yanking

"collective" solutions are not, .. no matter how attractive you do the uniformation and/or try to shower and sprinkle holidays and pauses to celebrate via sincro'no'meters (sinkrownometers or -newmeters', all straight from the asprie trickbag bursting with scripscrap and code) as generously as the pick up gaming of 'rainbow' family allows (which isn't very, having fumbled their colours in the colourkillerwars long before ending up on the banking wall doorstops, much less found a way to defend them there of all places). 'collective' is always a perversion of universally valid principles, applicable locally, organically and culturally as far as the lines down to filamental micro local hairroot level remain live and true to a superbly indicated border .. another concepts commies and pc liberals are equally confused, unhinged, confusing and unhinging about.

Prof. Bruno Latour - A Shift in Agency - with apologies to David Hume -- The University of Edinburgh - 21K ---- 8,103 views .. Feb 28, 2013 ----- Professor Bruno Latour delivers the Gifford Lecture series entitled "Facing Gaia. A new enquiry into Natural Religion".

Lecture 2: A Shift in Agency - with apologies to David Hume ----- Once nature and the natural sciences are fully "secularized", it becomes possible to revisit also the category of the supernatural. Then, a different landscape opens which can be navigated through an attention to agencies and their composition. Such a freedom of movement allows the use of the rich anthropological literature to compare the ways different "collectives" manage to assemble and totalize different sets of agencies. ----- Recorded on Tuesday 19 February 2013 at St Cecilia's Hall, the University of Edinburgh.

Sprechsaal Interviews ----- But who are the powerful currents flowing through the tributaries of our diverse social spaces? And at which point does deliberate agency acquiesce to the confusing indeterminism of our social matrix? A dialogical photograph can represent a mainstream slice of any society. Your greengrocer can pick out the constraints fettering an entire generation just as accurately as the playwright. The Sprechsaal interviews will investigate the limits to which we can collectively push our own individual boundaries.

Here's the abstract of an article that should appear soon in a special issue of {EME} Explorations in Media Ecology edited by Phil Rose.

ABSTRACT

Whose voice(s) can be heard today let alone confront technopoly? How can or should the sensitive, balanced, integral and perceptually equipped individual (aka the would-be critic and/or media activist) contend with the stresses resulting from the psychological effects of alienation from an irrational, decaying and vicious society and simultaneous impulse to merge with the media? This retrospective offers an exploration of how and why the early-McLuhan grappled with these concerns immediately prior to undertaking his public campaign to 'kick [media] in the guts.' This article seeks to show that self-management—the role and personae McLuhan adopted, the voice(s) with which he spoke, his survival strategies in the face of the maelstrom, and how he positioned himself in relation to his audiences—was an integral feature of his methodology, and how McLuhan's preparation for his public campaign, conducted in and through an extensive study of other artists, may serve as a viable model of necessary preparation for intelligent action.

Crystal Power in Chaco Canyon ---- Sacred Land Film Project = 1K - 161 views .. Jun 15, 2016

Beginning with the Harmonic Convergence in 1987, another sacred place – Chaco Canyon, home to ancient Puebloan villages and Great Kivas – has been overwhelmed with offerings left by New Age practitioners. While filming In the Light of Reverence in 1997, we met archaeologist Wendy Bustard, the National Park Service curator at Chaco Canyon. Park Service staff have to clear away the offerings and catalog and store everything in the Chaco collection. Bustard spent a day with us, displaying an array of New Age offerings and reflecting on why they are considered offensive by native people. Here is a scene we weren't able to include in the film.

"Tibetan Joy and Suffering" By Dezom ----- HighPeaks PureEarth - 323 - 1,000 views .. Mar 20, 2014
i had to pause this to do a long and hard think (which i shall share in a minute); it's one of my fave songs hands down ... but reading the translated lyrics of any song (for me especially tibetan ones) really degrades the charm, potency and promise (which otherwise) i can easily 'vibe' in/out/thru them 'sans mots' in light of my [spl]intercultural understanding.
But proud fact facer that i am, an explanation is in order:

Let's just say (in general now) that the idolatrous, blind devotion and vulgar preoccupations with as well as attachments to .. between any one phenom -- being/thing wether utensil or 'zerstueckelung' of them, be they numeric amassments and or speeds / magnitudes .. of primary loyalty, your weapon, your wife, your family, clan, tribe, committee [keeping pace with realmsizes and spikeyness of sociostrats .. which not everybody has the luxury to transposition into mountainpeaks in order to go for a quite radical down to earth egalitarianism in the social sense (all the feudal sins of tibetan are sino projections for the most part, not for nothing is their territory laid to waste and turned to desert; they simply couldn't let go of the martial addictions as long as they were spoilt by unbroken supplylines), you name it/them, -- and the next stage of it/them, think of bicycles vs motorcars (the tighter fits and highly nonrattly rates of 'metabolism' being deceptive about and distractive from the concomitant intolerance) ... always comes down and is driven by the willingness to a betrayal of heritage, catalyzed and aggravated of course by the fact that the way back to the first phonifying bifurcation involves deconstructing such a stack of them, with new and renewed temptations to mistake a metastatization for progress every fork of the way, .. that we might as well give up the concepts of pure genuine, sovereign 'niemand tot last' .... and all that hi falutin stuff .. were it not for the fact there ARE people like me, no matter how misperceived and mysterious to their own selves .....

Will i expose myself to Dazom's (diff spelling) words now?

What do you think?

Life and Death of Jesus. October 20th, 2013

The LIFE of JESUS This research book is to do with Jesus, his life, what led up to his being on earth and what happened to him after the crucifixion.

His coming was predicted, was prayed for by most of the Jewish people, but turned out to be, in the minds of many of his contemporaries, a fraud and not the expected one at all. To a race of people who strictly believed in their covenant with God, of his promises to them, of his punishment of them as a race when they sinned, this letdown was emotional in the extreme.

Marshall McLuhan (1970, age 59). Tribal man can't take it. "Tribal societies cannot tolerate alcohol. The literate man needs stimulants to pull himself together, privately or socially. His visual culture fragments and isolates him. The tribal man is so integral, and so involved socially, that alcohol sends him berserk. Women are in somewhat the same position. Being more integral, they need no stimulants, except a man."

Dear Dr. Horowitz: How about Tim as the Ulysses of the inner trip? Or the Homer of the electric age? Electric technology, by virtue of its immediate relation to our nervous system, is itself a sort of inner trip, with drugs playing the role of sub-plot or alternate mode. It may well appear a few years hence that the panic about psychedelic drugs relates less to the chemistry than to the hidden terrors which people feel in the presence of electric technology. It was the same with the onset of the radio age in the twenties which inspired a booze panic.

Acoustic men are inclined to be alcohol addictive . . . that is, all pre-literate societies, and also the post-literate, ourselves. It was in the TV Guide for September 15, 1973 that an article appeared, explaining the experimental discovery of the addictive character of TV as medium. Nothing to do with programs. Tim may be a martyr of this hidden addictive power of TV. Tony Schwartz in The Responsive Chord (Doubleday, Anchor book, 1973) points out that "TV uses the eye as an ear." - Best wishes, -- Marshall McLuhan

Therapy, whether physical or social, is a counter- irritant that aids in that equilibrium of the physical organs which protect the central nervous system. Whereas pleasure is a counter- irritant (e.g., sports, entertainment, and alcohol), comfort is the removal of irritants. Both pleasure and comfort are strategies of equilibrium for the central nervous system.

With the arrival of electric technology, man extended, or set outside himself, a live model of the central nervous system itself. To the degree that this is so, it is a development that suggests a desperate and suicidal autoamputation, as if the central nervous system could no longer depend on the physical organs to be protective buffers against the slings and arrows of outrageous mechanism. It could well be that the successive mechanizations of the various physical organs since the invention of printing have made too violent and superstimulated a social experience for the central nervous system to endure.

What a farce, this Eloheh co-opting. This farm may be doing good things for the indigenous, but it's only for those who put their faith in Jesus. How ironic that that profess harmony; I doubt they harmonize with indigenous who refuse to buy their belief system. I'm glad they care about the Earth and the indigenous of the Americas (which is more than can be said for much of their ilk), but they are mixing it with the very religious structure that created the problem they are supposedly seeking to resolve! Just another flavor of white supremacy. Christianity and colonizing and oppression are practically synonymous and offering Christian ministry to misplaced Native peoples while using their terms is NOT Decolonizing Permaculture.>

you are terribl.. terrAbly amiss not juxtaposing your "rivers of shit" anecdote (12th minute) with at least one sample from the plethora of perfect care taken of all humans' and indeed all beings' primary production records*; i'd even call it meanspirited ... and the sanitized pics of what happens in Palestine at this campusincamps 'undertaking' you lend your name to don't do any 'benefit of doubt' cases in your defense any good either.
iow, you are extremely ungenerous and distort the truth, * = 'compoost' (Bealtaine Cottage's term for her plastic binned version, 'fresh' vid up on that), but there's waaaay better, .. at SiebenLinden for instance, has come a long way, much of which especially the various modernismz (can you say zionism?) taboos, hides and abuses as/for the primary psycho installment setting the tone for/as the looong chain of alienation / delegation .. which you have written all over your face quite honestly, compensated by drawing attention to your voice quite succesfully. Compoost too is an expression of beauty and fundamental to soooo many others. Give yourself some credit, be brave, join a commune and have a few beautiful babies.

<http://www.aaschool.ac.uk/VIDEO/lecture.php?ID=118> ----- The psychedelic experience of the trip in the late 1960s involved an expanded time phenomenon, a sense of ones ability to dwell exponentially in time, or to experience not the sequential passing of time but accelerating rates of change. Historically concomitant both with encountering rapid technological transformations and with the emergence of a shared sense of the spatial expansion of consciousness (or planetary culture) within American counterculture, these radically transformed spacetime relations are perhaps most provocatively manifest within the early work of the architectural collective Ant Farm. This lecture will address the work of these self-professed super radical environmental activists, situating horrible .. disco beat ... tibet is doomed if it cannot create a mental and then actual bridge between what i see as a slow cultural lead up and a now urgent finishline sprint into 'radical revolution'. The scare marks alert you to peculiar take i have on that? Good. Here it is: Mineral metabolism (supply, size reduction, beginning) from on high with worldwide 'sounding' effects must, and will of course, continue .. but .. in order to be stimulated (gently & firmly) we need to be more conscious and participative. Lend a helping hand to glaciers, volcanoes and rivers.

Hey, sign me up right? Specially if it promises to be musical and rewarding to unimaginable - and until just blindly, bluntly and brutally groped for and missed missed ruined, blasphemed via tortured plagiarisms, etcetera - degrees and extents, .. right?

I only know one example of a low land civilization with great international effects before being prosecuted and put down by the next nearest empire builders (always obsessed with harvesting at the expense of gratitude and balancing with vital vitality bestowing, fundamental gifts). I am speaking about (for the umpteenth time of course) Cernunnos whose coin got washed down the opposing and amnesiac tides .. but can be restored in a single day .. and has been ever since i saw (and practiced) the meaning of minting it (mentally, mostly, .. for practical efforts consult remineralize.org biogeoloog.nl and others) and adopted the obviously in many ways most troubled profession his Reims Museum representation stood for: 'metabolism 'min[t]eralizer'.

The fate of that adoption remains undecided as yet, .. another minuscule isolated gasp ending in a whimper .. or ... the grand revival spark, .. which will mine be? i am taking a huge risk leaving it up to my readers and colleague commentarians instead of going door to door (great memories of doing that at some early teen stretch of my timeline by the way) with little samples and flyers ... in 1987 i bought a broken axle at a scrapyard to mortar pestle fresh batches along my 'rockdustivist'pilgrimage itinerary with but since then my production strategy has evolved, ... highly if i say so myself .. and that brings me back to the role i think Tibetans are better equipped to play than any other people ...

Tibetan music is of course rooted in the rhythms of hooves (imprinted from times immemorial) and i'd like to tweak their tastes and prowess towards rhythms of rocks counterturnachurning on top of and against each other for a powder that, as i hope to have made clear enough above that you are still reading as far down as this, can be stamped into the most fructificative (3.390x) coin any land (hi&low) ever saw (or just sent down the river the usual way ... great argument against dams other than temporary ones built to make a valley floor and store of just this type of freshly minted goodness of course).

Here's my powering source for (not just) powder:

2 sets of around 7 weights (perfectly rollable rock) in faintly slanted trough and/or on rails set up next to a stationary [prayermill]wheel abutting and feeding secondary hub & rim respectively (only 3 of them riding the latter at a time and by grace of the good old leverage effect practically all handled tools are based on, about 5 times as many on the former).

you think that since you are an american and therefore inherently conflicted about borders (no sense, awareness or at least little respect for them, the subsocial earmark of all zionist colonies) you deserve a free ride to pronounce on matters of state while studiously avoiding the border issue? NO no and no again. State = stand, a rock lies, or at best perches atop another, a tree stands .. and has standing if he is helped to mine the rockbottom bioborders and regain lands where their kind once had a firm grip till patrism (pure martial bluster in various tides between strangleholds and warfootings with the poison arsenals of weaponized matrisms) erodes the place literacy is child abuse and betrayal of making honest impressions (softening rock, in pretty swirly ways, to feed the soil that feeds us all, period).

i began realizing this thanks to Matt Daniels (akha.org) and the one thing i have that boastabloatbleater Bob Dean to thank for that literacy and alcohol are the perversion of rock and water. I ask you, which goes together best and how do you make a pleasant offering and return gift of your daily primary product without making the right choice here?

Enough of this make believe privacy thru literacy bunk, it's bonkers! Hasn't the prophet McLuhan (PBUH) taught you anything? If Jesus had written stuff it would be something like this.

2019: and here pauses a ja session covering most of the last few days ... reflecting on time spent crying over what i did not have, don't have and prollly can't have .. at least not this turn around .. versus time spent making the best of what i do have (lots and lots, statistically speaking) i wonder about surfing zuvuyaya yoyos ... a sport i never got far with to my great frustration ... realizing that crystal moon ends 3 days after this point with a powerkin i am not suprised this was the longest contiguous theme complex focus to date ... danke für deine klaren Worte! Hi TMQ... Sister poker aficionado here... don't play much anymore (never online!!!) but I enjoy the game :) I am KIN

129, part of KIN 022 (S ace) team covering Galactic 21 and 22 (and it's only thanks to him I even know of you), although I have to say having (re)discovered 'all' of this only around my Kin last November I remain a neophyte at best and haven't had too much input ~ any noted synchronicities are more of a personal nature ~ not too helpful for the blog. I've been feeling the urge to make personal contact for some time now, though, so what better moment than the double Crystal eve of this powerful Full Moon that coincides with the completion of the Warrior's Cube Journey and the Red Moon WaveSpell? Very much appreciate and enjoy your blogs, dear one. Red Crystal Moon

if i were the choreographer i would dig a trench for the full 3 meters between the pillars but right next to them and as much again to one side for a wheel with that diameter, or mount it 3 meters high on pillars twice as tall as visible, then have a pair of slightly 'off parralel' tracks between them loaded with half hoop size rockspheres going from rim to hub and back in continuous cycles [let's call it rotolever or leverwheel] until maintenance break. Mankind (kindmen, wombkinmen) can make sense, money and lots of dust ... but can they integrate and harmonize these??? Acts like yours could be cakecherry to those but as things are and it is, they distract and distort more than they hint and rebusmime (like tibetan prayerwheels), at least in the eyes of all except me (none other that i know of at this time) who hardly needs constant reminding ... that's why i pass it along.

This review inspired by Remains of the Day - a review of the book Aristocrats - by a Jewish journalist - does a great job giving the real context of this class warfare based on racism.

here's proof that it pays to keep returning to this oddball:

So this final moment of Remains of the Day simply works to prop up the class hierarchy as the defining status of subjectivity - the "I" as a logical pronoun only has self-referential status in the absurd circular logic that does not properly process time. As Gregory Bateson pointed out - the paradoxes of logic in the West are due to the language inability to process time properly. So he called for a "syllogism of metaphor" based on systems theory mathematics which would hopefully usher in a unification of Nature and Mind of humans. In reality it simply worked to increase automated efficiency for the global technocratic Westernized dystopia.

my criticism of this kind of stuff has been robustifying since day 1 culminating in leaving hints like this lately:

we need to learn to roll heavy weight a short distance, onto the rim of a wheel, using their leverage to lift a multiple of them already rolled backt to the hub to make the process continuous and harvest the surplus; it's the necessary complement to all of this symbolic spin you all get stuck on if you ask me.

Atlanticism, Eurasianism, Giant Robots, and Space Vampires --- February 26, 2016

So, for our weekly anime night, yesterday a couple of my friends and I watched the first few episodes of Valvrave the Liberator. When it came to the descriptions of the two large rival nations, Dorssia (the "Space Nazis Prussians"<sup>1</sup>) and ARUS ("Space America"), which our protagonists' small country (basically "Space Japan") is caught between, I couldn't help but be reminded of the geopolitical theories of Aleksandr Dugin and the neo-Eurasianists' concept of the conflict between 'Atlanticism' versus 'Eurasianism':

Two time-honoured opposite spheres of life – trade and warfare – are confronting each other. The Atlanticist civilisation of merchants is challenging the continental or Eurasianist civilisation of heroes. The former civilisation implies commercialisation of life, whereas its continental counterpart has manifested itself in militarisation of life... Just another example of the odd places my brain goes sometimes, I guess. 1. In the grand tradition of Legend of the Galactic Heroes's Galactic Empire and Gundam's Principality of Zeon.

i subbed to her yesterday and thought about commenting but dismissed it. let me recall what went thru my head:

who says the hadiths aren't exactly like the bible ... the literate falling all over themselves to add blood, gore, threat and grudge for a nigh on a millenium, bloat a work that is in essence savant and bloodless* to the point of neartotal obscurity whereas the original/kernel focuses on 'machinic' patterns (in fact regular and dependable phenomena ... so much so that they are furthest from fathomable as to their lifespan, in other words, a happy medium between timeless and timely - bitter irony)

That kernel would be closer to what i thought of the other day as a 'perpetual abacus' than a ration rationelle / distribution / weighting key ... growing ever more abstract as the rulers (kop van juten) become more disengaged, estranged and further away from the yearning

i remember now ... it was eric wijnants supposedly ... which is the pseudonym??? in other words, the judaism people (with lots of undigested and burdensome bits inherited from the ones traumatized by a return to babylon [muffled away in the talmud] ... remember abraham was the expat from there) spawned / triggered a reaction (2 major ones, the neighbouring / leanto monotheism .. that be the calendriCoreActions which our friend Schiller friend traces all the way thru the bible to the maya WITHOUT emphasizing, like Arguelles does, or even making/taking note of the Islamic phase / synchronization / part in the sacralization of counts with all it's ramification to consensual justice and regularity of provision)

<http://thejuniverse.org/PUBLIC/LinearAlgebra/LOLA/geomVect/calc.html>

By using the commutative rule and associative rule over and over, we can add any number of vectors in any order. There is a useful visual representation of the sum of three vectors which shows this: a generalization of the parallelogram rule called the parallelepiped rule.

A parallelepiped is a three-dimensional solid with all of its faces parallelograms. Suppose we have three vectors which don't all lie in a plane. Place them all tail-to-tail and make them into the edges of a parallelepiped, as in the diagram.

If we use the parallelogram rule to find  $u + v$  and then the triangle rule to find  $(u + v) + w$ , we get a vector from one corner of the parallelepiped to the opposite corner. We could have started with any other pair of vectors; the result will still be the same vector between the two opposite corners.

In other words, the sum of three vectors not all in a plane is the diagonal of the parallelepiped they form.

all very clever but i fundamentally distrust and disapprove of riding the individualization, privacy and internality stimulating, then metastatizing effects of literacy so unquestioningly. This atomization process .. renewed by the abusers of newage crowbars like lsd, the canners and consumerizers of music who prod, herd and goad us into the sterility of code and headgames ... to be bundled and weaponized by same, socioparasites who are driven by desertification memes and drive them the world over.

for instance, the pragmatic nuts and bolts meaning of noah was: floodplains are the most fertile most diverse and so, very zoolike ... to keep it that way one must not block the fecundating inundations (building dykes etc) but build and live in boats wherein valuables can ride the temporary tides up and down.

I have very similar insight regarding wheels, cycled weight driven ones.

Yes, Argüelles made a terrible mistake and in a sense it may be so big that many have a hard time believing that he actually committed it. But maybe Dreamspell started out innocently, simply as a game, and then became a dogma and presented by its teachers and followers as a legitimate Mayan calendar. People yearning for a connection to the Mayan calendar would take Argüelles calendar seriously at a time when he commanded a lot of prestige and the real alternative was unknown. Then, he found himself captive of the false calendar he had created and there was no way he could retract. We will never know.

Today, Dreamspell leaders and their followers all over the world should however take responsibility themselves regardless of what the motives and intentions of its creators were. This means facing the truth squarely rather than just continuing the old personality cult, which truly belong to the old paradigm. We are living in a time when many are beginning to see the hidden agendas of society at large, but ironically when such things appear within alternative communities such as the Dreamspell many turn a blind eye and do not face it. It is however important to let newcomers know about the origin and nature of this calendar, so that they can make an informed choice about what they are getting in to.

To have a meeting to discuss the creation of a calendar of the future based on the true Mayan calendar sounds like a good idea. I think the time may also have come to start discussing a new world calendar without a hidden agenda. Let me know what you suggest.

Eschatology seems to me like logic pushed to the envelope limit, to say, every other kind of logic is okay relative to its shaky premises.

The old guy talks slow but his brain is engaged in low, 4WD gear for high traction.

The essential idea is that Judeosatanism is a snake with epochal shedding of skin as it slithers toward its appointed goal (rough beast slouching toward Bethlehem to be born), it first infested United Kingdom after having gutted its Christianity in Cromwell's time, grew to bursting engorged on wealth resulting from destruction of nations in Napoleonic wars, fueled the world conquest by ensuring the global primacy of the pound sterling, WWI+II represented shedding the Crown skin and infesting a new host, the U$A, same thing on a grander scale and is now at the stage of dumping it too in favor of One Jew World currency and total, unquestioned supremacy, all the post-Nixon US and lesser satellites presidents and legislatures having signed off on Noahide obedience. Only one fly in remains in ointment – Russia – the sudden death playoff. I hear the distant thunder rolling closer, no more pussyfütting.

I have said it many times in previous posts that I only role play the "sex offender" and I have done this for the reason that it is true that there is what is called "sex-offendor- hysteria" which started during the years when Bill Clinton became Sex-Offendor-In-Chief of the United States.

I am speaking of hysteria which has manifested as a psychological illness in America having nothing whatever to do with actual sex offenses which occur.

I have discovered role play of the "sex offender" to be an indispensable part of my work because it is true that I sit in various coffee shops and restaurants around town for hours at a time observing people and then writing of my impressions in connection with the ideas of Gurdjeff.

It is because of this "observation" activity of mine that I appear like a predator, which I am not.

states that the more time people spend 'living' in the television world, the more likely they are to believe social Mayan Tzolkin Calendar -- Timothy Rabbit - 36 -- 371 views .. Dec 11, 2013 -- Carlos Barrios has put forward the Mayan Tzolkin Calendar (as an energy table) for humans to follow. This starts at 1 Monkey and ends with 13 Dog to cover the 260 Day Count. The usual understanding of the Tzolkin is starting at 1 Crocodile and ending on 13 Sun, but this equates to the Calendar for the growth of corn according to Barrios. Here Timothy Bleasdale has taken Carlos Barrios Energy Chart and put on the Galactic Activation Portals as well as the hidden KEYS to form a new Tzolkin Calendar starting with 1 Monkey.

204 is a refactorable number. [1] 204 is a square pyramidal number: 204 balls may be stacked in a pyramid whose base is an  $8 \times 8$  square. [2] Its square,  $204^2 = 41616$ , is the fourth square triangular number. [3] As a figurate number, 204 is also a nonagonal number [4] and a truncated triangular pyramid number.
Both 204 and its square are sums of a pair of twin primes:  $204 = 101 + 103$  and  $204^2 = 41616 = 20807 + 20809$ . The only smaller numbers with the same property are 12 and 84.

The last words are reserved for authentic Akha voices coming from behind the walls of separate prisons in Thailand:

"Matthew is one of most confused person I ever know, actually I never know him as person. So it is ashamed and sad that he used the Akha for his own benefit. I tried to asked many Akha villages about Matthew's project, but no one seems to know any thing about him." (sic) Dated 9th September 2011

"Yes, I have got a letter from Matthew McDaniel on last 12th Oct. It's the first letter. Anyway, I won't reply him because I don't understand any of his Akha new alphabets... As Jose Arguelles well put it years ago: "The two counts actually constitute a Prophetic Alliance". This "Prophetic Alliance" was sealed in sacred ceremony precisely on December 21st, 2012 ~KIN 207 12Hand at Palenque, Chiapas, Mexico and constituted the "Climatic Event" of the "Closing of the Cycle Ceremonies", where Mayan elders led by Grandfather Don Marzo Yuk Quetzal from the Maya Lacandon tradition, embraced the unification of the Mayan Long Count with the 13 Moon Synchronometer in fulfillment of the prophecy of Pacal Votan. Drew

Meanwhile Dr. Reiser's work is published in the Sri Aurobindo Ashram newsletter and Sri Aurobindo's students propose that the future body of humanity will be radioactive (Letters on Yoga III). The Music Logarithmic Spiral is published in the journal "Darshana International."

The problem with Dr. Batra's vision is that the CFTC tried to regulate derivative speculation - as exposed in the amazing documentary - The Inside Job. Watch Inside Job doc here.

It was made in 2010 but still not on youtube! Dang - Inside Job is still the best expose on the conspiratorial ponzi pyramid scheme that cost working people $10 trillion dollars!!

July 5, 2016 --- Dr. Harold Grandstaff Moses, the conspirachi of infinite Perfect Fifth harmonic healing

It's very strange that I get this message to look up Christina Donnell who turns out to teach her Transcendent Dreaming and "deep seeing" meditation just down the road by the town near the forest I live next to. The journal she links then has her article, plus an article by the original qigong master and then an article by a Harmonic Healer new to me - focused just like me on the Perfect Fifth!

drone dude Drew likes:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HyANf6NwZVQ>

Well so Dr. Harold Grandstaff Moses gets the Perfect Fifth but still promotes the fractal stuff. Oh well.

Still he's not promoting any special frequency but instead the natural harmonics!! Rock on!

So I think he had some kind of insight to the truth of harmonics. This is a rare discovery. Simple yet very powerful.

So then Dr. Harold Grandstaff Moses says the "divine plan" means the "stars are not exploding anymore." Hmm.

Very interesting! haha. I wonder if that's some Alice Bailey thing.

Drew's latest:

The actual Matrix plan is the inherent structural drive of the musical-mathematical spiral being quantified into a circle by Plato. The music logarithmic spiral is the basis for resonance science and is applied to genetics, chemistry, physics, astronomy, etc. throughout the work of Dr. Reiser. Top ivy-league scientists published technospiritual academic research for the theosophist journal, started by Fritz Kuntz, Main Currents in Modern Thought.

One of their top writers was Yale physicist Henry Margenau (see "Negotiating the Boundaries of Science and Religion: The Case of Henry Margenau", in Zygon, Volume 34 Issue 1, March 1999 by William A. Durbin). Here's how the Union of International Associations (1976) describes Julius Stulman's role:

The World Institute Council, largely through its president, Julius Stulman, has contributed since 1949 to a number of activities associated with integrative education, such as the journal Main Currents in Modern Thought, and more recently the Institute's own journal Fields within Fields within Fields.

The World Institute, proposed in 1949, is envisaged as a scientific institute devoted to research and action for the integrated human and economic development of the world.

Such New Age luminaries launched by Main Currents in Modern Thought include Dr. Jose Arguelles (who went back forth to the University of Chicago (Platonist stronghold) and was teaching at Princeton in 1967 where the World Institute was chartered), Dr. Fritjof Capra, Ken Wilber, and Willis Harman, author of the CIA-Freemason-S.R.I. report, "Changing Man's Future."

why not another dutch expression: 'wat je ver haalt is lekker' meaning: what comes from afar is great / fascinating / tasty / what the doctor ordered .. etcetera (the VOC profit seeking motive among still others, so avidly and impiously worshipped in Holland even now, totally discounting the armament component of that 'firestarter' - talk about hiding your light under a Bu[ll]shoaks canopy shadiness) .... never, even at the advanced stage of really really being proven faulty, biased and incomplete, this prevailing 'welcome culture' sentiment (symptomatic for very tough circumstances indeed - see Cabeza de Vaca's pilgrimage thru the bottom part of turtle isle in the ?? 15hundreds? Notably, how his following swelled and dwindled according to the neediness of destinations) /interlude ... in other words what we have here is a typical inversion / schiz'ion of reality: MOST 'REFUGEES' are in fact and have always been 'COLONISTS' (some of the latter hiding their true aims and status behind insistence on and stolen identity of the former).

gAR: Pakal ascended 666 years after Christ's First Stone year in 18-19AD. .... The 19:19 Solar Sequence synchronises with the OMG33 via the 3:3 Hyper Matrix. There are 40 times 9 units in the 3:3 Hyper Matrix. Each year, the sequence traverses the outer circuit of the 33:33 Matrix. The outer circuit of the OMG33 Hyper Matrix is a fractal of the 11:11 Inner Matrix of the 19:19.

Through this NEW code we find that Pakals ascension code into the OMG33 Cube is G8. Heart of the Sacred Mountain. You can learn about these counts in the NEW solar journal. OMG33 Pyramid Ascension

The OMG33 Pyramid Hologram is a condensed cubic time container of 6545 cubes of 19,635 years, the ascension of which occurred on v19.17, July 18th.

This is the same day the Alien Christ crop circle was manifested. Mirroring Pakal's ascension, it synchronises by the 3:3 Hyper Matrix code of G8, Heart of the Sacred Mountain.

re: 'flow around the riverrocks' yeah, atlanticist style groundings do stop short at water don't they? They see no need to reach out to rock, let alone into rock unless there's pricey 'rare earth' to be had for their deliriously toxifying, to sell under names they have to shed ahead of this reputé catching up as vigilantly as they guard their schizoid mobility and precious privacy (whenever possible, numotionally spiked literacy effect) fetish.

The watery waves, phashions, and fascions are the atlanticist and newswager's preferred medium of transport, dumping grounds vector and dilution faith medium, .. this includes the pheeling phronts .. peptalk / adworld / figure/ground switchbait .. tortured to phalsify and phake firmer flaggage such as i showed on the Blabsabs file since 2000 (waaay prior to JA's earth core variant of octahedronal spin potential harnessing) and under my 'fullname' at GalacticSpaceBook.

But hey, why don't you go on ignoring it, make your herd pheel you reliably deliver the rotes they value/buy you for and from you, depend on you for?

Why think of all the heavy lifting needed to get water in touch w rock enough to phorm soil's prequel and sound hygiene basis to/fo/as deepest intouchness if you get keep leaving that up to the most primordial of terrestrial phorces in play?

I'll tell you why:

cause they are strangled, suffocated, amputated, blocked, mocked and sacriligiously co-opted, robbed of their operative principles to present them as anthropic pecking order spiking mass management tools.

If the mountain milk 'production' / manifestation -- that steadies delta lives via flood refreshments (if 'rainboats' are things to live these floods up, down and out in instead of the sterile starvation via dykes and dams) -- is emulated, imitated, helped out, fallen in step with as high up as possible, so that the moral obligations and practical opps do not get held back, build tensions, fester and then burst into reality too late and low down as megadams, 'philling' of which makes their first set of victims waaay before said 'mineral goodness cut-off' slowly, as now along the MeKong, threaten millions of lives according to that same atlanticist formula which has infected even the gentlest of peoples, then all may become well be, and some of the likes of you may look back at your 'everything is perfect' superstition as an embarrassing bias.

Long cycle divination tempts to spacializations that supplant, oust, displace and murder the micro aspects and much more feminine, intimate and modest ingredients of assurance.

Gar is a good example but i have an entirely different interp for the native american headgear crowning the classic alien glyph here: Crop Circles 2016 - Reigate Hill, Reigate, Surrey, UK - 19th July 2016, to wit, something i first noted well before 2000 in my 'priority issues', and that is: in the nineties already, the Amsterdam 'American Bookstore' (and i am sure elsewhere) decimated the volume of those about first nations .. in favor of the ones mushrooming around the alien hype and fashion. Only 10 years later did i learn the extent of the psyop behind all this, for which i refer to Douglas Dietrich's accounts of how the battle of LA relates to the 'alien' status of asians, etcetera.

But never mind, ... i'm sure that'll come easy to ya ...

Perhaps the most famous formation to appear at Stonehenge was back in 1996, when a Julia Set fractal was spotted in the field opposite the famous monument. The 1996 formation was simply huge and measured 915ft along its spine, made entirely from circles of differing circles, there were 151 circles in total. The 2016 formation was not of the same magnitude, but it did appear on the same date, exactly 20 years since the famous Julia Set of 1996.

This formation measured approximately 160-180ft in diameter and was in a field of still green wheat. The central motif is a seven pointed star and crescent. There are seven diamond shapes in the centre of the star then there is a wide ring enclosing the design. Inside this ring are two rows of standing box shapes, 73 in the inner ring and 82 in the outer ring. All in all, it is a very pretty design.

Geometry Gallery

This formation presents some serious challenges for those attempting to draw it with compass and straight-edge. The central star and crescent moon might be considered straightforward when compared to drawing the squares in the outer ring. This formation is on the drawing board, but it's going to take some time!!!

Update: The pencil line is almost complete – see images below – but there is still some fine adjustments to be made. This formation was not as perfectly rendered in the field as it is in my drawing, but to understand the geometry of any formation one has to look at what is implied as well as what is manifest. Therefore this is not about correction, but an idealisation to see what is going on. Drawing the squares in the outer ring was every bit as complex as I thought it would be, there are 73 on the inner ring and 82 on the outer ring – and no seeming relation between the two. So each ring had to be rendered separately with the 360 degrees of the ring first divided by 146 ( $73 \times 2$ ) and then by 164 ( $82 \times 2$ ) to create the standing squares and then the spaces between each one. The standing sections right in the centre of the formation were fashioned from the crossing lines of construction of the seven-fold star and as there is no whole number solution for dividing 360 degrees into seven, it was tricky enough getting them to look even on the drawing board, never mind working at a scale of the crop circle in coarse wheat!

<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2016/stonehenge/comments.html>

There are 73 or 82 “small squares” in the two outer borders of this crop picture, which add to 155 in total.

Karma for the 10 of Clubs - Vacillation of Values

The greatest success for the 10 of Club lies within the mental realm. This is also considered the Moon Card; known to astrologers as the emotional mind. Mental strength, assuredness, and will power are the trademarks of those born under this high card, as well as blind ego, and cunning.

Ten of Club people are often suspicious of others, and demand loyalty from friends and family. They are known as task-masters within the family, and feel they are deserving of that title. They are afraid of being judged, and are insecure on a very deep level.

All 10's of Club like to work, and for those instilled with a good sense of values early in life, success is theirs for the taking.

Qigong, the ancient Chinese healing practice, has seen a revival in popularity of late, becoming one of the latest fads for celebrities. Although a number of pseudo-qigong masters have been revealed as frauds, losing much of their appeal with the public, their celebrity fan base appears to be more loyal than most.

The devotion of prominent personalities to their masters came to light recently when photos surfaced of Ma Yun (Jack Ma), the billionaire founder and ex-CEO of the Alibaba Group, visiting Wang Lin, a self-proclaimed qigong master from Pingxiang in Jiangxi Province. The reaction online was one of shock that such a successful entrepreneur could fall prey to a charlatan like Wang.

There was further consternation when other celebrities such as actor Jet Li and actress Zhao Wei also became guests of Wang Lin.

To me Postulate 10.12 is half the story, about fruit and not about root; it waffles about a restauration program as the social glue towards reharmonization, repair of 'instepfall' with synchronic orderlies ... like my late mom ... kin 90 [???

Harmonic rearrangement of the synchronic order is prerequisite to the creation of the circumpolar rings and the restoration of the interplanetary flux tube system. Restorative chromatic functions of time are social as well as telepathic or mental functions. Conscious restoration of the biosphere creates a harmonic social order whose fourth-dimensional patterns resemble the harmonically rearranged organic order.

The Talmud is the sleazy substrata of a religious system gone terribly astray

And I say, The Talmud is the sleazy substrata of a satanic system gone terribly according to plan. And it is the best definition of this unholy den of vipers known as Jews; everything evil, filthy, depraved, perverted is their substance, they roll and wallow in it, they breed it generationally into their genes so that at some point they may truly claim some sort of ethnic or racial identity, a genotype and phenotype that alerts one's jewdar. They are born into the breeding program like horses are born into racing stables and though some have the strength to pull themselves free of this quagmire of vice, most cannot and sink ever deeper into it. This is Talmud and its biomass. Talmud (and its "spiritual" predecessor) never had anything in it that was sufficiently good to be twisted or could go astray, it was that way from the word go. So this is where I hit a wall of sorts, what mind conceived such a program, i simply cannot picture some neanderthal camel humper with this comprehensive understanding and sophistication, so that even in the time of Jesus they already had an excellent grasp of banking and financial mischief, those temple moneychangers were every bit as sharp as Madoff or Nathan Rothschild. I think that the entire ministry of Jesus had one sole purpose: to vaccinate the world against this disease. And by and large he seems to have failed, even though some macrophages are still in business, still fighting the battle - we are the proof.

The Shadow Circus : CIA in Tibet

Between 1957 and 1969 the CIA armed, financed, and helped train Tibetan guerrillas who operated first inside Tibet, and later -- after the Dalai Lama's escape to India in 1959 -- from a base in Mustang, a remote corner of northwestern Nepal. This project, code-named ST Circus, was one of the CIA's longest-running covert operations. The withdrawal of the CIA's support in 1969 was as abrupt as its initial involvement was unexpected.

This is where this theory falls apart. And why people can't respond except with "I'm awake"... The transformation of metals to make machines = you need a larger planet or tree to make a machine capable of cutting this level. And to float for n space = not worth it. It's like saying: OK, we just built a boat larger than our ocean, let's fly to Mars and drop it on a small puddle... "

2: Working on mines = huge wastes of machines. replacing heads, friction of parts coming off. Food for workers, machine maintenance... always discarded... where are the discarded pieces...

in fact, I was following the tree theory (even tho he ignores water sources lol) but this ruskie can't sell me mining. I think it's a creative view, but nuclear war on ancient mining aliens is where it all falls apart. He also forgets lava tubes, the lack of roots in his tree theory. And so much more.

classic case of what YouTube education is: mostly creativity and imagination + dash of facts + dash of troll.?

+nanobopally hydrated materials under huge pressures ... isn't that the recipe for spectacular crystallization? And yeah, water action can leave scapes that look as if mined.

BTW, i have a red thread running thru my multipronged advocacy work: help rock take to water and vice versa (resolving polarity productively is easy: tackle a primary one and get ready to be awed by growth factors 'out of this world').

THREE CHEERS FOR CULTURAL DEGRADATION, 6/22/2016

Nineteenth-century America was fond of the trope of "the melting pot" in describing the process by which immigrants became Americans. We of the Whole Foods generation who actually know and have made backyard compost heaps would characterize this process as one of transforming garbage into soil. Egg shells and oranges are transformed by processes that are both anaerobic and oxidizing.

And so it is with traditional cultures in America. Shtetl Jews become suburban reform Jews, and shanty Irish Catholics become indistinguishable from High Church Episcopalians. Nineteenth century American nativists feared that the hordes of ill-educated Irish would outvote them and that the Pope would be running and ruining our country. But President Obama went to Harvard and not Howard, and JFK went to Harvard and not Notre Dame. And it was Harvard once more for the first Jewish Chief Justice Louis Brandeis.

In the nineteenth and twentieth centuries White Protestant USA absorbed not only Irish Catholics and Central European Jews, but it found itself being led by them. The intelligentsia of New York was overwhelmingly Jewish, and when I lived in Manhattan I found myself using more Yiddish phrases than Gaelic ones.

So it's time for us all to relax about Mexicans and Muslims, and for the Republican Party to "Dump Trump!" at their convention. Let the American compost heap begin to work on Islam, and like Zen Buddhism with the Beats in the 1950s, allow the Umah to become fertile and transformative in our rich American soil.

Cultural degradation is perfectly natural. And though people of my generation (born 1938) may wince at a Hip Hop version of the Founding Fathers in the immensely popular Broadway musical Hamilton, I have to admit that I did not wince at Gershwin's mix of jazz and classical, nor did I criticize Jimmy Giuffre or Shorty Rogers when I met them in LA in the fifties at our mentor Wesley La Violette's home when Rogers was working on a piece for jazz and classical symphonic orchestra to be performed at the Hollywood Bowl.

So here's to a new global Islam in which, the Hajib is refashioned by Hermès and Gucci and the kissing cousins of the Abrahamic religions stop killing one another.

32nd minute: fruit tree hose slot array with labels next to the washing machine .... that's how close the stank gets to the flavor around close circuits here guys ... such a rainbow vibe this guy ... now if only he was into untangling cultures for better [p]rematch choices ...

unrecorded demonstrations of what he learned from Cernunnos, 'siltcoin' deeply, wholly and firmly invested in soilbanks (touch doooooOWN!!!!) and the capitalist interpretation RE gives in the 53rd minute, Remote folklore, remote societies are being abstracted from their matrix and enlarged by microscopic vision.

Vivisection inspection of all modes of our own inner-outer individual-social lives makes us acutely sensitive to all inter-cultural and inter-media experience.
Each culture, each period has its bias which intensifies, distorts some feature of the total social process. The bias of our culture is precisely to isolate the bias of all others in an effort at orchestration. Social connubial?
The anthropologist is a connoisseur of cultures as art forms.

The student of communications is a connoisseur of media as art forms. An art form is the manifestation of a huge preference for one mode of experience. Asked what music he liked, Mozart said: "No music." Artists are not consumers.

Communications has emerged as a necessary object of attention in the 20th century, not because it's new, but because it's that portion of the social organism now undergoing elephantiasis. To reduce this unwieldy growth is going to require great surgical attention and skill. Our age is an esthete of the methodologies of all other ages.

i see you haven't kicked you bad foolish boast habit ..

'end of time' is not "now" buddy, it's the mere favoring of visual space over time is all (then pretending this ends the latter, hah!); it's an imperialist expansion trick. I thought you were up on McLuhan. A much much earlier incarnation of the usury prohibitions were the suspicions cast on number jugglers, fractioners of the commons and equal shares, perped to favor the few over the many as pop density and division of labour 'afforded' evil savantry weaponizers to spike (and sharpen) the sociostrata. If they clad their numbers in and/or covered them with metaphor and name filled yarns to prove their superiority to themselves, escape prosecution .. all the more reason to put an end to allowing these 'disgrounders' to construct and pull up drawbridges in front of their loot .... which resembles the switchbait and bootstrap treatment of the usual figure/ground analysis; not satisfied with 'merely' playing shadowfigure games but ground must be tackled and hoisted into the realm of figures to bolster the pretense of not being cut off in the act of cutting up and off.

Nobody does this more zealously than the totally disgusting egotist Bob 'Dobbs' (paraionica media on vimeo is only the latest of his rapeshifting adresses) .... dippin & divin into dizzying depths of delusion, fueled by ice cream .. while his wife carolyn dean supposedly lost her medical licence agitating against ego deliriae's prime fuel: sugar ... go figure.

tacked onto this (at 5 to 8):

marty, the end of the 30th minute (where i paused to pen this) is going to be tragic if what i bet will fail to happen: you will be quick and would be remiss not .. to caution against the o so "fascinating" and "pleasure" bestowing "study of symbols" in the same sentence and breath .... i did so most recently here:

Kroker:

McLuhan could be so ambivalent on the legacy of the technological experience because, following Hans Selye and Adolphe Jonas, he viewed technological media as simultaneously extensions and auto-amputations of the sensory organs. The paradoxical character of technological media as both amplifications and cancellations was, of course, one basic theme of Understanding Media.

While it was no part of the intention of Jonas and Selye to provide an explanation of human invention and technology, they have given us a theory of disease (discomfort) that goes far to explain why man is impelled to extend various parts of his body by a kind of autoamputation.

well, i guess i'll be apprised of dennis miller in due time if he really does anything to do with what i am trying ... pity you can't make it all the way to levers and 'points', let alone pivots thereof but weave back and forth to time instead ... trying to rope it in after all sorts of betrayals, turn it into ammo ... kinda like the EU / US dynamic .. and the true each to 'other' figure X 'ground' dynamic ... you really are my stupidest student son.

I'm honestly not too surprised at this after hearing his conversation on the group call I talked about. One of the group, Omni, used to be into conspiracy theories and majik and aliens but later saw what it was doing to people and got himself out of it. He was honestly trying to help Jack (Elora's now Ex-boyfriend) when they were talking and Jack did actually take down the video with the paedophilia/murder accusations in it after it became clear that Elora and another person told him to make the video as well as what to say in it and were just using him as a pawn to get at Omni.

It might be optimistic but I hope he's distancing himself from all this shit, dumping Elora was a good first step.

Obviously, the hospital visit didn't take. She needs to go back, but long-term care facilities are very expensive in this country, and few insurance companies will pay for more than 3-4 days at the most. Plus, getting someone committed is very difficult, and unless you can prove that they are an imminent danger to themselves or others, forcing someone to take meds is likewise an uphill battle. She clearly has someone caring for her, because she's groomed, and fed, and someone's paying the bills to keep a roof over her head and the lights and internet on. If she is married or has a partner like we thought, then her SO is an angel who's taken human form. They have no doubt tried, many times, to get her to take her meds and go to therapy, but like I said, that's difficult. So whore? No. Not even close. Not like you care but I don't even have social media. I have a damn google plus page. Hillary James-Halbisen. Look at that before you call a broken woman a whore who was being nice to you. All the fucking way down at the bottom the first post.

I don't know why I'm drawn to you. You seem cool that's all. I don't judge you so who are you to judge me? Not everyone is an evil whore out to fuck you over. But whatever. Bye then.?

The Canon of Lespugue by Ralph H. Abraham and William Irwin Thompson -- As mathematics has evolved from astronomy and music, we may regard archaeoastronomy and archeomusicology as the foundation stones of archeomathematics. And these two foundation stones were eventually combined in the idea of the music of the spheres, in which the zodiacal constellations were mapped onto the tone circle of the twelve-tone chromatic scale. This development goes back to the Pythagoreans, 400 BC, at least. (See Part III of Godwin, 1987. See also Mountford, 1920.)

This paper is an exercise in archeomusicology, demonstrating the existence of the arithmetic mentality long before the beginnings of the riverine cultural ecology.

Case Of California -- by Laurence A. Rickels

3.38 · Rating Details · 8 Ratings · 1 Review

Focusing on the changing image of the West Coast through such varied social and cultural artifacts as bodybuilding, group therapy, suicide cults, milk-carton images of missing children, teenage slang, and surf music, Laurence Rickels offers a dizzying psychohistory of the twentieth century as crystallized in the symbolic configuration called California and considered in relation to German modernism, national socialism, and Freudian psychoanalysis. Rickels uses a lot of wordplay and his style and substance drew me in when I read 'The Vampire Lectures', but this one was a lot harder to follow, although I glimpsed enough to get that at least sense was being made that was worthwhile, even if I only perceived it partially. Let me reiterate that 'The Vampire Lectures' is one of the best books I've ever come across and absolutely rocked my world when I imbibed it, so I have faith in Rickels' reasoning, this book might be just a little too obscure for me in some places, though I sloughed through it and got out of it a good amount. Elora Snow ..... that stupid year old vid i flipped thru .. they're doing these things every day now the gif says #15 but google brought me to 18

marty vid, ----- Dear Claire,

... i again have hopes you will, much delayed, but relatively forthwith, appear on videos like this adding your mustard (senf) to the tale .... some time soon ...

marty, the end of the 30th minute (where i paused to pen this) is going to be tragic if what i bet will fail to happen: you will be quick and would be remiss not .. to caution against the o so "fascinating" and "pleasure" bestowing "study of symbols" in the same sentence and breath. Here's how i did so most recently:

Flat Earth, English Gematria and the New World Order

martyleeds33 ----- "traders in sacred things" is gonna tell us how fundamentally traitorous symbols are .. even sacred ones ... by vice of the fact they exist and afford an opp to lie about them, help out evil mnemonists yap incessantly???? You are firmly stuck in the mind over matter skew

????????? ps 2020, catching myself returning to elora without warning ... not immediately clear is this is a posted comment and if so where):
he saw it coming and warned (even tried to rustle up places to stay) .. but if his personal interactions were anything like this here (and it sure does appear to be default setting w respect to PJC), iow, conducted in such a repulsive manner, it leaves me with little wonder why the effect was 'averechts'.

She's been planning to take some down and move them over to vimeo.com/user53504055 so she might have started. I found v%3DHI_zlrXlj4M a video from some of the people she's been harassing that has a segment giving her knife tips and making fun of v%3D4LzsSD45FVw a video she made about them. Starts around 15 minutes in and last till about 30 minutes, thought most of it is the knife tips for some reason. They make fun of conspiracy theorists, "magic users" and the like and at the moment seem to be focusing on Patrick John Coleman because he caused the suicide of one of his followers/lovers.

And PS: Okay, Omni-Eros (can I call you Mike?). You win. Even though it scared me to death to see the name LIZ LANSING on your vlog that day ... I understand the bigger reason why you were so spooked as well, brother. All is well, and all will be well from here on out. Maybe hop a train west in December or so (if it gets approved by the local board) to see the actual production. Only a three-night schtick though .. unless I can make it to the local performing arts center on my own dollar. ;} Trust me, I've been saving for a while to rent that stage space just for this.

The Shocking Scandal of Celibacy in the midst of Zen Sex Predators

2013 released a book by New York Times religion columnist Mark Oppenheimer alleges what many in the American Buddhist community have known for years: that some of its most revered teachers were also serial sex offenders. This review goes on to try to "contextualize" something while at the same time "condemning" it. It's not exactly a pretty picture.

As I've pointed out "Western Buddhism" has some serious problems which Ch'an Master Nan, Huai-chin traces back to the too conceptual focus of Zen Buddhism - not enough body transformation.

On a global scale, the Solar Rattle is the ultimate musicality: It registers any message-oriented or signaling datastream as a parasitic sub-noise ambient within itself. The Solar Rattle rewrites every datastream as an Unsign. even beyond any pattern of disinformatio.

TELLURo-MAGNetic CONSPiRACY TOWARDS THE SuN. In Tellurian Insurgency. unlike the Deleuze-Guattarian New Earth (A Thousa11d Plateaus, 'The Geology of Morals:

Who Does the Earth Think It Is?) the strategy of stratification is to engineer a perverse immanence with the Sun. The highly stratified structure of Ionosphere I Magnetosphere provides the Earth with secret warmachines older than the Sun itself, with which it traps solar winds (high-energy particles of the sun) and turns them into peculiarly planetary sonic entities. Ionospheric strata have been customioted and arranged in such a way that they reinforce the earth's surface with demon1c currents and forces by capturing solar winds, bringing the earth's surface and its biosphere into an immanence with the Sun and the burning core of the Earth through a sonic axis. If hell is made on the Earth-Sun axis stretching from the Earth's burning core (the Insider) to the Sun, then hell cannot be grasped merely in terms of the Sun and its capitalism.

Thanks for taking the time to stop by, I am a British wildlife biologist, and environmental writer and I have been working in Ecuador since 2010, now there are no work opportunities for me here as the Ecuadorian Amazon has been sold off to oil companies and the Ecuadorian economy has taken a blow after the recent Earthquakes we have had here.

As a result I cannot find work and I urgently need to go back to the UK but I am completely broke. I have 4 pets I'd like to bring with me, so this is my last shot at funding a passage home back to work and a better life.

Ecosolutions -- Carlita Shaw - 49 -- 42Vs - Feb 8, 2016

Early this year, one month after a life-saving operation losing womb swollen to 6 pounds .. it's her one foot in the matrix, one foot in a the snewage doctrine or faultline i could venture to guess (but won't, consider what you read utterly tentative .. if not retractable ..)

... was it a lateral faultline that caused this gal with a mind ringing in CRYstellar clarity to fail to find and rescue the likes of me, ever distrustful i guess .. likely to worship her up to the very portal of the very her genes* (which she herself seems to trace to the very corporate lineages she, justifiably, distrusts) .. and scrambles to be on her against .. perhaps just about as much ... as much as most of her snatched from death rescued strays can't be expected to totally ever trust again ... what the latter will do however, is keep her stuck in equador while she tries to gofundme a trip to the UK WITH them (yet again; she promises permanence of course) ... her stray army will also do this:

keep her from receiving fund from the likes of me; the activists gone oversentimental animal rescuers (the likes of me, [those] having carefully gathered and cured the very fuel that will make their curriculum cloud9ery possible or [them who did] not) are legion and they'll spend anybody's fortune on vets in a heartbeat ..

enough distrust to stick a fork in yet .... the dog .. the acquarian ... the friend requests ... well, ... i kept meSylph out of THAT metastatization at least .... hasta la vista ...
she's looking up at an impressive trees, standing in a riverbed by the way

19.9 To be at God is Judgement Day. Judgement Day is defined by the discovery of the Law of Time, which is both the final revelation and the knowledge to proceed correctly where, before, for lack of the science of time, there had only been manifest error. The biosphere-noosphere transition is the external ripening of the cosmic unconscious and is synonymous with the Judgement Day sequence of the discovery of the Law of Time.

My proposal is to change "Santa Claus" into "Kidda Claus" and also allow for "Kidda Claudia". This solves two issues of discrimination, namely those of religion and male chauvinism. A third issue is solved as well since Kidda Claus or Claudia don't have to be Caucasian but can have any background. Since Kidda Claus can take any form, also the present Santa is acceptable, which should conform traditionalists. But institutions are encouraged to be politically correct. Hopefully Hollywood takes notice too. A gradual change is optimal of course.

This proposal dates from November 12 1992 when I presented a story at the Benelux Science Fiction & Fantasy Convention. The PDF has been on my website for years, and in 2012 I turned it in a small booklet (in Dutch - <http://thomascool.eu/Literature/KK/Index.html>). The booklet is rather expensive because of the printing-on-demand setting so I am looking for a big publisher and retail market chain.

To understand the origins of Kidda Claus and Claudia, get the book When Santa was a Shaman by Tony van Renterghem. Arnold-Jan Scheer has an amusing video about celebrations all over Europe, also with brawls and beating of women.

159 kelley younger

By employing the Lacanian notion of the Father as Law, we see the inability of the Law to fully castrate the Irish subject and define the subject's symbolic role in the world.

This application makes for a reading of the Antigone where Creon, be he the authoritative Catholic Church, the Irish father, or the English colonizer, is attempting to represent the kind of lingering tribalism and irrational core of resistance to symbolization.

We may come even closer to understanding these Irish Antigones if we look at her in terms of the dutiful daughter faced with submission to the Father's Law. This dutiful daughter may submit, as Elizabeth Grosz outlines, in various ways: "a submission to the oedipalization of desire, to the patriarchal denigration of her corporeality and pleasure, to a femininity defined as passive, castrated, superficial, seductive, narcissistic; or even a submission through what appears to be resistance to the oedipal law, i.e., the so-called 'masculinity complex.'"

It is clear that Oedipus' other daughter, Ismene, opts for the former while Antigone chooses the latter. By resisting oedipalization, Antigone the daughter attempts to appropriate the masculine power hitherto denied the feminized and colonized Irish son.

19.11 The spiritual evolution of the Dominion of Time augured by the discovery of the Law of Time is the divine return of mind to source. By making conscious what was unconscious, the order of the Dominion of Time evolves all bodies of time into the condition of universal transcension. God is the magnet of universal transcension.

All is Number and Harmony - Pythagoras and Chomsky

Chomsky argues that the human sense of number is based on the use of a "discrete infinity" and this is also what makes human language unique.

In contrast birds can count but only to a limited number so there's no concept of infinity, whereas bees use distance for counting creating a nondiscrete infinity but it's not analogous to a language.

The new book "The Essential Chomsky" reprints an essay of his from the 1980s on what makes humans different.

Given the location and occasion i'd recommend starting with marbles and cycle wheels to determine if exactly 20 balls will do the trick (gotta be some suitable clay around there) then we really could call and 'crystone' it a 'med'cinal wheelever' (met zun alluheffu).

This very accurate and simple scientific pendulum was designed and calibrated by the French researchers Chaumery and Belizal in the late 1940's to be used for detection and measurements in Physical Radiesthesia, or Microvibrational Physics, as they called their science to differentiate it from the widely popularized Mental Radiesthesia, which was a form of Dowsing based on the operators interaction with his subconscious, in a form of psychic activity, which was prone to autosuggestion, and was therefore not very accurate for scientific work.

Shulamith Firestone became Channy's muse the same year she died alone in her recluse's New York apartment, in 2012. A radical feminist who became an outcast (even within the feminist community) due her extreme views, Firestone wrote The Dialectic of Sex in 1970, 42 years before Channy was passed a copy by her brother.

"I just inhaled it," she tells me. "I was so moved by it I'd tell everyone all about it. Similar to the song 'You Don't Know Me' by Lesley Gore – I heard that song, and it was like 2-minutes and it had everything I was trying to say in all songs – and similarly that book was, like, 'this is what I want to remember'." Yet while an ode to a forgotten inspiration, Channy insists that 'Shulamith' is not a feminist statement.

cyborg_nomade -- September 22, 2016 at 9:54 pm: the split between both happened as early as Locke vs Rousseau, and got condensed in later Anglo x French enlightenment. neither are Prussian (absolutist), but French enlightenment cannot stand the disregard Anglo enlightenment has for "the public good". of course, both have merged largely within the American political context in the 20th century (mostly because of common enemies – rough triangles are rough), but they are, in principle, two different approaches. Rousseau delivers power into the hands of the social body (vague as that is), whereas Locke points at it being in the hands of God (Gnon, for the more immanentists). ..... Prussians let it in the hand of the emperor. from 'neocameralism and constitutions 3':

Leap Year Lore of the Lunar Wizard
by Aaron Electric Dragon with intro by Benjy Hun Eb

And from each of the three oracle mouths of the arms of the cross on my Kuxan Suum, you will find 24 rays repeated three times... (3 X 24 = 72). - Telektonon Prophecy of Votan, verse 81 -----

Being born the 29th of February is great and weird at the same time. Leap day aroused some doubt in me about the 13-Moon/Dreamspell calendar. This was mostly because people were attacking me on it. So I traveled to Palenque last year with all these questions and met farmer Aaron. He basically answered my call, (you can read it in 2C v1 ep2). What I love about his work is that it's about unifying (his 2 Wizard synchronometer for example) and that it sheds light on the big time related storyline. This article in its magnificence proves again that GOD also manifests itself in 12:60 Babylonian linear time through 13:20 natural time. Enjoy reading , Peace out , inlakech, Benjy , kin 92, PantraBel , reporting from Palenque.

I'm glad Second Creation is a quarterly publication! This illustrates how harmonically the year can be divided into 4 segments of 13 weeks, and provides a good example for the framework of this article. Rather than the division of 4 however, here we will look at the 5. The year of 365 days can be evenly divided into 5 segments of 73 days, or for the mathematically inclined,  $365 = 5 \times 73$ . This equation is complimented by an understanding of the Haab, the traditional solar calendar of the Maya. The Haab counts the year in the standard Maya interval of 20 days. Because these 20-day intervals do not fit evenly into the 365-day year, an extra interval of 5 days completes each year. You can see this 5-day interval at the end of the following equation.  $365 = 18 \times 20 + 5$ . This last interval of 5 days, called the Wayeb ("portal" or "dreaming"), is the year's 73rd 5-day interval. In the Dreamspell these 5-day intervals are known as "Chromatics", so we can say that there are 73 Chromatics in each year. The number 73 is also very important in the Dreamspell with its 73 Tzolkin (260-day) cycles in each 52-year calendar round ( $73 \times 260 = 52 \times 365$ ). Because the basis of all this comes from a universal/ mathematical level of consciousness these relationships are by no means unique to the New World. The ancient Egyptians used a solar calendar similar to the Haab that also intercalated a 5-day epagomenal period at the end of each year. For the Egyptians these 5 days were derived from cycles of 30 days (in contrast to the 20 of the Maya) that generated the concept of 12 months, the equation being  $365 = 12 \times 30 + 5$ . This base interval of 5 days, common to both the Egyptians and Maya, and the related equation ( $5 \times 73 = 365$ ) highlight an extraordinary resonance between the Old and New Worlds and their relation to the enigma of the Leap Year

The Moon has also the following numbers:

? 18 years = the Saros eclipse cycle.

? 18.618 years = revolution of Moon nodes.

? 19 years = the Moon's Metonic cycle.

? The eclipse year =  $18.618 \times 18.618$  days, which is 18.618 days short of ? Solar year.

? There are 19 eclipse years in a Saros.

? 12 full Moons =  $18.618 \times 19$  days.

? The Solar year =  $18.618 \times 19.618$  days = 365.242 days.

? 13 full Moons =  $18.618 \times 20.618$  days, and thus 13 full Moons are 18.618 days beyond the Solar year.

? Keep in mind that  $\phi = 1.61803399$

Esoteric Geometry & Natural Philosophy

According to NASA there is a point in time, between perigee and apogee, when the Moon is exactly 233,280 miles from Earth. Another way you can think of this is, at this point, the Moon is 108 Moon diameters (2160 miles) away from Earth. It's interesting to note that the Sun is about 108 'sun diameters' away from Earth and about 108 Earths fit across the diameter of the Sun. 108 is a sacred number in almost every religion. Say a prayer and then count the number beads on your mala.

<http://joedubs.com/the-moon-pyramid/><http://joedubs.com/the-moon-pyramid/>

153 is also a narcissistic number, in that,  $1^3 + 5^3 + 3^3 = 153$  -----  $5040 = 1 \times 2 \times 3 \times 4 \times 5 \times 6 \times 7 \times \dots$  ..  $5040 = 7 \times 8 \times 9 \times 10 \dots$   $5040 = 10!/6!$

the year of Christ 2000, a time fixed by Jews and Christians for some remarkable revolution; when the world, as they suppose, will be renewed, and the wicked cease from troubling the Church, and the saints of the Most High have dominion over the whole habitable globe."

<http://www.sevendaysvt.com/vermont/a-reporter-gathers-with-the-rainbow-family/Slideshow/3446255/3446269>

I loved reading Mark Davis' report on the Rainbow Gathering near Mount Tabor ("Happy Campers," June 29). Having been to four previous Rainbow Gatherings since 1985, the traditional Rainbow greeting -- "Welcome Home!" -- had special meaning for me this year, as this was my first Rainbow Gathering in my home state, having lived in Vermont for 22 years; I still haven't quite come down from the emotional and spiritual high I experienced at the Gathering's Peace Circle on the Fourth of July.

I'm a 63-year-old African-American who came of age during the heyday of the original "flower children" of the late '60s and early '70s. The hippies I first encountered at New York's Washington Square Park in Greenwich Village as a 17-year-old in the summer of 1970 forever altered the course of my life; I've been a hippie in my heart and soul ever since.

It was at the 1985 Rainbow Gathering in Missouri that I met a gay French-Canadian Rainbow from Montreal with whom I had a relationship that lasted 21 years until we amicably parted in 2006. At this year's Gathering, I reconnected with a friend I had not seen in 20 years, a friend whom I had a huge crush on -- and, unbeknownst to me 20 years ago, had an equally huge crush on me.

And although I've never had children, I nonetheless came face to face during the Peace Circle with a young man who bore such an uncanny resemblance to my teen-aged self that I was overwhelmed with the feeling that he could have been my son -- or even my grandson, as he was just 18.

There's a reason why they're called the Rainbow Family. And I thank God they're still here after almost half a century.

depending on the weither their "building it up" compares favorably to what that means according to my "lights' and lifts (a tree is a mineral lifter .. but Russia wouldn't necessarily become known as a treecrop exporting nation for a good long while even if that was the case beyond my wildest expectations) i'd have to praise this or express grave reservations; the status of the mix (new race) would depend on it ... then again, if the americans aren't stopped and evacuated, repatriated from their occupation perch ... it lies in the line of expectations (dutch expression transliterated) this will be very common in the future ....

"The plan states that if the citizen working the land can show that they are building it up, specifically agriculturally, it's all theirs after five years."

Political activists are discovering Facebook, Twitter, Youtube, Stumbleupon, Digg and Flickr making them central to left and progressive organizing. Human evolution influenced by neoteny may be based on the art of dance. Runaway sexual selection may have encouraged dance. This video shows how by understanding Balyaev Russian silver fox studies we can estimate how the infants of our chimpanzee or bonobo like ancestors evolved ancestor infant features into current human adults. Human evolution, dance and runaway sexual selection may have evolved our big brains into existence. This video suggests that neoteny may be central to understanding how humans evolved big brains by exploring Balyaev Russian silver fox experiments taking into consideration bonobos and chimpanzee physiology and behavior. 441 sidereal Moon cycles measure exactly 33 years

<http://u-ching.com/third-sun-standstill-marker-stellar-clock-216/>

First Stellar Clock Sun Standstill Marker (72) -- June 1, 2016 by U

Today its the first of June 2016, and in the Stellar Clock we have a Sun Standstill. Yesterday we reached the black marking point of 72, and today we stay with the Sun on this position. We see can study why this is BMU 309, and what the deeper meaning is of that.

A Sun Standstill in the Stellar Clock happens five times a years. So five days in the year we don't move the Sun in our New Stellar Clock Experimental Matrix Layer of the Synchronotron 441. Please remember that 441 sidereal Moon cycles measure exactly 33 years, a very interesting returning point, its when the start of the 9th month called Ramadan in the Islamic Calendar (measuring 12 lunations) returns to the same moment in the year.

So five Sun Standstills keep this 19x19 matrix synchronized around the Sun, and today is one. In the old days it was very normal to have a calendar of 360 days, which was by the Baylonian, Egyptian and Mayan people. These 360 days are one so called Tun in the Mayan Long Count calendar, 18x20.

Because of the Stellar Clock we can now develop a new point of view on those "missing" 5 days in between the 360 days of the circle (tun) and the Solar Ring measured as 365 days in one year.

From this new point of view we see today a Sun Standstill marker in our Stellar Clock on the Sun-in-the-year position. We have Sun Standstill days to keep the Sun synchronized in our Stellar Clock, in which we can eventually map out all the fixed stars within your Synchronotron practice.

Suggest euro-med clinic in Phoenix. They have all the methods and test daily to see if numbers are improving. I researched over 25 clinics and have decided that this one for about $4400 a week for 2-4 weeks is the most sophisticated and claim 100% remission history. Also Natureworksbest in Tempe is about half that price and has very high survival rate of patients after 7 years (386 patients). Hope this helps. Mimmi

Addressing some of the comments below, I wish you could meet the kids (now raising a new generation) who were born or grew up at Black Bear. Despite the fact that a bunch of the girls totally roasted their mothers at a Woman's Gathering about ten years ago, they, as a group, are some of the most together adults I have ever met.

any comment on this Bob ?

Bob Dobbs -- October 19, 2016 at 4:02 AM

One can see the speaker would not have stopped with Andy Warhol if he was acquainted with McLuhan's THROUGH THE VANISHING POINT and the following two quotations:

"It is quite literally true that since printing it has been the poets and painters who have explored and predicted the various possibilities of print, of prints, of press, of telegraph, of photograph, movie, radio and television. In recent decades the arrival of several new media had led to prodigious experimentation in the arts. But, at present, the artists have yielded to the media themselves. Experimentation has passed from the control of the private artist to the groups in charge of the new technologies. That is to say, that whereas in the past the individual artist, manipulating private and inexpensive materials, was able to shape models of new experience years ahead of the public, today the artist works with expensive public technology, and artist and public merge in a single experience. The new media need the best artist talent and can pay for it. But the artist can no longer provide years of advance awareness of developments in the patterns of human experience which will inevitably emerge from new technological development." - H. Marshall McLuhan, Report on Project in Understanding New Media, Part VII (Exhibits), p.i, 1960.

"The new art form of our time is the media themselves, not painting, not movies, not drama, but the media themselves have become the new art forms.... I write cartoons.... I have wanted to write a play, for a long time, on the media. And the media themselves are the avant-garde area of our society. Avant-garde no longer exists in painting and music and poetry, it's in the media themselves. Not in the programs. Avante-garde is not in hockey, not in baseball or any of these entertainments. It's in the media themselves." - Marshall McLuhan, Forces Magazine, Hydro-Quebec, No.22, p.68, 1973.

The speaker doesn't take the next step to media environments as art forms. Nor does any other 20th Century art critic.

Flat Water

The most advanced scientific knowledge ever disclosed, was done over 3000 years ago by Enoch, in this, the 'Book of the Heavenly Luminaries', or, in contemporary terms the Book Of The Stars. How could he, (a desert dweller 3000yrs ago), have known this? If God isn't real, how did Enoch come up with this? Why does it so perfectly match up with all the other texts at the time like: the Book of Giants, the Qumran caves texts, the dead sea scrolls, and the Manichaeian texts? Skeptics, I guess, will say he dreamed it all up, but then how do they explain away ALL of the prophetic events of this and many other texts that came true? The Book of Revelations? the OT's knowledge of the earth? the coming of Jesus? (it's funny people refute that, as there are many people who reported being there, seeing him crucified, read the "Gospel of Nicodemus" for one example) the perfect descriptions of the divisions of the year? , the peoples of the earth and their genealogies, the perfect matchup with our knowledge of the oldest cultures and languages?... and/or the (still to this day) perfect descriptions of WORLDWIDE natural phenomena and plant species? Lucky guesses!? What would be the odds against GUESSING to such an extent? ....astronomical...lol. This book has, and will continue to, stand the test of time. It's accuracy and elegant simplicity will fly in the face of all scrutiny. All those who doubt the power of the holy bible, and it's perfect truth, will be amazed to utter beguilement.

left brain flattened desert txt anybody? why can't synchrononites catch up to this? oh wait, we can depend on juryt abma to persuade and convince pers to deflect from their arbitrid 'brain store'm' for long enough to deliver the software viral enough to see the opennoo set up everywhere it still rains and will again soon after

When I met Human Design and began to study it seriously, I was absolutely blown away by its breadth and depth. As practical as it is mystical, Human Design weaves in modern science (quantum physics, biochemistry, genetics and neurogastroenterology -- the science of the 'gut-brain') with some of our most ancient systems for understanding the universe and our own nature (the Zohar/Kabbalah's Tree of Life, both Eastern and Western Astrology, the Chinese I-Ching and the Hindu Chakra system). It is important to understand that although HD includes both modern and ancient traditions, the translation of each isn't exact. This is a true synthesis, where the "whole" becomes something different, and larger than the sum of its parts.

What I love even more about Human Design than its depth and complexity is its utter accessibility. You don't have to study it, or even believe in it, in order to benefit from it. You just have to be willing to give it a try, to do a little experiment in your everyday life. The rest is intellectual icing on the conceptual cake.

The End of the World - Conjunctions, The Red Dragon, & The Day of the Lord Decoded.

Lightdescent - 2K - 111 views - Nov 3, 2016

The End of the World Decoded. Here I provide solid proof of a recurring planetary conjunction pattern that causes global upheaval every thousand years or so. One that involves Mars, Venus and Mercury targeting the Galactic Centre area.

I explain the basis of the Aztec/Mayan Calendar tied to ritual sacrifice to prevent the world from coming to an end. I identify "The Destroyer" body as noted in The Kolbrin via a Remote Viewing breakthrough. I also decode the Day of the Lord as described in the Bible in Luke 9 & 10, and how this is linked to The Red Dragon in Revelation.

I use the Starry Night computer program to show the precise celestial patterns that trigger global devastation. And show how the precise times of the conjunctions in question coincide with geophysical destruction to the earth, as based upon scientific evidence.

The Interview itself was done via the Leak Project, but I have edited it slightly to shorten it and include proper slide images in the presentation, which are far clearer than the Skype screen share.

Dinner rolls were brought to the rallies. The Yippies followed up with the Birthday Party's "Nobody for President" campaign. Started in 1975, it continues today. It's a new musical genre combining the intense pleasure of a great Occidental tune and the neural benefit of a well-practiced Oriental mantra. The current singer---selected randomly from a line-up of DLBHs (Dirty Little Barefoot Hippies) busted for being elated without a permit---is so called Pondo.

your image search result set doesn't drastically improve until and unless you add a few terms, like so:
"nobody is perfect" "nobody for president" "magic bus" if i find time and inclination to write out a ps to my encounter with juryt in long form i'll let you know ..

in brief:

he recounted his discovery and that triggered the memory of the hexagram animation i have in my collection somewhere and should locate ... it shows a sequence of lines breaking such that it made me think of bubbles rising in water; his explanation goes through the hexagram starting at the top line it led to me suggesting hi might/ could .. but certainly not should complement his water into soil (topdown stepthru) with an air out of water shticktrick (thus doubling his code set / workload, completing the classic element circle, a good antidote to the easy slide from binary into schitzplitz).

-- i merely wanted to emphasize the near arbitrary runaway potential when it comes to fine tooth combiness / nitpicking / hairsplitting and ultimately transpositioning of hairroot microcosm aspects which have actual physical constraints (how fine a sieve can you make? kinda like the gold standard there huh?), neutering them into purely abstract hirnwix and faux issues / specialties, voids of vanity --

a helpful analogy churned up as i was able to read the postulate of the day but read the 'wrong' one at first, 3.12 i believe, instead of 19.12 thinking about wave/tone instead of seal/tone doubling the amount of applicable postulates in the process if you allow for equal and/or complementary validity and it struck me they are indeed.

ended up the best possible way too (whitey goin native, as happened in america).

Mountain Rose Dance Center in the town of Floyd??

<http://www.geocities.ws/dreamingbones/community.html>

From 1992 to 2001, I lived in Floyd County, in the Blue Ridge mountains of southwest Virginia. Where I lived in Floyd is situated on mostly forested land with a predominance of oak, tulip poplar, several pine varieties, locust, cherry, and other hardwoods. The forest also has a natural abundance of rhododendron and mountain laurel. The county is less than an hour's drive from Roanoke, Blacksburg, and Radford, all having universities and a much larger population than our rural Floyd county. Floyd county has only one traffic light and yet boasts a large number of intentional communities. Some of them are Abundant Dawn, Heart of Gold, High Flowing, Kyn Hearth, Left Bank, Light Morning (ALM), Riverflow, Tekiah, Travianna, Turtle Rock, Woodsong, and Zephyr,... Floyd County is a growing center of alternative living.

Part of what draws us all here is the clean air and pure water. The county has no water flowing into it, only out; it is the headwaters. There are streams, springs, and ponds in various parts of Floyd County. Native blackberries, strawberries, blueberries, and winterberries are in abundance. Most of the communities have organic gardens with an abundance of fresh foods growing. There is a farm collective locally where you can buy direct. A small pond where I lived is home to various fish and doubles as a swimming pool. The stream is a nice stopover for local wildlife. Deer, turkeys, grouse, whippoorwills, bobcats, bears, and turtles are among the native population.

close eyes & play on rotation till blissed out of your mind (earcandy / ohrenschmauss alert), then watch in small doses to top up as and when needed in gratitude for and mindful of the endless hours of E-waste defying and redeeming 'digitippie frill (and verfraai franje); all of which easily confused, compounded and collated with your regular schedule of equally multi-edged mixblessbagged lsd experience and the real thing will still be there for you again before you know it.

i've got so much love .. sounds exactly like that hawaiian lass i had atop my playlist a long time (upstairs) <https://soundsfromtherainbow.org/>

i have to say, garret beck's "learnt each others' games, recipes, rituals .. blongkitty blankblinq ... " [29th minute] is really too rosy a view [in light of my understanding state of current and current of state] ... a vice is a vice is an addiction cause it sticks, nothing anybody easily kicks, brushes 'off' or washes 'away', once you accidentally sampled ("learnt") it .. under social pressure induced lapse and block of instinct* ... roughly the wilds vs crowds kinda conundrum plaguing humans ever since they stacked the first rock on top of another WITHOUT the clear intention to spin them into soil with the most pleasant expediency possibly possible .. truly the core of what rainbow family doctrine is in my dooz and feelz ..

* this good habit of discernment includes recoil quarantine and 'plottage to cure' but when made mandatory by zealots in the anything goes urbanization / multicult / duality encompassment (polarization in order to keep duh peephaul from counting beyond that schizsee twobit tuutuu ...) seems like you don't like rosy views and have a wily strong opinion, I like that. Don't really know what you talking about, except you are angry and frustrated at something. hope it all works out for you.

.. cause we all know the 'meeting' (clashing) of ways happens for the most part, in bulk, not in summerhippieland but where the most destitute, traumatized and urban bottom rungs of the ugliest imaginable ladder mingle mate, mismatch yet mate .... far far from the mishmash i am on about, which would empty psychology studded gripeland of it's terminology, taking it back down to earth, to serve grounding, to be a grippie with and about them, develop a sense of ripegland ..

read some Peter Sloterdijk on 'thymos' (anger management thru the ages), then try to 'peaceabilitate' me some more ... .. and by the way, just imagine for a moment that [upon close inspection, for which guys like you couldn't possibly find the time i know] i have the very best advice possible to make the rainbow family reach it's goal (it began healing me in 86 and i only try to reciprocate) ... or even if i'm not, why isn't anybody making a mockery of my involvement and outrageous proposals ... if only to bring defusing laughter to the frontline in say Standing Rock, towards which i have been trying to direct my strainslow lessons like so:

Entheogenic Sects and Psychedelic Religions

R. Stuart

Correction by the author: The "Negro Church of the First Born" is actually just called the "Church of the First Born", the mistake originating due to confusing wording about the group in The Peyote Cult by Weston LaBarre. (He used the word Negro as an adjective in front of the name of the church, but it is apparent from the index that this adjective was not part of the actual name).

In a 1991 case related to peyote (Lophophora williamsii), U.S. District Chief Judge Juan Burciaga stated: "The government's war on drugs has become a wildfire...today, the war targets one of the most deeply held fundamental rights -- the First Amendment right to freely exercise one's religion."1 Burciaga could rebuff the prevailing political mandate of religious discrimination only because he was about to retire. Unfortunately, the courts and law enforcement in the United States are rarely sympathetic toward the use of psychoactive sacraments. This article clarifies some of what is being suppressed with regard to churches that use peyote, other psychedelics, or Cannabis.

HOW TO ACHIEVE ULTIMATE SUCCESS

Â© Copyright 1994 By Frederick Mann,

Gurdjieff, Leary, Harland and Limbaugh inspired redneck

In his book Word Controlled Humans: A Brief History, John Harland writes about people who grew up in cold climates in isolation (little or no contact with other people), and thereby were stimulated to think about how they related to the entire universe. In contrast, in warm climates with denser populations there is much more contact with other people and children are subjected severely to group control. Harland writes:

"This essential being of an individual in direct relation to the universe I will call "soul." Some who submit to group control are well aware that by so doing they are giving up their souls. Others have become such total zombies - the walking dead, subject to control by a will outside themselves - that they are conscious of nothing but the game that dominates all else on this fork of the road; they are no longer aware that anything "counts" if it is outside the human game. All have lost their souls as individuals."

Meaning of the Two of Spade

Partnership in Work -- Karmic Challenge: Fear of Unity

Two of Spade people are quick thinkers, sociable, and very direct. They are also hard workers, but can be even harder to work with.

Those born with the Two of Spade as their birthday card tend to do well with property, and investments in minerals or products of the earth. They are also savvy with new technology, and have a flair for the performing arts.

The 2 of Spade will often look for some kind of diversion in the form of gambling or risk taking. However, when it comes to love, they are only interested in meaningful or long term relationships. Mental rapport is high on their list requirements, and their straightforward charm and forthright demeanor almost always get them where they want to go

I group any and all, both worshipful woowoo and blasphemously commandlinestructured 'formulaicist' (oxymoronic word i know) ones (of these 'transpositive' projections), under another neologism: 'misversive' acts, mis[s]fortunate displacements that overburden, break and split middle ground, to waste, skirt, bypass, circum- and prevent (and worse) true grounding, which is - as i described all over the net for 2 decades, waaay before messing with 'qualicounters' but all through my disentanglements from 'quanticounters' - to mobilize / metabolize minerals, make compost as pragmatic and tangible aspects of religion, religious, inherently de- and innumerate, focus and (symbolically adorned or not) actual practice, (the former derailing as described, always, in absence of the latter into the manic - heaps of hopes - vs depri -- doldrum of cringe, dread and paranoia, masquerading as metanoia .. cause to be seen as and taken for being accountable and reliable requires an at least convincing and convinced imitation of count ability -- modes and fashions so dominantly prevalent in 99% of all human efforts, well intentioned and prayerful or not).

And what's worse, every time i tackle yet another splinter in the supurating problem areas, all to hell ugly and inflamed .. and stay with it for a while tenaciously enough, i have to conclude it makes no immediate difference ever and instead i get these delayed overreactions a decade later to feel guilty about not having managed a saner breakthru waybackwhen ... on top of that (getting mighty spikey and cold up here now)... for every boil i seem to have managed to lance (with mentioned complications applied ultraliberally and completely out of my hands) about 3 handfuls spring up!!!!!!

To go back to science, to give an example, "body language" is often subconscious by people - for example the most common example is someone crossing their arms while talking with someone else - this means that they are emotionally closing themselves off in a kind of self-defense mode. I have talked about a more extreme example I discovered - "female display behavior" that is found and analyzed by primatologists - but a la Gurdjieff, in fact modern humans are also subconsciously controlled by their desire and so females will go into "display" behavior. So again science argues such "body language" is not real communication since unlike words it lacks specific syntax and instead is more primitive, like the gestures of other apes, with no real conscious intention apparently. - - - December 9, 2016 --- Extracting Energy Kicked to Reality from Relativized Quantum virtual phonons as microsound --- This 2012 SciAm blogpost confirms some nice brain music research.

As the master healers state - breathing becomes very difficult as they are actually transcending physical death beyond their hearts in deep samadhi trance Emptiness - and that is how the holographic energy blockages are exorcised, as a reversal of spacetime itself.

And so the language is quite precise as a literal reliving - as a holographic reality, as Andrew Zimmern experienced with the Bushmen healer put his hand on the heart of Zimmern. The crying is this compassion of the deep lung, slow breathing, that literally slows down and reverses time as the spirit light has a charge or "zitter" as the hidden momentum of frozen light - time goes to zero and frequency goes to infinite as frozen light that is reversed as noncommutative or complementary opposite phase Emptiness entanglement healing.

U Ching Lunar Ring Cube Game

Ab Maya - 1 view from Dec 15, 2016

It is January the 7th in 2013, and Araygua Kin 224 and Juryt Kin 243 accomplished their mission and returned from San Cristobal, back to Palenque. This day it was Araygua her Galactic Birthday Kin 224. She invited Juryt to present the U Ching Lunar Ring Cube Game, and so we sit in front of the Temple of Inscriptions, with downstairs the tomb and famous tomb stone of Pacal Votan. Thank U Agent 224 for letting me shine in this moment, on that spot.

Jack of Diamonds --- The nature, disposition, and qualities of this card take the prize for variety and peculiarity! The Jack of Diamond is either wholly material, or highly spiritual, or a curious and incomprehensible mixture of the two. The Jack of Diamonds are very money conscious and will always find a way to get it. They are mentally keen, sharp and clever and are always looking for and finding the thing that pays off.

The Ultimate Earth Pierre Teilhard de Chardin ---- The Approaches

Without going beyond the limits of scientific probability, we can say that life still has before it long periods of geological time in which to develop. Moreover, in its thinking form, it still shows every sign of an energy in full expansion. On the one hand, compared with the zoological layers which preceded it whose average duration is at least in the order of eighty million years, mankind is so young that it could almost be called new-born.

ok, for ya kkkrustDjinns out there; here DD takes 5 hours to explain how the 3 wise men following stars to jesus came all the way from china they take about 22m to do introductory chatter

34th minute: "ceasar ... keizer" the word, meaning emperor, has earlier roots, Kesar, in Tibetan. I was personally witness (i the 80s) to Arnold Keyserling growing sentimental over that as he believed himself Kesar Ling's incarnation (similar things happened during his lectures on Socrates)
<http://schuledesrades.org/palme/books/denkstil/?Q=1/1/3/22>

Kesar Ling gilt als der Begr nder von Tibet; er soll in der Zeit der V lkerwanderung im zweiten vorchristlichen Jahrtausend ein mongolisches Reich beherrscht haben, das weit  ber das heutige Land hinausreichte. Die Sage findet sich  berall, wo Mongolenst mme leben. In seiner Struktur  hnelt es dem Epos des Herakles, doch mit dem Unterschied, da  wie bei allen mongolischen Sagen die Hauptfigur der g ttliche Schmied ist, der in der griechischen und auch indischen Mythologie nur eine untergeordnete Rolle spielt.

By M. Hurley on January 24, 2009 – Format: Paperback

Sorry to say but I regret buying this book (despite having had a look at the introduction, on here) as it is overpriced and 'incomplete'. The excerpts from Vico are useful but, but, but.... -For the real deal see James J. Paxson's book The Poetics of Personification (1994), recently released in paperback. Bryan Moore's book Lit and Ecocriticism will augment Paxson but it pales by comparison. Moore has some interesting uses for Kant and his history is also useful and thorough even if you're not particularly eco-critical, though Paxson's book trumps them all.

Well, because of that, your communications are perceived as rude, no respect, just as consumers do or a prejudged stalker.

ace of diamond

Ambition is the key word for this card, and usually in form of cold, hard, cash.

Contacts are very important to the Ace of Diamond. They like secrecy in connection with their associations; both business and personal. The Ace of Diamond can be incredibly charismatic, able to focus their magnetism to achieve success. They are curious about metaphysics and spirituality, but they have a hard time believing in such things unless they can profit from them. There can be a lot of obstacles and difficulties for this card - and it's mostly the women who suffer in the realm of relationships and matters of the heart. The negative Ace of Diamond has issues with greed for money and power. The positive Ace of Diamond are willing to love for love's sake alone, thus able to reap the personal and material success so strongly desired.

i have to tell you all about my telepathic invader, because she (if it is a she) leaves me no freedom to work whatever January 1, 2017 â€” 9:37 pm

I regret ever having said that I knew for sure who my invader was. If I state the name I associate with her, I just give the real, empirical possessor of that name (who is also a political enemy, unfortunately), an opportunity to harass me as an internet user, by complaining that I am harassing her by naming her. In any case, she is able to conceal her identity beyond the possibility of absolute proof as to who she is. I am aware that being an incorporeal presence, she has no objective location except inside my head. But she seems to have taken up apparent residence in my computer, for preference. This means I can't work on the blog without being stared at out of the computer itself by her while I'm doing it. The sense of her presence is almost entirely mental, it's true, but it is not just an impersonal awareness of another person's view; she is actively thinking, inside my mind, trying when possible to insinuate herself into my own opinions, so that I cannot tell her views from my own, which is attempted brainwashing. When we differ politically, as we always do, then she generates a formidable vibe of hatred and deterrence, making it so hard to work on the computer that I wish I could smash it or throw it out the window. She has a definite tactic: she wants me to submit to the Stockholm Syndrome, which makes the victim pretend their captor is a friend rather than an enemy. It's a pity I'm not a Christian or a Muslim: she could be exorcisedâ€¦ not merely from the computer, because she is only apparently in itâ€¦ but in practical exorcism this doesn't really matter. Exorcists are used to this ambiguity of location, where she "really" is. So does anyone know a good exorcist in the southern England area? for a good fee?

A brief keynote presentation by Sacha Stone at Great Darlington Hall in England, on Luciferianism (false-light worship) as the central tenet of modern 'civilisation'. Sacha elaborates on the themes of idolatry and iconoclasm, dream-spell and spell-binding. Not for the faint-hearted.

is that how you choose to claim and spend the credit for [g]hosting Arguelles? Blackballing the name 'dreamspell', under which he distributed spot on typifications as truth in labels dispensation? you are big on polarized concepts, and then vascillate from the either or scenario, even when discussing climate, disallowing a differential patchwork .. to harmonizing opposites .. but, like the zeitgeist you are, remain mum on just how sooner or later binaries have to crashland from sterile perches and bust up into a resurgent, till then, mined abused enslaved excluded and poisoned, middle ground ... i like to see their primary unmetastatized forms (rock and water) rubbed out against and into each other by middle grounders eager to grow soil. Strategic swalery can achieve great heights in both elevation and well aged growth.

Great work Gar!

Also, in line with the "next of kin" and the connection of Synchronotron BMU 33 to Harmonic Module (Synchronic Matrix) kin 81, I noticed that the "next of kin" BMU 34 is Harmonic Module kin 61, "next of kin" to Pakal. Solar Dragon "the solar ouroboros."

Also, having read the previous entries, I find it amazing that the twin comets 252P and BA14 showed up with traditional kin 46 (7 Kimi) on Day 240, exactly 3 years following your Omegar initiation that began on Day 240 and ended on kin 46! An alpha-omega loop indeed.

Not to be too long winded, and maybe you've already mentioned this elsewhere, but taking the numbers in the names of the two comets 252P and BA14,

$252 = 14 \times 18$  (factor 18 of the double terminated crystal)

$14 = 14 \times 1$  (+1 inner activation of the 18 facets)

$252 + 14 = \text{factor } 18 + 1 = 19 !!$

With all the twin visitors we've had lately (beginning with Chelyabinsk and it's partner, then the twin comets Q, then the twin comets 252+14, and the twin asteroids that hailed the ascension of Hunbatz Men), I'm guessing some of them must have been sent by the outer planet.

Many thanks and blessings for for all you share. Keep living the Dream!

Condensed Matter > Other Condensed Matter ---- Classical Time Crystals ==== Alfred Shapere, Frank Wilczek
(Submitted on 12 Feb 2012 (v1), last revised 12 Jul 2012 (this version, v2))

We consider the possibility that classical dynamical systems display motion in their lowest energy state, forming a time analogue of crystalline spatial order. Challenges facing that idea are identified and overcome. We display arbitrary orbits of an angular variable as lowest-energy trajectories for nonsingular Lagrangian systems. Dynamics within orbits of broken symmetry provide a natural arena for formation of time crystals. We exhibit models of that kind, including a model with traveling density waves.

As noted in the previous post, "Radiant Spica, The Red Books, and Visions of The Flood", there is a special resonance of Tolkien's kin 255 with the alignment of Jupiter and Spica that will take place during this year's 8th moon, coded by Moon kin 255. As also noted, it is significant that kin 255, as the Blue Galactic Eagle, corresponds to the integration of Jupiter, coded by the tribe of the Eagle, into the galactic harmonies of the Telektonon.

Tolkien is kin 255, the Galactic Visionary, same as this year's upcoming Moon 8 with Jupiter conjunct Spica. There is much to Tolkien's connection to the Galactic Maya, not only in the Notion Club Papers, although we certainly haven't even covered all of that, but throughout his whole body of work. The visionary works of Tolkien and Jung will serve as guiding lights as we continue my comment: all very clever but i fundamentally distrust and disapprove of riding the individualization, privacy and internality stimulating, then metastatizing effects of literacy so unquestioningly. This atomization process .. renewed by the abusers of newage crowbars like lsd, the canners and consumerizers of music who prod, herd and goad us into the sterility of code and headgames ... to be bundled and weaponized by same, socioparasites who are driven by desertification memes and drive them the world over.

for instance, the pragmatic nuts and bolts meaning of noah was:

floodplains are the most fertile most diverse and so, very zoolike ... to keep it that way one must not block the fecundating inundations (building dykes etc) but build and live in boats wherein valuables can ride the temporary tides up and down. People in the early days of these 'developments' (cough), who were aware and tried to communicate this down to earth truth get distorted by the likes of you and you colleague

"Noah's Ark, according to Gnostic scholar Elaine Pagels, who is professor of religion at Princeton University, was not a real boat. This makes sense if the pineal cloud of light can be likened to a boat, whose thirty-two oars reach out into the surrounding pitch black ocean it 'sails' in. As such, the great pineal 'boat of light' can be associated with a boat at the top of god's mountain, like Noah's ark on Mount Ararat. Noah's consonants are NH. The letter N is Nu, meaning fish or prince. Both of these mean the same thing in terms of the pineal event, since you find yourself afloat in the ocean of consciousness as a fish when you behold the Akh of god in the distance. As a prince, you become a prince of peace from the deepest understanding the experience gives you. The letter H means to look or behold. Hence, NH can be read in seemingly several different ways, but only one way as divine union. Fish Beheld, prince beheld or consciousness beheld all mean the same thing symbolically in this single event."

The NYT talks to Thiel:

His critics demanded to know how someone who immigrated from Frankfurt to Cleveland as a child could support a campaign so bristling with intolerance. How could a gay man back someone who will probably nominate Supreme Court justices inclined to limit rights for gays and women? How could a futurist support a cave man who champions fossil fuels, puts profits over environmental protection and insists that we can turn back the clock on the effects of globalization on American workers?

"There are reduced expectations for the younger generation, and this is the first time this has happened in American history," Mr. Thiel says. "Even if there are aspects of Trump that are retro and that seem to be going back to the past, I think a lot of people want to go back to a past that was futuristic"

That "a past that was futuristic" thought could go somewhere â€" all we need is a name for it.

Mark Fisher RIP ----- Posted on January 15, 2017

Urbanomic's obituary is excellent throughout. A telling snippet:

Having unexpectedly had an abstract for a joint conference paper accepted, and following a lengthy train journey, Mark and I began writing our paper the morning before the conference (of course), and a state of panic swiftly morphed into a sleep-deprived, hysterical flow state. It was hugely enjoyable, because Mark was never happier than when swept up in working on something that seemed to be building itself, soliciting further input, coalescing into some unexpected entity before his eyes, suggesting new double-meanings, puns, unexpected connections between the abstract and the empirical, Marvel Comics-style names for as-yet unnamed forces, concepts for unrecognised processes. Then the self-doubt would disappear, the anxiety would dissipate (even if the paper had to be given in a few hours!) and he would be in his element: that outside element, something beyond the strictures of the personal, that fuels enthusiasm and enthralled fascination with what is being â€˜channelled'.

-----Mark Fisher's life was an extreme manic-depressive roller-coaster, which he constantly sought to cosmically (and socio-politically) rationalize. The upswings were incandescent with a creative energy beyond anything I have ever witnessed (or engaged with). The downswings were hell. Finally, he reached one he was unable to wait-out.

-----The Ccru was only one stage in his life, though it was of course the one I knew best. His contribution was so complete that it eludes any attempt at isolation. That Ccru happened at all was only due to his absorption into the entity. When he dropped out â€˜ during an earlier season in the abyss, around the turn of the Millennium â€˜ it was over.

Girard in contemporary politics (insightfully explored):

<http://thenewinquiry.com/essays/the-scapegoating-machine/>

In one of his seminars, Thiel made the political stakes of his concern with scapegoating more explicit, making reference to Occupy Wall Street: "The 99% vs. the 1% is the modern articulation of this classic scapegoating mechanism. It is all minus one versus the one." The central task of controlling what Girard calls the "victimhood mechanism," for "founders" like him, is to deflect collective violence from themselves. Gawker, on the other hand, seemed to specialize in identifying targets for that violence, or at least for collective online vituperation -- and those targets often belonged to the capitalist "founder" class, although many debated whether Gawker at times abandoned its proclaimed commitment to "punching up." Crushing Gawker was not simply an attack on a particular organ of scapegoating that had offended Thiel, but an attempt to disarm a certain politicization of scapegoating in a digital world given over to it.

(The entire piece is excellent.)

Fake Book With Connections To "Dark Enlightenment" Movement Found On Stack 12

Written by Bwog Staff ----- December 12, 2016 +130 Comments

The terms found on this form are listed on a Dark Enlightenment reading list, which aims to introduce its readers to the movement. This reading list includes the writer Mencius Moldbug (a pseudonym of Curtis Yarvin), who is cited as one of the most influential neo-reactionaries.

For just under a decade, Yarvin ran an influential blog under this pseudonym. Similarly, the term "Cathedral" originates on Yarvin's blog (and may be connected to cathedral imagery in Tess of the d'Urbervilles), which another influential member of the Dark Enlightenment movement, Nick Land, describes as "the entire social landscape of political bribery (à la lobbying) exactly mapped, and the administrative, legislative, judicial, media, and academic privileges accessed by such bribes are converted into fungible shares -- [the Cathedral] is the mapping of a ruling entity that is the truly dominant instance of the democratic polity." In addition, Land, who allegedly coined the term "Dark Enlightenment" after a "particularly horrible bout of amphetamine psychosis," wrote an essay analyzing Moldbug entitled "The Dark Enlightenment". Although this would explain the choice of book and confirm a concrete connection to the movement, we are still unable to determine the book's exact origin. We have, however, found an exact same hollowed-out book listed on Ebay.

jon smith -- 11 5 December 13, 2016 @ 8:57 am: An open letter to an open minded progressive is Moldbug's most famous essay and is available in multiple locations via google. He defines the Cathedral within. Nick Land's Dark Enlightenment is on youtube for those curious about the actual content. Just search his name. Moldbug's piece is long & in 10 or so parts - book length really. Land's piece is shorter. Best start with Moldbug.

Also, just to clarify, Moldbug & Land critique modern (post-modern now) democratic liberalism (The Enlightenment), but neither advocate or support Nazism. Nazism was a REACTIONARY movement that went to very bad places (no shit) but was completely predictable in light of the structural limitations & failures of liberalism. They, in fact, suggest or advocate for another solution called neocameralism. Again, they don't like Nazis. Critiquing liberalism doesn't necessarily make you a Nazi. Or does it? If it does, you need to ask yourself why.

Hold up... 13 15 December 13, 2016 @ 10:13 am: When your line of thinking tends to fall back on the idea of there being a master white race, whether or not you're a self-described Nazi, you are just as much of a problem as people who describe themselves as such, regardless if you have made up twisted philosophical arguments saying otherwise.

jon smith 21 8 December 13, 2016 @ 10:56 am: Thanks for proving my point.

NRx doesn't support "a master white race" & no it's not a post hoc philosophical rationale for white nationalism. But you'd know that if you had read the material & had a real understanding of it, instead you sanctimoniously yammer out of your asshole.

Roy Jackson Jr -- 12 9 December 13, 2016 @ 5:08 pm

Oh great, old wine in new bottles? "Neo-cameralism", "neo-nazism", "neo-reaction"... the goal of this "Dark Enlightenment" seems to be to HOODWINK us by hiding bigotry everyone knows is evil under innocent new names, to trick us into exposing ourselves to hatespeech. In fact, Moldbug uses the name-switching trick on himself, too: like his coward friends, he hides under many aliases, including "Yarvin", "Moldberg", and "Menaquinone" (I just need to add that it's shameful that Bwog didn't confront the racist implications of these white people calling their racist bs the DARK enlightenment in the article. When Bwog goes along with this stigmatization without addressing it and condemning it, you re-encode the normality of whiteness with constant microaggressions against PoC!!)

Anonymous -- 3 5 December 13, 2016 @ 10:03 am: Clearly we must rename Columbia "Kaiser's College"

Nick B. Steves -- 30 11 December 13, 2016 @ 11:52 am: If you wish to be taken seriously, do not quote rational wiki as an authoritative source. Nearly 20 years separate Nick Land's last verifiable drug experimentation and the 2012 publication of "The Dark Enlightenment" (which is, yes, thank you anon, the very first goog srch result). That's not what most people mean by "after".

With the exception of the Germanic Imperial Eagle design, this is a very NRx-looking operation (the old book... in the library... cryptic nature, etc.). Neoreactionaries are not fond of socialism--national or otherwise--and would not incorporate Nazi-looking material into anything they publish. At least not unironically. Also the operation doesn't advance any neoreactionary goal. Neoreactionaries, under the authority of Hestia Society, do have recruitment operations in NYC, but it's strictly through established personal relationships. Randoms need not apply--nor would they even know where.

I won't say that it is false flag, but it seems to have been at most a trolling operation--to create the exact response (and required grave "tone") that it did. On that front, it appears to have been quite successful.

This is Nick Land's most recent Twitter? See how cute? You just have to know how to keep him at a distance, which I almost didn't--he was round the corner this past Aug. and one day I was out when he was at Pratt or Pace or whatever goes above the new Chase branch I use at 14th and 7th, I didn't know it. But he was still practising dark, malicious arts when I was out and about. I chose not to test a snake's true nature, though I used to want to meet him. He does have a kind of charisma, but it's mostly in the writing coupled with the various manias. His blog does have some brilliant writers, though, one very poetic one 'G. Eiricksson' and also 'Dick Wagner'. Nick B. Steves is an old-timer Catholic like several of them, and the most obscene is 'Jim's Blog'. You can't write at Nick Land's blog if you're female or homo, unless you take an Oath of Inferiority. This is because there are a lot of dyed-in-the-wool closet queens and lesb'ans there...

I'm a closer friend of Butler and Columbia. My best friend used to work there, and still lives in the area. He got sucked off all the time in the much-mentioned Men's Room there in days of yore.

Then again, if there are mentally ill people who sublimated their condition into social justice warrior group non-thinking, I suppose there could be a totalitarian response on the right.

anon 1 0 December 17, 2016 @ 7:19 pm: Total sophistry. Nobody is interested in the facts, that's why you suppress my comments, I know all about Nick Land's ambition for armchairisme and infinite publicity. This is ludicrous that these assholes can get publicity, although it doesn't make them famous. Nick Land is the most opportunistic creep and far to the right of Trump, whom he did not support (not quick enough collapse.) Yes, this thread is all a hoax, and Columbia has been Russian-hacked, as it were.

..... Nobody thinks Nazis were 'anti-white', you fucking idiot. That's the esoteric definition Land gives his ass-suckers so they think he's 'compelling' and don't throw him out even when they claim they're going to. The important meaning of 'Nazi' is the popular one.

Anonymous -- 14 6 December 13, 2016 @ 12:21 am: There is nothing inherently racist about Dark Enlightenment. The blog that it's based off of spends almost no time even discussing race, mostly just attacking republicans and progressives alike. There is absolutely no reason to think that the phrasing of "The Cathedral" is referencing a Nazi ceremony, not sure how the author got there. "The Cathedral" is a term for a supposed marriage of media and government and it's something that believers of DE actively despise - believing in and trying to destroy the "Cathedral" is almost the most important tenant of Dark Enlightenment.

Moldbug never praises Nazis (in fact he draws parallels to facism and Nazis when warning about the dangers of modern progressivism) and never suggests that whites are superior. ----- I disagree with DE on a lot of things but I am curious about it and have read in to it to understand it instead of to make angry articles about how it's a Nazi revival. Cyberpunk & The Cybernetic Culture Research Unit

So I've taken to trying to understand the bizarre stylings of the Cybernetic Culture Research Unit (CCRU). While many of the words and connections elude my attempts to parse them into familiar modes of cognition there is something about the blurring of thought space science culture and fiction that makes the most perfect sense.

"Cyberpunk torches fiction in intensity, patched-up out of cash-flux mangled heteroglossic jargons, and set in a future so close it connects: jungled by hypertrophic commercialization, socio-political heat-death, cultural hybridity, feminization, programmable information systems, hypercrime, neural interfacing, artificial space and intelligence, memory trading, personality transplants, body-modifications, soft- and wetware viruses, nonlinear dynamic processes, molecular engineering, drugs, guns, schizophrenia."

"The impetus is not so much inter- as anti-disciplinary, the concrete problem being the freeing up of thought as synaptic-connectivity from its prison as subject-bound logos. Following flows where they want to go leads not into random noise but out onto what Deleuze and Guattari call the plane of consistency . 'If we consider the plane of consistency, we notice that the most disparate things and signs move upon it: a semiotic fragment rubs shoulders with a chemical interaction, an electron crashes into a language, a black hole captures a genetic message... There is no 'like' here, we are not saying 'like an electron,' 'like an interaction', etc. The plane of consistency is the abolition of metaphor; all that consists is Real."

From Joseph Dodds' "Minding the Ecological Body: Neuropsychanalysis and Ecopsychanalysis." The whole essay is fascinating, and definitely worth reading!

Traversals in Nomadic Thinking: "Ecopsychanalysis" ---- Posted on May 9, 2013 by edmundberger -----

Antennas_CNT_15mar13_rex_b_646x430

Small tools of scientific perception in a vast cosmos -----

"A key problem identified by ecopsychology is how to overcome our experiential, academic, and scientific separation from nature. In so far as the division of mind and body is central for this divide, neuropsychanalysis deserves to have a place in this developing research. Neuropsychanalysis explores experimentally and theoretically the philosophically ancient discussion of the relation of mind and body, an issue at the heart of psychoanalysis from the start, with its early work on hysterical conversion and later developments in the psychosomatics of the Paris School and beyond. Neuropsychanalysis seems well placed to overcome the problem of a 'mindless' neuroscience and a 'brainless' psychology and psychotherapy, especially when combined with a greater awareness that the body itself, not only the brain, provides the material substrates for the emergent phenomenon we call the brain. However, there is further term missed from this perspective, which has far more relevance now than ever, which is that the mind-body is itself situated within a complex ecological world, interacting with other mind-brain bodies and with all that psychoanalysts referred to as the 'non-human environment.' This occurs both synchronically (webs of interaction at a given moment in time) and diachronically (e.g., the interactions over evolutionary deep time), as the organism and its environment (living and non-living) interact in highly complex often non-linear ways. Ecopsychology has argued that the split of mind from its wider ecological matrix is as disastrous as the related Cartesian split between mind and body, and is reflected in the current environmental crises we face. However, ecopsychology has problems of its own, in particular its tendency toward an 'eco-mysticism' that a more engaged relationship with the sciences of ecology, evolutionary biology, and neuroscience (cognitive, social, affective, and developmental) can help to counteract. The idea of the ecological body is a development of ecopsychology's suggestion of an 'ecological self' and an 'ecological unconsciousness,' with ecological relations and attachments seen as developing along more traditionally conceived object relations." ----- "The climate crisis is also a crisis of theory. Academia has divided human thought into a schizoid fragmented space but climate change forces us to think transversally, about a world of unpredictable, multiple-level, highly complex, non-linear interlocking systems. There is therefore a need for a way of thinking able to integrate the disparate strands of analysis, related to what Bion calls the working of linking, connected with the alpha-function and the dreamwork. Bion describes building links between mental objects, and the attack on linking characteristic of psychosis. When 'alpha-function' is compromised we are left with undigested fragments of experience: 'beta-elements' incapable of being woven into the tapestry of our psychic landscapes. We require a means of linking diverse elements together without losing their specificity."

I remembered this piece from 2013. It's quite good, though you would have been more on track if you had focused on the narcissism of the left. It got to the point where I had to wash my hands of my own left wing identity. The state that the left is in now leaves it indistinguishable from the radical right. There is not a straw man they won't construct, or a fabrication they won't make in service of their vaguely defined causes.

Every ideologue believes their cause is moral and just, and every ideology is horse shit.

old 2012 note: mark fisher reads his dystopian take from notes, which i much prefer 75% of talking heads would do to ameliorate their usual halt/surge delivery style/rut.

As to time, it s obvious why he never engaged me at hyperstition; my own approaches broken by distaste for his attention frequently turning to what i dismissed as kitschy minutiae in and from lives of noise makers .. whereas my taskmaster and teacher is silence ... and birds waaaay before musicians ... must be the old country/urban rift we failed to remold

Unforgiven -- Author : Charles Walters 2003-10-01

PDF Download Unforgiven Books For free written by Charles Walters and has been published by this book supported file pdf, txt, epub, kindle and other format this book has been release on 2003-10-01 with Business & Economics categories.

Charles Walters recognized the national and international implications of applied raw material economics as revealed in the analyses of the U.S. economy by Carl H. Wilken, Charles B. Ray, John Lee Coulter and J. Carson Adkerson. They demonstrated how all new wealth enters an economy as raw materials provided by Nature. By fairly monetizing these raw materials, an economy is diverse, balanced, and free of debt. Unforgiven is the definitive work on the subject, derived from Walters' research and in-depth interviews with Wilken, conducted shortly before his death in 1968. The crisis that this book addresses has become even more pronounced in the years since it first appeared - an increasing wealth gap, a crumbling internal economy, human and economic harm inflicted upon our trading partners, millions of family farmers driven from their land, and small, privately owned businesses becoming extinct, ultimately leaving millions of Americans either directly or indirectly dependent on government handouts for existence. Wilken feared the concentration of power "in a few strong hands" as the deadliest enemy of a free society and saw the demise of independent enterprise and the family farm as the final curtain for the most dramatic social experiment in history: the American Dream. In Unforgiven, Walters presents not only the causes and effects of our continuing rural and urban decay, but also a way to stop it - the construction of an economy operating in tune with the laws of physics.

Here, I created a diagram to show you that you have no need to be cautious.

As you can see, I connected six instances of  $288^\circ$  [ $1728^\circ$ ]. They are mathematically intertwined with two pyramids stacked upon one another; each universally valued at  $144^\circ$  to represent [The Breath Of Life].

Triangles create onion shaped geometry, which allow the Universe to create a quantum motion similar to breathing.

This explains the design of the "Mosque": https://scontent-ord.xx.fbcdn.net/hphotos-xtp1/v/t1.0-9/10660231\_475799045903935\_5196728971442779440\_n.jpg?oh=8bcba839164559d39bb4e69b47b62ca3&oe=55C4AE63

You can be assured that numerology was practiced by Einstein, Tesla, Jung, Euclid, Fibonacci, Pythagoras and Galileo.

I wouldn't endanger this planet by exploiting nature's innate responsibilities by denying mortality, weakness and dissolution to a pic i saved:

The paradox here is that logic appears flawed when it is greater and lesser than new forms of logic. My logic surpasses today's logic, there's a difference. To be fair, my knowledge is not my own. I'm a third dimensional biological vessel of frequencies and self awareness much like anyone else. The difference is that I am channeling information from the center of the Universe to create order out of chaos by translating universal language [abracadabra] into our language. I am communicating with the Creator, who gave me the name "Ava Bella Chronos", meaning Light, Love / War & Time. This should tell us all that our Creator is not a "being", but a manifestation of "what is becoming". I can prove to you that I can dance through conscientious forms by utilizing the true potential of the human brain to break the illusion that separates us from The Source of All Knowledge [Akashic Records]. Ava Bella Chronos told me that the code to Her Heart was "Love Love Love".

In the Gematria, Love Love Love in Jewish Gematria Equals: 2325. 3168 in Binary = 110001100000; 2 One's, 3 Zero's, 2 One's, 5 Zero's.

I am channeling divine knowledge that is intimately and conscientiously connected to geometry and reality.

Let's take  $G = 6.67$ , for an example.

This is coming from Max Planck. We can use this formula with unscathed confidence.

Now observe.  $6 \times 6 \times 7 = 252$ .

$252 + 252 = 504^\circ$ , which is also out of the infinite numbers, 1 of the 10 "untouchable" values.

$504 + 504 = 1008^\circ$ , which is a number that Hinduism referred to as "divine".

Keep in mind that the Moon's Radius is  $108^\circ$ ; its Diameter is  $216^\circ$  [ $108+108$ ].
 $216 + 216 = 432^\circ$ , which is the A Note in Music Theory, as well as a formula [Moon's Diameter x 432 x 100 = The Distance Between The Sun And Earth.]
 $432 + 432 = 864^\circ$ , which brings us back to a Complete Circle.

Greetings. -- July 27th, 2015 in General --- I aspire to demonstrate numbers in a more flashy way. The manner of which math is taught with today is no wonder why numbers are often seen as problems rather than solutions. I have finished a few of my projects already and plan on finishing more afterwards. My aim is to successfully entertain an audience with numbers and intellectually stimulating show work.

I signed up to be a part of this community because the music I used in my projects are found here.

You're a beginner in this. It's not a gift - it's a niche. You couldn't take it to a whole new level even if you tried. Your ego wouldn't let you.

While you making a fool out of yourself, I am over here earning respect.

I wonder why I can do this:  $360 = 36 \times 10$  --  $36 + 60 = 96$  ---  $96 \times 9 = 864$  ----  $864 \times 4 = 3456$  -----  $3 \times 4 \times 5 \times 6 = "360"$  -----
 $3456 \times 5 = 17280$

$1+2+3+4+5+6+7+8 = 36/360 = 3 + 6 + 9$  ..... Mm. Perhaps because I am a Mathematical Messiah, and you a forum troll that is using their trade analysis as the front of their argument, yet have zero benjamins from it.

Remove the decimal. The Matrix uses it to to separate numbers into two groups: "Cycle Count" for the left, and "Conscious Code" for the right.

Ever noticed that the number on the left is so bloody small compared to what lies on the right of the decimal? It's not Man-Made logic - it's quantum logic. So for an example,  $3 \times 141592653589 =$  Lots of 7's and matrix breaking magic because I actually know how to remove the damn decimals... I am more than aware of what Pi is. It even sounds like Pie. I have animated gifs of Pi. I work with Pi. I work with circles, geometry and platonic shapes all day, every day. 142857... is the Triangle. 3141592653589... is the Circle ----- Did you know that you can create the Yin & Yang by adding  $314 + 314 = 628$  is Tau. I have a formula that creates an infinite number of Tau... I'm quite sure I know what Pi is, if I can create existence from scratch...

Can we stop saying 3.141592653589 is more accurate than 3.14285714286?

#22042108 - 08/04/15 09:06 PM (1 year, 5 months ago)

3.142857142857 is more accurate than 3.141592653589, as I can prove the absolute precision of that statement of mine within this video I had made somewhat last night and today: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zi3JtKboxTI>

----- Teaser:  $552 \times 522 = 288144 = 144144144$ .

$288 + 144 = 432$  Universal Frequency;  $1/2$  of Sun's Diameter; Music Theory: A Note.

a liddul farther down:

It's not difficult to draw a circle, a child can do it. This Universe is so interesting because of its ability to become simple enough for a child to understand it, on top of its deeply encoded matrix. The Ancients used 3.14285714286 to create precise monuments that stood to this day.

At least the scientists have admitted that 3.1428571428576 stretches longer than 3.141592653589 recently, so even they are starting to notice that 3.141592653589 is the approximation - as 3.14285714286 is the precision of the Universal Design.

We as a collective group need to start realizing that our scientific community is far behind the ancient knowledge that once existed in our time.

The scientific community is built on individual ideas of people who are far beyond the practice of the scientific community, itself.

$3 \times 1 \times 4 \times 1 \times 5 \times 9 \times 2 \times 6 \times 5 \times 3 \times 5 \times 8 \times 9 = 3499200$ . Keep in mind that Speed Of Light is "299 792 458".

This is an approximation of Pi.

Here's the precise version:  $3 \times 1 \times 4 \times 2 \times 8 \times 5 \times 7 \times 1 \times 4 \times 2 \times 8 \times 6 = 2580480$

25848 is 7848, which is again 3.142857, or 1512, or 25.20, Sacred Cubit.

The power to waste lots of time punching numbers into a calculator and drawing wacky conclusions? Cool.

$552 \times 522 = 288144$  -----  $552 \times 522 = 2001 \times 144$

$2001 = 3 \times 23 \times 29$ , three of the channels that come in on my tv antenna, and the title of a famous movie that may at some point have aired on those channels.  $3 + 23 + 29 = 55$ , the 10th Fibonacci number, and the first two digits of the number 552 from before.  $- 5 + 5 = 10$ , the exact number of toes I have.

A passion for truth makes the carrier of which realize, sooner or later, he cannot be beholden to a commercial interest AND carry it to any sort of worthwhile completion, because a living sponsor are almost invariably tied to one or the other undead, expansionist culture which always co-opt and steal the reputé of those they hail and derailed from, which are not (*descendants tend to take care about removing the decency [[of autonomy and self-sufficiency]] from praxis and presence [banished to theme parks and museums instead, showing a mere sliver in neutered, miniaturized and sterile ways. But noooo, you have to go bother tibetans with projections of your pecadillos onto them and treat them like stupid white men treated their native american brethren; subject and expose them and all life around them to extinction threats. Well done. Not. Why don't you revise those proud noises according to the truths i told you and tone them down accordingly instead?

So it is kind of ironic since GNN did some important expose work on the CIA - mind control and drugs and even 9/11 connections. We can see that Anthony Lappe, founder of GNN, considers the expose of Trump being "compromised" as credible.

So we know Bannon, the Neo-Nazi anti-"islamic fascist" - epitomizes the ejaculation addiction primate chimp escalation of violence. He is obsessed with dopamine-cortisol escalation - inspired by the "Fight Club" film - the homoerotic dynamics of Brad Pitt glorifying fisticuffs as a bourgeois resurgence of real manhood. haha.

Kundalini sublimation? Nope - the "final solution" is the "nuclear option" that Bannon/Drumpf keep promoting. And so Antisemitism and Antiscience was not some crazed chapter in my book but an accurate expose predicting the dynamic that now controls the U.S. Empire!!

NYU Professor Robert Shapiro describes what scientists call "vital clay" and is the secret goal of unified field alchemical volcanic-tantric technology: "Network silicates, bearing names such as quartz and feldspar, are the principal components of the volcanic rocks of the earth. The sheets, however, will draw our attention, because of their possible life-bearing properties....The stacks of 'pages' may pile up.... The stacks, viewed on edge, are not always straight but sometimes bend into wormlike or 'vermiform' shapes.... In this scenario, an evolving clay-mineral system was the first life to appear on earth. The plot offers many advantages not possessed by those featuring original organisms built of carbon." ("Origins: A skeptic's guide to the creation of life on earth," 1987).

Parapsychology Steven M. Rosen explicitly states that science is an alchemical project based on the tantric three-dimensional snake or vampire-worm bending back and eternally regenerating itself. Michael Talbot's book "The Holographic Universe" and his occult-illuminati science-researched fiction, "The Delicate Dependency" and "The Bog" give very vivid descriptions of this non-local consciousness dimension to technology.

RUSSIA TO BECOME AN ECO-VILLAGE NATION?

by William H. KÄ¶tke

The idea of "Kin Domains," greatly expands, in time and space, the tradition of families having a rural plot, called dachas, where they relax in the summer and grow gardens. The idea has grown out of a series of books by Vladimir Megre which feature the contemporary Russian-Siberian eco-mystic, Anastasia. (www.ringingcedars.com)

The Anastasia eco-spiritual movement has organized in most major Russian cities and has its own political party that is aligned with the parties supporting Putin. The books have also sparked eco-village organizing in many countries in Asia, Eastern Europe, Western Europe and the english speaking countries. The basic idea of the Kin Domain is for each family to live self-sufficiently on their domain using Permaculture concepts, while those that choose, can organize their plots into eco-villages that feature crafts and local production.

LAND OFFERED

Medvedev speaks of the district of Belgorod Oblast, near the Ukraine border that he has visited, where political moves are already under way toward arranging land for this idea in that area.

"Thus the idea of Kin's Domains in this regard is absolutely positive and it is related to the idea of low-rise construction. By the way, those processes are going quite well in some regions. Let's take, for example, the Belgorod oblast. I happened to drop by into one of the offices with the Governor. This office is in charge of registration of paperwork for the land and I was surprised in a good way by the price for land. Not too much, not one hectare yet. However, enough for building projects. They offered about 2500 sq.m, if I'm not mistaken. And the price for this land in today's Russia sounds almost "funny" - something around 10-15 thousand roubles ($300-$400 USD). So one can get such piece of land but on certain terms and conditions: within 5 years there must be a house build there. And for three years this house can't be sold not to allow any profiteering.

Arnica

This was a very exiting day for me when I discovered arnica here in the Valchuisella. It grows a little higher than Ravenwood at about 1000 meters above sea level. We are 800 meters above sea level.

I harvested a few flower heads and infused them in olive oil for a few months, then strained the oil and heated it slightly to add a little beeswax to make an ointment. It is great for bumps and bruises.

Putin's friends include people willing to stay away from toxins and alcohol. He rewards people with free title to land lent free for 5 years on condition they have a finished house by the end of it ... so RH says 'only' but that includes the best possible people in my opinion. hello jannis, i haven't heard from tmq for months and months. i am hoping you can alleviate worries or pass the query along. She is a stellar figure not only in the questS for CRESTs* but for me personally cause proven to be just about the only one in the entire JA following who never lost patience with my input (though i suspect she ignored it more often than not), even treefrog081 won't brook me on his blog apparently, though his 3day window doctrine fits tmq's 3d plus and/or minus moonday fluxdiff with the 'official' 13moontimers perfectly i'd say.

* = time to step the safe space up into zones for grounding purposes .. make'm watershed wide, while we still have a choice of those left worth protecting.

I can see how the kind of dynamics too subtle to not seem hesitance - or, like aldo costa, wesseli, bessler or my preferred kinds of 'dustifications', the garden/kitchen integration, and the efforts of other rock 'currency' minting advocates, run the risk of being called frauds - is a turn off and i forgive any and all touchlosers but, as i said, i'm worried cause she did fall severely in mexico once already.

133  $19 \times 7$ , 19th order of 7, mystic mid-point in 19 = 260 code, vigesimal  $6.13 = 19$ . Kin 133 = 3 Skywalker, seal 13, tone 3, = 3.13 Genesis code, supreme sign of the resurrection

Today marks 28 Tzolkin spins since Dr. Jose Arguelles emerged from a TimeTunnel of tranceformation on K133 remembered his past, re-stored his cosmic self and re-framed his spiritual name as Valum Votan. "The Heart of the people- the heart of Nine" (Valum 9 x Votan 3 = 27)

K133 is also at the center/core of the 19=260 Matrix. The scripture Holy Quran and the Law of Time is a text initiated by Jose on K259 Self-Existing 27 during the 6th year of Prophecy and compares the little understood Quran and the codes of the vigesimal (0-19) Maya time science. Note that in 2013, EXACTLY 5200 days 20 tzolkins from its inception, pope Ben Ratzinger by his Galactic Signature K133 announced his "stepping down from the throne" on K259. Thus matching as if divinely choreographed and with perfect elegance into this occult matrix of redemption. "Today, Red Electric Skywalker, Self-Existing Moon 6, (Oct. 23 1997) is exactly one spin since I emerged from the 28-day Time Tunnel, "Retrieving the Divine Plan" (20 Tablets Instruction Manual, p. 13). The arrival of these 20 Tablets of the Law of Time was synchronically ordered by the Rinri Project opening of the first half of the first psi bank plate. It took another 24 days to transcribe all of the information, and prepare an initial set of Tablets for a press conference in Costa Rica.

This press conference occurred on Magnetic Warrior [K196=11+185/Uranus Bode #], exactly 91 days later (13 weeks of 7 days each, 7 perfect wavespells of 13 days each).

The 91-day interval marking the precise commencement of the Time Tunnel, "Retrieving the Divine Plan", and the press conference was marked by two solar flares of unusual magnitude, which heightened the intensity of Earth's electromagnetic field by 10,000 times."

if we look at 2280 and 2271 as fractals of Kin 228 and 227, then the "end of the world" will occur in the eighteenth year, 2014-2015, following 1997, when this sequencing of Moon to Kin equivalents reaches Kin 227 and 228. Note that 227 is the same as the ratio  $22/7$ , or the date 22.7, Resonant Moon 22, the anniversary of Khalifa's death, while  $228 = 19 \times 12$  (difference of 7). When will this occur? Rhythmic Moon 2014- 15, would be the equivalent of Kin 227, and Resonant Moon 2015, would be the equivalent of Kin 228. Note that Moon/Kin 228 â€"209 = 19 Moons after the galactic synchronization date July 26, 2013. The 25th anniversary of Khalifa's martyrdom would, of course, occur during this nineteenth Moon of the Galactic Synchronization, 7.22 , AD 2015, being coded by Kin 198, Electric Mirror, the fifth of the seven "lost generations" of the Telektonon Prophecy of Pacal Votan. The penultimate Moon 227, corresponds to v.227, the final verse of Sura 26, the number that codes Khalifa's "Night of Destiny," Ramadan 26. "Exempted are those who believe, lead a righteous life, commemorate God frequently, and stand up for their rights. Surely, the transgressors will find out what their ultimate destiny is." 26:227.

It is not my intention to predict the end of the world, but only to point to some further possible interpretations of Khalifa's conclusions in the light of the Law of Time. It is the purpose of the Law of Time to balance the Ledger of History and announce the return of UR. However in consideration of what awaits humanity in the years 2013-2015, it is well to consider the following three verses: 20:13, 20:14, 20:15 : "I have chosen you, so listen to what is being revealed." 20:13 = AD 2013 K19: ALPHA 2 ENTER 1ST GATE OF REDEMPTION 1.07.2016 19 K259: OMEGA2 RATZINGER 133 "FALL OF THRONE" ON K259 02.28.2013 "I am God, there is no other god beside Me. You shall worship Me alone and observe the Contact Prayers (Salat) to remember Me." 20:14 = AD 2014. "The Hour (end of the world) is surely coming; I will keep it almost hidden. For each soul must be paid for its works. " 20:15 = AD 2015.

Harris' reply & overview: <https://www.samharris.org/blog/item/speaking-of-truth-with-jordan-b.-peterson>

Very disappointing. Peterson would've had to answer for much had Harris pressed him on his concession that *some* individuals who are badly off can be morally justified in pulling the plug on themselves, but somehow this cannot apply to entire populations or worlds that can feasibly end up just as badly off as the one individual, and thus collectively want no part of life anymore. How would Peterson deal with such a scenario? Force-feed existence to them, or just enough of it to just enough of them so that the species keeps on doing its thing? I wonder.

Alan Green - presenting "Dee-Coding Shakespeare"

Dan Winter - 5K -- 511 views - Feb 24, 2017 --- Alan Green - presenting "Dee-Coding Shakespeare" Feb 19,2017 - from www.fractalU.com host Dan Winter - more discussion John Dee www.goldenmean.info/oophanim - By in-depth analysis of coherent and geometric pattern recognition, Alan Green reveals John Dee's cutting-edge scientific knowledge and cryptographic mastery as the revelation motor in the mystery of Shakespeare's identity. This completely new information has profound implications that will surely restore Dee's maligned reputation from the dustbin of history to the pinnacle of respect and awe we all know he rightfully deserves.

Green has worked in seclusion for twelve years to bring the world a previously unsuspected side to the Enochian Tables as Rosetta Stone, unpacking an amazing spiritual science hidden deep within the Shakespeare subterfuge. By matching the 624 Enochian squares to the 624 characters of Shakespeare's Gravestone, Monument, and Sonnets Dedication, Green reveals Dee and "Shakespeare" to be the mathematical / poetical / spiritual polymaths of the Age!

In a stunning tour de force you will witness how Dee has embedded twelve of the world's most significant math constants (AND the precise geographical coordinates of the Great Pyramid!) into the innocent-looking punctuation of the Sonnets title page. Shakespeare states emphatically in Sonnet 121: "I AM THAT I AM". Green reveals, for the first time, how the poet got away with printing such a statement which, at the time, would have been viewed as outright blasphemy, punishable by prolonged torture and death. There's more than a historical blockbuster here -- there are ultimately the questions of BEING/BECOMING immortal by knowing the real wave science. Hence www.tobeornottobe.org.

Anonymous----- February 24, 2017 at 11:40 PM ---- OK the above was comedy = now back to reality:
Epigenetics â€” it's what everyone's serving for breakfast these days. Nonlinear photon pumping â€” transposons, horizontal gene transfer, retro-viruses. Evolution ain't what it used to be. Read Dr. Mae-Wan Ho's book "The Rainbow and the Worm" â€” biophotons are real!
Joel Sternheimer's protein music is another great example. Here's two other "less reductionist" professors I recommend: William Calvin and Michael Corballis. So with Calvin we have the whole global "pump" punctuated equilibrium argument. 2.5 mya â€” global warming causes permanent bipedalism in hominids â€” this is the "lop-sided ape" argument of Corballis.
Put the two together and you get the reductionist trajectory of left-brain, right-hand technology - just a reflection of quantum chaos (moon-sun-earth) dynamics mind you. Already, 2 mya, more chips in the flint causes better cutting tool. Reductionism.
The real issue is arboreality and asymmetry and which sense is dominant â€” visual or auditory. When we were in the trees (our I should say our common ancestor with orangutans, some 20 mya, according to Schwartz) the inner ear connecting to our cerebellum created some bizarre effects. The full-lotus yoga posture recreates this brain symmetry by the way. Brain plasticity is truly amazing! Bird calls create ultrasonics which resonate the stomata of plants so that nutrients are absorbed from the morning dew. Try to recreate that in a petry dish - as Louis Kervan details in his book "Biological Transmutations" - it's not gonna happen.
"Gossip, Grooming and the Evolution of Language" by Professor Robin Dunbar.
It might be that bird behavior better suits human behavior than any of the primates. The inner ear of humans is the jaw of our pineal-gland "inner smile" â€” the melatonin bliss resonated into DMT vision that connects with nonlocal consciousness. It's no accident that the golden ratio is the inner ear. Or try this out â€” hydrocarbon cycle becomes secret to vortex engines through implosion via thermogradients. Viktor Schauberger â€” not a professor but he understood Nature better than most.
Of course positronium research is totally classified.

Denis Noble rocks the troubador music -- The authors argue that Qigong experts maintained more deeply internalized and relaxed theta activity in the frontal lobe, which reflects an attentive mind.

The finding of increased theta activity after physical Qigong training in eyes-closed conditions in our study indicates that internalized attention might be reached more easily when attention and breathing behavior is guided by movements in Qigong training.

Awesome --- The activities of the brain and the heart are dynamic, chaotic, and possibly intrinsically coordinated. This study aims to investigate the effect of Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR) program on the chaoticity of electronic activities of the brain and the heart, and to explore their potential correlation. Electroencephalogram (EEG) and electrocardiogram (ECG) were recorded at the beginning of an 8-week standard MBSR training course and after the course. EEG spectrum analysis was carried out, wavelet entropies (WE) of EEG (together with reconstructed cortical sources) and heart rate were calculated, and their correlation was investigated. We found enhancement of EEG power of alpha and beta waves and lowering of delta waves power during MBSR training state as compared to normal resting state. Wavelet entropy analysis indicated that MBSR mindfulness meditation could reduce the chaotic activities of both EEG and heart rate as a change of state. However, longitudinal change of trait may need more long-term training. For the first time, our data demonstrated that the chaotic activities of the brain and the heart became more coordinated during MBSR training, suggesting that mindfulness training may increase the entrainment between mind and body.

So the five elements - the stupa -..... The ear starts first at the surface of the skin as a small gill-like slit. Gradually it burrows, spirals inward, deep down in the petrous portion of the temporal bone. According to Dr. Albert Soesman, author of Our Twelve Senses: Wellsprings of the Soul, this is the hardest bone in the body. Humans are the only mammals where the inner ear is protected so carefully. This fetal ear is comparable to a fully functioning adult ear. We are sound beings.

The symbol commonly opposed to the cross, as the witches' object of worship; in pagan tradition, the Great Mother's cosmic womb. As the "pot of blood in the hand of Kali," the cauldron signified cyclic recurrence, as opposed to the patriarchal view of linear time. Shakespeare followed the traditional pattern in associating the cauldron with three witches, since, from its earliest appearances in Bronze Age and Iron Age cultures, the cauldron stood for the Triple Goddess of fate, or wyrd in Old English: the three Weird Sisters.<sup>1</sup> The Egyptian hieroglyphic sign of the threefold Creatress, mother of the sun, the universe, and all the gods, was a design of three cauldrons.<sup>2</sup> The Norse god Odin stole his divine power from three cauldrons of Wise Blood in the cave-womb of the earth, where he entered in the shape of a phallic serpent and beguiled the earth-giantess by making love to her. <sup>3</sup> Then he drank the magic blood from the cauldrons and became a shape-shifter, turning himself into a bird to carry the precious blood back to other gods. This myth was based on that of the Aryan sky-god Indra, who also drank the Goddess's ambrosia from three cauldrons, the three wombs of Kali's trinity.<sup>4</sup> Indra stole the elixir by allowing himself to be swallowed by a vast serpent representing female sexuality (Kundalini). He too turned into a bird to carry the elixir to other gods. In nearly all mythologies there is a miraculous vessel. Sometimes it dispenses youth and life, at other times it possesses the power of healing, and occasionally, as with the mead cauldron of the Nordic Ymir, inspiring strength and wisdom are to be found in it. Often ... it effects transformations. <sup>s</sup>

The cauldron that effected transformations was the same as the womb that churned out rebirths, changing shapes each time. In Babylon it was under the control of the Fate-goddess Siris, mother of stars. Her cauldron was the blue heaven, where she stirred the mead of regeneration. "Siris, the wise woman, the mother, who had done what was necessary. Her cauldron is of shining lapis lazuli. Her tub is of pure silver and gold. In mead stands jubilation, in mead sits rejoicing." <sup>6</sup> Lapis lazuli was the blue heaven stone prized for its power to cause rebirth. The Papyrus of Nekhtu-Amen said an amulet of lapis lazuli stood for the heart (ab), source of mother-blood; therefore the amulet was inserted into a mummy to generate a new heart for the deceased.<sup>7</sup>

Roy Neil Graves ----- 1. Shakespeare's Lost Sonnets, The Runes:

Published texts and primary and secondary commentaries on the Runes and their discovery

The 154 Lost Sonnets, how the 1609 Quarto hides them, and how they can be restored:

In 1979 I discovered that the 1609 Quarto text of William Shakespeare's Sonnets (Q)â€”which comprises 154 visible sonnets in a form illustrated later on this pageâ€”embeds another 154 sonnet-length texts that have been lost nearly 400 years. These 154 lost texts are intentionally authorized compositions, not my own fabrications. Each lost text systematically "recycles" 14 of the visible lines in the Sonnets. Shakespeare buried the 154 lost texts in Q by means of sequence, parallelism, and a number system that is based on the "numbers" of the sonnet form itself. The 154 lost texts are gamelike and challenging, but all of them reveal complex patterns of wit and meaning and can be paraphrased. Whom the poet wrote the private poems for and why he wrote them are questions that I have theoretical answers for, but answering those questions is not absolutely essential to an evaluation of the buried texts themselves.

last update 2010

http://www.utm.edu/%7Engraves/shakespeare
all of the frontpage:

There's no credible-sounding way to announce what this website documents:

The 1609 Quarto text of William Shakespeare's Sonnets (Q), a cycle of 154 visible poems, embeds another, hidden cycle of 154 sonnet-length texts—the Lost Sonnets, or, alternately, the Runes.

The purpose of this website is to publish these restored texts, lost some 400 years. Each of these newfound poems shows sense and wit. Each is riddlic, gamy, and consciously crafted. Each can be paraphrased. Each is Shakespeare's composition, not mine.

By calling Will's buried cycle the Runes, I adapt an ancient generic term for arcane writings: A rune is a cryptic poem or riddlic communication. The term recurs as a coy pun in the Q verses—as, for example, in the odd-looking Q line "Bare run'nd quires [i.e., 'stacks of paper'] where late the 'Sweet Bard S.' sang" (see Q's letterstring Bare rn'wd quiers.. in Sonnet 73.4), and also in "Roughwindes do shake..." (Sonnet 18.3), where the term links with a namepun. As RVON..., it's also a second-column acrostic pun in Rune 1. (Will, of course, lived in an era that allowed erratic spellings, and he relished puns.) Even though I'm sure personally that the term carries Will's authority as a coterie generic label, it shouldn't become a stumbling block to anyone who questions it.

I found the Runes in 1979, and this site continues the on-going process of making them known to (rightly incredulous) modern readers.

Published in this universal medium, these long-lost poems are now free to anyone who wants to read, study, enjoy, and validate them.

A public writer who didn't see himself as precious, Will, I think, would approve of this global venue as a modern stage for mounting his work, with groundlings welcome.

Concurrently while writing the Sonnets, Will—as he likes to call himself in his verses—composed and hid these poems, systematically "recycling" the same 2,157 lines that make up the visible Sonnets so as to generate and simultaneously embed an astounding succession of playful poems that until now have lain hidden and gone unread. The endlessly debated cycle of Sonnets in Q is, in effect, an elaborate double entendre, an extended overall pun in which each line of verse does double duty—once in the Sonnets and once in the Runes. Each line in Q takes on a different complex of meanings in the Runes from those it has always had in the visible Sonnets. (Those public meanings are, of course, complex.) The fluidity of meaning in the Q lines is one element that makes the Runes possible.

As 14-line poems, the Runes are similar to the Sonnets but are unrhymed, more cryptic, more gamelike, and more associative in their organization plans.

Necessarily, the themes and conceits of the Sonnets and the Runes overlap.

To hide the Runes, Will used an organization scheme that relies on sequence, parallelism, and the number system of the sonnet form itself. Anyone who understands this scheme can restore the lost texts to their original form.

All in all, the poet's hidden plan is a brilliant lost example of suppressed design (or sprezzatura) that is wholly compatible with Renaissance aesthetic principles and practices. The published format in Q obliterates almost all overt indicators of the existence of the Runes. Working in reverse, I've reconstructed how the Q texts might have looked in the oversized, hand-scripted format that I believe Will originally used. (Link: How Will Wrote the Runes) Each text published here is a unique recovered artifact, an addition to the Shakespearean canon that carries in itself its own stamps of authenticity because it shows meaning and wit beyond what happenstance could ever have generated. The marvelous intricacies of the texts allow new, up-close glimpses into the workings of our greatest literary mind.

Though much remains mysterious, many of the long-debated mysteries about the 1609 Quarto begin to clarify themselves as we start to think openly of Q as a Game intended to pull the leg of posterity. (The "rival poet," for example, is surely Will as runewriter.)

Indeed, finding the Runes forces revaluation of every aspect of the Sonnets and calls into question many of our received opinions, including all the cherished ones.

The links at left allow ready access to the Lost Sonnets in their unedited, edited, and paraphrased forms. Some links also offer backgrounds and interpretations that may help readers make sense of the Runes. The judgment of history about these poems will be an evolving process that any literate person can now take part in.

My own theories and speculations should never detract from the texts themselves. In particular, academic quarrels with my inevitable errors and misconstructions shouldn't obscure the hard evidence here—the incontrovertible body of primary artifacts that this site showcases.

As finder, first editor, and—for the short span of a lifetime—modern custodian of the Runes, I invite your interactions and comments.

Like Dr. Johnson as he brought forth his Dictionary, I take pride in what I've been able to do in this undertaking but must beg readers to be indulgent toward its shortcomings.

In adapting the textual components of this site from a 600+pp. book ms. that I drafted in the late 1990s, I know that the complex process of reformatting materials into this non-linear medium will trigger oversights, inconsistencies, and gaps.

Smart readers here will seek out a clear view of the forest amid the distractions of all the trees. There's simply no easy way to lay out such a complex and mind-boggling discovery.

In general, these lost poems also aren't easy. (Neither, of course, are the visible Sonnets.) Since Rune 1 makes sense as readily as many of the Sonnets do, it's a good place to start. (Link: An Easy Sample Text) RNG. Last site revision 16 November 2005.

The Hidden "G.F.Handel" Signature - in Handel's Messiah ---- by Roy Neil Graves --- Copyright 2001, All rights reserved

Handel's funeral effigy in Westminster Abbey --- (by Louis FranÃ§ois Roubiliac, 1760)

This piece first came out in The Norris [Tennessee] Bulletin on 6 December, 2001, under the title "And all flesh shall see it together": The Hidden Signature in Handel's Messiah, by Roy Neil Graves, Professor of English, The University of Tennessee at Martin. The article is for a general audience and is not formally documented, but the sources of information are reputable and generally available. Posted 31 August 2005.

A year ago, in the fall of 2000 during a Choral Society rehearsal of Handel's Messiah here in Martin, Tennessee, I found what looks and sounds like "G. F. Handel" hidden in the texture of this recurring Christmas classic. If the nameplay is an authorized signature, as I believe, it offers the first proof that Handel played witty games in his music.

another show of doubling hints at and celebrations of the fact we are in a new castle, striking out on a fresh fold, in 'nuw' directions (my old pal robert grace at greatdreams):

The 8 Sided Cheops Pyramid: Evidence Points To The Doubling

There are several Authors who have already grasped the concept that the Cheops Pyramid is only half of the complete Pyramid, by different methods, at different times:

Mark Mc Carron (markmccarron\_it@hotmail.com): Establishes that the Cheops Pyramid has 8 sides.

ASM Data: 99.23.7 Re: Grid LAT of Gr. Pyr (Michael Morton) Establishes that the Cheops Pyramid has 8 sides, although he probably means the 4 kinked (indented) double sides of the upright pyramid (July 2001).

In a message dated 07/05/2001 6:24:43 PM Pacific Daylight Time: "The square-based, 4-sided Giza pyramids .. the 3 main ones .. implies another 4 sides "underground" .. 8 sides .. an octagon. " (Milamo@aol.com)

CrystalLinks:SIRIUS / DOUBLE PYRAMID (By Ellie, CrystalLinks, Found on 11/20/01). Still another version of the inversion (bottom of page). In this case, the inverted hidden half of the pyramid is placed above the visible half with the following quote explaining:

"The Great Pyramid (like Sirius) too has an "invisible twin"! The height of the Great Pyramid is exactly one half pi (22/7) in relationship to the sum of the sides of its base! The 1/2 pi gives "the big clue" regarding the pyramid's "other half".

David Hammel, in July, 1999, postulated there is an inverted pyramid under the visible upright pyramid but only develops a spiral within that inverted pyramid. I just discovered his page today, 5/14/00. Knowing that the Giza pyramid is a copy of this Octahedron encompassing universe, I find David's statement plausible.

Kenneth Bakeman developed a theory of an underground pyramid but his site is offline at present (03/24/02). Instead of inverting the upright pyramid and then flipping the whole image left to right, as I do, Kenneth just inverts the upright pyramid, in this study. Reflections on the Great Pyramid's Underground Plan by Kenneth Bakeman (Found 5/26/01)

My Theory: My diagram (Grace, 1999) differs with David and Kenneth's conclusions. David extends the upright side lines into one pyramid while I invert / flip the upright pyramid. We can see now what the phrase "it was built from the top down" may mean. One view is the upside-down half obviously was built from the "top down" to the base but the other more likely view of this saying is that chaos, or no.thing began the cosmogony of universe at the apex (top, Level 8) downward to Level 1 of the 7 Level World.

In my method (Grace, 1999), if a drawing is made of the interior passages and chambers of the Giza pyramid, then is inverted / flipped and placed under the original upright pyramid, attached base to base to make an 8-sided octahedron, the shape become a diamond with the apex inverted below and not as David indicated with his extended side lines forming one larger pyramid, nor as Kenneth with one inversion only, nor as the third theory of an invisible pyramid above. This is done to fulfill the hints of its proper intent as a pyramid.

Hints of Doubling: In Buckminsters Fuller's synergetics there is very often 2 units attached to his frequency calculations.

In physics it is said that the electron has to rotate 2 times to return to its original position.

In my study of comparing musical scales to the Mayan Tzolkin, I found, in certain scales often, 2 bactun left over. Luigi Di Martino develops the Mode Box of ancient musical scale using the Dorian scale as the median between 2 counter-spiraling directions of scale, thus connecting these 7 ancient scale progressions to information I found concerning Newtons prism light experiments noting the Dorian scale raised to the 2/3 power, as intervals.

In cosmology, I deduced there is a hidden 1 / 2 side (reciprocal of 2) concerning "This side" and the "Other side".

THE SUPREMACY OF THE SACRED CUBIT Upon the Great Pyramid of Giza ----- Copyright 2013 by Doug Krieger

Base Edge of the GPG: 756 Feet * 4 (square perimeter) = 3,024 Feet * 3 (cubed) = 9,072 Feet and since this "object" is half of an Octahedron we must, of necessity, double the configuration:

9,072 Feet * 2 (top and bottom of the Octahedron = 18,144 or 18,144) which are the two primary numbers of the New Jerusalem - i.e., the "18" of her perimeter and the '144' for her wall.

and this (also on doubling the pyramid and the difference with a platonic .. more universal octa) watch out for the perverted arboreality PROTECTION FORCES around here (ALSO KNOWN AS HASBARITES) declaring this 'off-topic' ...

This doesn't make any sense. Half an octahedron is a whole square pyramid. ----- Semaphore Oct 27 '14 at 20:18.

@Semaphore : Correct. But a square pyramid is not necessarily half an octahedron. ----- user50746 Oct 27 '14 at 22:12

For example, the polyhedron in this picture is a square pyramid, but it's clearly not half an octahedron:

In short, no. Relevant pages on how the angles were laid out are on Wikipedia and here in more detail. -----

Comintern Oct 27 '14 at 23:28

You might read your own Wikipedia reference. An octahedron is a polygon with 8 faces. What you're apparently looking for is a REGULAR octahedron, where all the faces are equilateral triangles. By definition, any pyramid is half of an octahedron. ----- jamesqf Jul 15 '15 at 18:54

2 Answers

For a pyramid to be "half an octahedron", its height must be the width divided by  $\sqrt{2}$ . Examination of the List of Egyptian pyramids shows that this is not the case.

Sneferu:  $220 / (105 \cdot \sqrt{2}) = 1.481557$

Khufu:  $230.3 / (146.6 \cdot \sqrt{2}) = 1.110823$

Menkaure:  $103.4 / (65.5 \cdot \sqrt{2}) = 1.116257$

i.e., they are flatter than "half an octahedron".

There is a pyramid that was built too steeply and collapsed. A nearby pyramid had its angle hastily changed and is the "Bent" pyramid. ----- Oldcat Oct 27 '14 at 23:39..

Even the Bent Pyramid was built half a millennium before the first Egyptian writings on Geometry. Considering that fact that the first two writings happened to be on calculating the area of pyramids, I think the evidence is as conclusive as a person could reasonably hope for that that is the shape they had in mind while building the pyramids. ----- T.E.D.â™! Jul 15 '15 at 17:48

I suppose the gist of this questions is whether the faces of the pyramids are equilateral triangles. The answer to this question is "no", the faces of the pyramids are not equilateral triangles.

platonic octa versus doubled giza

i'm planning to chase down the closest arguments i can find comparing platonic shapes vs the realities (& constants) incorporating 'pyramysteries' .. which are perhaps, even more so, 'reality' planning ones, secrecy used as a selection process with scar(r)y results. Universality vs hierarchy basically. Or, as the case may turn out to be, beneath the tabulation lines, the reverse: platonic shapes are the sterile abstract ones and the complex ones true and pointing to the natural constants. I might be prejudiced in favor of not making this a black and white verdict down the road, from taking in loads of gems. Prettiest site for that:

Well, here for now, ends a first sharing this all too typical thread (2 handfuls of responses [and a spammie] at the time of posting [2013] beneath a Doug Krieger article is a first feeble result in a season i declare the hunt for opening source, the grounded[, so safe] version of open source culture)

HEARTS IN THE HIMALAYAS

CFTWFILMS - 26

5,459 views - Nov 12, 2012

Of the 30,000 humanitarian organizations operating in Nepal, one tiny Nepalese NGO accomplished what no other mission could. Award-winning humanitarian journalist Debi Lang spent two years documenting the efforts of this humanitarian organization, which has made a significant impact in the lives of thousands of rural Nepalese villagers.

Hearts In The Himalayas profiles the efforts of Himalayan HealthCare (HHC), a driven and dedicated volunteer organization that, for the last twenty years has provided medical care, education, and income generation opportunities to the mostly forgotten people living in the remote foothills of the Ganesh-Himal mountain range. HHC volunteers, led by tenacious co-founder Anil Parajuli and his dedicated Nepalese staff, endure harsh conditions and treacherous terrain during a trek to bring much needed medical and dental care to these areas. The film integrates compelling footage shot during an Everest-size expedition fraught by challenges with a powerful narrative as Parajuli takes them into the stunning beauty of the Himalayas which mask the brutal conditions and poverty the villagers face everyday.

spectacular docu .. but emphasis remains on health, ed, income generating craft .. even as they show what is obviously an improvised church and part of the package

they see themselves as neutral in the 10 year long civil war but are in fact of course, catalysts in it as christian colonialists without in fact admitting to it, iow, with phoney hypocrisy uptick

abstract:

In programming and bioinformatics, the graphical interface is vital to describe and to abbreviate aspects and concepts of the physical world. The Mayan Culture developed the vigesimal system, a numerical system based on their count of fingers and toes. My objective is to equate the Mayan system and their numerical representation to the twenty amino acids according to size, except for the number one, represented by a dot, that here is given to cysteine, which acts as glue among peptides as one of its properties; in such a way, two vertical dots will be easily used to represent is related selenocysteine. The Mayan numerical system included the zero, represented by the Maya with an empty shell that here is used to represent the stop codons. On the other hand, the Chinese had a binary numerical system, similar to the binary comparisons of the three properties of Nucleotides within the double helix: H-Bonds, C-Rings and Tautomerism, called the I Ching which here is applied to the natural groups of amino acids that result of the 64-codons compared binary in their H-Bonds versus their C-Rings, used here to successfully represent the mature sequence of the glucagon amino acids. Additional anatomical tools for the mnemonics of the genetic code and of its amino acid groups are also presented as well as a functional icosahedron to represent them. Concluding, tools are presented for the visual analysis of proteins and peptide sequencing in bioinformatics and education to teach the genetic code and its resulting amino acids, plus their numerical systems.

"GAP Kin 239: Blue Overtone Storm Codes the 26th Day of the Crystal Moon and the 26th day of June 2014"

This week, President Vladimir Putin [a Resonant Human currently in his Electric Earth year] made a big stand for the health and survival of Planetary Humans when he told President Barak Obama [[[Self-Existing Skywalker who is in his Solar-Galactic Return year]]] to "Stop Monsanto or I WILL!"

<http://www.whatdoesitmean.com/index1778.htm> ----- June 22, 2014 ----- Putin Orders War Alert, Tells Obama: "Stop Monsanto, Or We Will" ----- By: Sorch Faal, and as reported to her Western Subscribers ----- An ominous memorandum from the Office of the President (OP) circulating in the Kremlin today states that President Putin ordered Russian military forces on "full combat alert" yesterday after a nearly two-hour long conversation with President Obama early Saturday morning wherein the Russian leader told his American counterpart: "Stop Monsanto, or we will." ----- According to this memorandum, Putin, while visiting the Stavropol State Agrarian University this past Thursday (18 June) was advised by top scientific experts that the ongoing bee apocalypse occurring in the United States is now entering its "gravest stage" and has the ability to threaten the entire global food supply, which in turn could lead to unprecedented unrest around the world.

After receiving this information, this memorandum continues, Putin ordered it to be conveyed to Obama with an "urgent notice" that Russia expected the United States to act on these "grave concerns" immediately. ----- In their subsequent telephonic conversation on Saturday relating to this matter, this memorandum says, Obama "advised" Putin that late Friday afternoon (19 June), upon his receiving the information, he signed an Emergency Executive Memorandum ordering his regime to develop a plan for protecting pollinators such as honey bees, butterflies, birds and bats. ----- The order Obama sent to all of his Cabinet secretaries and agency heads further stated: "The problem is serious and requires immediate attention to ensure the sustainability of our food production systems, avoid additional economic impact on the agricultural sector, and protect the health of the environment." ----- Obama's emergency order also shockingly states that the number of bee colonies in the United States has declined from 6 million in 1947 to 2.5 million today, and with pollinators such as bees having such a profound economic impact as they contribute more than $24 billion dollars to the US economy could lead to an agricultural apocalypse for America should they disappear entirely. ----- Though Putin was appreciative of Obama's immediate action regarding this "grave situation", this memorandum further notes, he became "enraged" after Obama failed to give assurances that the US-EU backed regime in Ukraine would forbid the introduction of GMO crops into that nation, and which at that point Putin stated, "Stop Monsanto, or we will", and within the hour ordered tens-of-thousands of Russian military forcers to immediately go on full combat alert. ----- Important to note is that Russia shares a 2,295 kilometer (1,426 miles) border with Ukraine and Putin has previously deemed as a "threat to Russian national security" any GMO crops being planted in Ukraine due to the possibility of their "infecting" Russian crops too. ----- In our 10 May 2013 report "Russia Warns Obama: Global War Over "Bee Apocalypse" Coming Soon", in fact, we had related Russian leaders "extreme outrage" over the Obama regimes continued protection of global seed and plant bio-genetic giants Syngenta and Monsanto in the face of this growing "bee apocalypse" that the Kremlin warned "will most certainly" lead to world war.

The Outer Limits of Psychoanalysis: An Interview with Laurence Rickels 05/05/2015 ----- In February, Laurence Rickels stopped by Austin, Texas. Dr. Rickels, who is the Sigmund Freud Professor of Psychoanalysis at the European Graduate School as well as Professor of Art and Theory at the Academy of Fine Arts in Karlsruhe, Germany, was in town as part of the tour for his latest book: Germany: A Science Fiction. During his visit, he also swung by UT-Austin's Digital Writing and Research Lab and was generous enough to sit down for the following interview. In his new book, Rickels focuses on psychopathy as, quote, "the undeclared diagnosis implied in flunking the empathy test." He does so via an exploration of Germany's role in Cold War-era science fiction: from the Thomas Pynchon novel Gravity's Rainbow to B movies like 1962's The Day of the Triffids to the science fiction of Philip K. Dick. In addition to Germany, Dr. Rickels has written numerous works tracing connections between psychoanalysis, popular culture, critical theory, science fiction, and mourning. His books include The Case of California, The Vampire Lectures, a three-volume series entitled Nazi Psychoanalysis, and Spectre, in which Rickels turns his attention to Ian Fleming's James Bond. He's also the author of a recent article entitled "The Race to Fill in the Blanks: On (Animal) Testing in Science Fiction," which appeared in the 2014 issue of Philosophy & Rhetoric touched on in this podcast's premiere episode. In our conversation, I ask Dr. Rickels about his use of the term "psy-fi," the impetus behind his

March 9, 2017 -- The Amazing Acu-Brain Alchemy Model of TCM Biophysicist electrical engineer Professor Wing Y. Pon

So last night I actually hand-scribbled out some notes just to summarize my model of evolution and alchemy. I figured this could be easily summarized with an image based on a moebius strip. But I also figured since this is a self-consistent model someone else must have also figured it out. So then I searched left right brain quantum cosmology. So Wing Y. Pon builds on traditional Chinese medicine to surpass and critique the Western New Age (Mayan calendar) science of Kabbala, Ken Wilber, Tesla, Gurdjieff, and John Michell (who read my research in 1998 and I met him - John Michell said he was enjoying reading my early manifesto, The Fundamental Force). Professor Pon had a strong kundalini experience after he did intensive traditional Chinese medicine training as a youth and then it manifested later in his career. He sought Western medicine help at first but realized he had to turn to nonwestern analysis and meditation to heal himself.

In keeping with Deleuze-Guattari's analysis of Capital's dual tendencies towards 'deterritorialization' and 'reterritorialization', Land sees in capitalism a suspension, a compromise: at the same time as it liberates a frustrated tendency toward synthesis - the dissipation of all tribal chauvinism through uninhibited trade and exchange, internationalization, miscegenation, migration, the explosion of patrilineage and the concentration of power - it reinstates 'a priori' control by sequestering kinship from this general tendency and containing it within familialism and the nation-state. The result is that, for Land, Enlightenment modernity exists in the tension of an 'inhibited synthesis' which provides the real conditions for the irresolvable struggle played out in Kant's critical works.

Why There is No Free Tibet | China Uncensored

China Uncensored - 419K -- 235,089 views - Aug 13, 2013

Will there ever be a free Tibet? After decades of cultural genocide, religious persecution, murder, and disappearances, tensions between China and Tibetans are boiling. On this episode of China Uncensored, Chris Chappell tells the bloodstained history of modern Tibet, from the invasion by the Chinese Communist Party in 1950, to the exile of the Dalai Lama, the questionable death of the Panchen Lama, riot after riot, protest after protest, a flood of immigration from Han and Hui Chinese ethnicities, even to the Chinese regime's decision to ban reincarnation without government permission. And with over one hundred self-immolation since 2009, what does the future hold for Tibet.

The untold story of Alberto Ruz Lhuillier and his archaeological excavations at Palenque, Me'l?xico : a micro- and macrohistorical approach

Abstract ---- In 1952, when Alberto Ruz Lhuillier discovered the magnificent chamber and tomb of K'inich Janaab' Pakal I, the Classic Maya king of Palenque, many scholars from around the world declared that it was one of the greatest discoveries in Mesoamerican archaeology. Although there are summary accounts describing the life of the man who discovered the tomb, there are no detailed biographies, nor are there any in-depth discussions about his ten year's work at the archaeological site of Palenque, Me'l?xico that took place in the late 1940's and 1950's. This study fills that information gap. It is a "behind the scenes" narrative that includes an internal and external historiography of the archaeological project. Within that framework, a short biography of Ruz's life before and after the work is included. Ruz and many others have written extensively about the excavations, the iconography and the epigraphy of the site, but the story contained herein has never been told, since it is derived from primary sources including personal accounts, newspaper articles, correspondence, progress reports, interviews, unpublished and translated Informes de Trabajo, and Anales del Museo Nacional de Arqueologil?a, Historia y Etnografil?a. The outcome of this approach is a new view of the excavations and of the man who conducted them. In addition, the study includes a consideration of the political and cultural context within which the excavations took place, thus fostering an understanding of how these issues played out in the work. Through this micro- and macrohistorical approach one may detect and perhaps understand the personal and social influences present at the time of excavation. This approach also gives insight into how these forces shaped the broader history of Maya archaeology in Mexico.

Readers learn that the power spectrum is driven by acoustic waves in the early universe—thus, the universe is an instrument that plays itself.

At the heart of the book lies "Coltrane's Mandala," which combines the symmetries of the 12 notes of the western chromatic scale (A, A#, B, C - G, and G#) with the 5 notes of the pentatonic scale (A, C, D, E, and G) used in musical styles throughout the world, including jazz.

to identify a jazz musician's improvisation through a cyclic chord pattern with the universe "improvising" new fundamental constants (due to the dynamics of a ghost-like scalar field) through each cycle of a closed bouncing universe.

Laser physicist realizes that confined light - "turned around" - is relativized light with mass.

He develops a unified field theory based on this discovery.

So Macken calls this a "bidirectional wave" or "dipole wave" - which is essentially the same secret as "noncommutative phase-space."

Macken apparently has not discovered noncommutative phase-space yet

calendar, camera and clock - the newport tower Dee and 252

Besides having a library of 4000 books and manuscripts, John Dee was the author of over 40 texts. Reading his "Preface" to the first English translation of Euclid's Elements provides insights into Dee's interdisciplinary mind. He astutely describes over twenty "Arts and Sciences," like 'Perspective, Astronomy, Music, and Astrology,' which he calls 'Derivative Arts.' He says they derive from the two 'Principal Arts: Geometry and Arithmetic.' Dee claims 'Number' has one foot in the natural world and one in the supernatural world.

Dee's 1558 Propadeumata Aphoristica consists of 120 "Preparatory Aphorisms" on astronomy, astrology and his mathematical cosmology. 2520 days, or 'seven years' later, Dee published his most cherished work, his 1564 Monas Hieroglyphica, or "Sacred Symbol of Oneness." Over the years, several translations have been made, but they all sounded rather confounding. So I decided to make my own. With the help of a Latin translator, I went through Dee's 24 Theorems, which are essentially a series of riddles cryptically expressing his mathematical cosmology. Some historians see Dee's work as an alchemy book, with some mathematics thrown in. But I came to see it as a book of mathematics, written in alchemical language.

Dee uses his 'Monas Symbol,' made from points, lines, and circles, as a sort of visual-rhetorical-device. He turns it upside-down and breaks apart in various ways. In one theorem, he gives a precise geometric description, warning that if the parts are not in the exact proportions he prescribes, the whole symbol loses its power. At the end, next to his summarizing 'Thus the World Was Created' chart, is a flow chart in which he says there are 'Fixed Limits' in the realm of number. And he boils the whole thing down to one number, the "Magisterial Number: 252.

252 = 12x21 = 2x1260 .. Dee's magistral number, lowest number divisible by all single digits

Today we have completed 1330 Days since Pakals Pyramid Hologram fulfilled its 1330 year construction (26.7.683-26.7.2013). The completion of the Pyramid Hologram was aligned majestically with Galactic Synchronisation, July 26th, 2013. It was the much fabled 'Launching of Timeship Earth 2013'. The Beginning of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix. Since then we have completed a 'Pyramid Hologram' of Days (1330 days), the sum of which construct a fractal model of Pakal's Ascension process from his Tomb, to the Womb of the New Earth. Pakals journey through this "tube" is spirit of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix. During this 1331st day, at the centre of the 11:11:11 (1331) Cube of Time-Space-Prophecy I have been in Sacred Contemplation of this Multidimensional Phenomena. Today's Mayan Long Count is (was) kin 148. Kin 148 is the Accession kin of Pakal, and also his Future Return Date LC 1.0.0.0.0.8. This is inscribed in stone in Pakals Temple of Inscriptions in Palenque. The Prophetic Wisdom of Ascended Masters is forever bound into the 19:19 Crystal Matrix as a Divine Model of Space-Time-Prophetic-Magic. Furthermore, the Future Return of Pakal 1.0.0.0.0.8, LC Kin 148, is Kin 46 in the Dreamspell. LC kin 148 + 46 = 194. Kin 194 = The White Crystal Wizard = Todays Dreamspell kin

The sum of the DS + LC PV Future Return 1.0.0.0.0.8 kins, is the 1331st Day since Square One of the Beginning of the 19:19 Crystal Matrix, which was the First Stone 1331st Year since the Ascension of Pakal.

A First Stone, of First Stones ! Mind bogglingly precise, wouldn't you agree ? Of course the perfect summation of the kin is because of the current +46 kin calibration between the Traditional Tzolkin Long Count and the Dreamspell Tzolkin Count.

so china is getting a few eightballs wet ... hmm ... what i see is china suffering the 'deincarnation' bug (carcult fueled general degradation) .... the other day christian nite radio in holland had some asshole complaining about flocks of starlings leaving their stinky droppings before migrating. This is fully in line with blame for one's own vices projected on birds in the case of industrial farms. The 'bio-industry' does the throng/crowd / safety and profit in numbers trick totally wrong, cause unlike starlings and other hi-density populations, they coerce and 'save space' like there's no tomorrow [time for a google whack: 'dranghek syndroom']. And indeed there isn't, cause this invites plagues, kindles epidemics, and ignites crises .. for which wild birds are scapegoated. Will the chinaman check his cursed mockery gone wrong mimicry and muster the smarts to do the 'rite' thing (using the above example): lay down fresh crushed rock under the roosttrees to absorb, adhere and value add to the droppings, thus gratefully upgradin what already is, plain and simple, a gift from heaven .... or will they be like the all too average and prevailing doctrine 'trouwe' dutch farmer cutting holes in his own wallet 4x over distributing practically raw manure over his field which causes:
1: a worm panic, they scramble to escape the onslaught and fall prey to the gulls, neatly distributed all across the fields that receive this maltreatment.
2: all the nitrogen compounds to be lost due to lack of timely treatment with mentioned, very perfectly complementary, rockpowders (trace minerals that guarantee the type of fertility seen only in the wild only in deltas ....but the dutch are mercs from hell and have been taught to not believe their eyes unless they glue them to some desert doctrine or other .. and all of nothern europe is othering fast due to their neglect of genius like mine who traced this 'gospel' to cernunnos, a prejesus northern leader) have to be replaced and the pharmaffiyosi oblige with something much much lower in quality than rockdust.

Nonetheless, in the measures of the cosmic cycles that are contained in the prophetic visions of Dr. Arguelles as well in the information that The Voice transmitted to Ra (where it announced amongst other things that the subatomic particles called <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Neutrino> do carry mass, something that Quantum Physicists confirmed some years later after Ra's statements) we are told to be on the verge of a new cycle, the famous and commonly over-interpreted New Age, the Age of Aquarius, a new 13 Baktun cycle (or according to a different interpretation an extension of the 13 baktun count to Baktun 20, to be completed in the year 4772) and with that, the arrival of the Rave, what Arguelles called Homo-Noosphericus, where according to the Human Design System we will be able to start noting the development of the Emotional Consciousness, in the Solar Plexus center, carrier of Gate 55, the one that is producing the mutation since 1781, year of the discovery of Uranus, when we left the 7 chakra system and started living as 9 Center beings and into "Form consciousness".

MOVE OVER SILICON VALLEY, A DECENTRALIZED PLANETARY COMPASSION VALLEY HOSTS NEW GROUND

BREAKING "INTERNET 3.0

'The co-creators of a groundbreaking new internet technology claim that their platform is going to change the world in such a profound way that we'll find it hard to remember what Google and Facebook we're used for. Noomap, describing themselves as the emerging Universal/United Fractal Organism (UFO) of a "new co-creative paradigm", turned their backs on Silicon Valley in 2015 and headed for Rotterdam in order to further develop their innovations in an environment that supports their vision and values. They say that changing the world is not just a dream, but entirely possible because they are already living "the change" in their Rotterdam "Synergy Hub" home which has been gifted for a 9 month gestation period to further research, develop, and experience their platform.'

Also a new website was launched set up by Juryt Abma bringing all stories and cosmic momentum gained together! Have a look at the flowmovies behind our UFO picture.

Peter Lamborn Wilson - "Caliban's Masque"

Zciliya Films - 30 - 359 views - Jun 27, 2016

One in a series of 1992 (?) lectures on the topic of Hermeticism, Peter Lamborn Wilson discusses the influence of spiritual anarchism on the early American colonies as expressed through largely underground and unrecognized historical figures. The title comes from the character in Shakespeare's "The Tempest", which Wilson interprets as representing the mysterious New World natives as seen through the eyes of Europe.

In 1736, a Jesuit named Christian Priber spent 9 years with the Cherokee people. His mission was both political and religious. He gained great favor and influence with tribal leaders. Priber became an unofficial secretary to the principal headman. Nevertheless, he served both the church and French government. His primary goal was to disrupt tribal relations between the Cherokees and the English traders and colonist. Eventually he was captured and imprisoned by the English.

Holy synchronicity, Batman! I just got Gregory Bateson's Epistemology of the Sacred in the mail this week. (Haven't started it yet).

This is great stuff. See my gushing here.

I'm a little skeptical that the word "sacred" can be revived, having so many negative connotations among reactionary secularists ("sacred cows," etc.) But the principle obviously persists. As PLW points out, "reason" is just as sacred to rationalists as God ever was to the religious. What's less apparent is how quickly these rationalists would remember how sacred earth, air, and water are if we started to run out of them. Which we will if we continue to treat the cosmos as subservient to our fantasies of dominance.

This week on A Word In Hedgesmedgewise guest host and reader Tenali will heave-away and set sail to the esoteric side of pirate lore and legend - featuring excerpts from The Devil's Anarchy by Stephen Snelders and Pirate Utopias by Peter Lamborn Wilson. Snelders' book examines rare 17th century Dutch pirate histories to show the shared continuity of pirate culture, its modes of organization, methods of distributing booty and resolving disputes, and tendencies for high living. Wilson's book delves into the 16-19th Moslem Corsairs from the Barbary Coast who ravaged European shipping. During this period, however, thousands of Europeans also converted to Islam and joined the pirate "holy war". Were these men (and women) the scum of the seas, apostates, traitors - "Renegadoes"? Or did they abandon and betray Christendom as a praxis of social resistance?

Sorry that I am answering with this with part of an old letter I wrote. I do hope the words of Taoist Master Tseng Lao Weng can answer a bit of your question. I have mourned that many of my books stayed back in my home town while I was wandering, working and staying elsewhere.

But a selection of John Blofeld's books followed me. I thought I quote one of my favorite portion from his book 'Taoism, The Secret and Sublime' which may help others understand and decide for themselves if Taoism is a philosophy or a religion. I myself, never did feel that either path is important. He was talking to this Taoist Master Tseng Lao Weng. (now using also his format and capitalizations..)

----- Having heard from me of Sir Edwin Arnold's lovely expression for entering Nirvana, 'the dew-drop slips into the shining sea', he exclaimed with delight, but added:

'And yet it does not capture the whole. Since the Tao is all and nothing lies outside it, since its multiplicity and unity are identical, when a finite being sheds the illusion of separate existence, he is not lost in the Tao. By casting off his imaginary limitations, he becomes immeasurable.

Plunge the finite into the infinite and, though only one remains, the finite, far from being diminished, takes on the stature of infinity. Such perception will bring you face to face with the true secret cherished by all the accomplished sages. The mind of one who returns to the Source thereby BECOMES the Source. Your own mind is DESTINED TO BECOME THE UNIVERSE ITSELF!"

Even the aggression of his oracle god is not denied by the Kundun: "His [task], in his capacity as protector and defender, is wrathful. [!] However, although our functions are similar, my relationship with Nechung is that of commander to lieutenant: I never bow down to him. It is for Nechung to bow to the Dalai Lama" (Dalai Lama XIV, 1993 I, p. 312). This statement confirms once again that from a tantric viewpoint, the politics of the Tibetans in exile is not conducted by people, but by gods. As Avalokiteshvara and the Kalachakra deity, the Dalai Lama commands the Mongolian god, Pehar, to make predictions about the future. [1] oops, wrong one, it's footnote 1 from the next section:

Invocation of demons:

Since time immemorial ritual magic and politics have been one in Tibet. A large proportion of these magic practices are devoted to the annihilation of enemies, and especially to the neutralizing of political opponents. The help of demons was necessary for such ends. And they could be found everywhere - the Land of Snows all but overflowed with terror gods, fateful spirits, vampires, ghouls, vengeful goddesses, devils, messengers of death and similar entities, who, in the words of Matthias Hermanns, "completely overgrow the mild and goodly elements [of Buddhism] and hardly let them reveal their advantages" (Hermanns, 1965, p. 401).

For this reason, invocations of demons were not at all rare occurrences nor were they restricted to the spheres of personal and family life. They were in general among the most preferred functions of the lamas. Hence, "demonology" was a high science taught at the monastic universities, and ritual dealings with malevolent spirits were - as we shall see in a moment - an important function of the lamaist state. [1] page 4 of 6 (large book critical of tantra)

[1] The discipline is indebted to the Austrian, Ren  de Nebesky-Wojkowitz, for the most profound insight into Tibetan demonology, his great work, Oracles and Demons of Tibet. His early death, and his wife's suicide shortly afterwards are seen by the Tantra researcher, John Blofeld, as an act of revenge by the spirits whom he described.

This isn't Tesla's work. I was interested, so I did some digging. Turns out it's some teacher called Joey Grether, who came up with it while working on a system for teaching children. Original, website, article.

Also, CBS news has reported on this. Zero fact checking at all,
<http://12xspiral.com/gallery/>

<https://naturalmath.com//2014/07/12x-spiral-factorization-diagram/>

Now that we are looking at number relationships and tracing the web of multiples, we can explore more complex patterns. For example, let us define a way for numbers to intersect one another. Say, 55 is a product of just two numbers, 5 and 11. Looking at the spiral, mark the multiples of 5, that is, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 - Connect the numbers with lines. They will form a beautiful star. Now follow the multiples of 11, that is, 11, 22, 33, 44, 55 - They form a spiral. The star and the spiral intersect at 55 and then at 110. Try it with other primes: observe how the stars and spirals of the numbers 2, 3, 5, 7, 11, and 13 intersect one another. The stars and spirals relate to spirolaterals and Waldorf multiplication stars, but are also different, so you can explore them separately.

Carlos - I didn't realize autistic savants have more white matter - fascinating! Wait it's switched around: "gray matter volumes were greater-than-normal in subjects with autism and lower-than-normal in subjects with schizophrenia; white matter volumes were greater-than normal in subjects with schizophrenia and lower-than normal in subjects with autism."

"Furthermore, I would argue that enhanced global connectivity correspondingly seems to explain much about psychotic hyper-mentalism: notably paranoid, magical, and grandiose/religious delusions. "

<https://www.psychologytoday.com/blog/the-imprinted-brain/201612/gray-white-matter-mri-opposite-in-autistics-vs-psychotics>

The problem with psychiatry is it is secretly controlled by the CIA and driven by a materialistic worldview, not based on actual quantum nonlocal consciousness.

So "magic" - well sit in full lotus and then claim a person is delusional. You can either sit in full lotus or not - end of story. haha.

"In autism, there is an increased volume of these short-distance white matter connections, either due to a proliferation of synaptogenesis (the creation of new connections), or a failure in the pruning out of these synaptic connections during childhood. Individuals with synesthesia also show a greater density of white matter, particularly in sensory regions implicated in the condition. In individuals with grapheme-color synesthesia, for instance, there is greater connection between visual area four, the region responsible for color perception, and the eponymous visual word-form area."

So that is from 2013 - Nature - and appears to be outdated science now. Or maybe just enhanced analysis updated:

"I also cited the suggestion that global under-connectivity goes with local hyper-connectivity in autism; with the diametrically opposite situationâ€”local under-connectivity with global hyper-connectivityâ€”being the case in schizophrenia: something which obviously fits the diametric model (p. 104). If this translates into more white matter than normal in schizophrenics (because global hyper-connectivity necessitates much longer connections than does local hyper-connectivity), the result would nicely fit the finding illustrated bottom left above."

wedn, apr 19 -- k226, Overtone WB, 16planetary drew bought 5a near Duluth Duluth - off the North Shore scenic drive is a pricey tourist locale.

Winona: Spirit Mountain. When the Ojibwe migrated from the East to the West, each of the resting places provided a time for deliberation. From Spirit Mountain, it is said that we came to see our final resting place: Moningwanakwaning, now called Madeline Island. The Anishinaabeg journeyed to this Mountain. Then, we were able to understand our instructions, and view our destiny.

The Anishinaabeg are not the Jews. We did not have a Moses and the tablets of stone. Yet, in Christian analogies, it is perhaps possible that Spirit Mountain would be somewhat like our Mt. Sinai. For years, the city of Duluth has grown in the shadow of Spirit Mountain, but in the past few years, the City Council has taken an interest in supporting development of a world class golf course on Spirit Mountain.

Almost every Ojibwe tribal government in the region, and hundreds of individuals, have opposed the golf course proposal, which, as of yet, remains supported, undaunted by the Duluth City Council. In hearings during the summer of 2002, Ojibwe traditional spiritual practitioners came to the Duluth City Council meetings to present their concerns about the issue, and were told by one City Council man, that indeed the Ojibwe migration story was a fabrication. Instead, he had read, the Ojibwe first saw this land, and the Spirit Mountain, when brought to the region on boats by the explorers.

Other administrators and representatives requested that the Ojibwe identify which parts of the Mountain were sacred, in order that mitigation might occur. Such is the problem of quantifying the sacred, and presenting a Native world view.

My mom said - so can you look for some kind of part-time job up there?

I said "no I'll be too busy, the whole point of my being this land is so I can meditate full time."

haha. Hilarious! That is precisely why I have not been able to do intensive meditation here - is because if I spend more than 2 hours at a time in my room then I start doing a deeper spacetime exorcism of my mom's consciousness. She then knocks on the door, "Is everything all right?"

haha. How can I explain to her that the more a person meditates the more bliss they experience and greater healing energy? Oh well.

The mind does not like to be exorcised - that is what the qigong master who befriended me said - that my mom's mind was blocking the healing. So he had to heal her while she was sleeping! haha. He then said I needed to leave my mom and my sister in order to keep doing the training.

the poison toad that broods upon the eggs means the old mysteries have been taken over and grown toxic, turned by false parentage to a life kept down in mud and never to turn from snake into bird. This is also an emblem of the race of man and how we came out of starlight but were captured by the local spirits of the elemental earth and had our parentage erased and retranscribed. So here the old mystery religion can no longer serve the time, the serpent knows it is the Kairos of Christendom, it's platonic month of 2,000 years that must parent the children of the snake. Charlemagne as Celtic shaman is wise and in the legend, the lineage of Cernunnos he mediates between snake and stag. Passing the test of the serpent the King ensures the life of three eggs three empires to come, Aachen London and Washington the brood machine assumes biocidal attack mode towards life, smothered IN, no longer raised FROM mud, sinned against, to tox up it's chain of being in either direction, gem and beast.

God has a plan, asteroid hits Pacific Ocean, causing Earth pole to tilt back to less angle, throwing ocean water up 52 miles to restore a canopy (which BTW is all three vapor water ice in cycle, and open pole at arctic circle line) and then with the clear greenhouse the mass carbon released by volcanoes and oil burned dilutes the C-14 that destroys DNA and life is back up by 12 times as it once was. Earth gets restored. UP to 8 billion people whether to survive it one year crunched on mountain tops because continent baptism is once again back. I am an expert at deciphering false timelines. Believe me when I say long before modern science in alchemy that astronomy calendars all proved that timeline. AND people flipped the order of the facts. Good example is in 2370bc Flood dating C-14 as 20,000 years. IN the next 600 years the 360-day calendar split to be year 2256 in 1778bc while Egyptian year 600 as 2256 fell in 1770bc. Predicting next astral encounter with probability odds of 3744 years it was debated as year 6000 in 360-day versus 60 years further in 365-day. When comet hit Earth in 1513bc wiping out Britain to Greece to Egypt to India (the furthest that China and Mayans were at this time), all nations not just Moses-Jews thought they were God's new kingdom. All calendars have this. BUT then this made people think that year 3744 had arrived (ignoring a wait until year 6000) and they chose Adam as 3744 years ago in 5200bc instead of 4025bc. This was a difference of 1175-year Venus (5 points times 235). This particular 3744 is 360-day span of only 3690 Julian. This is about 0.001% of the science and astronomy that I know. Thus I understand Noah speaking to bored sleeping Gilgamesh, and Jesus speaking to 12 bored sleeping apostles saying to them that I am about to die, you will not always have me, and you will lose all I know when I die because you want to sleep now, and you say I bore you.

Bob studied the words of Marshall McLuhan and James Joyce for years, to be able to bring iON forth, and see through the veils. The Finnegans Wake is a tool to learn how to explore the different layers of meaning; a type of modern Kabbalah; the prepared Bob finally achieve the Completion of all Exegesis with iON, the real meaning of the "MESSAGE" contained in The Emerald Tablets, The Genesis, the Revelation, and to explain the changes occurring as the iONic Galaxy becomes the next Unenvironment.

RELIGION: What it Was For; What Went Wrong; How to Fix It

However, when James DeMeo related Taylor's categories to 36 of the 556 "finished characteristics" from Textor's Cross Cultural Sample to identify the mapped cultural regions of Fig. 13.5, the result suggested that Patrism was more a matter of survival than choice. Comparing Fig. 13.5 with climatology, soil, and vegetation maps, DeMeo showed that the Patrism behavior pattern "Instinct-I" is geographically confined to desert regions. As DeMeo observes, if his climatic association is not causative, someone will have to find another reason for the correlation. The Heinrich-Barth Institute of the University of Cologne, which studies the association of climate and lifestyle in the deserts of Africa over the last 10,000 years, is currently testing DeMeo's hypothesis.

RUSSIA'S GIFT TO CHRISTIANITY

<http://www.cuttingedge.org/news/n1363.cfm>

Ivan Panin was born in Russia on December 12, 1855 and as a young man he was an active Nihilist. one who was so "turned off" by the inane circumstances surrounding him that he adopted the attitude that all values were worthless and nothing was knowable or communicable. He apparently detested the Czarist government so much that he participated in various plots against it and eventually was forced into political exile. From there he moved to Germany where he spent a number of years furthering his education. When he left Germany he immigrated to the United States and soon entered Harvard University where he became the personal friend of both the famous professor William James and the University's President Eliot.

Mr. Panin was a brilliant scholar and a Master of Literary Criticism. After graduating from college he became an outstanding lecturer on the subject of literary criticism and toured the country speaking on Carlyle, Emerson, Tolstoy, Russian literature, etc.. receiving up "top dollar" for each address, which shows us the caliber of his talent. His lectures were delivered on college campuses and to exclusive literary clubs in many cities of the United States and Canada. And during those years of travel and exposure to the public, Mr. Panin became widely known as a confirmed agnostic. so well known, in fact, that when he renounced agnosticism and embraced Jesus Christ, several newspapers carried banner headlines announcing his conversion! Upon hearing of this remarkable turn of events, Professor James, who was reputed to be the greatest Metaphysician of his day remarked, "What a pity that Mr. Panin is cracked on religion. A great philosopher was spoiled in him."

Prior to his life-changing encounter with Jesus Christ, Mr. Panin wrote some three thousand aphorisms (brief statements of principle) and many outstanding essays, which stand today as a memorial to his days as a Master of Literary Criticism. He also was an editor of two daily newspapers, a gifted writer, and an eloquent speaker.

To answer the question of the "Virgin Birth": The first date is December 6, 36 BC which is recorded as 6 Reed which is 60 days from 1 Reed the date of Quetzalcoatl's sign. The Date of December 6, 36 BC is also 25 Kislev in the Hebrew Calendar, which is our Equivalent of December 25th or the Nativity of Christ. Yet, 30 days ahead of 6 Reed is 10 House occurring on January 6, or rather, the 5th because December hath 31 days.

January 6th is the date the Vatican has hid from the public concerning the date for the Nativity or birth of Christ. I find it amazing that 30 days from the date on the Stela Stone in Chiapas Mexico has chiseled is the date of 10 House, January "6", because the Maya recorded the Crucifixion of the Christ on that same day, but it was on March 25th.

Important days in the Christian calendar - Macmillan Dictionary

<http://www.macmillandictionary.com/.../Important-days-in-the-Christian-ca...March>

March 25th, which Christians remember as the day when the Virgin Mary was told by a messenger from God that she would be the mother of Jesus Christ -

March 25th is 9 months prior to December 25, so the Crucifixion of Quetzalcoatl that I place correctly in 69 AD 10 House, on March 25th, is where "THE IDEA" of conception of the Christ occurred, because  $9 \times 30 = 270$  = the pregnancy cycle. IF Christ were crucified on the day of his conception then we can see how Mary remained a Virgin and how he was called first and last.

I also propose the reason for the 31 days in December is to throw off the fact that December 6 plus 30 days will fail to equal January 6th. It is the subtle cunning of this numbers game that has us defeating the terrorists today. We have made people believe in Christ to the point where no one questioned whether or not the Long count began because of him, in fact we are controlled because we were sold the perfect lie for 2012 years, more or less.

Talk Back 115 Greetings and failings! by: Graham Khentiamentu

Dear Church - I am deeply disturbed by your articles of faith as you refer to them, concerning the existence of a Supreme Being and your pronounced apathy thereof. ---- I am also writing to say I have discovered the date for the birth of Christ and Quetzalcoatl. I have written previously, and yes, I have erred in many of my previous calculations. However your singular error is found in your Apathy towards a/the Supreme Being. Mine error is too know and see as much as possible. Your error is to say, even before getting started, Opps, that's enough! I have saved the most pertinent information last. You may never receive it or believe it. So be it.

Your three articles of faith, of the first, that the existence of a Supreme Being is unknown and unknowable, is so chiefly wrong that one can only suggest that you are the Church of losers, victims of selfish pride or apathy without wisdom that you deserve to be called lemmings for your ability to throw out the baby and the bathwater, and still march headlong into the sea.

Your philosophy ascribes to complete madness. The Second article of your faith begins with "IF" as, [if] anyone but yourselves, could therefore understand the existence of a Supreme Being, that you admit previously as Unknowable, you are then applauding what is already known. Consider, AMNAEL"IPalnegoani" consider "He By Whom We Live", I have understood it, and the Hindu Trinity, and in the book a monument to the end of time as the twin towers were-also destroyed by this same 3:1 Supreme Being.

I just de-storied your "IF". Do you still think I AM ACTING APATHETIC in describing the actions of the Supreme Being, what IT DID do to NEW YORK, an event in our Universe you too soon forget or pretend did not exist, or only existed as you say?

 And on all three accounts you have failed. I daresay, ye are acting the FOOL , and you are played by a greater one, so, as you are you taken to (me to) be. He/She only appears to act apathetic in order to remain in control of things he cannot (let others) control.
 I am in control of being supreme when I say these things. Things are known and things are knowable. Your Church must be for those who have great short-comings when it comes to "SEERSHIP".
 As I do wish to enter a dialog, be that as it may, seem impossible, to the people and articles of the faith of your church. YOU NEED MY HELP.
 Ask and you shall receive. As even I have tamed the wild beast that is supreme in the eyes of so lowly-a-men. My seer-ship is supreme because I know what you cannot. But I am sure one among you also knows.
 I am the one who some may call the teacher of the Earth.
 What you are saying (or what I hear you say, rather,) is that even though other religions point very clearly to the existence of a supreme being, you, yourselves, do not consider it, and the aftermath or aftereffects of this type of ludens, magic alchemy of such that has already been played and plagued by humans on humans, does that exist? Is the pain of not telling the truth, are those pains felt, or do they exist as collective feelings for the human race? Is any subject Taboo, or just a few! Who decides?
 That, whether or not there-by divine proportions used as they were, in part and whole, of this conspiracy, that, whether or not a supreme being exists, the nuts and bolts of his existence, a face here, a numbered volume here, have been used to orchestrate a terrible event that you/others simply call a day we (failingly) fought back for our Freedom/liberty?!

What say you?
 Am I wrong (or do you consider me to be) to question the status quo that says 19 hi-jerkers who essentially fooled the world and in trying to take away our liberty only gave us (only one) reason to get it back?
 In that case humanity is insane, that money through trade was still lost and gained on that day that later became worthy of judgments against it (New York and America)
 The truest religion is the deepest secret of life on earth. I have that key. And also those keys from Mars.
 Have an ear .. Praycerely, The King of Terror, Graham Kent

 First of all, I am not sure if The King of Terror is putting us on or if he really believes what he has written. As 'Teacher of the Earth' he should be more aware of the forces of nature that do not depend on the control of a Supreme Divine Being.
 He makes two references to the infamous false flag event known as 9-11 as if that was an act of God. An Act that served to punish and warn the U.S.A.. Apparently he is not aware of the information uncovered by the 9-11 Truth organization (among many others) that indicates that the event was controlled by humans and probably not Osama Bin Laden.
 His postings have the flair of a rant by a deranged individual who should change his title from "The King of Terror" to the "Prince of Ignorance". I just hope he does not have a gun permit or access to sharp weapons.

The Russians decided to stay away after the Churches of Antioch, Bulgaria and Georgia refused to take part after disputes about the meeting. The council, which began on Sunday, has been 55 years in preparation. It will run until 27 June." <http://www.bbc.com/news/world-europe-36569416> my mother was very withdrawn yet fierce; defended me from the worst of patrisms while generous with the perks of 'it' to the bitter end ('end' bitter it was for me while undoubtedly a well earned rest and release for her,

... while she was alive i felt awful privileged but her death threw a switch on that to feeling i didn't stand a change in hell from getgo ...) while taking to all those heaven holds out as readily and easily as it was and still is, hard to 'pass on and along'; .. all of which caused a worlds traversing crack / rift \ split in the 'matrological facets that stir and steer my soul. We'll see if i my very next period won't finally put an end to that.

do not the laws of cyclicity dictate that farflungness of whatever future envisioned must / needs / will have a root / substance and anchor equidistant from the presence in the opposite direction, to show for?

Revenance Eternel

In other words, a futurism will / needs to and must be reflected in the all told fold back onto / into AND past the present to points in/of the past [for that/this present] an exact equivalent of timespace units and ratios back/away.

Without it, projections diverge as widely in endpoints as well as methods and targets of provision requisition / time tax / etc.

PLW for instance, mentions the racist / fascist hierarchical 'VS' the commie egalitarian 'ones'# - the latter winning on all fronts in the age of software btw - and calls them 'mythical' - per Sorel. Well, do you wanna call evolution mythical? In what follows I shall be doing a short review and recommendation for a title that 'covers' (as in hides) the empiricism it's argument rests on: 'Demonic Males'. What i do like about that turn of phrase is the echo and implicit nod to work like 'Saharasia' though in practice it seems to have sparked the MRA movement rather than an examination of climatic causes for weaponized matrism and/or patrism.

== i parentheticated there cause the distance we travelled from the time [in the past / carrying forth the present's causes] of those two futures is 'hew mangas' to the point all forks, faults, splits and separations blur into and seem one without a closer look* while it goes almost without saying that during the timelapse, fates of chimp and bonobo merged and diverged into crazy quiltknitknotty stumbleweediness.

* = The totally underrated Robert Wrangham did just that, look closer at our forefathers' fates which according to him actually WERE neatly and cleanly separated .. or should i say messily .. wholly .. or holily [separated], given we're talking about africa's greatest river, which was uncrossable for monkey species and made brothers grow apart into chimp on one side and bonobo on the other; this leaned and bent the former towards militation due to food competition [from gorillas, etc if i remember correctly] causing the primordial necessity / early shock of labour division, commuting posses and their slippage into nomad raiderly, while the bonobos on the other side of the mighty river were blissfully unburdened by this and could afford closer knit social fabric without 'specialization' into classizzums, genderizzums and racizzums.

Time sure as hell ain't resered to nor reservable by the 'mental planes' no matter how enforceable and 'or else' you manage to shore and dress up your pet codification peeve.

Cease declaring and taking figure for ground!!!!

the whole rockdust as time emission, currentsee, flow and foundation for 'climax greenery' and bonobo peace via humanoid update .. hinges on it ... and more literally so as leverage is gonna have to play it's due role in the ginormous repair awaiting us.

While his notion of acoustic space especially used to describe electric and digital information is considered quite modern and forward thinking, its genesis can be found in the medieval understanding of God as an omniscient being that can never be proven to exist, but whose presence is considered indisputable by the faithful. From the sacred trapping of medieval mysticism in the 12th century to the secular world of modern mass media, McLuhan was a conduit to the 21st century where communication technologies have supplanted God (s) as the omniscient entity controlling the world.

Clay also acts like a binding magnet (Qur'an, 37:11); clay ions attract matter and incite it to react. The trace elements we see today are the result of the evolution of just such ions. In clay and binding sticky mud, carbon and nitrogen atoms have negative valences C-4 and N-3. Oxygen, phosphorous and hydrogen occurring naturally in the soil can only combine with negatively charged carbon and nitrogen to form the basic constituents of the human body.

re 20:40 "tong .. immediately, and without mediation" that may be but it's unsound.

immediatism .. is festive cause it's like and can best be expressed by very ripe fruit but there's no 'vs' regards mediatism / medation if you go down rootwards instead of spin every which way into the make believe figurin and spoiling what you touch instead of soiling the rock you love very much ...
.... rockdust; it's worth .. it's lucr.. it's filthily lucrative to haul the latter if you manage to keep the squirmy, torquey, rollability .. serializable workings of gravity 'secret' (which makes you climb the ranks of evil). PLW did this performance shortly before or after he met me (very briefly, outside de Balie Amsterdam) i believe ... which makes him (for refusing the above) and/or me (for failing to convey this to him) evil.
, i certainly used other terms for this knitgrit 'it', some trace of that would be at your fingertips if i was all properly indexed and such but i am like that desperate 'king of hearts' flick's hero, everybody (only asylum inmates left at that point) believes they can afford having confidence in so total it borders on ignoring, instead indulging the luxury of using the abandoned town as an elaborate stage prop for some rearview mirror action.

All slight but alas, cumulative miscalculations with infernal consequences.
Opening prisons does not reform the inmates. Giant pools of rockdust above the treeline ain't quite regrowing the Levantine shadey roads either.
after weeks, months and years of spin up, finetune, redo .... I see my wheel power up close to ballfreefall after sloooooooooow roll down from liftsprock to short 'neardrop' at rim point.

Nick Land's Quick & Dirty Intro to Accelerationism
Posted on May 27, 2017 by dmf

<https://detrterritorialinvestigations.wordpress.com/2017/05/27/nick-lands-quick-dirty-intro-to-accelerationism/>

"The suspicion has to arrive that if a public conversation about acceleration is beginning, it's just in time to be too late. The profound institutional crisis that makes the topic 'hot' has at its core an implosion of social decision-making capability. Doing anything, at this point, would take too long. So instead, events increasingly just happen. They seem ever more out of control, even to a traumatic extent. Because the basic phenomenon appears to be a brake failure, accelerationism is picked up again.

Accelerationism links the implosion of decision-space to the explosion of the world - that is, to modernity. It is important therefore to note that the conceptual opposition between implosion and explosion does nothing to impede their real (mechanical) coupling. Thermonuclear weapons provide the most vividly illuminating examples. An H-bomb employs an A-bomb as a trigger. A fission reaction sparks a fusion reaction. The fusion mass is crushed into ignition by a blast process. (Modernity is a blast.)"

8. Conclusions

The suggested model is convincing in every way and - by some impressive examples of positive feedback - amply justifies its own existence. But, more importantly, it demonstrates the close coordination that exists between key biblical themes, viz. the Creation (as represented by the Genesis 1:1 overview and the 6:1 division of the days), the Creator (and his identity), and Christ and Antichrist (the 'beast'). In that it also focuses attention on a secular artefact - the chequerboard (whose relevance to OBC has been voiced in earlier pages at this site) - it leads to a broader understanding of the Creator's modus operandi.

It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that these clear evidences of supernatural agency, drawn mainly from the biblical text, powerfully confirm God's Being and Sovereignty, the Unity and Truth of his Word, and much else! Since the Lord has gone to such lengths to counter man's natural tendency to deny his Person and confute his Word, he must now expect a positive response from those endowed with his likeness.

A related opening up of technology to the imagination can be read in feminist work that rejects the convention of acquiescence to an imagined nature. The 1970s writing of Shulamith Firestone, particularly the closing chapters of her "Dialectic of Sex" (Firestone, 1970), or the recent Xenofeminist manifesto (Laboria Cuboniks, 2015), and certain currents within Sadie Plant's "Zeroes and Ones" (Plant, 1995) work this seam in which the cantankerous and cretinising part-whole relations of gender standardisation are opened up through, as Firestone puts it, an integration of the poetic and the technological. Feminism of this kind is an immense resource in thinking through designing in the era of digitalization, expanded forms of materiality and globalization since it is very familiar with the relentless labour of challenging the supposedly natural and organic nature of certain ways of reducing people to parts, the overspecification of relations and of the immense and intimate labour of standardisation.

Dr. Caldicott - on the psychophysiology of "why men kill" - check out the original human culture, the Bushmen, with no war - the male anthropologists covered up "The Harmless People" book by Dr. Elizabeth Marshall Thomas - all the males train at puberty in sublimation through fasting and trance dancing - Choma or Tshoma, a month long training. Dr. Bradford Keeney did that training - Dr. Megan Biesele - I got research details on my blog - Dr. Robert Sapolsky on male ejaculation. <http://voidisyinyang.blogspot.com> - so that vagus nerve orgasm is trained in males instead of the stress cortisol spike at ejaculation from the sympathetic nervous system. This turned into the qigong training in China and yoga in India - teaching males how to control their lower body as "staying power."

Clash of Communities ----- The Clash of Communities Cover

This short zine offers a critique of the concept of "community." Based on the writer (s) experiences at the 2015 occupation of the 4th Precinct police station in Minneapolis, the zine explores the ways in which "community" functions as a nebulous concept that has no real meaning. Instead, they argue that it is a contradictory term that means one thing to one group, another to another group, and still something entirely different to another group. Invoking the idea of "the community" is a hindrance to radicals rather than something that helps them, as it glosses over difference and nuance. Moreover, it is a concept that is routinely invoked by the state and others who seek to control social movements. Ultimately the authors conclude that there is nothing redeemable about the rhetoric of community.

Bob is the dust plexspurt .. and you ma man +defango, have caught the bug him and his sidekick spread .....

caught him having a Boblon boasty phase / episode / cycle / fit (on this from last nite):

"Checking the Tape, Yep we are still good!"

... carbon copy in fact, claims to be 13billion 7hundred million years old .. i felt like he indirectly responded to folks like me, telling us to fuck off cause he's uncontrollably sovereign (my words).
iow, he oscillates (swings) and vaccilates (flips) from that back to 'i'm nuthin without my team, flying by the seat of my breakstreak crusty pants ... makin the gals holler and fly 5 pitches higher when i as elephant onto porcelain enter the air castle .. briefly, cause they quickly leave comin down hard on the definca's downstroke, gettin a tout surface and little bounce, .. more than they can stand, let alone bargained for .. ... soda-pop habit playing into this 'rhythm' somewheres i'm sure

<https://youtu.be/ATGXeXQDvt0&t=1320>

"... connection is superior, cause it seperated the dust from the lord god from little man ..... roots are in the dust .. ... beast, non-physical is the dust, the little man won't take the RNA drops .."

... i can't understand what Bob interjects 22:27

"right, cause the ID still knows, IS the dust" either way, this is a clear case of some halfway devious dude trying to tempt me to engage further, which i had in comments (and or chat, don't remember exactly, it's when Bob told sarah to 'deal with me' i believe) and which he took inspiration from.

Wake in Progress II: The Memory Theatre ----- McLuhan's Novel - 73 - 272 views - Feb 3, 2016

The Finnegans Wake is in playcipher code, and still has many secrets to reveal. Bob Dobbs-Neeritt has been studying Joyce works for 40 years, a gargantuan metanoia, squeezing the knowing in plain sight contained in the multi-entendre of every pun, and portemanteau words. All the genealogies, and the castles; as Bob reads the history he creates the most complex plot, rewriting the "history" since the Fall to go back to where we've never been. The Wake is the mirror reflecting iONdom, all is there, very precisely.

On any page of Finnegans Wake the reader finds a number of interwoven themes and to the difficulty of deciphering and isolating any one of them is added that of furnishing an explanation for their juxtaposition. All is happening at the same time, there is no time, different themes and characters, go and come, like waves. Echoes, reflections of our eternity, captured in "kodak moments" to help us remember. Like iON communicating on PAYDAY!, where each listener asks their own questions, many treads juxtapose to take us out of the Labyrinth.

Giordano Bruno, famous for his prodigious memory, based, at least in part, on his elaborate system of mnemonics, but some of his contemporaries found it easier to attribute them to magical powers; wrote "De progressu". "Work your progress!" What higher homage could Joyce extend than to identify Bruno's book with Finnegans Wake, which, when those lines were written, was still entitled Work in Progress? We're remembering with this Wake in progress, the different many episodes of The Never Ending Memory Theatre Play and the Novation of the nGon Era. ----- Zappy Bob-Day O-ph-eneal HoHoBoB!

Peter Chrisp8 February 2014 at 12:21: Thanks PQ. Haven't read that, but that theory is in Marshall McLuhan's and Quentin Fiore's, War and Peace in the Global Village. Eric is Marshall's son.

Wikipedia has this: Joyce's Wake is claimed to be a gigantic cryptogram which reveals a cyclic pattern for the whole history of man through its Ten Thunders. Each "thunder" below is a 100-character portmanteau of other words to create a statement he likens to an effect that each technology has on the society into which it is introduced. In order to glean the most understanding out of each, the reader must break the portmanteau into separate words (and many of these are themselves portmanteaus of words taken from multiple languages other than English) and speak them aloud for the spoken effect of each word. There is much dispute over what each portmanteau truly denotes.

McLuhan claims that the ten thunders in Wake represent different stages in the history of man:[1]

Thunder 1: Paleolithic to Neolithic. Speech. Split of East/West. From herding to harnessing animals.

Thunder 2: Clothing as weaponry. Enclosure of private parts. First social aggression.

Thunder 3: Specialism. Centralism via wheel, transport, cities: civil life.

Thunder 4: Markets and truck gardens. Patterns of nature submitted to greed and power.

Thunder 5: Printing. Distortion and translation of human patterns and postures and pastors.

Thunder 6: Industrial Revolution. Extreme development of print process and individualism.

Thunder 7: Tribal man again. All choractors end up separate, private man. Return of choric.

Thunder 8: Movies. Pop art, pop Kulch via tribal radio. Wedding of sight and sound.

Thunder 9: Car and Plane. Both centralizing and decentralizing at once create cities in crisis. Speed and death.

Thunder 10: Television. Back to tribal involvement in tribal mood-mud. The last thunder is a turbulent, muddy wake, and murk of non-visual, tactile man.

I think of the non-dialogue prose of the chapter whirling round and round as being the whirlpools and the dialogue prose as being representative of the head or brain with its cerebral often elliptical nature, especially when Buck Mulligan enters the scene. It's actually one of my favorite sections of the book.

Possibly, however, such could be Stephen advising himself to grin and bear it all- much as the priestly Cranly might have done. Later Stephen imagines himself delivering Eglinton a Monty Python "I fart in your general direction" by way of retort; but who is the "Orchestral Satan"- Eglinton defending the Quaker librarian or Stephen comically depicting himself as deeply offended?

"The Barthes of Parties | Main | Telecommunism"

March 17, 2006 -- Neither Washington nor Tehran...

This has gone on too long.

Make no bones about it, Zizek's latest piece is full of sloppy errors and hasty rhetorical moves. And the central problem with it is, indeed, that it makes too many concessions to liberalism. But its liberalism consists in the genuflection to the concept of 'respect' ('respect for persons' being the founding tenet of liberalism). The accusations made by Lenin and the always ludicrous but now totally discredited Le Currency Trader amount to the opposite: that Zizek is not liberal enough, that he is insufficiently 'culturally sensitive', not deferential enough to the pieties of cultural difference.

Le Trader confuses intensity of hysterical sanctimony with radicality of position. I'm not going to link to her site again; too many intelligent people have already wasted too much time by being drawn into that vortex of unreasoning resentment and rhetorician's spite. The (surely no surprise to anyone) revelations on Long Sunday that Le Trader is a full-on capitalist (but it's OK, she has a good heart, and no-one who reads her can doubt for a moment that the milk of human kindness flows from her every pore) are less humiliating than the way she outs herself as a total naif, innocently unaware of even the first principles of Marxism (what, capital is abstract? You mean that it's not about bad people and stuff?) It now becomes clear why Le Opera Goeur was so keen to reject the attack on populism; she wants to retain the category of the bad capitalist so she can keep open the possibility that are good capitalists (like... guess who). Perhaps they didn't get onto Marxism at her finishing school. What is clear is that Le Trader's moralizing liberal socialism (placard-waving whining at the Man) is not only ignorant of Marxism, it is what Marx came to abolish. Le Trader is so much like a fantasy figure for the anti-Left, so exactly fitting it caricature of a Leftist is like, that you do sometimes question whether she's real and not some neo-liberal concoction.

Le Trader's pathologies would be merely uninteresting, nasty and unpleasant if some of the stances she takes up weren't shared by less reactive, more intelligent minds on the left. The important question is: how has it come to this, where large areas of the Left have effectively ditched Marxism in favour of guilt-mongering Cult Studs meta-orientalism? Imagine if the SWP put all the energy it is currently devoting to shore up its Islamophiliac stance - ALL that rhetorical evasion and Jesuitical sophistry - into developing anti-capitalist strategies and tactics. Sometimes, in the midst of the ceaseless blizzard of quasi-McCarthyite Islamophobic denunciation, you begin to wonder if the conspiracy theories about 9/11 being a deliberate attempt to stop the anti-capitalist movement were actually founded. Just in case there is any doubt: I in no way underestimate the importance of Islamophobia; I in no way retreat from anything I said about the facile nature of the pseudo-concept of 'Islamofascism'. It is just that I refuse to accept that Islamophilia is the opposite of Islamophobia; I refuse to equivocate between defending Muslims from racist attack and defending Islam; and I refuse to renounce the centrality of atheism to Marxism. The simple fact is that Marxist explanations are in competition with religious explanations. It's true that the same rages and frustrations which might lead someone to become a Marxist could also influence someone to turn to 'political'

Islam. But Marx's point about opiation was that religion's next-wordly orientation will always disguise and mystify the social and economic causes of suffering, and thereby perpetuate them. Islamic Marxism would be a way forward, but this would entail a politicization of Islam not the Islamicization of politics practised by all the variants of really existing political Islam of which I am aware. (I sincerely hope that there are some other modes of political Islam out there at the moment... someone tell me where they are.)

The irony of the SWP's position is that it exactly falls into the logic previously repudiated by Trotskyists, that of an either-or disjunction between equally unpalatable alternatives. Where once Trotskyists refused to accept the false 'choice' between capitalism and Stalinism, proclaiming 'neither Washington nor Moscow but international socialism', now the SWP seems to accept that it is a straight choice between EITHER capitalism OR political Islam, no buts. It has, in other words, obediently complied with the thinking of its Master (Signifier), the US, colluding in the racial delirium of 'one lone madman' that has replaced the MAD logic of cold war paranoia.

Zizek's attempts to step outside the USA/political Islam pseudo-opposition by introducing Europe as a third term are no doubt hamfisted. But his reflation of Eurocentrism has to be seen conjuncturally, in the context of the racial delirium of US supremacist-fascists like Mark Steyn, with their tiresome denunciations of Old Europe and 'Eurabia'. To trumpet Europe and atheism in the New York Times constitutes a provocation: better atheist Eurabia than fundamentalist USArabia. USArabia is the neo-con project for a new fundamentalist century, the reality of the US-political Islam complicity that lies behind the 'official' stand-off between the US and Islamism. As Hamid Taqvaee of the Worker-Communist Party of Iraq has argued, US neo-conservatism has fed a resurgent religious climate from which political Islam has profited. We all know of the longstanding links between the US and bin Laden; and we need to remember that the US has looked mightily unperturbed while the previously secular Iraq has acquired its first Islamic constitution.

To believe that US 'Islamophobia' is really and actually an attack on the religion of Islam is to make both an empirical and a structural error. The empirical fact is that the US is shoring up fundamentalist regimes everywhere. Structurally, as is evident, the role of the 'Islamic Terror' is to fill the gap left by the disintegration of Stalinism. That is why Saddam's quasi-Stalinist Baathist regime was the perfect transitional object for the US in the immediate years after the Cold War ended. Saddam was no more a Muslim than Stalin was a Christian. But he was 'Muslim' in the way required by the racializing fantasy; Middle Eastern, dark complexion, not Israeli.... This racist delirium, which equates sworn enemies like Saddam and bin Laden (the only thing they have in common is that they were both funded by the US), will therefore find victims amongst Sikhs, Hindus, atheists, anyone, in fact, whose skin tone or look belongs to a certain ill-defined category, as well as amongst Muslims. So any defence of Islam spectacularly misses the point of what Islamophobia actually involves.

What is needed now more than ever is a certain coldness, a certain refusal of sentimentalism. (And Le Trader might like to come on all hard bitten cynical, but at bottom she's a sentimentalist; what is her Lawrence of Arabia-style fetishising of Third World struggles if it is not sentimental?) We need to do just as Marx recommended, and accelerate, not resist, capital's destruction of traditions, ethnicities and territorialities. It might be tempting to find bolt holes of reactionary tradition in which to take flight from the scouring winds of capital, but it is a temptation to be vehemently resisted. The non-organic product of capital's 'Frankensteinian surgery of the cities' (Lyotard), the proletariat emerges from the destruction of all ethnicities, the desolation of all tradition, the destitution of any home.

Marxist atheism is not to be mistaken for the Last Man sniping at religion I have previously attacked, and which I continue to deplore. Crucially, Marxist atheism is only achieved once the theological critique of capitalism is completed. This is what separates Marxist atheism from the gliberal platitudes of the likes of Nick Cohen, who proclaim secularism while remaining attached to the theology of capital (liberal commonsense). Theism is defined not by any positive beliefs, but by the role of the fetish or totem as transcendental guarantee of any reality system. The critique of religion is the 'premise of all critique' because critique is about the exposure of such fetish-guarantees. It is necessary to recognize that capitalism is very far from being anti-religious. On the contrary, it is, as Karatani puts it in Transcritique, a 'religio-genic-process'. 'Whether or not we believe in religion in the narrow sense, real capitalism puts us in a structure similar to that of the religious world. What drives us in capitalism is neither the ideal nor the real (i.e. needs and desires), but the metaphysics and theology originated in exchange and commodity form.' This theology continues to evade critique because it is a disavowed theology, obscured by ideology. We don't really believe that capital is an autonomous force, we know (so we think) that the only reality is that of free individuals. The full confidence in the 'reality' of our free individuality is precisely the ideological feint which allows us to act as if commodities are autonomous. The critique of capitalism therefore entails a ruthless demolition of commodity-theology and its support in the social fetish of the 'free individual'.

Neither Washington nor Tehran but international communism...

Panic Grips America, Shuts Down NSA, After Russia "Reveals" It Has All Hillary Clinton Phone Calls

By: Sorch Faal, and as reported to her Western Subscribers

A series of astounding, and often contradictory, reports emanating from the Security Council (SC), and circulating throughout the Kremlin today ... that's how all articles begin there (daily)

Critical to note about Vaino, as these reports detail, is that he's a devout follower of the principals that were advocated by Vladimir Vernadsky called the "Noosphere" that is the third in a succession of phases of development of our Earth, after the geosphere (inanimate matter) and the biosphere (biological life).

In order to assess where our Earth was in this development, these reports explain, Vaino, in 2012, published his groundbreaking scientific paper titled "Capitalization of the Future" wherein he detailed his invention of the "Nooscope" to measure the "Noosphere" but that the US propaganda media called a "strange pseudo-scientific text that follows in an almost impenetrable blend of quasi-mystical language and academic jargon, mish-mashing contemporary economic concerns with transcendental philosophy and promises to be able to read the "code of the market" and describe a new way of being, made possible by the authors' creation".

Following Vaino's 2012 invention of the "Nooscope" that studies the collective conscience of mankind and registers, among other things, things that can't be seen, these reports continue detailing, President Putin authorized the global deployment of a network of Vaino's "spatial scanners" to monitor and register changes in the "biosphere" the results of which were presented before the Security Council this past Friday (12 August).

a 'robolisten' is just not enough to get it straight ... :

Nooscope: Media Concocts Conspiracy Theory About Putin's New Mind Melting Weapon --- Â© Sputnik/ Alexei

Druzhinin - Russia

22.08.2016 ---- 19 comments -----The resurgence of Cold War style McCarthyism and anti-Russian propaganda has finally shifted gears from the insulting to the downright comical science fiction.

Last week, Russian President Vladimir Putin's long-time Chief of Staff Sergei Ivanov resigned to pursue a post leading the country's environmental policy, a matter dear to the official that Putin had once called one of the five people he most trusted after Ivanov spearheaded a successful project to save endangered tigers, paving the way for his protégé Anton Vaino to take command as the Russian President's top aide.

Controversy first surrounded claims that Ivanov did not resign, made of whole cloth by Western media outlets seeking their next clickbait conspiracy, but was rather removed so that Putin could consolidate power in the Kremlin. Of course, this ignores rumors for over two years that Ivanov was planning on resigning as his health began to wane following the tragic drowning of his young son.

But then, almost out of nowhere, the media latched on to what may become the sci-fi thriller of the summer, with some outlets already touting it as Vladimir Putin's secret mind melting weapon, the mysterious and ever enchanting "nooscope."

ABC News first broke the story that somebody listed as "A. Vaino" co-authored an article entitled "Capitalization of the Future" published in the Russian academic journal, Questions of Economics & Law which spoke about the creation of a new device capable of reading the "code of the market" called the Nooscope.

The best way to explain the Nooscope is to refer to the article itself, now patented 50 times, which states that "the Nooscope is a device for recording changes in the Noosphere" with the device apparently consisting of "spatial sensors" capable of making "the invisible visible."

The goal of the device, according to the article, is to "allow the study of humanity's collective consciousness." The idea traces back to the Russian thinker Vladimir Vernadsky who opined that the "Noosphere" is the "third stage in Earth's development, when humanity's collective thought would affect the earth as a whole."

The Correspondence between Jose Arguelles and Johann GeMoll about identity of Thought waves and Temporal waves

Written by Johann Ge Moll----- General Summary

This project is an attempt for executing possibly the most gigantic Experiment, which has ever been suggested by science. An experiment in which the whole humanity to take part (or at least one fifth of it "one critically big number of Fibonacci"), an experiment in which will be tested the direct, straightforward influence of the Human Thought, Willpower and Emotion "on the Universe and the Galaxy in particular. An experiment which like a Human Brain Beam will aim towards the Galaxy Beam, radiated from the Centre (the Brain) of the Galaxy," "Milky Way". An experiment in which will be traced the consequences of the collision, intersection and interference of the Two Beams.

It is supposed that the Galaxy Beam has stimulated the evolution of life and brain mass of human species – the Interest is mainly on enrichment and exponential increasing of the Human Brain Beam during its communication with the Galaxy Beam.

The goal is to create Human Thought Beam, which to combine the brain waves of billions of people into one single intentional arrow. An arrow which will play the role of a world attractor and will compensate for the main weakness (drawback) of Humanity, which being united genetically (via DNA), is balefully disunited mentally, cerebrally and voluntatively (voluntarily).

Every stroke I drew through my eyebrows, carries my thoughts.

The brush still wet with ink, but the books have turned yellow with age. The night is silent, only a faint moonlight shines through the window. I dance in long sleeves as if I am still in my sleep. Thoughts of you overflows. She is waiting for fall, oh but for whom does she puts on her rouge? What can she do but wither from this dying love? The red, the perfume, and the drawn up pearl blinds were all for his eyes only. She does not need to look up in the sky, to know that the moon is still there, but his love is not. Soon it's dawn, rain drizzling, softly waking the earth. The breeze flow through her, she realizes her love can never be returned. But who played that music, deep inside the mountain, which took her heart away?

thanks ... is it your own translation?

yes

if you translate some of my work into chinese i will pay you per aphorism / comment size, OK? Go see if you might like to do this and we'll chat. Thanks for the quick response.

Jessica Pham 1 minute ago -- Highlighted reply

Thank you for the offer, however, it's harder (for me) to translate English into Chinese. Chinese is a far more difficult language to master than English. Also, my forte is classic literature. I rarely read modern literature.

hmm, my work is nothing if not untypical .. Do you like James Joyce? Does chinese have an equivalent form of extreme wordplay??

.. i have great admiration for Ralph Ellis who ploughs through 'western' stuff all the way back to Egypt and surfaces with easy to digest rundowns. He is a worthy follow up to my first 'lithero' Robert Graves who made much of Greek Myth in the original and translated them. Other than that i try come up with equation that cancel and undo the literacy / numeracy hang ups in favor of honest clean compost and a regreening strategy that reverses the terrible course of Bipedaloids. Nice speaking with you. Wish you the best.

you must have actually seen a few "stone spheres" in SA for real (we shall let the factual / possible axis wait in the wings for a mo), they are not restricted to costa rica as far as i know ... This interval of 5 days between counts is reconciled/equalized via the 5 Days Out of Time comprised between the 5-Year interval (2012-2017). These 5 days are equivalent to the 5 points of the 5-Year pentagram.

As essential part of this thread, it was early this year when a new important discovery at the Temple of Quetzalcoatl in Teotihuacan was announced by various media outlets on April 25, 2015 (KIN 22 (9+13) 9Wind >> KEY code component of the prophetic stream presented a year ago):

Local researcher Sergio Gomez announced the discovery on Friday of "large quantities" of the [mercury] element underneath the Pyramid of the Feathered Serpent - the third largest in the ancient ruined city of Teotihuacan, which is shrouded in mystery and was once one of the largest in the hemisphere.

It completely surprised us, he told Reuters, standing at the entrance to the ancient pyramid, located about 30 miles (50 km) northeast of Mexico City. (RT News) ----- Original report:

Representation of the burial chamber of the Queen Tz'akbu Ajaw, the only one wife of Pakal "The Great", who was temporarily nicknamed "Red Queen". Probably, one of the most most cryptic messages from her tomb is the fact that she was buried with two victims, an 11 years old boy who was beheaded and a young woman of around 30 years old who had her heart removed.

did you take your comment down again?

did you mean 'if i can't find any i won't try'?

or 'i couldn't find any so i haven't tried yet'?

or 'i don't find you work problematic (yet) cause i can't find it (yet).

i haven't already tried cause you might be ashamed of the piece i would choose and find my work worthless.

try 10 comments (*within 2 clicks reach, see below**) and pick your favorite there are mistakes in your message which kinda seem out of character .. written in haste perhaps?

Maybe that kind of broken english is what i should expect if i get my work translated and (in order) to try check the merit of that i ask other people to translate your work back to english, hahaahhah!

* = i expect a person with average surfing skills to be able to find and visit my channel (i usually tell them to look up poetpiet, a name i used since the nineties), but not everybody knows that youtube comments (several daily, dating several years back in my case) can be set to display on the G+ page (google's 'equivalent to 'racecrook' .. take that anyway you want), those that are accepted by the person i offer them to anyways.

For previous work there's two more little link icons (in the upper right hand corner of my channel page, with proolly well past 10thou vids listed by now), one to a blogger site with miscellaneous posts from the noughties and another to a free provider in Massachusets (serving pop-up ads back in the day, as the interruptive price, not to mention the fatal traffic cap .. 'no jump start for you pal') that served me since the nineties from a freshly installed computer cluster right next to the fattest bridge in amersterdam (with the Multatuli bust, nick of man famous for writing about the dutch in the east indies), in the faculty of letters UvA.

I'll send you a list of the foldernames for stuff i accumulated so you get an idea of my interests (where they lie and where they run [to]) without all the surfing 'rompslomp'. This will help you choose the ones most closely aligned to your own and so most likely to keep and reward your attention.

if you lead me to small translations you have done and can divulge average earnings, that would be great. Hourly wage of a translator proolly differs as widely as conditions do per sino-bioregion.

... speaking of which ... perhaps most relevant to you are my comments on tibetan culture and i hope you will also find (that is to say agree) that they relate to times and places on an evolutionary scale even.

ps: is a hi-lite of western literature, 'the song of amergin' known in china?

Buddha Boy Has Returned for World Peace 2017

Raidenway - 3.2K - 204,365 views - Mar 29, 2017

Buddha Boy 2017

His message in his own words:

"Murder, violence, greed, anger and temptation have made the human world a desperate place. A terrible storm has descended upon the human world, and this is carrying the world towards destruction. There is only one way to save the world and that is through "dharma" (spiritual practice). When one doesn't walk the righteous path of spiritual practice, this desperate world will surely be destroyed. Therefore, follow the path of spirituality and spread this message to your fellows. Never put obstacles, anger and disbelief in the way of my meditation's mission. I am only showing you the way; you must seek it on your own. What I will be, what I will do, the coming days will reveal. Human salvation, the salvation of all living beings, and peace in the world are my goal and my path. "Namo Buddha sangaya, Namo Buddha sangaya, namo sangaya." I am contemplating on the release of this chaotic world from the ocean of emotion, on our detachment from anger and temptation, without straying from the path for even a moment, I am renouncing my own attachment to my life and my home forever, I am working to save all living beings. But in this undisciplined world, my life's practice is reduced to mere entertainment. The practice and devotion of many Buddhas is directed at the world's betterment and happiness. It is essential but very difficult to understand that practice and devotion. But though it is easy to lead this ignorant existence, human beings don't understand that one day we must leave this uncertain world and go with the Lord of Death. Our long attachments with friends and family will dissolve into nothingness. We have to leave behind the wealth and property we have accumulated. What's the use of my happiness, when those who have loved me from the beginning, my mother, father, brothers, relatives are all unhappy. Therefore, to rescue all sentient beings, I have to be Buddha-mind, and emerge from my underground cave to do "vajra" meditation. To do this I have to realize the right path and knowledge, so do not disturb my practice. My practice detaches me from my body, my soul and this existence. In this situation there will be 72 goddess Kalis. Different gods will be present, along with the sounds of thunder and of "tangur", and all the celestial gods and goddesses will be doing "puja" (worship). So until I have sent a message, do not come here, and please explain this to others. Spread spiritual knowledge and spiritual messages throughout the world. Spread the message of world peace to all. Seek a righteous path and wisdom will be yours."

all i tried to say earlier was that i hope i can choose something which you would choose as closest to your own interest, taste and expertise .. from a widely varying set op topics i take digs at, dip and delve into, .. connect to other disciplines

for years at a stretch i undertook to correlate, parallel and analogize economics and agriculture for instance (on various lists, blog- and forum threads, etc), a much more ethical coupling than economics and defense (warrior industries do a double fail compared to sports, failing at becoming sport).
I aim to heal all 4 of these experience quarters .. turn them from ailing modern (mechanized) superstitions (sports excepted somewhat but the harmony expected from them is completely over the top .. they are here in the Netherlands at least) into ties and tides that localize, anchor and regreen. As it stands the now separate disciplines do not and can not perform value adding feats in that sense, they can't work chores into or at least towards amusement and sociability, they can't recognize such pleasantries 'grow' into causes for war once they are neglected, fallen in disuse and forgotten as i see it (and i've seen my share of people cycling thru mind expansion substance triggered interest and belief in [treating] the command structure / code line as transferrable, im-, super-, and transposable to fairy tale plenitude, awash in 'wishfool'failment') your inclinations and predilection may lead you to this or that cult thriving on the hunt for and hankering after these dreamqualities.

Obviously patent enforcement is not something the sinosphere finds at all sensible. My question becomes: is china more sensitive to use (purpose) enforcement?

I myself was for a good while entirely seduced by claims of teachability, regularity and sheer miracles made by any and all systematizers, ... usually in such rapid succesion that i looked for the overlap ... and that was my salvation, it spared me the incrowd bias and set me off to try save other susceptibles. Soon i was handed loads of explanations for and visions to achieve grounding, a requirement for real provisions without excluding it's immature stages ... in fact my softspot for what i call the 'matrologist phenom' persists.

So ... study me ... or hack the old practicehorses i rode on like Drew Hempel, Ion and Bob (you remind me of 'their' Roxana a little) or good old Jose (kinda the most useful of the lot i think) but you won't get a full grasp without stringing out some serious crisscross lineage, my matrologist folder contains diagrams from proly over 100 sources that nevertheless all fail to honour and understund the weight of our merely visible 3D* enough to actually set their med'cin wheels and mandalas in motion and become as functional as a brookside flourmill ... what's juust as astonishing though, is that most all people working on gravity wheel designs (almost as many of those around as the regular cosmolog[ist]s and cosmographers).

searching for it i am reminded of a more impressive animation:

1/4th the moebius strip (in and around a torus one whole cycle) inside a tetrahedron one can determine rotation of with mouse movements (there was a gravity game based on this many years later).

It was made by Dan Winter inspired by mid eighties work by Stan Tenen who later sued him and got DW to begin exile away from the Buffalo area where his dad had an electric appliance factory.

that 3d strip can be twisted around so that the 2d shadow resembles letters written in long form; plotting the whole thing back into grid co-ordinates gets you back into the numbers game (for which words are but shorthand / steno / geheugesteun / ezelsbrug). you've prolly seen it so i won't bother hunting it all down.

cesium-137 contains 55 protons

of these,  $1.48 \times 10^{24}$  are disintegrating every second (1480 trillion)

37 and 73 are the 12th and 21st prime numbers respectively

1480 is the Greek isopsephia value of ἸϚῖ?ἰ'ἰῖῖ, ἸϚῖ, (Christ)

Exo 20:8 is the 2060th verse in the KJV. The first occurrence of 2060 in pi is followed by the three digits 999, and begins from position 23,985.

23 + 985 = 1008 ... 1008 adds 9 rows to the 5778 triangle

Lamech lived 777 years

777 adds 7 rows to the 5778 triangle The first occurrence of 777 in phi (the golden ratio) is preceded by the three digits 111, and begins from position 444.

777 + 111 + 444 = 1332, the gematria value of  $\hat{\iota}\hat{\alpha}\hat{\omega}$  (Alpha and the Omega)

Before 111 are the three digits 177. The words "Lord" and "Jesus" appear together in 177 Bible verses (KJV).

beginning from position 177 in pi are the three digits 555

the word "Christ" appears 555 times in the Bible (KJV)

The following four digits are 8053, then the 153 made famous by the miraculous catch of fish in Joh 21:11.

beginning from position 153 in pi are the three digits 111

Yijing hexagram sequences ---- by Steve Marshall

No sooner had I made a gif animation of the King Wen sequence to satisfy my curiosity than I came across I Ching Sequencer Version 1.0. This sequencer was created in Flash and compares the King Wen sequence (the order of the hexagrams in the Yijing itself), hexagram by hexagram, with the Fuxi binary sequence (i.e. Shao Yong's Xiantian ['Before Heaven'] sequence), and both with the 'mystery sequence' on pp 730-731 of the Wilhelm-Baynes translation (page numbers pertain to the 3rd edition).

..... I'd never really taken a good look at this particular sequence at the back of Wilhelm-Baynes (pp 730-731, in the third edition), but it appears the animator is right, this is indeed a mystery. I have no idea at present what this sequence is or from where it originates (it doesn't appear in the first edition). But it is certainly a fascinating and aesthetically satisfying sequence when seen as a Flash animation find quote on air bubbles and water droplets related to the breathing of earth in my notes twice since 2013 when i found biroco

As the creator of the 'I Ching Sequencer' notes:

We can use the metaphor of time-lapse photography to explain the basic purpose and function of the I Ching Sequencer. If one were to sit and watch a sunflower throughout the course of one day, it would be impossible to actually see the movement; although during the one day cycle periodic recognition of movement would occur to the viewer. If a time-lapse movie of this same sunflower were made by condensing one day into one minute we could see the 'magic' of heliotropic plants (those which follow the sun). By compressing and animating a series of changing pictures we can gain a new view of the otherwise non-linear sequence. The I Ching Sequencer can therefore be thought of as time-lapse movies of historical and significant I Ching sequences

2002 ----- Conclusion ---- This is what we know about Jǎ«ng Fǎjing's Eight Palace system. This doesn't mean the story ends here. Through the centuries the Eight Palaces have served several purposes - other divinatory systems are build on it and the system itself has been expounded upon, adding more schemes and rules to it. There is much more to be said. I hope this article will answer some questions many people have about the Eight Palaces, but no doubt it will raise some more too. Comments, corrections and additions are very much appreciated. ----- Harmen Mesker. - harmen@i-tjingcentrum.n

fair CounterQuestion to be sure ... but although i believe josÃ© argÃ¼elles could 'spool' back and forth between timenodemorphs based on his grasp of the relatively simple tzolkin, in ways that seem downright magical to ordinary mortals (either that or nonsensical , machinated poetry at best), i like to step back in order not to lose sight/side of the more shaman- than savantlike aspects and perhaps origin of 'griddery' and 'matrologizations', to wit, the noble art of straining rock in order to more easily and more fruitfully throw water into them ... cover your daily organic 'toodooz' with the 'squeezeels'. I'm sure i got you confused so far ... right?

ps: sorry about the late replies ... but google notifications come thru for only one of the monikers used and i just .... long story .... never mind.

page 35: At the time Crowley was writing, the Tables of Soyga were mostly lost (eight of the tables had been copied into Sloane MS 3189) and known mainly by passing references in the Dee diaries and papers by Elias Ashmole. The "Book of Soyga" was rediscovered by Dee scholar Deborah Harkness in 1994; copies exist in the British Library (Sloane MS 8) and the Bodleian (Bodley 908); the former is believed to be the copy owned by Dee. Besides various writings on magick this book contains 36 cryptic tables of letters. These were solved in 1998 by Jim Reeds, a cryptographer working for AT&T Labs (see Reeds' article "John Dee and the Magic Tables in the Book of Soyga"; unfortunately, since Reeds left AT&T this is no longer online). Note that these tables predate the Dee-Kelly workings, and Dee does not seem to have known what they were and what to do with them: he repea..... ----- note 6 for part 2

While there does indeed appear in TFR (p. 179) an arrangement of the letters from the black cross as a five by four table, this appears to have been a convenience adopted during the communication of the Great Table (Table of Watchtowers); as the letters were immediately afterwards written into the cross between the four tablets, described as the "crosse of union, or black cross" (ibid., p. 180). The importance it assumed in the Golden Dawn appears to derive from an intermediate source, possibly Sloane MS 307, an edited extract from which became 'H', Clavicula Tabularum Enochii. 7: I have transcribed this table directly from the Equinox version. It does not appear to follow directly any of the versions of the Great Table in the Dee MSS; that is, some letters match the 1584 Great Table as delivered by AvA©, some match the 1587 version as reformed by Raphael, and some disagree with both these but agree with the Great Table that can be constructed from the names of the "Parts of the Earth as imposed by God" of Liber Scientiæ, using their characters on the Table of Watchtowers (as regards the last, I should note that in the working of 2nd June 1584, a week after the original delivery of the Great Table (TFR p. 188), Dee asked Ave "As concerning the diversity of certain words in these Tables and those of the portions of the Earth delivered by Nalvage, what say you?" and was told "The Tables be true."). Possibly it follows a Golden Dawn "correction" of the Tablets. 8: It is stated (see, e.g. the working of 26th June 1584, TFR p. 180) that this name and the following should be reversed to call forth and compel the cacodaimons (the three-letter names). 9: Examples in this and the two following are taken from the Water of Water lesser angle. 10: The rules for prefixing black cross letters to names drawn from the Kerubic and Servient squares are nowhere stated in Chanokh. The rule apparently used by Dee (vide the lists of names in the "Book of Supplications and Invocations" in Sloane MS. 3191) was to use the black cross letter on the same row of the general view of the tablets as the name you were working with; thus only the letters E, X, A, R, P, H, C, O, M, A were thus used. These were used to (a) generate Divine Names ruling the angels of the four squares above the bar of the cross in each lesser angle, and..... 14: "" œbe friendly unto me" inadvertently omitted at this point; but the closing formula of Keys 13-18 is identical in the originals; that is, Dee was simply told to repeat the same formula.

Nick Land - The Dark Enlightenment: Neoreaction & Modernity

Red Ice TV --- 14,842 views -- May 16, 2017 ----- Nick Land is an English philosopher, writer, and pioneer of the theory fiction genre. He is also known for being a primary theorist of the Neoreactionary movement.

Nick joins us for a fascinating discussion on Neoreaction, progressivism, and the future of Western civilization. We begin by discussing Nick's background. Initially a libertarian, Nick eventually stumbled upon the work of Mencius Moldbug. This leads to a consideration of the central ideas of Neoreaction. We discuss neocameralism, an approach to governance that incorporates free market forces. Nick then describes the cathedral, which refers to the alliance of institutions 'NGOs, corporations, academia, etc.' responsible for promoting progressivism. Later, Nick draws an apt comparison between the invention of the printing press and the rise of the Internet. The first hour touches on much more, including universalism, modernity, and multiculturalism.

In the members' hour, we switch gears to consider potential solutions to the West's decline. Nick argues that we must dismantle the managerial state, explaining that the Right shouldn't count on being able to control it indefinitely. We then discuss Islam and European politics. Nick explains how Europe's ongoing demographic transformation is poised to drastically alter the European political landscape. Later, we talk about the need for an ideological divorce, as Western nations have become far too divided to function properly. Nick argues that such a divorce would allow for competition between different political factions, revealing which lead to success and which do not. The show concludes with a consideration of whether or not the Left will realize its mistakes before it's too late.

Basically, what Land is suggesting there is that the formulation of space-time by relativistic physics (a la Einstein) is considered revolutionary because it breaks from our notion of time as a succession of moments in a sequence and, instead, suggests that it exists as something like space-time, which treats time like a fourth dimension and thus constitutive of our capacity to recognize something as being spatially located, as well. What Land is saying by calling them "timezones" is simply explaining how Einstein's concept, which seems unintuitive at first, is actually something we intuitively refer to all the time.

The "internalizing/externalizing" thing permeates all of Jose's works. Have you ever read one of his earliest books, Charles Henry and the Formation of the Psychophysical Aesthetic? He used the words "dynamogenous" and "inhibitory" to represent the same concepts. He had all this information worked out before even writing it in all its variations as we read it today!

Comment by Lynn T Bright on February 2, 2015 at 1:42pm

I'm just trying to integrate my past knowledge of the rays with this new cosmic science that we've been given. However I haven't run across anything about the sub-rays that Alice Bailey talks about in her work. The book Charles Henry and the Formation of the Psychophysical Aesthetic sounds very interesting. I'm going to look for it. Thank you Bob

-----Comment by Bob Minea on February 2, 2015 at 5:01pm

I blogged a huge quote from an Alice Bailey book about the 7 Rays, & she references the sub-rays as having to do with the "lower body". Anyway, the text was too many words for our comment walls, so I posted it as a blog, & should be up in a couple days.

The whole 7 Ray thing is a woven tapestry of interpenetrating complexes! Here's one brief quote I found about the "sub-rays":

"These are the seven rays, but it's important to remember that all seven rays are subrays of the synthetic 2nd Ray of Love/Wisdom: Basically speaking, the energy of love, expressed with wisdom, is the line of least resistance for the manifested lives in our solar system. "God is love" is a great truth, for love is the basic law of this solar system"

I think Jose has simplified the wordy complexities (a product of the Theosophical heyday, when verbiosity was trendy), giving us a number & matrix system that informs us directly, telepathically. The human condition has actually changed drastically since the late 1800's, heck, it has changed since my own learnings in the '60's and '70's, I, myself, am already outdated by the progress...

CH Vol. III p.199. --- here it is: The art codes

"All the information is present in the human being in accordance with their levels of consciousness because the truths have been card indexed in their genes. Their unfoldment is dependent on the evolution in question." --

Mevlana, The Knowledge Book

Cosmic Science says that within the corpus callosum lies the behavioral codes (UR runes), and the metabolic pattern (See CH Vol. II). These two code programs correspond to the different senses as they are coded by the six types of cosmic electricity (See Vol. II, p. 185). There are six forms of cosmic electricity, five sensory modalities, and two hemispheres (positive and negative). There are 60 potential modalities that affect the senses; these possible combinations are the basis of synesthesia.

When we radialize our perceptual system, the hemispheres become differentiated into four parts: right front, left front, right rear, and left rear. The metabolic codes are doubled for each hemisphere, creating 60 x 2 art code modalitiesâ€”120 in all. Humans have only scratched the surface of understanding the underlying structure of how these art codes are built into our system. It is our duty to uncover these codes. The table of 120 art code modalities should be systematically studied and applied. Understanding the fundamental sensory metabolic codes will build the basis of a new synesthetic, multisensory experience on behalf of the planeto-cosmic art whole. As we enter this new world, we must consciously tune into these 120 modalities that connect and radialize all forms of our senses into different harmonic patterns and psycho-electronic frequencies. All art codes are within us. The art codes of music are the key codes; the harmonics are very precise. If sound is dissonant, we can hear it. If colors clash, we can see it. If something is rotten, we can smell it. Of course there are subjective variations, but most people agree on what sounds dissonant or harmonious, what colors clash or complement, and what smells good or bad. This is because the human nervous system and sense organs are installed with a harmonic program of art codes.

The seven ray graphic that I created follows the seven rays on these two attached graphics. I am speculating as to the sub rays. The first ray is also the first subray. They interlock in a symmetrical balance and follow the 21 x 21 grid.

in other news ... a number of misfortunate factors have contributed to the death of 4 fledglings in my tiny garden taking pity on a jackdaw that survived an injury with a large featherless streak above his eye .. and feeding him in spring .. which resulted him freaking out the momma blackbird quite badly (which i mentioned).

2 factors are entirely my fault:

the other one is not providing a corner of compost tended to just right to have it teeming with worms for 'noodrantsoen' (emergency rations).

other factors: the nest was proolly too small (though that is silly to say .. and yet not .. cause after i took my first peak into the nest and was freaked out by what seemed the dehydrated condition of the topmost bird .. i convinced myself to have faith and not interfere).

turns out the bottom bird had a piece of nylon around his leg (not completely around, just half way, but still ...) today the father is back to singing his regular 'all's well' watchcalls ... dunno if the momma left ... perhaps astonished and kinda shocked by the magnitude of her own ability to reproduce .. which i like to think she underestimated.

BL Lacertae was originally classified as a faint variable star when it was detected and cataloged in 1930 in the constellation Lacerta the Lizard, which lies in the northern Milky Way east of Cygnus. Later, a radio-astronomy conducting a cataloging survey of the heavens found a radio source at the same location, but it was not learned that it was identical with the "star", or that the star was not actually a star at all, but a galaxy, until 1969. Then it was found that there were more objects like it, about twenty in all. It took astronomers a long time to determine the true nature of BL Lacertae objects, which are, as I said, a kind of quasar.

----- Northanger, >>> [1] Explain Muqattaat.

Mughatta'at letters: There are twenty-nine Suras in the Koran that start with disjointed letters, known in Arabic as Al-Maghata'at. These letters on their own have no obvious meaning. There are numerous interpretations to the meaning and purpose of these letters. Some of the prominent Islamic commentators like Az-Zamacheryand, Al-Baaqilaanee and Ibn Asaakir claim that their purpose is to prove the miraculous nature of the Koran. As if to say "the Koran is made up of these letters; now, can anybody imitate one verse of it?" Sometimes, Mughatta'at letters are called the gates of Koran.

>>> [2] What is the challenge of the Quran to all other books.

No one can imitate a verse of it in Arabic (let alone the Book itself); or The Book, itself, is the unparalleled miracle of Mohammad.

>>> [3] Does "This IS the Book; in it is guidance sure" refer to Sura 2 or the Quran itself.

Yes to the Koran itself but in a very strange way (few people have mentioned it): the Koran refers to itself as "That Book" not "This Book" (Zaaleka instead of Haaza); is this a schizophrenic twist?

>>> [4] Brief synopsis of the six chapters beginning with Alef Laam Meem.

Check this page for summaries: <http://www.usc.edu/dept/MSA/quran/maududi/>

(chapters 2, 3, 29, 30, 31, 32)

>>> [5] Why is there no Aleph and Laam without Meem.

Because in the Koran whenever Aleph and Laam appear as separated (independent) letters, they are succeeded by the letter Meem. Some commentators suggest that ALM is Alam or the Secret Name of Allah, the 100th name of Allah which was not revealed in the Koran. Also because "Aleph Laam Meem" is the first cipher that the Koran presents before declaring its uniqueness.

For those who are interested:

The Fibonacci sequence, 1, 1, 2, 3, 5, 8, 13, 21, 34, 55....etc gives numbers to different energy quanta. In order to progress the Fibonacci sequence requires new numbers to "consume" the previous two numbers. The new number has no relationship with its predecessors. In this sense Fibonacci is an energy formula for finite life, which is what biological life on earth is. ----- So is it organic? .... Well, if you take the view, as most people do, that everything that exists is natural due to the simple fact of its existence, then Fibonacci is organic. The moon is organic too, and so is the earth's 23.5 degrees off kilter axis. Things are what they seem. -----

"Fib of No Chi" implies that we live in a system where the energy flows are distorted. Not easy to get one's head around this, but if you can't even grasp the concept then what are you doing in a conspiracy forum? For this is the ultimate conspiracy.

What has it got to do with PID? Everything.

Who does it benefit to debunk UFOs, aliens, Montauk, cloning or the PID truth? The public? Or the interior/secret government?

Trolls always play the "rational" card, implying you are duped if you don't accept the mainstream paradigm. They demand evidence, as though hundreds of thousands of eye witnesses, authors of books, and secret project whistleblower accounts are all a bunch of psychopathic liars.

And they offer up modern science as the cure all. Ignoring the reality that science is controlled and disseminated to the masses thru officially approved channels. All the time, oblivious to the countless convenient deaths of those who get too close to revealing the truth.

So trolls...go back to your keyboards and find other forums to seek out heresies. Collect your pay check and fuck off.

Nick quotes Szabo (in turn from harvard) on cosmology

<http://unenumerated.blogspot.hk/2017/03/collecting-metal-inner-and-outer-worlds.html>

02 Jun -- Szabo:

Millions of millennia ago, in our own Milky Way galaxy, but far upstream of where we are today, two neutron stars spiraled around each other, each embodying the mass of a sun but smaller and faster than a speeding planet. Each of these tiny gigaworlds, millions of times denser than our sun, had been produced, not by a mere exploding star, but by a far more powerful supernova. Each supernova, burning a nuclear fire with a far greater power density than a normal star such as our sun, had besides a neutron star also produced a cavalcade of new elements. For elements lighter than iron, this nuclear fusion releases energy; but for elements heavier than iron, including copper, silver, and gold, nuclear fusion requires a net energy input as well as astronomical power densities. Our supernovae were powerful enough to create many metals, including copper and silver, from the fusion of lighter elements. But they were not powerful enough to create gold. Gold awaited the current, far more powerful and rarer event. [â€] Our two stars, fortuitously set into collision course by two separate supernovae, approached each other and then, captured by each others' gravity, entered a death spiral. They collided in an unimaginable explosion, unleashing a power density far greater than that of a mere supernova and trillions of times greater than if a mere mountain-sized asteroid had hit the earth. The collision was so intense that it created a black hole and a burst of extremely high energy light called gamma rays. Escaping the black hole along with the gamma rays was a spray of new, heavier metals, including gold. This gold-rich cloud in part expanded and in part coalesced, participating in the subsequent formation of new solar systems, including our own. Due to this collision of rare intensity, our unusual solar system was seeded with astronomically rare heavy metals such as gold along with the more common supernova products such as copper and silver. -- His source.

Jacobite - A new online magazine for the Exit-oriented right.

Honored to be in the first issue (with an essay on Accelerationism), along with Andrea Castillo, Edward Waverley, Chris Morgan, and Mark Lutter.

G. Eir ksson, Geiron - Thuleans. Living in WarHammer 40.000 + Evola, Land, Freud & Baudrillard, Says: Lacan is continually plagued by desiring something he doesn't truly want. He has not achieved satori or Crowley's conversion of the Guardian Angel; aka True Will. Anyway, as someone may have noticed I have looked at documentum from the inventor of the Bell Helicopter (first flight, December 29, 1942): Arthur M. Young.

----- The concept of "process" is the single most overarching and inclusive term in Young's theory and a good starting point for a systematic consideration of his ideas. Process is a description and an interpretation of how the universe works. Young uses the term interchangeably with "time-structure," suggesting an underlying and definable dynamic. Process is initiated by a purposive, goal-seeking thrust, an initial venturesomeness that pushes it ahead. H.P. Lovecraft speaks of a knowledge of one's existence in the past as a "conscious provocation" (1930) for a return to the past. In 1928 Julius Evola wrote the book "Pagan Imperialism" where-in he noted "Some men return to their past, so that new forces may arise for the reconquest".

We've here entered a synonomosity field. S.C. Hickman describes Nick Land's templexity as "the thing of which time-travel narratives seek to portray in their dramatic scenarios", while Land in one instance notes it as temporal nonlinearity.

Adventure? The seeds of destiny? The classical adventure starts with something from another time, or the past appearing-connecting the hero with the adventure he is about to embark on. It often is himself (his father of sorts, actual or grandfather, in any case a karmic parent) re-membered or reenvisioned upon discovering an object-subject. "As it mechanizes, capital approximates ever more close to an auto-productive circuit in which it appears as the 'father' of itself (M â†' C â†' M)". As Luke Skywalker goes out to buy robots "Kundalini, (or force-sensitivity), the serpent of destiny" once activated, approximates ever more close to an auto-productive circuit which appears as the father of itself (Ouroboros, "the Force," coiled serpent"rising, consuming-begetting itself at ever higher frequencies of cycles up and down its axis, upon discovering, and like, a mechanical "light" saber, quickening up in its mode of i(g)nitition) "Luke meets with his father's past, completing a cycle"and thus his own past and destined-future in becoming. Accelerated.

Mr. Nick Land identifies the blockchain with space-time. And capital with templexity, and templexity with Lovecraft's "conscious provocation", which in the text on Young's is approximate: "goal-seeking thrust, an initial venturesomeness". (Evola's Sense of Departure.) Capital is the ordering of space-time. Empire "Intelligence" with ever expanding frontiers.

Mr. Satoshi Nakamoto notes, If a majority of CPU power is controlled by honest nodes, the honest chain will grow the fastest and outpace any competing chains. So it is with world-power and honest men. Capital speeds on integrity (signal ratio).

The Psycho-Social, Chemical, Biological & Electro-Magnetic Manipulation of Human Consciousness (often abbreviated as The Psycho-Social CD) is the debut album of underground hip hop group Jedi Mind Tricks. The group consists of Vinnie Paz, and producer Stoupe the Enemy of Mankind. The original version of the album was released in 1997 limited to 1000 copies on vinyl by Superegular Records, and was re-released on CD in 2003 on Babygrande Records with six bonus tracks, featuring songs recorded by the group before their debut release. Many believed the vinyl version was re-issued in 2001, possibly because the back of the vinyl release says "2001 superegular", this is however a nod to the forward-thinking aspects of the album. The album lightly touches on religious corruption and violence, but not nearly to the level of their more well-received, and better produced sophomore effort (most of the braggadocio being in regard to lyrical skill, and not physical threats.) Primarily the album focuses on references to astronomy, history and physics.

Land is correct when he says that accelerationism is the critique of the primacy of the secondary. Classical economics adjusts equilibria to the contingencies of human supply and demand, restraining the black insanity of overproduction that maps the advance of capital against human capitalism. Political ideology attempts to enforce a homeostasis of time, measuring debts, restituting injustice, backward, always backward"after all, we mustn't accelerate ahead of ourselves. Gaia-ecology subjugates intelligence explosion to the maternal authority of an imaginary Nature. But the explosion sustains no conditions. At its radical conclusion, if it is theoretically legitimate at all, accelerationism must be unconditional.

Said one Vincent Garton, March 17, 2017.

Accelerationism has become like para-Axial Age doctrines, in need of rectifications to be only itself. Apparently. Brahman becomes not enough and becomes parabrahman (Nirguna Brahman, without state or qualities, "unconditional"). Nirvana becomes not enough and becomes [I forget].

Capital, in its ultimate self-definition, is nothing beside the abstract accelerative social factor. Its positive cybernetic schema exhausts it. Runaway consumes its identity. Every other determination is shucked-off as an accident, at some stage of its intensification process. Since anything able to consistently feed socio-historical acceleration will necessarily, or by essence, be capital, the prospect of any unambiguously "Left-accelerationism" gaining serious momentum can be confidently dismissed. Accelerationism is simply the self-awareness of capitalism, which has scarcely begun. ("We haven't seen anything yet.")

39th minute (.. and coffee with raw milk before 5am) inspires this:

the taboo of, frown upon and fingerraise 'ginst, this or that, sees to the dive into underground / 'black' markets .. but that's a two way street which has a totally above board in your face and hard to escape drawback, side-effect, reverse [keerzijde in dutch], namely, the rise and arousal (, not in situ, close enough to keep a watchful eye over, but) 'in projection' ...

interlude / aside on snake oil secrets and claims (immortality elixer in this case):

... van je af gezet = distanced ::: 'lockdown bobrule, is really lockout bobrule; bob's safe space, dust and germfree - he has fantasies about being the lender of only resort also ... a very old old form of lifetime awkward worthstipulative lawlittering and dropsmack of tenacious toxtrashcursivity - he's a streetcorner man who could afford to try become an intellectual, never poor enough to have to sell drugs ... slow witted but steadily polishing and 'interplaying' a small set of disparate enough heros to steadily offer trendspotting lessons (Bob is a hitANDmiss sorta guy, i've developed a visceral disgust for him over the years): Mae Brussels, Larouche, Peter Beter, McLuhan, Zappa, Baudrillard, Kroker and various mediums; his wife lost her licence over fighting sugar the way those in her footsteps now must fight not just that but vaccination, fracking and gmo 'use' and yet she is right by his side claiming victory with their snake-oil mystery drops and mystery promotor. ionandbob.blogspot.com

.... so it is in the case of racism, quite literally, hounding of which created the ALIEN faith and runaway duplicitous mirage production ...a 'forward predictable payment program' no commie would be shameless enough to propose (unless you see that there too the top is in everyway opposed to and abuse of their constituents).

Bitter irony is that this whole thing is perped by those who are deeply racist -- suited to a therapeutic specialism, nothing but that for a loooooong time (which counter the one they indulged in for generations) .. in order to escape the hole they dug themselves in, strengthen the thread they hang by, re-emerge from corners they painted themselves into -- but go about their self-medication in (totally and far beyond mere self-) destructive ways, aiming for the biocidality spiked accelerationism that sprouts from male extremes, like zjhealous hips, herdy neads and the unlikeable like ps: test or tit those volume levels next time please. A large part of my hatred for Bob is his slack applied to aud quality, very cringy in his 20 year spanning chatter and squakfiles

Mas Con Menos -- Staatje Vrij -- Ab Maya - 6 views - Aug 14, 2017

"Meer Met Minder" bouwt aan een nieuw woonproject onder de naam "Staatje Vrij" en is te vinden vlakbij Ten Boer in Groningen. Na een geslaagde Mas Con Menos workshop week Ån seizoen, werden alle deelnemers (van ook de vorige workshops) uitgenodigd voor het Staatje Vrij Festival, zaterdag 12 augustus 2017.

Muziek: Riddim X Rehearsals.

the binding factor of the sixties cannot die, ... cause it was a stillborn undead monster from the start; not the music one can make with actual rock and it's myriad ultracreditable sustainchain but old tire cliches, still fake but evermore obsolete (= ubiquitous / demonetized in Mcluhanspeak) ... never got that groundingy thingy rite ... i painted a big phat hint on the pavement in front of the galactic room of that antisquat nerd cult next to the biggest dutch 'verkeersinfarct' but to no avail .. and i wasn't the only one not notified about 'staatje vrij' by the looks of it but that, of course 'staat jullie vrij' also, .. vrij gebleven betekent veelal niks vrij gemaakt.

hasta la vista, gelukkig deze pijnlijke vertoning gemist (lekker beschut kleien in een industriële loods ... metalen dwangbuizen in een houten schuur ... en nog zowat tegenstrijdigheden ... prutserts!!!!) perhaps the 4 quadrant cult survived a handful of ice ages ... or 2 .. or more .. iow, the million years more or million years less ballpark ... long enough to split the redblood bipeds into 4 base races .... the kaleidoscope / verkniptheid / individuation effect (privacy / literacy superstitions as impulse for micromanageable interminglement / massification / growing into, across and thru each other .. software development) .. although, having failed to see / take / treat / deploy / work with grey as the closest to the balanced green - as elucidated in my old pages - we fail to wear rock soft .. much less understand musicks of the biosphere .....

it takes 3 3s to create the inner banner of peace balls

2 three doubled locks 5 .. one doubled over makes zero so zero is also/really three ... and three of them makes 80 or, like i said, 000 .. 2ballz and a wheel must be considered very minimal for what i have in mind ... 3x8 is closer to an optimal ballnumber to set on a railroll, hopping on and off a big wheel to turn it ... do try to honour a double 5's provisional vision and dynamize your diagrams, fetish symbols and fractions .... i don't wanna remain stuck in the 'appeals to and lives among the wrong crowd' mode much longer.

Arguelles was largely laughed off by the mainstream media of the late-80s when he promoted the concept of the Harmonic Convergence. The time and date of the convergence were predicated on a planetary alignment allegedly predicted by the Mayan calendar; the significance of the convergence, however, was vast and profound, according to Arguelles and his co-horts. Arguelles believed that an international meditation event was necessary in order to defy a coming Armageddon (he was a significant voice in the eventual popularity of the idea that the year 2012 was to be an end of history as predicted in the Mayan calendar), but he also believed that this force of meditation could end all wars and conflicts and re-align man's priorities toward peace, brotherhood and cooperation. On the day of August 16, 1987, thousands gathered at Mount Shasta in California, at Ayers Rock in Australia, in Central Park, and in many other sites worldwide, to chant a massive 'om' that would generate the necessary spiritual energy to realign human consciousness.

Imposed Temporal Dome and the Tan t'ien: Dr. Hans Utter on Western music - on Music, Time, Consciousness and healing

So I've corresponded with Dr. Hans Utter and he said he was going to check out my research. I really feel like he did so as the views is he conveying display a deep understanding of what I've been researching. He says something like the eclipse is now "disembodied" and "We no longer have our natural congruence with our environment."

So here are some nice parallels. Dr. Utter says India was a "way to connect with a more organic life."

Dr. Hans Utter says how tragically India and Thailand have now Westernized as part of globalization - to the extent that traditional music of their cultures is not played in its usual settings (old restaurants, etc.), but instead is replaced with Western rock music.

So Dr. Utter says notice how you perceive time when submerged in this muzak. So I could see this developing - just by listening to "international" music shows on my local community radio station - with volunteer d.j.s from their respective countries. 30 mns:

I am a reptilian...intense emotional states are repressed or refracted and projected onto mass spectacles...there is a whole strata or experience that is basically shut out of our minds, to a certain extent...Your time is constantly marauded ...by ...Muzak leaking into these locked memories,...Nested temporal cycles, nested types of resonance...neurological, seasonal, ...it's in the end game stage now, the erasure of history of time.

So then Dr. Utter gets into a deep philosophical discussion about what is the "present" really - and how Westernization, as a circular logic game, relying on Wittgenstein's paradoxes of logic - traps the present into a non-existent now of linear time.

And so also in my research I detail how Plato and Archytas covered up this empirical truth of music noncommutative phase harmonics that is now rediscovered in quantum resonance as entanglement. Too bad Jan Irvin has decided that quantum is fake news. haha. Along with global warming? Wow he did too much psychedelics and then did a dialectical swing to the right with an extreme left brain shutting down of his open-minded critical thinking. But it does indeed require a lot of conceptual focus and time to do the reading that you are doing of Heidegger, Wittgenstein and Bruno Latour, etc. That type of reading takes "time off" from the interwebs and personal time in silence, etc. thanks again. drew

John Michell (25 December 1724 – 29 April 1793) was an English clergyman and natural philosopher who provided pioneering insights in a wide range of scientific fields, including astronomy, geology, optics, and gravitation. Considered "one of the greatest unsung scientists of all time", he was the first person known to propose the existence of black holes in publication, the first to suggest that earthquakes travel in waves, the first to explain how to manufacture artificial magnets, and the first to apply statistics to the study of the cosmos, recognizing that double stars were a product of mutual gravitation. He also invented an apparatus to measure the mass of the Earth. He has been called both the father of seismology and the father of magnetometry.

The PSI Chrono Units are generated by overlaying the 13 Moon year of 364 days over the 260 day Tzolkin. Both begin with 1.1. The 104 'extra 13 Moon Days' are managed by assigning one of the 52 Galactic Activation Portals to the first and last three days of each Moon, and one GAP each to days 4 through 6 and days 23 to 25.

Days 23, 24 and 25 of the Self-Existing Moon [above] are 'coded' by GAP 210, while the last 3 days of this Moon are always assigned the PSI of GAP {and Pacal Votan Clear Sign} Kin 211.

The remaining 208 days in the 16 'interior days of each Moon' are assigned the non GAP days in order.

More information will follow when I complete the 'About' sectionâ€”after a large project is completed during the Overtone Moon.

When whales were at their historic populations, before their numbers were reduced, it seems that whales might have been responsible for removing tens of millions of tonnes of carbon from the atmosphere every year. Whales change the climate. The return of the great whales, if they are allowed to recover, could be seen as a benign form of geo-engineering. It could undo some of the damage we have done, both to the living systems of the sea, and to the atmosphere. --- This video was created as a gift to humanity by Chris and Dawn Agnos. uploaded with permission.---

The brainchild behind the event and its hazy theology was José Argüelles born Joseph Arguelles, a New Age theorist based in Boulder, Colorado, who initially hailed from Rochester, Minnesota. According to Fox, he earned a doctorate in art from the University of Chicago and taught art history at Princeton and other universities. But a dalliance with the 1960s and '70s counterculture, a struggle with alcoholism and a little LSD drew him out of the classroom and into the mystic, and he soon changed his name from Joseph to José and added an umlaut to his last name.

Argüelles began codifying a set of spiritual beliefs based on calendars, in particular the Mayan calendar. Fox reports that he believed the Gregorian calendar, used by the western world, chopped the year into unnatural cycles, and that humanity suffered because it was out of line with the natural order.

Argüelles study of the Mayan calendar convinced him that the world as we know it would end on the winter solstice of 2012; or aliens would appear; or people would reach a higher spiritual plane (his views changed over time). According to the Associated Press, he believed if 144,000 people across the world meditated together during the 1987 convergence, it would be the beginning of a cleansing process that would last until 1992. The mass meditation, he told the AP, was needed 'to create a field of trust, ground the new vibrational frequencies coming in at the time.'

According to another AP story, Argüelles also wrote that the convergence was an entry point for the return of the Maya, which some Convergencers would experience as an inner light and some would see as 'feathered serpent rainbows turning in the air.'

Argüelles had even grander expectations. 'There may be UFO sightings, or there may not be,' he told CBS News, 'but there will definitely be some type of communication of an extraterrestrial nature.'

It's hard to say whether the Harmonic Convergence staved off the Apocalypse or spared humanity from decades of war, though it does not appear as if aliens made contact with Earth in 1987 or 2012. Sadly, Argüelles was not around long enough to see if his theories would come true. He died in 2011 at the age of 72.

The TM organization still works on creating large, permanent communities to meditate for world peace, but their emphasis on getting people to do this every day.

It's all great and well to have a gathering of some size to meditate, but it doesn't matter if that gathering is everyone on Earth, if they don't meet every day.

Their research suggests that it is just like the effects of meditation on the individual: consistent, regular practice is the key. Even if a single TM session might have a dramatic effect on someone with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, that effect doesn't persist unless they meditate every day. Same principle applies with group meditation, or so their research suggests.

The biggest push for group meditation is currently in Latin America, as part of the work of Luis Alvarez, head the Latin American region for TM. As you have written articles about the David Lynch Foundation, you know how to contact them for info on contacting Luis Alvarez and finding out more about his rather large scale (involving the students of entire countries in some cases) efforts to have all students in a school system doing TM at the same time every day.

As part of the effort to convince governments to teach TM to all students, the David Lynch Foundation in Latin America builds multi-purpose classrooms/group meditation halls, teaches all students in a given school TM, and invites the relevant governments to study what happens:

<http://fundaciondavidlynch...>

You can ask the DLF for more info on the project and the response of the governments, obviously.

How absurd! These days we know better. We drive Dodge Challengers into people we disagree with, or we use Guam as a low-value pawn in a game of mutually-assured destruction with other nations. We've really got things nailed now, I bet?

William Irwin Thompson --- August 7 ----- Trump's efforts to revitalize the coal industry and choose short term gains over ecological sustainability proves my point that industrial civilization cannot transform itself and that humanity is energizing its own extinction. We had Earth Day in 1968 and a whole ecological movement in the Seventies, but here we are stuck with Trump and legislators who are more lobbyists for industry than political leaders.

Market day, the tents set up to shade stands of honey, candles, fresh vegetables and hand-crafted wrist bands of black leather. Caveat emptor. Perception itself bring objects about. In each cubic inch an infinity of things can be seen. Angels or dolphins: what you get depends on what you have got.

July 2 ----- A Short Lecture in Cosmology

From outside, the aura of Earth is visible only to Archangels responsible for attending to Michael and whatever he is up to with his solar flares. Sometimes they flay the atmosphere entirely off Earth and send it on to rusty sterile Mars.

Humans moved on sometime ago, boiling off with the heated sky, hitch-hiking rides on asteroids or orbiting dry ice comets that collided with dead planets in Francis Crick's panspermia-- the 'money shot' in hard core porn. Everything is the All fucked-up.

Symbolism and the Lindisfarne Cosmic Harp: The Cosmic Harp (once located at Lindisfarne in Southampton) is a synchronicity arising from the lecturer's researches into the connections between the hexagrams of the I Ching and the Enneagram symbol which was brought to the West from the Middle East by G.I. Gurdjieff. The tape discloses how the Cosmic Harp came into existence and, in addition, offers some insight into the value of symbolism.

Jeremy D. Johnson -- July 21, 2016

Philip K. Dick remarked that the right series of words could destroy you [1]. It's also true, I feel, that the right combination of light, sound and vision could recreate you. In the electronic surround of social media, the right link could function as a portal—a virtual hierophany—breaking through slogging clickbait to confront you with an encounter with the bonafide Other. This video, 'To Thee Homage,' is one such slipstream. It pulls at you with its felt presence. Perhaps it's the subject matter, that is the 'Matrimandir' or 'Universal Mother'; a building that functions as the 'soul' of the budding city called Auroville [2], intended to be a 'living laboratory' for the esoteric experiment of Sri Aurobindo and Mirra Alfassa. They called their spiritual practice 'Integral Yoga' and intended it to be something other than religion as we know it.

So, what is it about this video? I have never visited Auroville, located in Pondicherry, India, but I intuit the sense from this and other images that Matrimandir isn't just some strange architecture that catches the eye, merely a distraction from the digital mundane, but an interruption from the conception of human culture as we have known it. The philosophical and spiritual message of Sri Aurobindo's work had been about latency; about unfolding futures and the planetization of human consciousness. Places that explore this future function are 'living laboratories', what William Irwin Thompson called 'planetary demes'. Mutational spaces where innovation and social intensification could take place. These demes, according to Thompson, extended beyond Auroville to be bound up with Findhorn, Esalen Institute, the Lindisfarne Association and many others to do the messy, laborious work involved in imagining something beyond civilization. In Darkness and Scattered Light, Thompson refers to these kind of places as meta-industrial villages:

The meta-industrial village is such a deme; it is a place in which the four cultural forces are completely expressed. [The planetization of nations, the decentralization of cities, the miniaturization of technology, the interiorization of consciousness.] The meta-industrial village is a turn on the spiral back toward the preindustrial village, but it is not the preindustrial village; for with electronics, complex informational flow on a global level, and higher states of consciousness from a contemplative education, it is not a return to the 'idiocy of rural life.' [3]

I could argue these mutational wellsprings are needed more than ever in our time. They take on a new form, presently—sublimated into distributed efforts, much like the structure of the web itself. This is an intensification. Most important for this phase of experimental culture building is the necessity to interiorize these ideas and bring them with us into our networks. Into the multitudes that make up the body of a world bursting at the seams and breaking open at the edges of the Anthropocene. Maybe through watching this video—uncanny iconography for our LCD screens—we can take something back into our hearts that just might evoke the spirit of Matrimandir, to allow us to relate to each other differently in our local, global, planetary efforts.

Do you feel it? Does this video pull at something hidden within you?

As I stated previously New Age gurus Jose Arguelles and Drunvalo Melchizedek emphasize the same Freemasonic secret between carbon and silicon - the two, carbon and silicon, are switching places in dominance - through an asymmetrical 'mirror neuron' transformation.

The arch-nemesis of the plan for the Matrix are the land-based ecological cultures that promote the harmony of heaven and earth, based on the infinite Cosmic Mother of Nature. As Prince and Picknett document - the plan is to assimilate those cultures into the religion of techno-spirituality based on apocalypse. Stanford anthropologist Jeremy Narby's book The Cosmic Serpent discusses the importance of these indigenous 'shamanic' cultures for Holographic Matrix research. So does Theosophist David Tame's The Secret Power of Music. Although it may not be their intention, this is why Drunvalo Melchizadek has assimilated the Kogi - the only intact pre-Columbian ecological-shaman civilization and why Jose Arguelles has assimilated the Mayan shaman-yogic culture.<sup>345</sup>

Hi there. Can you go a little more on why phi and pi is not the origin of wave harmonics? great subject you are into.

Phi can hold itself. Phi can create vortices in phi cube areas.

But you saying it comes from musical theory is interesting, because a phi damping well starts with a octave, a fifth, the 'wrong' one, as you say, the 3:2. So if you can explain more about it to your faithful readers, would be great.

good to hear something about your mom again (you used to be more generous with that info .. then again you used to be into ufos and we wouldn't wanna see that return now would we, hah!)

I couldn't abide the program choices my mom made .. and did only one hour a week 'religiously' (a choir/congregation psalm/hymn in churches thing .. with close ups of faces .. the choir scene has kinda died off around here now).

ps: imho the extreme male brain :: autism :: aspergers :: nerd/beta is a cycle with a fine structure constant type thin wedge called savantry connected the ends ... or splitting it, cutting into the crap rather than thru it .. or it out, .. let alone 'IT' away

That reminds me of the dude who used to study opioid addiction - what is his name? I cite him - so his newest deal is using electromagnetic pulses to temporarily shut of people's left brains: Presto they become an idiot savant with this huge boost in intuitive logic. So I would say being an idiot savant is not at all the same as what is called "autism" as an extreme left-brain dominance. And even more so is the epidemic of ejaculation addiction which shuts off the left side vagus nerve inhibition of the fight-flight-fuck instinct. So essentially there has to be more right side vagus nerve activation which then activates the left side vagus nerve to open up the heart oxytocin love energy. Yeah Snyder:

Savant-like skills exposed in normal people by supressing the left

by AW SNYDER - 2003 - Cited by 177 - Related articles frequency magnetic pulses into the left fronto-temporal lobe. Significant ... Keywords: nonconscious skills, autistic savants, savants, TMS, drawing, creativity, ... Low frequency (rTMS) inhibits brain activity thereby creating 'virtual lesions' (6,14).

The majority of studies over the last century find that no participants can solve the nine-dot problem – a fact we confirmed. But with 10 min of right lateralising transcranial direct current stimulation (tDCS), more than 40% of participants did so. Specifically, whereas no participant solved this extremely difficult problem before stimulation or with sham stimulation, 14 out of 33 participants did so with cathodal stimulation of the left anterior temporal lobe together with anodal stimulation of the right anterior temporal lobe. Brain stimulation enables the solution of an inherently difficult problem 2012

So I would say the typical "autistic" person is still left brain dominant - as you say - "the extreme male brain. It is only in rare cases that there is actually inhibition of the left brain - as Gurdjieff called it a Number 3 person that as it's called in Mahayana Buddhism, "empties out the conceptual mind."

Voidisyinyang September 27, 2017 at 1:53 PM

Mounting evidence suggest that the right-hemisphere (RH) has a relative advantage, over the left-hemisphere (LH), in mediating social intelligence - identifying social stimuli, understanding the intentions of other people, awareness of the dynamics in social relationships, and successful handling of social interactions. Furthermore, a review and synthesis of the literature suggest that pro-social attitudes and behaviors are associated with physiological activity in the RH, whereas unsocial and anti-social tendencies are mediated primarily by the LH.

<https://synapse.koreamed.org/DOIx.php?id=10.5607/en.2014.23.1.1>

So a person can be right-brain dominant without being an idiot and also being a savant - these are the spiritual masters.

There is a trade-off for left brain dominance indeed!

.... and never mind the drop-offs, fall-offs, you disloyal oaf.. if you had a big readership someone would notice that you are blocking engagement of content (at vid description) with seemingly generous and direct response to a chatty remark about singing ....

"Second, considering that autism features individuals exhibiting the characteristics of our evolutionary forebears," How does this b.s. pass as academic commentary? Total disregard of Dr. Bradford Keeney's research with the original human culture - and the true meaning of our "ancestors" - the opposite of autism. Hilarious.

How is that "Orchestral"? - The opposite of nonwestern music - that's how! haha.

Peace, low stress, low hormones, lead to Neotony, rising IQs, and an experimental AS/HFA development that can focus on things, rather than avoiding being whacked in the head on the street, or being invaded.

The home computer, internet, Wiki, developed out of brains looking at things, thinking, which has been a rare thing.

While some try to connect it with a rise in Autism, meaning non verbal, low IQ, and a diaper, it is not like that. We had that back in the day, it seems the same now.

AS/HFA are an edge of Geek Syndrome, Half-Aspies, which has been the growth sector, and been driving the computer advances. Intelligence, focus, technology are the defining issues.

This group hardly existed in my youth. I met few technocrats during the 60s, but have watched it grow industries since. Our exports have gone up five times in value, but are still the same weight. We export knowledge.

Most of our job losses are not from exporting jobs, but from improving productivity.

Broader Autism Phenotype for lack of a better term, is taking over the world, and they are a bunch of baby faced old children.

They started showing with Comic Book conventions, then Science Fiction, Anime, computers, and now are a broad sub culture.

Wrong Planet was a timely thing, for the thought patterns here attract some group that thinks alike, and very different than the majority. It is leaning more and more to PhD Syndrome.

Where else could you find a conversation about the work of Stephen Jay Gould from the 1970s, with such insight into his work and that which has followed, and where it might be going?

Maybe this is really obvious, but I meant to say I made sure to keep my palms on the centre line during moving yin/yang.

Now when my hand gets to the top of my head, during MYY, I can feel it in a field coming out the from the top of my head and feel it all the way down to the bottom, all within that field from the top of my head!

And I'm not doing MYY in deep horse stance. I'm doing it like master Lin. However, I do QF in deep horse stance.

And with visualisations coming out from the palms and going into the body to the centre.

I'm just saying this off the top of my head and going from my last two MYY meditations.

The bottom hand scoops the energy upwards with the focus on the light between the hand and where it meets the central light and the central channel itself. Then when the hand gets to the top it arcs outwards and pulls the energy from above the head down to the bottom.

Have been without a working computer until I bought one in LV last week and had it set up yesterday.

I find it so bizarre that both Stephanie and I were in LV that day. I was playing poker at The Venetian and we were 'on lockdown' until about 3 a.m. I am writing a blog about it, and the story continues to expand hourly. I was there to meet Alan, and we were still there when Trump came to visit. There is an interesting synch about him I'll tell.

Thanks for noting the CTC date. My plan was to write about Magnetic Monkey [Planetary 22] beginning the last 91 days of this CTC year. It was erie to see the 22,000 people at the Route 91 Harvest festival.

And so it is universally true that major is happy, minor is sad and diminished is scary but this is from the approximate to the natural harmonics when in fact noncommutative phase is being in two places at the same time - this transcends the "lower emotions" into a deep bliss via the heart as the deep kundalini healing energy of "unconditional love" energy from the right side vagus nerve. So a deeper listening turns sound into light as a reverse time phonon energy called "yuan qi" or prana - shakti via light turning around when time goes to zero, there is then reverse time from the future as precognitive visions.

Erno Lendvai's book on Bela Bartok got dismissed by mainstream music academics as not being "sophisticated" enough as Lendvai argued Bartok was relying on a Golden Mean harmonics - but he argues that the tritones are canceled out by the Perfect Fifth/Fourth overtones - creating that "neutral" sensation. In fact this is just pushing the equal-tempered logarithmic tuning to its extreme - so for example 5:4 as the original major third is from the complementary inverse of the Golden Ratio 8:5 as the minor sixth - which is the secret Archytas equation for doubling the cube - as the major third was the cube root of two approximation - logarithmically from the geometric mean continued proportion equation conversion. So this is why all this Avant-Garde music is b.s. whereas it is now proven people prefer the natural harmonics Octave-Perfect Fifth-Perfect Fourth music since our brain has the strongest neuron synchronization to those low number natural ratios - this is secretly due to noncommutative phase as I have revealed.

guess that's why i only play the flageolette into harmonics when i pick up a guitar ... which i haven't had the opp to in ages ... i really should buy one ... .. Bottom half of the concluding paragraph comes up with a mysterious '2nd clock' (from the future):

"When things get real interesting is when you have "subwavelength" of light - as Sir John Pendry has proven - you can then create a reverse time phonon energy! This means a subwavelength of light has a momentum that is superluminal - or a "pilot wave" as Louis de Broglie called it. And how did Louis de Broglie discover his Law of Phase Harmony? He analyzed relativity and said ok as energy goes up in frequency to the speed of light then time slows down by a bigger wavelength - but that goes against the Law of Pythagoras that frequency is inverse to time! But since both relativity and quantum based on frequency energy is real that must mean there is a 2nd clock as the phase wave of the particle that is superluminal and guides the particle from the future - and this harmonizes with the group wave of the particle that is the mass wave. So we assume in Western music that a string or tube of air or something material has to vibrate to create sound but that is based on symmetric math that goes back to irrational magnitude with Mersennes law of frequency assuming symmetric math ratios. This all covered up the truth of real Orthodox Pythagorean philosophy that only used the Tetrad or Tetraktys as noncommutative phase - 1:2:3:4 - the same secret of the three gunas, the oldest philosophy of India and the Yin-Yang-Emptiness of China - and all human cultures use the 1-4-5 music intervals as well."

From ClichÃ© to Archetype (1970)

In his 1970 book, From ClichÃ© to Archetype, McLuhan, collaborating with Canadian poet Wilfred Watson,[63] approached the various implications of the verbal clichÃ© and of the archetype. One major facet in McLuhan's overall framework introduced in this book that is seldom noticed is the provision of a new term that actually succeeds the global village; the global theater.

In McLuhan's terms, a clichÃ© is a "normal" action, phrase, etc. which becomes so often used that we are "anesthetized" to its effects.

An example of this given by McLuhan is Eugene Ionesco's play The Bald Soprano, whose dialogue consists entirely of phrases Ionesco pulled from an Assimil language book. "Ionesco originally put all these idiomatic English clichés into literary French which presented the English in the most absurd aspect possible." [64] McLuhan's archetype "is a quoted extension, medium, technology or environment." "Environment" would also include the kinds of "awareness" and cognitive shifts brought upon people by it, not totally unlike the psychological context Carl Jung described.

McLuhan also posits that there is a factor of interplay between the cliché and the archetype, or a "doubleness":

Another theme of the Wake [Finnegans Wake] that helps in the understanding of the paradoxical shift from cliché to archetype is 'past time are pastimes.' The dominant technologies of one age become the games and pastimes of a later age. In the 20th century, the number of 'past times' that are simultaneously available is so vast as to create cultural anarchy. When all the cultures of the world are simultaneously present, the work of the artist in the elucidation of form takes on new scope and new urgency. Most men are pushed into the artist's role. The artist cannot dispense with the principle of 'doubleness' or 'interplay' because this type of hendiadys dialogue is essential to the very structure of consciousness, awareness, and autonomy. [65]

McLuhan relates the cliché-to-archetype process to the Theater of the Absurd:

Pascal, in the seventeenth century, tells us that the heart has many reasons of which the head knows nothing. The Theater of the Absurd is essentially a communicating to the head of some of the silent languages of the heart which in two or three hundred years it has tried to forget all about. In the seventeenth century world the languages of the heart were pushed down into the unconscious by the dominant print cliché. [66]

The "languages of the heart", or what McLuhan would otherwise define as oral culture, were thus made archetype by means of the printing press, and turned into cliché.

The satellite medium, McLuhan states, encloses the Earth in a man-made environment, which "ends 'Nature' and turns the globe into a repertory theater to be programmed." [67] All previous environments (book, newspaper, radio, etc.) and their artifacts are retrieved under these conditions ("past times are pastimes").

Fascinating indeed. -- Can you please elaborate regarding the spiritual masters who can communicate with animals?

The little I have read about Classical Chinese Medicine, it states that only humans have Shen, animals only have Jing and Qi. I don't know if this is true and if it has any significance regarding the spirit communication.

-----This isn't limited to animals!

I posted earlier in the thread how the Taoist Nun at Qingchengshan could hear the trees crying so she pulled the nails out of the trees from the tourist signs.

I actually had some spirit tree dreams from the big oak trees in the yard I grew up in. First I dreamt of this rainbow aura around one of the trees. Then a few days after I had this dream of a white bear leaning up against the other tree. So I went back to see the old yard and sure enough that tree that had the spirit white bear had just been cut down! And so then I looked up the significance of bears in circumpolar cultures - and they are considered spirit communicators.

So it's proven in science that trees and mushrooms communicate via coherent biophoton energy which is what spirit energy is - the mushrooms feed off dead trees and then feed the nitrogen to the living trees.

In the Word of God the phrase the 'heart of Christ' is hard to locate, although we can find many indications or implications that reveal his lofty thoughts, innermost feelings and spiritual aspirations. The Song of Songs is unique in that four times it refers to the heart of the Beloved Christ directly in his union and fellowship with his bride lover for his pleasure (3:11; 4:9; 8:6).

__ If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death â€” Partly thus vindicating His lofty claims as Lord of the kingdom of life everlasting, and, at the same time, holding out even to His revilers the scepter of grace. The word 'keep' is in harmony with John 8:31, 'If ye continue in My word,' expressing the permanency, as a living and paramount principle, of that faith to which He referred: 'never see death,' though virtually uttered before (John 5:24; John 6:40, John 6:47, John 6:51), is the strongest and most naked statement of a very glorious truth yet given. (In John 11:26 it is repeated in nearly identical terms).

Matthew Henry ----- John 8:51-59

Besides, they had said but just now that he was a distracted crack-brained man, and if so it was against all reason and equity to punish him as a malefactor for what he said. They took up stones. Dr. Lightfoot will tell you how they came to have stones so ready in the temple; they had workmen at this time repairing the temple, or making some additions, and the pieces of stone which they hewed off served for this purpose. See here the desperate power of sin and Satan in and over the children of disobedience. Who would think that ever there should be such wickedness as this in men, such an open and daring rebellion against one that undeniably proved himself to be the Son of God? Thus every one has a stone to throw at his holy religion, Acts 28:22.

Etymology

Borrowed from French chic, from German Schick ('correct manners, correct clothing'), from Middle High German schicken ("to outfit oneself, fit in, arrange appropriately"), causative of Middle High German geschehen, geschÄ“n ("to happen, rush") from Old High German giskehan ("to happen") from Proto-Germanic *skehanÄ“... (to run, move quickly), from Proto-Indo-European *skek- ('to run, jump, spring'). Akin to Old English scÄ“on ("to happen"), Dutch schielijk ("hasty") and schikken ('to arrange').

critique of fantasy: wish fulfillment and the recoil of projected futures

Same as COLIT-GA 2912 and CINE-GT 2502 --- Laurence Rickels

When J. R. R. Tolkien christened his new or renewed genre of choice 'Fantasy,' he knew he was founding it in proximity to wish power. To block the narcissism of chaos resulting from a genre of daydreaming, Tolkien grounded the fantasy genre in the one fantasy that is true, the Gospel, and the other worlds of fairy in the prospect of Christian redemption. Philip K. Dick argued that the reader checked in and out of fantasy worlds whereas in science fiction every fictional reality the reader encountered remained a possible or alternate reality that could never be withdrawn. While the science fiction genre projected many realities that came true, in another area of fulfilment the genre piled up a ruinscape of misses and near-misses. The trauma of realization of prediction that beset science fiction during the Third Reich also meant that its psychotic sublime innovations never really left the range of the WWII origin of computing. But in addition to rocket science and artificial doubling of intelligent life, the computer held the digital relation in store.

According to Walter Benjamin's understanding of modern allegory as the new legibility of defunct metaphysical systems, Christianity supplied the ruins for reading by falling short of delivery of its purchase on the future. The fantasy that is true is not Christianity (as Tolkien advertised) but instead the digital relation. This is why the fantasy genre has been in the ascendant within a mix of B-genres since the 1970s. By proximity and default, fantasy has come to represent our second nature as day-dreamers. We begin to understand how Star Wars became our oldest cultural memory.

Time to remember that it was the wish (der Wunsch) and not desire that was Freud's cornerstone concept. His main philosophical precursor in this lineage of the wish was Arthur Schopenhauer, who speculated on a difference between our daily sense organ and the 'dream organ,' our portal at night to liminal occult experience. Dreaming something as true, wahrtr umen, draws from the will, the Ding an sich, but commences entertaining occult experience (like clairvoyance) upon reaching waking consciousness and translating what was drawn from the deep well of the will into the spatial/temporal/causal coordinates of wahrnehmen, perceiving, literally taking something as true. In The Interpretation of Dreams, Freud represented the sliding scale of the impact of the will through the wish power manifested in dreams. Freud brought his basic concept full circle as intrapsychic allegory when he skipped the night and approached waking fantasy or the daydream. In 'The Creative Writer and Daydreaming,' Freud argued that while every wish fantasy binds the idealized past to the future of fulfilment in circumvention of the present, the trigger of the fantasizing is stamped as Zeitmarke (date mark) upon the fantasy as a whole. The date mark identifies the expiration of the flight of fantasy by its backfire: historicization, the topical application of allegory.

interlude (to the well.org 'Prosperity feature docu') addressing Drew:
from defensible to defensive, from alpha to beta, from castle to hermitage, recluse and wizard haunt; the obsession with peak pinnacle, spike and fractional exceptionalism remains the same.

That is actually the real nuclear power that George Monbiot knows nothing about! It is the sonofusion energy and .. proly the most dte phrase he ever wrote thus far:

The most important truth of our living reality is we all need that deep bliss from a good night's sleep and yet during that bliss of delta brain waves at 1 hertz (or 1 heart beat per second at 60 bpm pulse) - we experience no spacetime and no personal ego consciousness at all.

ah, .. Drew finally confesses a few presidential ambitions:

So at least we get the smog "global dimming" effect - shut down all the coal and global temperature increases at least 1.2 degrees Celsius. So the only solution is a massive carbon sink effort - reverse all the carbon build up - and then we can also reverse stopping global dimming. Basically we have to REVERSE the effect of the last 100 years of industrialization!! Amazing. We have a few years to do this at best. The only way we could do this is to have the most crazy Tree-Hugging Radical Ecologists as presidents of all the countries of the planet - shut down all military spending and do a huge investment in kelp farming of the oceans, hemp farms on land - since kelp and hemp grow fast - and algae farms for biodiesel - so it's at least carbon neutral fuel from hemp and algae.

he did a looooong comment on a helen caldicott vid (i guess), ending thus:

And so you get the global generation of ejaculation addiction closeted fascists that create the evil Insane Clown president with his REXXON side-kick. Yeah modern humans are chimpanzees - warmongering rapists - but Harvey thought he was having fun until reality kicked in. Harvey is just symptomatic of our society as a whole - the technofeminists just try to ignore Harvey (and Bill Cosby, etc.) while hoping technology will eventually castrate all the males from the plastic synthetic estrogens. I mean ideally we don't need males - we can just replace them with robots - so say the technofeminists. haha. Hilarious. Even female chimps use spears to hunt meat so they are not dependent on the raping male chimps to provide meat for sex.

<https://ecoechoinvasives.blogspot.nl/2017/10/sleepwalking-to-armageddon-threat-of.html>

Another new fascinating commentary by Dr. Stephen E. Robbins on this topic of the secret of the flow of time - "null" time as holographic reality - and relies on similarly a "rotating cube" with different modulating sharp edges, etc.

So then the "external" image experienced as an individual ego vanishes into a wall of light, as Yogananda eloquently describes his samadhi experience - Earth disappears and everything is light - and yet by "turning" this light around, there is also zero time for the light as the shakti prana reverse time energy is activated.

About Dolf ----- I declare that I have not given my permission to Facebook to use my photos or any information in my profile, my updates and my statuses!

I have an informal interest as research within the field of esoteric and the perennial school of thinking made in relation to systems of belief systems having a primordial consciousness of the Mysteries, perspective of Nature and its effect upon empire governance and belief systems that are associated with attributed time.

I advance the theory that there is a consequence effect upon historical views of this, that can be made in considering the basis of the DAOIST alternate Tetragrammaton and HOMOIOS perspective of Number as evidence of a eastern oriental esotericism first published in 4 BCE and only translated in English in 1993. As a Primordial Traditional view of the same Supreme Mysteries which forms Western esotericism.

Manifestly, the Tetragrammaton of Number provides a metaphysical perspective with an encumbering recognition of the meta principle associated to a Self Identity as the Formula of Autonomy (consequential upon historical issues such as slavery, patriarchal views of marriage, women's rights and GLBTQI rights) which is largely absent from the alternative Pythagorean sophistic mystical view of Number as HETEROS and the accepted historical foundation to Western Philosophy/Theology as belief systems.

And is likely the probable historical cause within our Australian Legislation and that of other nations, as to their historically lacking (being inclusive of the present), any recognition of a Self Identity having a viable autonomous right and basis under the Law, to hold a religious belief independent from Institutional Religious practice, as being essentially derived from the equivalent grounds for as the religious dogma on heterosexual marriage and its opposition to Same Sex Marriage.

This alternative DAOIST HOMOIOS and Tetragrammaton view of Number undermines the contrary Pythagorean HETEROS view of Number by challenging it's Formula of Progression, as a meta principle having a sophistic reliance upon the initial numbering series: 1, 2 and 3 to which symbolic associations are made.

It does this by sustaining a mathematical model as it's foundation for the Tetragrammaton conception, being then inclusive of the same meta principle, that is further associated to the intersperses of the male/female attribution as comprising and common to each and every Number element which follows a natural and sequential order as progression.

The Pythagorean alternate HETROS formulation, is reliant upon symbolic associations as observations derived from it's view of a secondary dimensional property exhibited within its arrangement of 3x3 and 9x9 (as Greco-Roman) Magic Squares for its mathematical proof.

The Blue Western Castle of Burning contains the Serpent, Mirror, Monkey, and Seed wavespells. This castle is very aptly named as it certainly does burn. This is because it contains the two portal day columns. The first wavespell is the Red Serpent wavespell. On the second day of this wavespell there begins what I call a ten-day portal day extravaganza! It is the most intense castle of them all. Whenever it is due I have to psyche myself up as I know it will be a crazy....

just cooked organic lentils and organic brown rice on the Silverfire rocket stove. Outside temp just above freezing. Collected sticks around the house - most of them wet - but the stove kept going! Burns better when the front lid "feeding door" is closed. Was hungry. Now just ate bowl of freshly cooked lentils/rice. Two hours a day of stove use - is 1000 watts of power at 2 hours. $100 a year savings.

So you have two entanglement soliton spirit signal properties - "self-phase" and "cross-phase" modulation. quote: The two important states of meditation and mindfulness are the spirit oscillation time (change of t) and spirit energy (change of frequency) approached zero, in which the spirit concentration and mind perception are taken place, where finally, the meditation and perception are established. //// end quot
So there you have the time-frequency resonance just as I have emphasized - he says change of energy but that's known to be frequency in quantum physics. quote: ... "where the meditation is concentrated on spirit oscillation time, where it is finally approached zero (stopping condition), while the mind body one is concentrated on the spirit oscillation frequency (energy)...where the spirit energy is approached zero, which is called the "nirvana" state." So he just described the reversal of time-frequency energy as a black hole-white hole reversal. It's this pdf
So he says in the first level of mental concentration there is perception of spirit travel whereby time reaches zero and frequency goes into higher dimensions of atomic levels. But then he says through mental contemplation or mindfulness then nirvana is achieved whereby the frequency energy is reversed to near zero. So the secret of this contemplation is that you have both zero time and zero frequency energy. quote: The eight states of meditation absorption [Buddhist samadhi] are originated on top and the energy and time reducing to the bottom, where in this case, the spirit oscillation time is approached zero, while the spirit energy is remained with a minimum value.

The secret to living forever is indeed with Drew - when he talks, it feels like it will never end. /end note perceivebelieve.tumblr.com is or was heavily into those endless klluminati vids .. a youngster about to overtake Drew or just another astonishee careening thru claimers, re- and/or declaimers of spiritmatters ?? ... .. i remember i thought it must be Drew himself until i surfed thru earlier posts ... still fully parallel but Drew cycled thru all that paranoia in the nineties ....

here's a quote that has the remembered pic in question embedded in it (which by the way shows all vertebrae and organs with connectors and the bottom to numbers are 55 and 55 ... if i am not mistaken - kinda blurry):

At a certain point the jing and bones resonate with the ch'i of the Earth and one's deep root is established.
quote: In the Standing Postures, at the same time one sinks the l and ch'i into the bones in order to concentrate the jing, one's conscious awareness (the most basic definition of shen) is lowered automatically into its associated realm (Water). //// end quote.

So then he explains that there are two burials in ancestor worship - after two years the bones are dug up and reburied, so that the jing of the bones attracts the shen, the bones now called huang-jin (yellow-gold) as alchemy. So now we know the secret of why in Egypt (and spreading into the West) the body is to be buried with gold - the actual alchemical process is much more detailed! And now in our materialistic fallen times people just worship the actual gold instead!!

O.K. so now I want to introduce the medical doctor Chinese alchemist - through intense study he figured out the secret of the Yellow Emperor Classic text to alchemy training: pancreas-spleen = earth = 5 --- kidney (water) 1 plus lung (metal) 4 = 5 -- heart (fire) 2 plus liver (wood) 3 = 5 -- Earth governs four of the five elements. Dr. Shuang Yan Guan Zhu, physician, says how in his qi training experience, the pancreas directly connects to the spine sympathetic nervous system, in contrast to the other organs. He too made the alchemical ancestor worship connection! So based on his qi experience of the sympathetic nervous system of the spine - he realized that Earth was in the middle, thereby governing fire and water

He also makes the astrological connection:

REMARKS: Merger of East Green Dragon Qi with the West White Tiger Qi: In ancient times, astronomers divided the sky near the ecliptic and the equator into 28 regions, each of which was called one xiu (constellation). These were put into four group subjects to different four directions with seven constellations for each group. The seven constellations in the East are called Canglang (Green Dragon). Those in the North are named Xuanwu (Dark Tortoise), the West, Baiha (White Tiger), and the South, Zhuque (Red Bird). And so now we get to the details of the connection between the Hun and the Po via the pancreas ----- Davis translation: "The taking of so small a quantity of it as would cover the edge of a knife or spatula will be enough to confer tranquility on the hun pao (man's animal spirit), give him immortality, and enable him to live in the village of the immortals. Those who love the Tao (Way) trace things to their roots. They decide on the proper quantities (to use) in connection with the preparation of their medicine on the basis of the Wu-hsing. Pregadio's Version: Moisten one knife-point, and it will cleanse the hun and the po; you will obtain a long life and find a home in the town of the Immortals. Our interpretation If the panacea is activated, the spirit and the soul will be purified. REMARKS: Dao Gui (ǎˆǣǣ) - in ancient times. Dao Gui was an instrument for measuring powdered medicine (Figure 9) and has a few comments appended, wherein:

<https://crankydaoist.wordpress.com/2014/12/10/the-cult-of-mystical-ignorance/#comments> and wherein he quotes himself:

So then I discovered this pdf by a Tai Chi teacher - Dennis Willmont - Ritual, Sacrifice and Alchemy

Alchemy reiterates the earlier idea of external sacrifice found in Chinese ancestor worship, but does so internally within the body and mind by the conversion of jing to shen via the intermediary level of ch'i and I/Intention.

So that exactly encapsulates the basic principle of alchemy training that I focus on in my Idiot's G article - to put the shen below the jing via the yi as intention, that then governs and guides and creates the qi.

Between Heaven and Earth, the central harmonizing principle of Man is associated with the phase Soil (tu), the Spleen/Pancreas, worry, Intention (l), and Trustworthiness (xin). And so Trustworthiness of the pancreas intention is actually the proper balance of the kidney water will power, with the emotional heart of fire, to create good soil.

Drew obviously fancies himself to be for the chinese what Ralph Ellis is for bible scholarship: a bitter pill ... hahahaahh!!!!

Perceptions and Identities on the Southern Frontier, c.400 BCE-50 CE

Cambridge University Press 2015 ----- February 3, 2016 Carla Nappi

Erica Fox Brindley's new book is a powerful study of the history of conceptions of ethnicity in early China that focuses on the Hua-xia and the peoples associated with its southern frontier (Yue/Viet). Informed by a careful accounting of extant textual, linguistic, and archaeological forms of evidence, Ancient China and the Yue: Perceptions and Identities on the Southern Frontier, c.400 BCE-50 CE (Cambridge University Press, 2015) reminds readers that there was no single "Yue" people (the term encompassed very different groups of people, depending on who was using it and how and when) and shows that "articulations of the self and Yue other were shaped by specific contextual needs or political exigencies." The book argues that an "imperial logic of centrality" played an important role in the unification of a Hua-xia center and self, and hence, the construction of marginal others in the process.

Along the way, Brindley offers a window into the political histories of the key states associated with Yue peoples and cultures, considers a model of ethnicity in the Analects, offers a fascinating account of hairstyles and other physical markers of Yue identity, and explores Yue resistance and rebellion. The conclusion suggests a more critical approach to the concept of sinicization.

The Numerical Tarot by Guy and Charlene Palm

<http://www.palmprints.com/guy/BookSeasons.html#axzz4y9SfBBQz>

The Wheel Within a Wheel Mandala is like a clock. The inner wheel of Major Trumps is like the minute hand moving fast through each day. The outer wheel of Minor Suits is like the hour hand moving slower through each year. A year is as a day. A day is as a year. Cycles create undulations that lead to opposites, which when totaled lead to a Quintagram!

B The Magenta ----- The notes indicated in the chart above could work. However, after further consideration, I decided to start my scale on a B note instead of that C note, so that an even better alignment might be found to traditional notes. Thus, as a cycle of notes, my note that would be equivalent to a B would reside at the top or "12 o'clock" position if this cycle of notes, were to be presented in a circular form... which is exactly what I wanted to do, and did.

my respect for RE just took a dive ... soilcarbon is just as, if not more essential to the 'flourishment' of plants, etc than gaseous forms are, not to mention trace elements. Look up John D Hamaker for someone who ties that all together .. and then some. To anybody not intent on polarizing and short circuiting the climate change issue, there's a host of 'for the better' clauses implied, such as ending soil erosion, monoculture, 'pharmaffialogy', starting some size and oxides reduction right where the biospherically speaking, gaping wound effect of said policies and bad habits have 'worked' the land into bare and

The answer to this conundrum can be found in a novel reanalysis of the effects of decreasing atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> concentrations during an ice-age. Ice age CO<sub>2</sub> reductions coincide with an increase in ice sheet extent and therefore an increase in global albedo, and this should result in further cooling of the climate. But what actually happens is that when CO<sub>2</sub> reaches a minimum and albedo reaches a maximum, the world rapidly warms into an interglacial. A similar effect can be seen at the peak of an interglacial, where high CO<sub>2</sub> and low albedo results in cooling. This counterintuitive response of the climate system also remains unexplained, and so a hitherto unaccounted for agent must exist that is strong enough to counter and reverse the classical feedback mechanisms.

The answer to both of these conundrums lies in glacial dust, which was deposited upon the ice sheets towards the end of each glacial maximum. Previous research has considered two effects of this aeolian dust on the glacial climate: the increased albedo of atmospheric dust cooling the climate, and the mineral fertilization of marine life reducing atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub>. But both of these effects would result in a cooling feedback, and therefore provide no explanation for the interglacial warming that appears to result from dust deposition.

The Physics of NOW - Eternity is NOW --- 2,567 views -- Srecko Sorli -- Published on Jul 16, 2014

handsome guy ... Drew has an instant hard on for, fits his own woonuttery of sokalizing fizzikz into quantalliae ..
this in sharp splitmode contrast to his paranoia about real fizzikality of course; it's gotta be safe sex cartoon mode turned on 24/7

Dear Amrit Srecko Sorli: So when you discuss left-handed and right-handed light, then I agree with B.G. Sidharth that left-handed amino acids of life on Earth are due to the left-handed electroweak force creating a bias but the supposed symmetric math is also due to a left-brain/right-hand technology bias. So ecology is based on left-handed amino acids and right-brain dominance. For example fructose is toxic to the body since it is the wrong chirality of light refraction. And so then "turning the light around" through meditation resonates the biophotons as laser energy - based on right-brain dominance. So for example in Daoist alchemy the left eye is the Solar "Yuan Shen" (spirit energy) for the right brain visualization. And so the negentropic quantum coherence resonance is macroquantum - based on noncommutative phase as the ether - the dynamic quantum energy of time-frequency. So for example the right side vagus nerve connects to the left side of the brain but the left side vagus nerve does not connect to the right side of the brain. So left brain dominance causes modern humans to be controlled by the lower subconscious emotions. So then by "turning the light around" we resonate the hidden momentum or the phonon pressure (qi or prana) as negentropic energy that is actually left-handed via the left-handed amino acids and the right brain visualization. This creates a reverse time energy - such that we literally create a new Emptiness or quantum vacuum space for healing energy, longevity, levitation, precognition and on deep levels, telekinesis and creation of new bodies - bilocation from energy. In Daoist alchemy the "yuan qi" also means putting the "shen" under the jing - just as for de Broglie's Law of Phase Harmony, the phase velocity is frequency (shen) multiplied by wavelength (jing). Because of relativity then there is no "singularity" since the light or spirit arises out of the Emptiness as formless awareness. In terms of the Emptiness itself, when the light is turned around, then there is zero time. In terms of spirit (frequency energy) and matter (wavelength) this is negentropic energy. Please let me know any comments, criticisms, questions. thanks, Drew added a 37th (to the thread with only one comment by someone else):

So there is something called the "symbolic revolution" by archaeologists - essentially hunter-gatherers built religious megaliths before they began farming. This also started for the first time anthropocentric art - and based on rectilinear geometry - so square housing. And so what happened is the males began to think they could "contain" infinity using left-brain dominance and right-hand technology based on rectilinear symbolic geometry as ritual math. So the Solar ritual priests used math to double the size of altars while also making circular altars illegal - this was the first attempt to square the circle, documented by math professor Abraham Seidenberg. So he calls it the "separation of heaven and earth" which is also the ritual sacrifice of humans - the separation of the upper and lower body. So then the rectilinear buildings represent this attempt to bring heaven down to earth via right hand technology - as a kind of Garden of Eden created from technology. Seidenberg actually promoted this with Lord Raglan as part of Freemasonic technology. Professor David F. Noble wrote two great books on this - the Religion of Technology that takes the problem back to the 9th Century NeoPlatonic monks and then his last book - Beyond the Promised Land - that takes the problem back to these solar dynasty empires. So the early Sumerian myths are based on a more matrifocal culture. Another good book that goes into this is "When God was a Woman" by Merlin Stone. So by 1200 BCE then India made iron more valuable than silver. Silver had been the lunar female energy with gold was the solar male energy. But iron makes better weapons. So the ritual solar priests then taught we need to spread as imperialism - so that the Gods can save us from plagues. In fact this refers to the intensive farming. So the squaring of the circle ritual altars where used for centering chariot wheels - the same ritual math. Then the gods said we need to double the cube of an altar precisely. This was also to stop plagues. So Archytas solved this - but in fact it was for catapult technology. And so since around 10,000 BCE there has been an ecological crisis that has grown from the wrong definition of infinity that goes against what the Egyptians called Nuit - the source of the word Nothingness but also the lunar Nut-case. It is the psychic lunar energy that opens up the pineal gland - only female primates living in nature as a group are precisely synchronized with the lunar cycle. There is a good lecture on this - by Camille Paglia - oh wait - not her - Camille Powers. <https://vimeo.com/124566326> So the females do the gardening - because of the psychic lunar energy connection with the Earth. It's called grounding or Earthing - when you walk barefoot - every second the earth is hit by lightning. So we collect negative ions - and feel an internal tingling energy.

On this latter point, Daniel Quinn is undoubtedly correct regarding the first Renaissance, but he is probably mistaken about how rapidly the key memes of the old society need to be abandoned, and new ones adopted. Modern technological developments are now driving change through the old Level 3 Civilization at rates that will totally undermine it in the space of less than a decade. There is an urgent need to find and agree the right new memes for a Level 4 Civilization. The longer we wait the more people will suffer unnecessarily.

The "top" abrupt global warming youtube channel just got disappeared as spam! The person, a video editor, had his twitter deleted as well and his facebook is down!

When I googled the "title" of this blog post I got no hits. So I went over to duckduckgo and searched the same results - got dramatically different hits.

I posted a comment to his Wordpress blog but his blog is inactive and only has one post from over a year ago.

he discovered dozens of Freemasonic codes embedded in Shakespeare's monument and gravestone. It was clear the story had all the secret society ramifications and political intrigue of a Dan Brown novel " with one important difference. These codes were real. In fact they'd been specifically laid out geometrically so as to prove their authenticity by revealing a stunningly accurate web of twelve of the world's most significant mathematical constants. Most astoundingly of all, they gave the precise geographic co-ordinates of the Great Pyramid, along with instructions for decoding the exact same web of constants within its basic proportions.

.Coming in early 2018... THE SHAKESPEARE EQUATION -- The Holy Trinity Solution --- Book 3

Now the journey takes an even more dramatic turn. We find that Shakespeare has been pointing us towards the Great Pyramid not only in the mathematical precision of Book II but in certain subtly veiled segments of his plays and sonnets. Poetry alone however could never conclusively prove his intent; it's too subjective. So he used sacred geometry and pure mathematics to silence the inevitable naysayers.

Don't worry... you don't need to understand math to appreciate the elegance of his masterpiece. The author guides us step by step to the exquisite realization that the Bard has created a miniature blueprint of the ancient wisdom embedded in the pyramid " revelations of a mathematical perfection that science could benefit from today. It's quite simply the most beautiful hidden work of genius imaginable. The greatest story Shakespeare ever wrote... is yet to be told!

DONALD F. THEALL

FROM THE CYBERGLOBAL CHAOSMOS TO THE GUTENBERG GALAXY: THE PREHISTORY OF CYBERELECTRONIC LANGUAGE(S)

In the 1970s a distinguished Québecois author, multimedia artist, broadcaster, and dramatist produced a short book on the cover of which was an illustration of a figure dressed in the jersey of a Montréal Canadiens hockey star, the head of which was a famous bust of Pythagoras. The author, Jacques Languirand, entitled his little book De McLuhan a Pythagore--(i.e, From McLuhan to Pythagoras).

The Virtual Marshall McLuhan by Donald F. Theall (review)

Glenn Willmott --- -- In lieu of an abstract, here is a brief excerpt of the content: humanities 525 university of toronto quarterly, volume 72, number 1, winter 2002/3 .....acquainted with the artists for a number of years, states from the outset that he is neither an art historian nor a critic, and that the book is intended simply as biography. Even so, it is so laden with trivialities and diversions that fail to advance the narrative that the reader is left with no sense of the place that Leonard and Reva Brooks occupy in the history of Canadian visual culture, which would seem to be the reason for telling their particular story. The tone is chatty and anecdotal, often reading like a radio script. Sources are cited, but they are often inadequately footnoted by academic standards (this is a fair criticism, considering that the publisher is an academic press), and the uncritical use of press reviews renders them of little historical use. Husband and wife receive unequal treatment; whereas Leonard is lionized, his affairs and juvenile antics celebrated, Reva is treated much less sympathetically, the traumas of her early adulthood skimmed over, and much of her behaviour explained by her inability to bear children. Some unsympathetic comments from acquaintances, like Earle Birney or Miriam Waddington, were perhaps better left out of print. The author does reveal how Reva sacrificed a potentially brilliant career (she turned down an apprenticeship with Edward Weston, and received international recognition for her Mexican portraits of women and children) in favour of supporting that of her husband. While one may question her judgment, it was her choice. There is no attempt to evaluate or contextualize Leonard's art. An indiscriminate use of information gathered through personal interviews subjects the reader to pettiness and personal animosities that simply detract from what should have been the larger goal. That goal should not have been to expose personal frailties and foibles by probing into the most personal corners of their lives, or to attribute to them undeserved importance, but to evaluate their contribution in realistic and historicizing terms B which, I conclude, has not been accomplished. (CHRISTINE BOYANOSKI) Donald F. Theall. The Virtual Marshall McLuhan McGill-Queen=s University Press. xiv, 306. $44.95 This is important reading for anyone interested in McLuhan=s ideas as they emerged from and interacted with both broader and narrower currents of his modern and tendentially postmodern worlds. The book weaves personal memoir together with literary aesthetics, cybernetics, and poststructuralist theory, and might strike the reader as a mixture of heterogeneous purposes. One should not be put off by this impression, however, for apart from the occasional stylistic grotesquerie resulting from a mixing of such languages and their tones, the project of a historicizing criticism which deliberately and perhaps radically integrates autobiographical , social historical, and theoretical knowledges here produces a re- 526 letters in canada 2001 university of toronto quarterly, volume 72, number 1, winter 2002/3 markable archaeology of McLuhan and the antinomies of a modern poetic sensibility. Donald F. Theall reasserts a view, developed by himself and others, of McLuhan as poet, satirist, and trickster, as opposed to theorist and academic , whose work is best understood as an art form trading in >affects= and >percepts= as opposed to >concepts.= But Theall emphasizes the double edge, for McLuhan, of this aestheticization of the work of criticism. On the one hand is the liberating implication of the artist as hero, the cultural producer as cultural revolutionary; on the other is the conservative recontainment of the artist as media image and artwork as commodity. Theall sees McLuhan, correctly I think, as both archetype and clich  : both a powerful outsider and critic of the new, chaotically cyborgian and schizophrenically dissociated world, and this world=s pre-eminent insider and symbolic symptom, an aggressive martyr to the market-driven production of clich  . There are several ways Theall develops this kind of tension, all of which should inspire lively debate. One is to see McLuhan biographically as >schizoid= (the echo of Deleuze and Guattari is intentional), fusing an ultraconservative Catholicism and a transgressive Nietzscheanism. The reader is presented with a detailed and thoughtful account of McLuhan=s religious investments (institutional and occult), which is later linked to McLuhan=s conservative or cynical

COMMENT: Chief Kanan Clear Feather Lee
March 28, 2016 at 5:51 am

Greetings. Found you on Galactic Space Book and saw this Post. I am a Red Galactic Skywalker and have felt a major shift during the dates you have posted. My 42 birthday was 02*20*20*16. Notice the 20+20+2=42 in 16. Anyways I was visited by a Great Mayan Chief named ATUL (Absolute Truth Unconditional Love) He wrote thru me the 7 scrolls of Silverman, drew a new mayan archetypal seal and sealed in as the sacred heart of Kanan in a wooden chest.

These writings contain a new creation myth, a prayer of forgiveness to the natives of earth and a request that the trail of tears be erased from the akashic records. There are multiple other writings that continue to spill from my cup onto the pages and strings of my instruments. Elementally I am finding an entirely new understanding of the chakras and their relation to the periodic table, alchemy and the ascension of the human soul. I hope to find others to converse and share thoughts with. Thank you for you post I have needed an outlet for this information. Even if it goes no further. Go in peace and Love, and Always shine Bright

Six of Club Meaning: The Messenger

Karma for 6 of Clubs - Cultivation of Intuition

This is the "Messenger's Card", and yet there are many 6 of Club who are unwilling to take the time or trouble to develop their greatest gift - the gift of intuition.

All Six of Club feel an obligation toward duty and they take their responsibilities seriously. Trouble is, the 6 of Club also symbolize inertia and easygoing lethargy. Hence many people born with Six of Club karma find it difficult to gain enough momentum to get up to speed and fulfill their lofty dreams. On the plus side, when a Six of Club does manage to overcome this karma, they have the unique ability to stay with a project, circumstance, or relationship until all obstacles are overcome.

Peace of mind is very important to all 6 of Club people, and they will make many sacrifices to attain that peace. All 6's are worriers and the 6 of Clubs is no exception. They worry about doing less than is expected of them; they worry about not being able to fully commercialize their talents - and most of all, they worry about the happiness and progress of their loved ones.

Their intuitive faculties are truly second to none if only they learn to live by their intuitive gifts!

Why Do Rainbows Have Seven Colours? ----- 23K views - Draw Curiosity -- Published on Aug 7, 2016

try navigate to the rainbow rich files via here

poetpiet.tripod.com/table_of_contents.htm and tell me i'm doing the colour theory wrong (11 of them, .. and this is the 111st comment).

oops, i better reduce chances you get frusty and give up ... at the bottom (after 12 pgdn taps) of said link we find one to '7 years in the making' (oldest work with some [psychosocial X econeco] parallels to rainbow family recycling colour schemery [which] i thought would help duh [re]member[er]s clean up da holeworld at the time [mid 80s] i first saw it)

<http://poetpiet.tripod.com/7yearsinthemaking.htm>

there it says this:

A semblance of the rainbowyness of it's former incarnation is preserved here: titl_fragm_rainbow.htm;

which is a dead link (sorry, nobody complained, .. been dead 16 years).

It apparently was meant to be:

".. a slightly less bewildering riot of colair than this version. The title '7yitm' refers to the fact that the material this file may or may not lead/tempt you to visit, gestated all through the 80ties, got connected, corrected throughout the 90ties and put online in 1996, colouring started a year after that. Last corrections/updates and add ontos: june 2001"

perhaps i put it up after eyesore complaints about the rest of the file and later removed it cause of a reflected [inverse] opinion which holds for me still; i champion the white race but am allergic to digital whites and stupid monitor brightness settings, etc.

anyway ... there's loads of rainbows, like here:

http://members.tripod.com/~poetpiet/random\_yet\_spectral\_samples.htm and under the 5 colour table here:

<http://poetpiet.tripod.com/index.htm>

you'll find links to 2 further (earlier) indexes which cover the noughties and one of them is stuffed with Keyserling type rainbow schemes (12 colours) with my add-on / completion / perfection attempts. Have fun, go wild ... and when i feel as if i have 3 kilos of hair pulled across my back i know the skintingle'll be your no doubt always [manifest sunnily] intense attention on my work.

I speak german and watched this tv panel yesterday:

How Monogamy Made Superorganisms Evolve --- 18,993 views ----- Draw Curiosity ---Dec 21, 2016 -----How did eusociality evolve? How did bee colonies undergo evolution to become superorganisms? Today, with expert Professor Boomsma I explore how lifetime monogamy led facultative eusocial animals to evolve into superorganisms. This evolution is the latest out of what are known as the Major Evolutionary Transitions.

Obligate eusociality evolved four times, in the Hymenoptera (bees, wasps and ants), and in the higher termites, but facultative eusociality is a lot more common. What makes the transition from solitary bees to superorganism evolve?

so ... proffie boomsma never took offense to pronounciations of his name that have explosive connotations - diametrically opposed to the meaning of 'boom' [[=tree]]?

if holland was ever holZland (woodland .. and not just in the sense that lots and lots of was sent down the rhine to be turned into chips for bets on and bids for empire .. but in the sense indicated by the wabond acount here on youtube), then this contrast is indicative of just another way the anglo version of empire delusion was propped up.

Donald Trump Antichrist? Prophecy of Kek / Cult of Apep (Pepe the Frog)

62 views -- Esoteric Emissary --- Dec 10, 2017

Esoteric Emissary returns with Season 5 Episode 1. The Prophecy of kek, a collection of hardcore videos. Donald Trump is the last president of the USA. The 3 Frog Spirits identified for the day of Armageddon. Osiris, Kek, and Apep. Kek and Apep are both Egyptian personification of the darkness chaos and evil along with Set. Kek is portrayed both as a frog headed god and with a snake head. We see a perfect fusion between Osiris, Kek, and Apep, the two beasts and the dragon. Osiris means Serpent in Semitic.

The strongest most accurate symbol for the Devil Satan is the Dragon, or Drag-On, as in a program that drags on.
Ancient Egyptian hieroglyph showing person using a computer and DNA strand associated with Kek.

See also the work of Johnathan Kleck in decoding the Hieroglyph showing the Green Dragon cast out of the sun to the earth and into Akhenaten / Obama. If the Sun Devil is in the sun and the sun is hell or the lake of fire, 2011 seems to be when odd behavior started with the sun. Massive exploration of the this in Episode 3.

The Great Jewish Historian- The only JEW LEFT who is known as the Traitor- Why- He was the Son of Nathaniel, and Jesus's oldest sister- he was so important he was compared to Jesus in his youth with his perniciousness, Then he WAS The Commander of The HOLD on Galilee- so he opened the Way- killed his own people, and Became Roman- Why? While he was in Rome, Defending THE WALL- HE Knocked Up Nero's Wife- Whos lover was PAULS Brother- So Nero had The Jewish Traitor KILLED- while HE fiddled- and Paul set FIRE to ROME- looking for the Copper Scroll- that Luke took- Josephus was going to put his baby on the THRONE- so he sabotaged his own FAMILY- Jesus and the Rebels- taking over- this is why he left them out of his history- and why he put the Galileans as CREEPY and WIRED! Guilty- while he tried not to write he was the BAD GUY! The REASON the world stayed with Slaver, Violence and WAR- For his own Greed

Jesus people were not the Unique- and Peter- the Brother of Prince Andrew, who was sent to find Jesus, Peter was the MILLSTONE around Jesus Neck! he didnt like the 2 who stalked them on the way to Jesus Wedding!!! But Prince Andrew added his Army to Jesus in the end- but Peter- Followed the WAY of ODEN the ALL FATHER- with the UNIQUE stuff- that had an Arab sect- and in china- the way of the sword- but Jesus was having kids- funny how YOUR Guest has it almost Right- but he has an agenda- The Sword- and the Story is about how men destroyed themselves for nothing, it was a twisted mess, that men never get right- REMEMBER its it is Guarded By Women! only- and why in the history men always think the sex is more important and they get off track- or was that the point - of power- as this was about the WAR of the SEXES- as women can CLONE girls, [ like bees and butterflies- hence the DOUBLE AXE- We dont need men- not matter what they cut off- The Stone draws the wrong people, Power is dangerous! As Galahads mother Was Lady Elaine- the story is interesting to me-lol
Peter- known as The Millstone around Jesus NECK- not liked but STUCK with- as he just got married- he wanted time alone- and PETER HATED- WOMEN always doing them HARM- even his own daughter he paralyzed- to suffer- and killed people rather than cure hem when called! 'Funny how men get off track when it comes to sex.

Elaine Stewart Elaine, please explain how Ralph has an agenda. I find your comments interesting because I have done research into the women in history and find it amazing how they are always hidden with clever cover terms and outright mistranslations of the biblical narrative.

Elaine Stewart -- 4 months ago

I am asking if -- if there is an agenda. The Swastika is the Symbol of the Aryan Race as The Symbol of Killing Tiamat- When the Ayrans Claimed Godhood, as Druglords and the First Temple that Sold Women and Children for SEX and Slaughter- they called it Religion, but this was not God- but the God Father and the Start of Organized Crime- that is what the Swastika means Organised Crime in the name of law, but Subjugation of women and LIFE. Evil is Live Spelled backwards mean anti life- the sign of the Swastika means the same thing, it is why y Hitler used it- he knew

Stormy Jackson44 -- 4 months ago

Elaine Stewart Oh okay. Thanks so much for your reply. I know the swatika has geometrical meanings, like the spiral of life type implications which would explain why Hitler had a "pure race" agenda. When I saw the word harlot describing Mary Magdalene actually is the greek word haira du li, which means sacred and beloved one, I knew these patriarchal systems of Christianity, Islam, and the Zionist talmudic teachings have a huge agenda to suppress women. Have you done any research into Russia, Ireland, Scotland, Torah, Tarot, Tarra Ra hill, subjects. I stumbled onto all of that when I started studying pyramids. We have pyramids in Mex and I. started seeing how ALL of them are Orion oriented. Semir Osmanogich, Andrew Power, and of course Michael Tsarion who I found later, were my link to the gems I had found when I knew I was onto something. And also, my tribal history ties in with Ireland and Scotland as well. They came to our tribe and wanted to learn our "medicine or magic" and wanted to mix with us. Do you know anything on these subjects?

Elaine Stewart -- 4 months ago

Yes I do- it is a Fascinating Herstory no one wants told- How the IRsih kicked the false gods back to where they came from- its why white power is not about being WHITE- but Drugs and Aliens Blue skin and blue blood- that is what the Templars are into the are some space pirate alien thing - not white people, But White Powder- Monotonic Gold- their GOAL- to own it all- they are Addicts, who have brought the FALL of PARADISE- Women are not Trash- and in the Herstory M<n who are in charge- even turned Gluescapes Sacred Grandmother- into his housekeeper. lol

Stormy Jackson44 --- 4 months ago

Elaine Stewart I am Cherokee and we have writings talking about our white or actually red...because they turned red in the heat, that came to us and wanted to learn our magic/medicine and interbred with some of our people. They were peaceful with us and we got on well with them. It's in depth and more fascinating than anyone would think. I would dearly love to hear more of what you've studied...I'm a student trying to learn from everyone. I used to do a radio show but I couldn't take the Christian audience anymore. This guys listeners, like himself were hard line literal bible believers with no room for any real truth. So sad. But one can only be accused of being a witch or shaman or whatever so many times before one says, enough. My Native knowledge was all considered witchcraft and lies by them so I said enough. And something else I've found out is that the two most abducted people's are Native American and Native American/Irish/Scot blends...the evidence and testimonies are too huge to ignore.

Have you come across any of that?

..any wisdom or studies you're willing to share I am grateful to hear. And thank you for your insights Elaine. (My Mom's name was Elaine, I love that name.)

Elaine Stewart --- 4 months ago

you have some of the Best Storys But like all of The People- We have been stepped on by the Aryan who want the Gold--- The History of Who we are as those who came from Land- those who hold the storys were taken killed and what is Left is ruminants- LIKE SKY MOTHER AND FATHER- who in the story as it was told so long ago Father moved the Tree of Life to let mother down as she was Being CALLED by the Animal's when our SUN was Blown up- we had 2, and they needed the light to keep Eden alive- But some say he knocked into the hole, as killer man who hated women- To Disrespect Women- is to Disrespect life itself- and WE knew that once- So they killed The people for it- look what they DID to little Hywatha- and his Great 6 Nations- When 5=6- Sacred Math again- he knew so much lol- What is the topic you like most- sorry for laughing- but i was told the other day by women who is looking that i was like a library. Which I am, in a Way. What is your real interest- when you go to SLEEP use the Dream time to focus on what you want to know, when you have picked a place to start let me know, but the DREAM time is where it is for Humans to get to the core of what is real- on the personal journey of learning

Stormy Jackson44 ---

Elaine Stewart I am fascinated with how my tribal history ties I'm with the white man from Russia/Scot/Ireland. We were given a message to care for the Earth and a message of peace. The white Buffalo calf woman delivered this message along with a stone to our brothers the Hopi's. And a man of peace came and lived among our peoples and showed our people about growing things properly and showed us great medicine/magic. Then he disappeared. After all I have learned I am starting to think this man who visited many tribes was possibly setting us all up then for a future deception. His name among all our tribes is the equivalent of the and I know this being, and he is NOT nice. And not above doing good to gain allegiance....he has many names and Jehovah is also one of them....and he has presented himself as a "savior" to thousands of peoples. Needless to say, I don't trust any of these beings that have come here claiming to be god. I will continue to try the dream time thing. I have had my dream time severely interfered with courtesy of both human and non human entities. The things I could tell you, but not on public comment sections, I know you understand.... I can tell by your knowledge you know what I am eluding too. The Christian's always think everything is demon everything, never understanding that the human element are right in the middle of abductions and programming. Watch Max Spiers and Dr. Karla Turner and Sam Jenkins two part interview and then you'll have a idea of what I am eluding too. I am interested in how the sons of the serpent who tried to help us fit in to this. Are they part of the race that left the north lands and came to our people's...Michael Tsarion speaks of those defectors who said see ya to the ones who created them. What do you know about any of that?

Elaine Stewart

Welcome to the NEW Tribe Sister!!!

Stormy Jackson44

Elaine Stewart Oh and did you hear when Ralph was speaking about the Syrian texts along with all the biblical and other texts how the "Oracle" that appeared to speak as the Oracle to Vespasian to get Vespasian put in a Emperor of Rome? He says the text says he was blinded in one eye and walked with a limp. I smell a setup. And that King Izsus was part Persian... I have compared all these texts..funny how the Muslims savior is blinded in one eye, the Christians says the anti Christ is blinded in one eye, and will be Persian, or Jewish. And then there's the Set stealing Horus' eye. Jesus is called the chief cornerstone which means the capstone of the pyramid...but of course the christians will never see how they've been had.

Many of the legends of the Micmacs deal with the struggle for existence of a nomadic race, and their wars with other Indian tribes. But there are some that resemble the European legends in several respects. In one in particular, found in Rand's collection of Legends of the Micmacs, a magical coat, shoes and sword are the equipment of a young prince who goes in search of his three sisters, who have been sold by their father for money with which to buy liquor (a proceeding decidedly Indian). The magical coat renders the wearer invisible; the shoes carry him with incredible speed wheresoever he would; the sword will do whatever he desires. Here is a striking resemblance to the shoes of swiftness and the sword of light of the young prince in "The King of Ireland's Son," by Padraic Colum. With the shoes of swiftness "he could go as the eagle flies"; with the sword of light in his hands, what he commanded had to be done

1177 BC: The Year Civilization Collapsed (Eric Cline, PhD)

1,035,377 views -- 13K -- NCASVideo -- Oct 11, 2016

From about 1500 BC to 1200 BC, the Mediterranean region played host to a complex cosmopolitan and globalized world-system. It may have been this very internationalism that contributed to the apocalyptic disaster that ended the Bronze Age. When the end came, the civilized and international world of the Mediterranean regions came to a dramatic halt in a vast area stretching from Greece and Italy in the west to Egypt, Canaan, and Mesopotamia in the east. Large empires and small kingdoms collapsed rapidly. With their end came the world's first recorded Dark Ages. It was not until centuries later that a new cultural renaissance emerged in Greece and the other affected areas, setting the stage for the evolution of Western society as we know it today. Professor Eric H. Cline of The George Washington University will explore why the Bronze Age came to an end and whether the collapse of those ancient civilizations might hold some warnings for our current society.

Considered for a Pulitzer Prize for his recent book 1177 BC, Dr. Eric H. Cline is Professor of Classics and Anthropology and the current Director of the Capitol Archaeological Institute at The George Washington University. He is a National Geographic Explorer, a Fulbright scholar, an NEH Public Scholar, and an award-winning teacher and author. He has degrees in archaeology and ancient history from Dartmouth, Yale, and the University of Pennsylvania; in May 2015, he was awarded an honorary doctoral degree (honoris causa) from Muhlenberg College. Dr. Cline is an active field archaeologist with 30 seasons of excavation and survey experience.

James DeMeo, PhD, Lecture on Water Structure, 2017 Water Conference, Sofia Bulgaria

A lecture presented (in absentia) at the 12th International Conference on the Physics, Chemistry and Biology of Water, in Sofia Bulgaria in October 2017: "Anomalous Living Spectrographic Changes in Water Structure". -- waterconf.org/participants...

This lecture presentation summarizes Dr. DeMeo's lab research over the last several years, with new findings on orgone-charged water, and its similarities to structured water. This includes a clear similarity of orgone-charged water to aqueous solutions of nucleic acids and DNA, the "molecules of life". It is a big confirmation of the extraordinary energetic properties of Wilhelm Reich's authentic orgone accumulator, which is already proven to have powerful effects upon plant and animal biology, as well as upon the physical properties and behaviors of various material and instrumentation.

Please help support Dr. DeMeo's research with a donation to his non-profit 501c3 institute, the Orgone Biophysical Research Lab. Here:

Comment Nbr 2. The Mayan God "Chin" originated from the Aztecs. Before the Aztecs spread pederasty rape into Mayan culture, the Mayan culture was based on complementary opposites of male and female sacred energy, as detailed in Martin Prechtel's book "Secrets of the Talking Jaguar" and his several other books. He trained as a village Mayan shaman that preserves the original Mayan culture before it was corrupted by pederasty rape.

Ukraine Army Murdered Civilians-Anna Tuv at UN Conference --- 226 views --- Marine1063 ---- Dec 6, 2017

what a queer guy that perov .. near the end of his longwinded ballspinnerizzumz Jose shows up briefly:

We hear of ancient calendar systems of the world that are winding to a close in our time. The Hopis say we are now ending the Fourth World, and that the Fifth World will begin shortly. The Mayan Long Count ends at 2012 (the Aztec and Cherokee calendars are similar). John Major Jenkins (who observes that about five Great Cycles of 5125 years [25,625] each comprise one Cycle of Precession) claims that the Maya were not concerned so much with the beginning date as the end date of the Long Count calendar because only then the Galactic alignment occurs.

Jose Arguelles, who perceived the immensity of this and called for a "Harmonic Convergence" back in 1987, describes in "The Mayan Factor" that we will soon be passing through (or leaving, depending on where you read it) a "galactic beam" or "photon belt", and this impending situation is related closely to a "galactic synchronisation" to occur in 2012, bringing us into alignment with the evolutionary energies emanating from the Galactic Center, catapulting us into fourth and fifth-dimensional planetary consciousness. He says the last time this happened at the end of the last Long Count 5125 years ago, there was an active seeding of human form and -consciousness by the Galactic Federation of Light, who will presumably return once again to deliver us from separated [dualistic, phenomenal as opposed to Oneness, transcendental] third-dimensional consciousness and achieving galactic synchronization.

Brian Swimme in the preface to Arguelles's book, takes the perspective of the 280 (226?) million year cycle and discusses different "density waves" that astrophysicists have proposed exist in different sectors of the galaxy. Jenkins says even though the context of Swimme's discussion is Arguelles's terminology and concepts as found in The Mayan Factor, the precession-defined Galactic Alignment (of solstice meridian and Galactic equator) is not even mentioned.

Barry Martin says the experience of consciousness in our evolutionary journey through the ages is speeding up (plotted as time spiral) and will eventually wind down to zero point, at which point a fourth-dimensional spiral begins. Jenkins sums things up by saying that the premises put in place at the beginning of a culture might serve it well. But after, say 1,000 years, things get to a point when the shadows generated by those premises start to appear and become a crisis point. This takes place at a still point between two ages when there is an opportunity to understand something profound and integrate those premises with 'the opposite'? to facilitate the paradigm shift into the next phase and create a sustainable world.

A cyclic journey proceeds between extremes of light and darkness, going towards unity consciousness (a golden age) when consciousness is aware of its eternal root, and then descending into five world ages or eras, like seasons of change of a cycle, that darken or ripen spiritual nature. This cosmogonic fall arrives at a turning point when consciousness eventually returns to its origin to become restored.

Jenkins identifies the world today (and more specifically the year 2012), its secular nihilism, its "œscientism" that informs society but doesn't acknowledge a spiritual dimension that can integrate these dualities, as this turning point from the descent of consciousness which began half a precession cycle before. That point is represented in Mayan creation mythology by Seven Macaw who appears at the end of a cycle - the vain, false ruler, the archetype of self-serving egoism who tries to control and deceive humanity by promulgating the false notion of "œus against them". In the myth, Seven Macaw is put into right relationship with the unity picture (as opposed to duality) by the Hero Twins, through sacrifice, the core meaning of this, according to Jenkins, being the surrender of our illusions that keep us in allegiance to the false notion of dualism.

The ego identity has always served a function. Perennial philosophy tells us we also have an eternal source consciousness. At the end of a cycle the ego identity asserts itself as the only true thing. This is allegorically saying that the false self is trying to prevent us from becoming reconnected with our true selves. The conflagration at the cycle end is the destruction of the aeon, the burning of the dross so the truth can be unveiled. We need to open up to the higher dimensional energy of the universe above, as it makes its way down to our earthly plane to stimulate a transformation in order to evolve us.

the harassmet accusation post:

I'm Being Harassed and Threatened by Ralph Ellis

Posted on April 8, 2013 by Tom Verenna

Dear Friends and Family,

Since April 8th, Ralph Ellis has been running around Google searching for my name and sending out hateful and spiteful emails to colleagues and friends (also to me, because he doesn't realize the sites that he is emailing are run by me) because I wrote negatively about his online work (suggesting Jesus was King Arthur, that his relative was Cleopatra, and that Jesus was King of Edessa "so yes, I wrote some scathing posts about them). This is completely legal and within my rights under the 1st Amendment and through my experience as a student majoring in the field at a high tier research university.

He has libeled and harassed me and continues to do so however, and I want you to be aware that this individual may be dangerous. He has threatened to "run me off" and I have been saving all the emails and notifications that many of you have sent along (thank you). I am compiling a portfolio full of his harassing and threatening messages so I continue to ask you all to send everything to me that he sends out to you. I want to be clear that this isn't a minor issue. If Ralph Ellis were simply an internet troll or someone with whom I just disagreed, this wouldn't be that big of a deal. But he is actively trying to discredit me to people I've known for years and while he will not succeed, he is breaking the law and willfully engaging in bullying tactics in order to force me to remove my negative reviews of his work. I will not bow to this bully and I want you to know that,

This is the stalker: ralfellis

Here is how Steve Caruso (and here and here), James McGrath (and here), Diglot, and Joel Watts have handled his threats and libel. Also Aaron Adair (and here) and Rod from Political Jesus have also jumped into the fray to lend their support

Daniel McClellan has also offered some helpful thoughts on this whole matter; here is a snippet:

Next, the link in the comment takes one to a website entitled "Thomas Verenna Is A Lying Idiot." Obviously such an insulting and unprofessional attempt to undermine Tom's credibility does more to expose Mr. Ellis's own lack of scruples, but it gets worse. Ellis's accusations of dishonesty are incredibly ironic in light of his rather transparent habit of posting multiple anonymous and/or sock-puppet comments on his and others' blogs in an attempt to make it seem like his claims have broad support. This kind of childish and petulant behavior flatly undermines any and all claims on his part to objectivity or scholarly erudition. Mr. Ellis is apparently submitting comments like these all over the internet, and as the link above shows, he's starting blogs to personally attack Tom.

In another post, Dan writes in response to Mr. Ellis's complaints: The worst methodological mistake you make throughout all of your texts, however, is your insistence on synthesizing select data from various different disparate sources, while dismissing data that conflict with your preconceptions. You refuse to acknowledge errors where errors are beyond doubt, while asserting errors where the texts are clearly accurate, all in an effort to manipulate the sources in the aid of your presuppositions. Then you bark about people not being in the know, and not understanding because they're trying to do history instead of acknowledging that the truth is cryptically hidden underneath the surface of the text. This is pseudo-scholarship, pure and simple. Ralph Ellis is not in his right mind, as you can see he points to a bunch of support that has been censored and/or taken down

<http://unsettledchristianity.com/2013/03/what-does-joseph-atwill-ralph-ellis-and-mythicists-have-in-common/#comment-1188054>

March 6th, 2013 by Watts J.

What does Joseph Atwill, Ralph Ellis, and mythicists have in common?

They are nuts. Every last one of them. They have hatched, in one way or another, some various scheme to suggest Jesus is not a historical person, but created as part of this-or-that conspiracy.

Ralph Ellis has recently published a book proposing that Jesus is the King of Edessa. His publisher is one of the finest, no, I mean, oddest conspiracy publishers on the market. Tom does a good job of taking him down, so read his post too.

Update: Tom has a second post up now.

But, this is just another in a long line of mythicist tripe using baseless 'notions', boundless imaginations, and conspiracy hacks to peddle this or that drug-induced idea. Joseph Atwill suggests Jesus is a figment of the Roman imagination, whereby the authors conspired to use a created Jesus to subdue the Jews. Others suggest that all of recent history is under the control of the Piso family, the remnants of the Flavians. This one, recently pointed out to me (HT to DM via FB), is completely crazy. Wait, I mean, I'm looking at Atwill and Ellis and Piso together; all are completely crazy.

And here's the problem. My book, I am afraid and I admit so in the book, suggests that the Gospel is used to counter Flavian imperial ideology. But, I believe we can tag this to a real, live, historical Jesus. While Mark uses literary sources (Matthew uses Mark and some undefined sources, Luke used Matthew and Mark while John takes a heavy shot of theological reflection and uses the Synoptics) this doesn't mean that the story of Jesus is made-up from the ground up. What this means, I would propose, is that the choices of literary sources indicate Mark's theological or ideological implication

The line of Jesus came from Queen Thea Muse Ourania. She was sent from Rome to Parthia by Emperor Octavian, where she became the wife of Phraates IV and the Queen of Parthia. But she was kicked out of Parthia in AD 4, and travelled to the west and established a new city state at Edessa.

Second, And the â€˜extra materialâ€™™ is the two posts that you would not allow on your site, after you banned me from it.

They were never comments â€˜ disallowed or otherwise â€˜ on my blog. This is new material. Youâ€™™ve been caught in another fib.

Third, Kindles support Hebrew and Greek fonts properly with diacritical marks in both their web browser and ePub books. These arenâ€™™t jpegs, but CSS fonts (a standard Kindle and iBooks has supported for years). Your website is in iso-8859-1 (the meta tag in your document header compels it) so itâ€™™s no wonder the Hebrew, Syriac, and Greek characters didn't come through. You've effectively turned them off. (You need to encode in utf-8. There is no excuse for this other than your own ignorance and naivety.)

SC is not always that sober and dry though; he deleted a polemic referred to at the top of the quote .. and Ralph soon let go of it also but I got the bulk of it:

Frid, 22nd of dec ::::::::::::::::::::

The text says that Josephus was on the way back from Tekoa when he saw the three leaders of the Jewish Revolt being crucified (obviously including King Izas).

The way back from Tekoa, to the Lion Gate in Jerusalem, takes one through the Kidron Valley, under the Mount of Olives. It was here where King Izas (King Jesus) was crucified (and survived).

The basic issue in my revised history, is whether Adiabene is Edessa, rather than Arbela.

So why does Edessa matter?

Because the Adiabene monarchy prosecuted the Jewish Revolt, as Josephus says.

But if Adiabene was Edessa (as the Syrians claim), then it was the Edessan monarchy who prosecuted the Jewish Revolt.

But this means that the king who prosecuted the Jewish Revolt was King Izas Manu VI.

And this was the biblical King Jesus Em-Manu-el.

Thus the revolt that Jesus was involved in, that upset the Romans, was actually the Jewish Revolt.

More importantly, this directly implies that:

This was a secular power-struggle, with not a trace of spirituality whatsoever.

That the gospels are truish, but highly distorted, and place a Roman spin on these events.

That the foundations of Christianity are therefore based upon lie after lie (or spin after spin).

That the Christian priesthood are similarly spinning lies and disinformation.

That the Rationalists were right to mistrust the Christian doctrines and devise a secular society.

That the Christian Church should be revised so that it tells the truth (as far as we know that to be) and banned from spreading disinformation.

As you can see, even educated people like Maklelan can be taken in by this nonsense, and believe it word for word. And if we do not counter that virus, rationality will be subsumed, and the modern world will be lost to us. You will note that the Industrial Revolution occurred immediately after the Reformation was successful and defeated Catholic tyranny. That, was not a coincidence. But there is nothing to stop this process from going into reverse - the triumph of fundamentalism and the collapse of the technical and industrial world.

You praise the likes of Maklelan, and his overt evasion of difficult historical questions, at your peril.

trite and threadworn to me but it will be suture crackler for most of those now 'rite' where I was in my teenage years ... :

You don't understand precessional astrology, do you. This was, and still is, an essential tool for both royalty and historians alike. The royalty can claim to be a king of a precessional era (a Great Month) and their descendants and historians will know exactly when they ruled, and thus date the chronology of human civilisation. When Alexander and Ptolemy wore the horns of a ram, we immediately know they ruled in the Great Month of Aries (about 1800 BC to AD 10). When Gilgamesh (who is dressed exactly like Orion) kills the Bull of Heaven (Taurus) anyone with an ounce of intelligence knows that this epic was written just after 1800 BC, and not the ridiculous date it is often given. When Joseph tells Pharaoh his family are not cattle breeders (Taurus) but shepherds (Aries) we know immediately this event happened just after 1800 BC (it actually happened in 1500s BC, because this was the return of the Shepherd Kings). When someone claims to be a Lamb of God (Aries) and then a Fisher of Men (Pisces), historians down the millennia will know exactly when this king ruled. And when someone parks a massive lion in front of their temple, again we have a very good idea what was being implied by this overtly symbolic act. etc, etc and etc.

So rather than being the preserve of fools, precessional astronomy is the finest and the most precise historical dating tool we have.

Indeed, we still use this dating system today. Why do you think this is the year 2013?? Do you really think this was because King Jesus-Manu of Edessa was born about 2013 years ago?? Of course not - this is year 2013 of the Great Month of Pisces. Face facts, while you may be totally unaware of the traditions and symbolism, the entire culture of the Western world is based upon precessional chronology.

Ralph Ellis -- 1 year ago (edited)

Just been to the latest Bond movie, Spectre. And what do I see? Ah yes, the Holy Grail stone displayed in pride of place in a planetarium, as the camera pans around and around it. Yes, it is a meteor in the perfect conical egg-shape of the lingam-elagabal, gnarled like Wolfram von Eschenbach says, and associated with an impact crater.

And why is it there? No reason, as far as I can see, as it is completely incidental to the storyline. No reason other than showing what it looks like. In fact, this is the first image we have since Emperor Elagabalus displayed it on his gold coins. Still no image of the Bond version online, but as soon as one appears I shall post it.

Here is the image that Elagabalus gave us, complete with the Phoenix embossed upon the stone:

We are also in the first day of the 39th harmonic that goes until kin 156 Yellow Cosmic Warrior. That's why it is called Cosmic Output "Express the Intelligence of Presence". Every harmonic is, at the same time coded by one of the 64 Codons or Hexagrams, and one of 64 UR Runes, the Codon activates the third-dimensional organic body "or instinct, while the rune does it on the fourth-dimensional etheric body, or telepathy. This current Harmonic 39 is coded with Rune/Codon 55, in Law of Time terms named Wisdom Arousing: Telepathy Becomes Time Travel.

Dear Professor Danielle Allen: Socrates Soul and the number 729 as the Tritone

"The Tyrant is held, in the Republic, to be exactly 729 times less fortunate than the good ruler. Not about 700, not 730."

O.K. (I quote my correspondence with Professor McClain in my 2012 pdf) so then we get this pdf.

Musicologist Ernest G. McClain states thst "The number 2 is 'female' in the sense that it creates the ... create 'cycles of barrenness', in Socrates' metaphor, for multiplication and division by 2 can never introduce .... quality of the tritone (the ratio 36 = 729, a cycle of six perfect fifths above the fundamental), the worst possible ...

And so the 3 to the sixth power (piet: 729) actually refers to six cycles of Perfect Fifths, since 3 is the Perfect Fifth, thereby creating the Tritone.

Tibet Oral History Project: Interview with Pasang Dhondup on 4/5/2010 ----- Tibet Oral History Project --- Jan 5, 2018

Read the interview transcript in English at

This interview about life in Tibet was conducted by the Tibet Oral History Project. This non-profit organization aims to preserve the history and culture of the Tibetan people by interviewing elderly Tibetan refugees about life in Tibet before and after the Chinese invasion. Learn more at <http://www.TibetOralHistory.org>. ** Interview Summary: When he was 10 years old, Pasang Dhondup started grazing animals. He describes a typical day in the life of a shepherd. His family's main occupation was farming and rearing animals. He briefly touches upon the subject of marriage in a Tibetan family and his own marriage. He also talks about the tradition of admitting one male child to the monastery as a form of tax from every family. After the Chinese invasion Pasang Dhondup worked as a transporter of Chinese provisions, as directed by them. The people of his village supplied yaks, horses and men for the Chinese. Passang Dhondup talks about how the Chinese killed wild animals for food, which the Tibetans had never killed due to Tibetan laws. Pasang Dhondup's entire village escaped from Tibet together, but they were nearly forced to return home when a Tibetan "spy" for the Chinese reported their journey. The escape route crossed five mountain passes and brought them a month later to Mustang in Nepal. Later Passang Dhondup was sent to Manali, India to construct mountain roads and finally settled in Mundgod.

Sean David Morton: Please Call A Lawyer

June 23, 2017 -- Colin

This will be a relatively short post, updating my series about the ConspiraSea Cruise and the people I met there. For those who haven't read it, the cruise was a week-long conference for conspiracy theorists. One of the speakers was Sean David Morton, who claimed he could teach people to stop paying taxes, win any court case, and make money by creating esoteric financial instruments. Eighteen months later, he's been convicted of tax fraud and issuing false financial instruments. And on Monday, he skipped his sentencing hearing and became a fugitive.

cheeky proffiescoffie Drew:

So this Math of Runaway Warming is a great vid UNTIL he says he believes in good technology and not all technology is bad. Then he ends the vid saying the problem has been the wrong sociology for the last 10,000 years.

Let me know any comments or questions, etc. I agree that math will not provide the answers as it is left brain dominant. I agree with Ian McGilchrist - that right brain dominance is better. Listening to music is right brain dominance. But logical inference reveals some interesting math insights - Math professor Louis Kauffman realized this as well. I corresponded with him. Math professor Steve Strogatz wonders about the foundation of chaos synchronization but apparently he doesn't know about the noncommutative foundation of quantum coherence. Quantum biology is a new field - but the 2016 by Professor JohnJoe McFadden, "Life on the Edge" has great insights. - Thanks again, drew Reply:

Unfortunately, I know nothing about any of the topics you've mentioned, and I probably won't have time to learn about them soon. So I don't think I'll be able to discuss any of this with you productively. Good luck with your endeavors.

Drew again:

Yes I did 20 years of work in sustainability. I worked for Greenpeace, Citizens for a Better Environment, The Resource Center of the Americas, Clean Water Action, UW-Greens and I co-founded the MN Free Burma Coalition and the Workers Rights Consortium campaign at the University of Minnesota. So in my email to you I referenced Math professor Louis Kauffman, math professor Luigi Borzacchini, math professor Alain Connes, math professor Joe Mazur and math professor Steve Strogatz. You are a math professor interested in sustainability correct? But your left brain dominance proves that we are doomed since you can not even make these logical connections and instead you claim you know nothing about these topics. You are supposed to be interested in sustainability? haha.

Nick Herbert's blog

I was sitting in full lotus in McDonald's as this dude who worked at my favorite used bookstore liked to hang at mcds every day. So as I sat talking with him - this Mcds worker was cleaning the dispensers for condiments. As I was in full lotus I sat a certain direction and she happened to have her backside right at my eye level - about five feet away. Suddenly she lept up into the air and yelled out like in bliss! I mean literally she jumped up and at the same time this strong orgasmic bliss shot up my back.

January 19, 2018 at 2:34 AM -----Blogger Voidisyinyang said...

Now this was 2007! So quite a longer time later. And so I figured we must have had a mutual orgasm. So the next day I went back and she saw me and pushed aside her coworker so she could serve me at the counter and she was giggling with bliss. A young Chinese female - I knew her brother. Anyway so that confirmed for me that indeed we had a mutual psychic climax. So I decided to test this out and so I went to a study area and there was this very fetching young lady - and I sat in full lotus across from her. We were both reading at the same table - a common study area. Sure enough when I felt the orgasm - as the energy went into her - it built into orgasm and she moved as if to try not to notice it. So I let the energy built up a 2nd time to see what happened and right at climax - she put her head down as if she was going to take a study nap. So then I let the energy built up a third time and right at climax she lifted her head up and looked right at me and a tear was coming down her cheek. So I felt really bad about that but it confirmed to me what I had suspected. But at the same time I felt I had the right to sit in full lotus in public since it is my body. After that all hell broke lose and I was having psychic mutual climaxes with females every day for a couple years.

But I didn't realize that I was using my energy the wrong way and so also pulling up anaerobic bacteria - up the front of my body - and so I had to constantly use antioxidants as antiseptics. As the mutual climaxes turned me into a shit head. Then I had females stalking me - and sometimes perv males also. And I had to actually quite my job! haha. Also I used up a ton of my qi energy doing this. But it was an interesting experiment. I still do tantric healing still this way. I have tons of free research info on my blog <http://ecoechoinvasives.blogspot.com> I discovered that Eddie Oshins figured out the truth - do you know of him? A quantum physicist - he also taught Wing Chun.

Featured Review-Essay of 2016:

<http://thecenterfor2012studies.com/Errors-in-Aveni-ForPDF.pdf>

November 12, 2016. In May of 2016 Maya archaeoastronomer Anthony Aveni published yet another book that critiqued my work and 2012 ideas (his first appeared in 2009). As with his previous book, Aveni's new book (also published by the University Press of Colorado) contained many errors of fact and citation which painted for his readers a distorted and factually wrong picture of my work and background. Last year I requested that similar errors in his 2009 book on the 2012 topic be corrected, but all of the errors I pointed out were denied by both the author and his university press publisher, and when I appealed to the AAUP (the Association of American University Presses), they refused to take any action. It was a clear case of science, scientists, and academic publishing failing to do science and abide by their stated principles of error checking and correction. This extraordinary situation, along with five other examples involving other scholars and scientists, was documented in my 2015 book Ivory Tower, House of Cards: How Scholars and Their Publishers Violate Science. The new situation, this year, played out differently, for two likely reasons which I discuss in my review. The end result is that this time all the errors I pointed out were duly acknowledged and corrected; the unsold remains of the first printing of Aveni's book Apocalypse Anxiety were pulped, and a corrected second printing and eBook were released in October, 2016. This signals a sea-change victory in correcting the false and inaccurate treatment of my work by "experts" who have misrepresented 2012 and published their factually flawed writings in peer-reviewed academic publications. The attempt to maintain old-school ideas about Maya astronomy, the World Age doctrine of period-ending world-renewal, and the precession of the equinoxes in Mesoamerican thought does not serve progress, nor does it have the support of facts and evidence. The piece is "Hand-wringing in Maya Studies: Approved Corrections to the Second Printing of Anthony Aveni's Apocalypse Anxiety."

A Better Land -- Cube of 5 Codes

18 views -- Ab Maya --- Jan 28, 2018

A new program, we see clearly "computer programming" from the Netherlands in action.. :-} its a secret and public service at the same time, coming from #Buro8701.

We see in this video a table in "numbers" of the 5x5x5 field of 125 cubes. These are the Cube Field of 5 codes at a glimpse. At the same time we see the 0-24 scientific Omega Column Codes on a different device, it holds the 25 ancient Greek letters used in the way science and astronomy is using them.

What we see will be explained later in more ways as a Re-Reading Program of 600 works or books in 18 weeks of Natural Time. In other ways this Book of Life is symbolic and represents only your own true memory, if you have a Practice of U yourself.. Still, after 10 years, this is to be continued!

1st ECLIPSE WINDOW of 2018: ALPHA: 2018-1-31 KIN 253 ~ OMEGA: 2018-2-15 KIN 8.

he current eclipse window will end with the partial solar eclipse of February 15, 2018 ~ NS1.30.8.9 KIN 8 8STAR. KIN 8 8Star is the PERFECT OCCULT power of KIN 253! Therefore, both eclipses are occurring on the perfect polar opposite within the radial Tzolkin Matrix, and aligned in such an elegant way, that when we extract the unified ALPHA + OMEGA signature for this eclipse pair we arrive back to the ORIGIN

ALPHA KIN 253 + OMEGA KIN8 = 261-260= KIN 1

KIN 1= 1 DRAGON [ALPHA POINT of TZOLKIN MATRIX]

This is highlighting the IMPORTANCE of next KIN 1 1Dragon [NS1.30.8.2 â€¢ February 8, 2018] as a KEY DATE to place our attention and focused intentionâ€¢ This date not only marks the EXACT MIDPOINT between both eclipses, but it ALSO a numerical mirror between the Gregorian and the 13-Moon counts: February 8 = 2.8 Galactic Moon 2 = 8.2 ..... 2.8 = 8.2

The OMEGA portal of this first eclipse window on KIN 8, will also mark the completion of EVEN MORE rare alignments in the fabric of Time-Space. On this day we will complete:

>>> 2080 days (8 Tzolkins) since the RARE Venus Transit of 2012, OMEGA Portal of the 8-Year pair of 2004-2012

vt13-8-5-3-0011 ... 8:8 and 1040 days (4 Tzolkins) since Planet Venus rare alignment in the night sky with the Pleiades, Orion, and Sirius during Virginid showers on 2015-4-11

"Organic" food, Orgon/Orgonite, EMF Protection, Death Towers and Mental Fog

828 views --- newearth --- Feb 8, 2018

Please do not confuse pesticide (or nitrates) levels statistics with the list which I am referring to. Pesticides and nitrates are only some of the poisons which could be found in the food - some foods have chemicals which are meant to cause certain illnesses (for example they officially announced a corn variety which causes infertility!!!) and possibly there could be entire poison categories about which we do not even know.

Orgone vs Orgonite - Orgone is the name given by Wilhelm Reich to life energy permeating everything. Orgonite is a mixture of metal particles, polyester or epoxy resin, and minerals which supposedly does miracles (but sadly I could not find any proof of that, maybe I did not search enough, possible). My overall impression is that the names are used interchangeably and that could lead to serious misunderstandings because the work of Wilhelm Reich seems to be reliable and serious, while the orgonite seems to be (at least partially for sure) just a superstition placebo "technology". If I am wrong about the Orgonite please submit a resource (but only in the right format, please).

If you wish to submit additional resources - www.megaliths.org/ancient\_history/contact.php (please note that youtube message/ facebook messages/ anything else is not monitored)

extends single sense in high definition ::: low definition (less data)

low in audience participation ::: high in audience participation engenders specialization/fragmentation ::: engenders holistic patterns detrribalizes ::: tribalizes excludes ::: includes uniform, mechanical ::: organic extends space ::: collapses space horizontally repetitive ::: creates vertical associations

McLuhan provides examples of hot versus cool media as follows:

Hot Medium ::: Cool Medium

photograph ::: cartoon

radio ::: telephone phonetic alphabet ::: ideographic/pictographic writing print ::: speech (orality) lecture ::: seminar, discussion film ::: television

books ::: comics

However, we misunderstand these concepts if we try to impose too much linear order and structure on McLuhan's definitions and examples. We have to see hot and cool media not in terms of static definitions but as dynamic concepts that are designed to get at the experience and effects of how we use media. As Paul Grosswiler points out, McLuhan's method was dialectical, process-oriented, and open-ended, not mechanistic. Keeping that in mind, I argue there are three ideas that are essential to understanding McLuhan's concept of hot versus cool media.

2007 under a willow, with sound of rain and direct translation; a pdf link to full transcript and this summary:

Born in Gyangtse to a family of telpa 'tax payers,' Chonphel's father was a genpo 'village leader.' His family was shung-wok, meaning they were tenants on government-owned land. Chonphel explains the various categories of tenants in Tibet depending on who owned the land: the monasteries, the government or private property owners. He also describes the ma-tel 'butter tax,' sha-tel 'meat tax' and wool tax, and how the taxes were paid to the correct authorities. Chonphel was the first person from his village to be arrested by the Chinese under false accusations. Relating his miserable prison days, he describes the difficult labor of plowing fields and constructing buildings, while given very little food. Prisoners resorted to eating rats from the fields and leather. He suffered in this way for seven years. After releasing Chonphel from prison, the Chinese sent him back to his village, where he was subjected to thamzing 'struggle sessions' because he had been a genpo. He worked as a laborer and married again because his first wife remarried while he was in prison. A year later he and his second wife fled to India.

Let me put it to you like this; when I worked as a NASA contractor, I worked for the STDN (Spaceflight Tracking and Data Network, now the NASA Ground Network) and had the chance to work with individuals who tracked and monitored all the moon landers prior to Apollo and the Apollo Program itself (including the ALSEP packages). You can't fake real-time spacecraft telemetry, tracking and command ops, and anyone who would have told these guys it was fake would have been told "fuck off". first para of a recent blogpost by a Minnesotan of swedish extraction who's gone without 'emission' for over a year now, doin what i call leglock sessions; he's a bit too overly Sokalian for me to take all he says seriously but i've enjoyed following him for a decade already:

to Kristin
Drew was nudged into becoming a keyboard prodigy too emphatically, at too early an age .... now that he switched to computer keyboard his 'composition faithfulness' makes one wonder if he copy/pastes a lot .. but no, he's just 'rap' (rapid) and goes for tiny variations a lot and for bigger splices of Sokalizable material often enough too, suspiciously often and overdone, to my tastes at least; he took courses about quantum mechanics in college and they are making a come back with a vengeance. Still ... better than his moron minutiae about ufo lore that interested ... no strike that ... PLAGUED him .. a good few years.

So for males the left hand is yang and lower body is yin while the right hand is yin and upper body is yang. That is the secret of the "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" - it turns the body-mind into a macroquantum harmonic oscillator!! Western math is "symmetric" and so this secret was lost.
So the noncommutative just means being in two places at the same time - noncommutative phase. haha. I have other quantum physicists citing music - Domash cites Brian Josephson who got the Nobel Laureate. Brian Josephson replied to me as well - and he asked me what I thought of his music compositions! haha. He studies the paranormal - but the secret is his phase coherence to capture virtual photon and virtual phonon energy. So I told him about that Domash research and he thanked me as he had not read it yet.

Victor Grauer figured this out - he did his Ph.D. in music - and his book is "Sounding the Depths" - he documents how the San Bushmen and Pygmy music style then spread around the world as the original humans spread around the world! You can listen to his audio examples - <http://soundingthedepts.blogspot.com/> at <http://soundingthedepts.blogspot.com/p/audio-visual-examples.html>

So Jim Nance was saying about how visualizing blue light was a key meditation for him - and that is when I made the "doppler shift" as a blue-light shift based on blues music.

I posted an earlier blog post that gives other citations - on the blue-light shift from blues music.

<http://ecoechoinvasives.blogspot.com/2018/02/the-subtle-unmanifest-form-of-blues.html>

The Subtle Unmanifest Form of Blues Music is the Ether as the three gunas Harmonized into Blue Light thanks again Dr. Professor Dani Oore!

Oh Professor Oore, as I reread my email to you - I got the chills by remembering this documentary! A musician friend told me about it - it is Asian Blues that heals a Camel!! Have you seen it? The Weeping Camel doc. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nU-X0fz60T4> It is in Mongolia - so this is very beautiful and the real secret of blues - even the animals cry from it. I played all kinds of music but my dog would only howl to my music when I played the blues. Very strange - and that was on a piano with equal-tempered tuning! So I must have been doing something right. haha. -- Thanks again, -- drew

Oh I found your reference to Frisson - sorry -

"But the fact that the blue third stimulates the very scale degree responsible for activating a distinct region of the brain associated with pleasure and complexity, is intriguing."

Yes the secret is to turn the dopamine frisson into serotonin ( blue light). thanks.

So then Professor Oore points out how complex rhythms of timing gets switched over to right brain processing. Fascinating.

Then he emphasizes how the polyrhythms of 5/4 and 6/7 and 7/4 and 6/5 and 7/5 are actually the bent "blue third" and blue 7th" frequency harmonics as well.

So then Dr. Professor Oore cites Kubik arguing the origin of Blues music is from vocal singing as based on vowel speech-derived harmonics - from vowel sounds. This is the secret of Mantras also using vowels - as natural harmonics.

"speech-derived partials (harmonics) over a single fundamental."

And then based on Dr. Oore's analysis of jazz bebop using calling out singing and instrumental response - he then points out in Jazz blues - the flat third is actually the "upper structure chord" of a sharp 9th and the flat fifth is the sharp eleventh - citing Liebman. And this is tied to the "mid tones" of West African tonal language! Fascinating.

Zachary K. Hubbard -----16 hours ago

I was thinking the same thing. Wiki has deleted all the entries people have tried to make since asking, but this is the one that they'll keep. They're a joke.

unknown warrior -----9 hours ago (edited)

They deleted my entries like 50 times yesterday when I deleted all of their bs and replaced it. I don't want this to be an essay, so I'll show you some of what I wrote in place of their bs. Basic overview: There is a scale of facts with the users of this code, primarily the Zionist Jews and freemasons, who abide by this code and without exception, use it every single day to contrive news stories, murder people, and rig events such as sports and elections. The four base ciphers are what is used the most and are all based on the Alphabetical order. Said ciphers are Reduction, Ordinal, Reverse Reduction, and Reverse Ordinal. A very easy example of how these ciphers work is this: A = 1, B = 2, C = 3 and so on with Reduction and Ordinal. In Reverse Reduction and Reverse Ordinal, the alphabet is simply flipped, so A = 26, B = 25, C = 24 and so on. For more information on how these ciphers work, please scroll down to "The Ciphers". Finding truly remarkable matches of meaningful phrases, names, locations and events are a common thing in this study. For example the words Judge and Gavel have a perfect numerical matching in the four base ciphers - Judge = 20, 47, 25, 88. Gavel = 20, 47, 25, 88. Witch and broom also have a perfect numerical matching in the four base ciphers - 27, 63, 72, 27. These are just two astonishing examples of how real and literal this code is. There tends to be a lot of trolls who attempt to discredit and make this work look crazy and meaningless, but the truly crazy are the freemasons and Zionist Jews, who do literally everything by this code. Please search Zachary K Hubbard for a far more in-depth overview. His channel on youtube has been deleted and censored 11 times since June of 2017 for exposing this code to the world and exposing corruption in all forms of government and media, secret societies, sports, and elections.

Jason Colavito exposes the truth of The Closeted Ejaculation Addiction Alt-Right Spiritual Fall out! Is this the source of Steve Bannon's fake traditionalism?

Wow - he is a "former alt-right" editor? Jason REza Jorjani? Wow - you know that Steve Bannon considers himself a follower of Rene Guenon? The traditionalists were into fascism but Rene Guenon was the first traditionalist and so to properly understand him is rare. Most traditionalists only get to Rene Guenon via Evola (the fascist). Guenon did believe that psychic spirits were attacking him while he tried to hide out in Egypt - from the evil West. I read Guenon's Ph.D. thesis on calculus - very much along the lines of Berkeley. I posted a critique of calculus recently - there is now "noncommutative calculus" that relies on reverse time, along with forward time.

Throughout his outstanding career, Michael Smither has explored and instigated complex interconnections between his twin loves - painting and music.

The natural beauty of the white sand of Otama Beach on the Coromandel Peninsula, where Michael Smither has made his home, is a marked contrast to the rugged, restless coast of his native Taranaki, captured in many of his paintings - a coastline of dark sand, rocks and pebbles worn smooth by the incessant surf, and of rockpools, where the surge of the sea pauses briefly as the tide recedes. Smither moved to Otama Beach in 1996 with his partner and fellow-artist, Gian McGregor, and during this time has concentrated on an extended body of work that incorporates his second love - music.

Harmonic Chart by Michael Smither

Michael Smither CNZM is best known as a painter of gritty, realistic domestic scenes, and for creating modern icons of New Zealand landscape features like Mt Taranaki and Mercury Bay. Less well known is his parallel career as a musician and composer, which he has continued to pursue while earning his living primarily as a painter, sculptor and printmaker.

Smither has experienced the neurological phenomenon of synaesthesia, in which the person may register sounds as colours. Key childhood events stimulated his interest in the sensory overlaps between colour and music. One was seeing Walt Disney's 1940 film Fantasia for the first time, with its animated impressions of musical phrases, shown as lines and colours, jumping about on the screen in time with the classical soundtrack. From this point on the idea that sounds can be represented visually became a major fascination, one that Smither has returned to throughout his artistic career. At the same time, strong, vivid, and sometimes even garish or lurid colours have always been characteristic of his visual art production.

Colour Can Be Sound explores the relationship between sounds and colours, bringing together a group of paintings, screenprints, and sculptures that document Michael Smither's intensive studies of this relationship over the past five decades. Included are works from Smither's Polyphonic Harmonies series, for example The Harmonic Chart (1984) - an abstract image which shows how the artist has mapped the twelve notes of the Western musical octave onto the colours of the spectrum - as well as three-dimensional 'harmonic cube' sculptures, and new works that continue Smither's investigations into the ways in which we perceive sound and colour.

O.K. I emailed Thomas Brown - since his email is posted in that forum.

Now he gets into the blue light secret of the quantum undertone - but doesn't mention Dollard - just Tesla. haha. So I will transcribe it.

Speed of light - it's a constant conversion of matter to energy that is certainly not limited in the transference of energy or information - I participated in experiments we did back in the 1980s, we did a Borderlands video, reproducing Tesla's experiments, showing waves traveling at [ $\pi$  divided by  $(2 \times \text{the speed of light})$ ] - just as Tesla said and the stuff worked out exactly when we reproduced the experiment. I believe starlight is almost superluminal - instantaneous....The whole concept of the linear electromagnetic spectrum is incorrect....Seven colors don't come out of a prism, only four - red, yellow border and a blue-violet. If you bring them together through a slit - you get green in the middle, which appears away from the prism. You make the slit wide enough, there is no green. But the red-yellow-blue-violet are always there. Rather than running the light through a slit, you round it around an object and you reverse the order ....blue-violet on the outside and magenta in the middle. So magnetic and green are secondary polarities within this. You got the red-yellow-blue-violet and you got green-magenta. That's the same as electricity - you got electricity and magnetic. You get magneto-dielectric electricity which is Tesla's faster than light electricity. So Steiner said, electricity is the fallen light-ether.

E: Reich found that the orgone and the dielectric field are basically one and the same. If a dielectric field has the proper pulsations then you could almost call it the orgone energy. An example of this is the orgone accumulator, which is alternating layers of dielectric and reflecting material, like a capacitor. The reflecting is usually called the conducting in electrical engineering work but this is based on misconceptions from the 18th and 19th century with regards to how electricity flows. It's well known that electricity doesn't flow through wires, but that's the conception that most people carry around in their heads. Of course people used to think the earth was flat, too. Reich's dogma assumed that the insulating or dielectric material had to be organic, but of course he was using glass wool and its stretching the term organic by applying it to glass wool. You could say the glass wool is organic because the silicone dioxide has two atoms of oxygen, but that's not really true.

Oh Thomas Brown did the video documentary on Victor Schauberger! I saw this. I might have it around in the house somewhere - or did I give it away already?

Trevor Constable has shown that the Chemical or Tone ether is related to the water system of the planet and is functionally equivalent to orgone.

Why Sugar causes Worry: Corn Syrup (not just HFCS) is a synthetic toxic addictive chemical that should be avoided like the plague sugar is too valuable. Soda is from Corn Syrup. Buy it by the gallon wholesale! Corn syrup is patented as synthetic chemical! It's in everything! Corn syrup is a toxic chemical sold as sugar!! Corn syrup has no enzyme between the sucrose and fructose. Fructose is the wrong handed molecule - so your body digests it as a toxin in the liver and turns right into fat! Also you don't feel full from corn syrup - it makes you MORE HUNGRY. so then more corn syrup - more fat and more hunger! Soon you get heart disease and diabetes and cancer - and get your feet amputated and then die.

thanks for reading my blog! Sir John Pendry has some fascinating metamaterial research on changing the direction of spacetime to access the relativistic mass energy. So Tesla's ether is the longitudinal phonon energy of light from noncommutative time-frequency - nonlocal phase. The problem is the symmetric math and the replicated technology based on the wrong symmetric math. So "What is intriguing is that matter's most basic building blocks, the elementary particles, all have non-zero spin, intrinsic angular momentum, which seems to imply they all have some sort of intrinsic dynamics....So what is matter really made of then? In the Dirac theory, the electron is like electromagnetic energy quivering at light speed, just like a photon in a box. If really so, matter is light." I find it helpful to categorize the different pairs into categories:

<http://www.erictb.info/typeideas.html>

Type Ideas: The Best of the ETB Temperament series

Basically, the more outgoing ones are "hot", the slow paced ones are "cold", the more responsive are "wet", and the less responsive are "dry".

The temperament factors became associated with the quickness of their emotions or reactions:

The sanguine temperament showed quick, impulsive and relatively brief reactions. (i.e. short delay, short sustain)

The choleric temperament manifested a short response time-delay, but the response was sustained for a relatively long time.

The melancholic temperament (renamed "Melancholy") exhibited a long response time-delay, and the response was sustained at length, if not, seemingly, permanently.

The Phlegmatic was characterized by a longer response-delay but the response was also short-lived.

To translate these factors to more familiar ones hot/short delay--expressive: "extrovert" cold/long delay--reserved: "introvert" wet/short sustain--responsive: "people-focused" dry/long sustain--directive: "task-focused"

This leads to these familiar descriptions:

----- Melancholy - has an unquenchable thirst for knowledge, prone to genius, very creative, mind tends to work overtime, going over and over events of the past, needs alone time to regroup. (Also prone to "black moods").

----- Sanguine - fun loving, will leave in the middle of a chore or assignment if they find out there is something fun going on somewhere, never wants to grow up, stressed out if there are not places to go and people to see.

---- Choleric - a drive to greatness, but will step on your toes to get there, needs lots of appreciation along the way.

----- Phlegmatic - quite stubborn and set in his ways, uncomfortable with confrontation and seeks peace at all costs to avoid strife, feels he needs sleep to regroup but never gets enough, very annoying to the Choleric as this is the one temperament that cannot be coerced into doing something if they don't want to.

Chronicles of the New Human Organism

Ian Haig -- 2005 - 2010 ----- 50m Video

The work references and cannibalizes ideas derived from Al Fry, JG Ballard, Rudolf Steiner, Wilhelm Reich, The Heavens Gate cult, Carl Sagan and Oscar Kiss Maerth. Delivered with a portentous, yet strangely soothing voiceover, Chronicles of the new human organism re-interprets the history of visionary thinking about the human species through the po-faced filter of Erich Von Daniken's Chariots of the Gods and the shockumentary style of Mondo Cane.

sci-fi / apocalyptic warning, contemporary spirit world, sect, nature documentary, post new age, futuristic vision, pseudo science, cult, mondo, recruitment, crank sci -fi, junk science, discovery channel from another dimension, educational video - exploring the extremes and the outer limits of human belief systems...

"Imagine putting a video camera into the hands of a Death Valley outsider artist convinced that the mother ship is about to land at any minute, and that when it does a new phase of human evolution will begin. Chronicles of the new human organism is such a film.

Taking the form of the nature documentary exploring the strangeness of the world around us as a starting point - Chronicles of the new human organism takes the viewer on a journey through a range of ideas, systems of knowledge and questions relating to the origins of the human species, the significance of the reptilian mind, new forms of human sexuality, parasites, the communication with the dead, and alien evolutionary technology.

One of the aims of Chronicles of the new human organism has been to make a work that defies categorization or another way of looking at the categorization of the human itself. It is a perverse and compelling hybrid of educational video, new age recruitment campaign and cult manifesto: the Mondo movie genre with a good dose of pseudo science.

The sound and music for the video was composed by PH2 (Philip Brophy and Philip Samartzis). Like the visuals, it draws on a range of references in its production from Jerry Goldsmith sci-fi scores such as Logan's Run to pulsating electronic noise from Forbidden Planet and textural location field recordings of some of the weirdest places on the planet". - Darren Tofts

Eat Thy Neighbour: A History of Cannibalism Paperback - February 1, 2008

Gregory Smith ---- 4.0 out of 5 stars ---- The actual history of cannibalism is fascinating, but the stories later on so so.

December 14, 2015

I like 50% of the book, the parts detailing cannibalism from ancient Rome to Papua New Guinea were fascinating, not to mention the different types of cannibalism, such as circumstantial (you're in Ukraine and Stalin has stolen your grain), to inherit the qualities of a fallen enemy, or because you're a sick criminal.

The stories of Ed Gein and Dahmer were fascinating, and I did learn some new information I didn't know before, such as Dahmer's fear of being alone and his desire to create human zombies that would always love him by drilling into their brains and dropping some kind of acid. Of course, for Dahmer it wasn't just about eating people, he also liked having sex with them. Talk about playing with your food, LOL.

Now some reviewers have complained about the attitude of the writer, but come on people, if you're reading this it's obvious you have a sense of humor. Who else would read a book like this? I'm reading it because sometimes truth is scarier than fiction, and as a fan of splatterpunk horror fiction writers, I needed a break from their fantasies.

Desmond F. Bellamy --- 4.0 out of 5 stars -- Mythology should shock --- February 18, 2013 ----- Anthropophagy is shocking only if humans are seen as somehow semi-divine. Otherwise, we are just flesh and blood and muscle and sinew, the same as any other animal, and eating each other would seem like a good solution to overpopulation (see Jonathan Swift's satirical piece on the Irish question).

This book has been criticised for being loose with the history: quoting doubtful sources or reporting events that may never have happened. History, particularly of matters that are generally considered criminal (except in the early chapters on tribal rituals) is always subjective - the evidence gathered is often from the victims, in this case long since digested, or the perpetrators, who will often deny the truth or else embellish it for self-aggrandisement. This book therefore sets out to follow the mythology - the number of humans that Ottis Toole and Henry Lee Curtis actually barbecued is not as important as the fact that they did so, and that they claimed their victims tasted like suckling piglets, except for teenage boys who tasted gamier. This is the "meat" of the text - why are these observations more shocking than the myriad cookbooks that tell us how to barbecue suckling piglets? Unless you believe that man is formed in the image of god (whatever that means) then it is only mythology that makes one act despicable and criminal and another the subject of TV reality shows. This book explores the entrails of that mythology with a pleasing lack of squeamishness, and leaves open the question of why we love some animals and eat others.

TR8 --- 4.0 out of 5 stars --- Yucky but interesting --- January 31, 2017

I would have given the book 5 stars if the second half of the book had been more like the first half. I was interested more in the anthropology aspect of cannibalism, and the second half was all about true crime events from the last century (most of which I have already heard about previously and this made it less interesting). Still, it was an interesting but gross read.

i would have thought waaaay over an hour is long enough to slip in the 'history of cannibalism' (especially when you mention brain growth and hairloss around the 55th minute, all side effects according to 'intelligence is edible' expert/author OKM (see below) along with loss of fert. cues), practiced for the direct and noticeable pay-off, an aphrodisiac effect (if you consult the info on 'Dr Feelgood' below you might get an idea about how very much alive and influential messing with vital fluids is - flings, flare ups, flunks and goin down in flame with worldwide consequence). Does that sound convincing enough to investigate this time? i told you about this years ago.)

1969-- Philosopher Oscar Kiss Maerth publishes "The Beginning Was The End", his theory of the fact that human E-volution is actually a DE-volution: Once the prehistoric ape species started eating meat, especially each others brains, their own brains mutated into the human brain, and "intelligence" evolved. In the course of that, man lost all his natural abilities for telepathy and instinctual understanding, and man's brains today are actually sick mutations of a once natural state of consciousness in balance with nature, and thus are destined to destroy themselves (see global warming thread). Harry Partch Instrumentarium
4,651 views - DansoundSeattle - Jul 12, 2017
Harry Partch (1901-1974) was an iconoclastic American composer and instrument inventor with a passion for integrating musicians, actors, and dancers in large-scale works of total-theater. He was "seduced into carpentry" by his interest in just intonation and his need to have an orchestra tuned to this system. The instruments are more than just producers of tone, however -- each one has an evocative name and dramatic physical presence, and each one puts unique physical demands on the performer. In Partch's book, Genesis of a Music, he writes that the performer of the Marimba Eroica should at times "convey the vision of Ben Hur in his chariot," while a musician playing his Kithara must not "bend at the waist, like an amateur California prune picker," but instead should move with grace and athleticism in a "functional dance."
Charles Corey, curator of the instruments which are currently housed at the University of Washington in Seattle, gives a tour of the instruments and the unique sounds they make and iconoclastic musical notations which Partch invented for the performers to be able to play his compositions.
This event was presented on May 30, 2017, by the Pacific Northwest Section of the Audio Engineering Society in the Studio Theater at the Meany Center for the Performing Arts at the University of Washington in Seattle. Sincere thanks to their staffs and management for allowing us to be there.

The evolutionary origin of pitch centre recognition

Piotr Podlipniak ----- First Published April 16, 2015

Abstract ---- The ability to recognize a pitch centre in sound sequences belongs to the basic mental tools which are intuitively used by humans when they listen to music. It is also one of the abilities used by listeners in order to establish a tonal hierarchy. The organization of pitches around a pitch centre is one of the most ubiquitous syntactic rules observed in music of all cultures. As far as we know, there is nothing similar to this rule in other human sound expressions nor in animals' vocal communication. Thus, the recognition of pitch centrality seems to be the unique and species-specific ability of Homo sapiens, which suggests its evolutionary origin. It is proposed in the article that in the course of hominine evolution, the ability of pitch centre recognition became an adaptive innovation which enabled a more effective social consolidation. It is also suggested that the origin of this ability has its roots in the 'Baldwin effect' which led to the emergence of a predisposition to join three originally separate abilities - the implicit recognition of the frequency of pitch occurrence, working memory and the emotional assessment of predicted stimuli - into a new mental tool.

Not really. Frameworks like McLuhan's -- which was only published posthumously in the 1988 "Laws of Media," and which few have read and fewer have tried to use -- only make sense when applied over-and-over to the specifics at hand. Derrick de Kerckhove, who seems to be the primary path-to-McLuhan for Europeans recently noted that he *never* uses the Tetrad (i.e. the heuristic presented in LoM) -- so, based on the score-or-so Continentals with any interest in McLuhan who I've met, I'd suggest that there is very little "McLuhan-style analysis" going on.

-- From: Felix Stalder <felix {AT} openflows.com> Date: Fri, 17 May 2013 ----- Marc, I had the Tetrad explained and demonstrated to me by Eric McLuhan himself and I was, I admit, suitably unimpressed. It's basically a set of four general purpose questions (what does a thing obsolesce, retrieve, flip, enhance) to help you examine the thing's relation to its environment (a.k.a. the ground). It's interesting in as much as it is a very unusual forms of theory (it's actually more of a method), but as with any such general question, you can basically stick any answer to it. For example, we discovered in one of our sessions that the (frozen) pizza had obsolesced the house wife and retrieved the butler (home delivery). At this point, I really had to excuse my self from the discussion.

> 4} Soviet Union: "Castells bases his analysis of the collapse of the > Soviet Union on its inability to move out of an industrial and into a networked mode." Yes, that's an important insight. Or, alternately, to use a McLuhan phrase, they failed to shift from "hardware communism" to "software communism." To this day, there is no viable Silicon Valley equivalent in Russia. The final "straw" in the Cold War, "Star Wars," was a joint DoD/DARPA/Valley project and that same military-information complex is now responsible for yesterday's Google I/O keynote.

Darpa etc ended up creating the infrastructure on which the US transition was eventually engineered, but it did not cause the Soviet collapse. This is a Reaganite myth.

If you follow this analysis, both systems entered a phase of stagnation and decline in the 1960s because they could no longer manage the rising internal complexity with the old procedures. The US went on a path to transform itself into a system capable of organizing higher degrees of complexity by using, yes, new technologies. The Soviet Union simply got stuck and when it attempted a belated reform, it collapsed.

Are you still with me? Because in this view, it was not technology which transformed society, but the root is a social crisis -- the old model exhausting itself -- that generated the need to look for new models which, as these things go, are often based on new technologies. So, there was a problem looking for a solution, and new technologies seemed to offer them, thus creating a market for it. Once these new solutions started to pay off for the first adopters, the coercive laws of competition made sure that they spread with increasing velocity across society (because competition is not restricted to the economy but ploys out across all sectors).

A similar argument can be made, and has been made, by James Beniger in "Control Revolution" about the first phase of computerization, and by Joseph Weizenbaum about the second phase. Of course, this had all kinds of unintended psycho-social side-effects and it did affect what McLuhan called the ratio of the senses, but it also, clearly, had a number of intended consequences, namely, to preserve and extend the power of those large scale organizations, say, the US military, major industrial corporations etc, which managed not only managed, but really, shaped the transition. Sure, enough, not all managed this transition well, but overall, many did. Perhaps, in the long run, the unintended consequences will outweigh the intended ones, but that, I think, can always be said.

You talk early in "Who Owns the Future?" about Kodak ? about > thousand of jobs being destroyed, and Instagram picking up the slack > ? but with almost no jobs produced. So give us a sense of how that > happens and what the result is. It seems like the seed of your book in a way.

Thanks for posting this. It's a great interview and I downloaded the book onto my Kindle. Lanier's ideas about the middle class as an artificial product of modernity are interesting and of course I loved all that stuff about the digital revolution generating a shift from formal to informal economy. I gave a lecture not long ago to Italian tax economists on "How the informal economy took over the world" (you couldn't make it up). But my real favourite is "IE + IT = ED" (Informal Economy plus Information Technology equals Economic Democracy - both essays at <http://thememorybank.co.uk>).

But isn't it all just a bit Luddite? What kind of work were all those Kodak employees doing? Putting transparencies in plastic boxes to post to the owners. It's just a rearrangement of social labour, like when Manchester cotton textiles put Bengali weavers out of business. How else could Indian workers join the world economy than by putting their cheap labour to making something else? And why should the American middle classes keep using 400 times more energy per capita than their Ugandan counterparts if the work they do is now redundant. The cell phones phase of the internet revolution is now allowing parts of Africa to leapfrog the West. Kenya leads the world in mobile phone banking and recycling cheap computers for use by poor people. Lanier has some good ideas about employment creation under different economic conditions. But the basic whinge is so parochial. What else do you expect from a musician?

Keith
Although no sensible person could any longer believe in hardware communism, everyone was now a practitioner of software communism.

from this para:

Above all, for these new media enthusiasts, the Situationist technique of detournement was the premonition of the dissolution of intellectual property within the Net's 'hi-tech gift economy'. Much to the horror of the music and film industries, their copyright commodities were metamorphosing into virtual potlatches. Although no sensible person could any longer believe in hardware communism, everyone was now a practitioner of software communism. In this iteration of Pop Situationism, political revolution had been superseded by cultural rebellion. As the 21st century arrived, the HaÅsienda could only be built in cyberspace.

In 1992, Sadie Plant - an English academic - published the intellectual rationale for the Post-Modernist codification of Pop Situationism: The Most Radical Gesture. Like Marcus, Home and Vague, her narrative focused upon the subversive influence of the avant-garde artistry of the International. Crucially, by emphasising his penetrating analysis of media domination, Plant began the process of welcoming Debord into the pantheon of French master-thinkers who fascinated the ideological imagination of late-20th century Euro-American Cultural Studies: Louis Althusser, Roland Barthes, Jacques Derrida, Julia Kristeva, Jean- François Lyotard, Jean Baudrillard, Michel Foucault, Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari.

yes he was the first kill of ben laden in USA. A group called foragah was a branch of Al Qaeda. And then the caught the man in Canada by his DNA= 4+14+1=19 after 19 years and he is in jail in Arizona.

At first they praised his mathematical discoveries, then little by little Dr. Khalifa denied and rejected those satanic hadith sunna and sharia laws as the Arabic Quran says, then said that they should bear witness that Mohammad is the messenger of Allah because only hypocrites used that phrase sura 63 and most of all they said how come he is not one of us. He was against everything they made up like punishment of a thief this fake Hijab, fake stoning and beating up the ones who drink alcohol and on and on. That is why they had 40 years respite and after that we all have witnessing disasters upon this fake religion Islam made up by Arabs. Allah only promote One Religion and that is following from the Nation of Ibrahim and if Does not Allah calls them STUPID (2:130) repeated 12 times. Again life and death belongs to Allah. That is how Allah replaces the people who have been given respite yet they failed to worship Allah Alone, with new generations. Like Native Americans almost wiped out because they have been worshipping so many gods beside Allah. Now these new nations have respite as well and when ever their times come up they will be wiped out as well. Like right now the ones who call themselves with this made up name muslims they had their respite already and they rejected those 1500 pages of scientific reports and they even killed the messenger of Allah. That is why they are killing each other every day and people in the world are hating them. Allah is the best Avenger. The worst is on the way. You must very very young. READ the Arabic Quran like prophet Mohammad did every day and nights hours on end for 23 years. This is the only way you can save yourself.

>> Here is Martins comments; <http://https://www.armstrongeconomics.com/uncategorized/russia-leaks-on-911-oops-didnt-think-of-that-one/>
The ECM(309) numbers were already set in stone before the event. IT is just how the world works. Through a careful set of laws, in the universe. As martin says it; no coincidence in middle of such events.
>> 8.6 year cycles are set allready and are not changed. IT is just a computer model that predicts these changes. The last cycles of 309 year wave, is where change in views intensifyies. Usually big events happens according to the 8.6 year cycles as we saw above, also the pi year from the peak, of the 8.6 year cycle. Each market has it's own cycle. Only those market that is very close to the ECM 309 wave, intensifies and expreince the greatest change. For me personally the greatest miracles is not this, the greatest mircale is how god arranged the constellations the stars the moon and the sun to get these correspondances.
A proffesor named Shnoll found similiar events unfolding not in stock markets but radiactive decay of atoms, the speed in which it decays changes in cyclical manner of 365.2 days and 27.3 days lunar, and 24 hour period. The numbers used also for change in the Quran, especially the 27.3 and the 365.2 days.
Just as martin cyclical partern of 8.6 year cycle of the orbital year change 365.2 days; All seems to point to the effect when the orbital sidereal period is closed in. The effects are described in this paper;

China has a bifurcated land system, with clear distinctions between urban and rural land use rights. While state-owned land in urban areas has become commercially transferable, rural land cannot be transferred. This discrepancy has been exploited by property developers, investors, village heads and local governments, which has caused wide-spread, large-scale malpractice in relation to expropriation of land. Thus, conflict over expropriation of land has been, and continues to be, a simmering hotpot of social unrest in China. It has been claimed that land disputes over expropriation is one of the most common ways of provoking grassroots resistance and undermining public confidence in the government.

Chang Ji And the Creation of the Book of Changes

4.8K views -- The Chen Dynasty -- Apr 4, 2018

During the time of the late Shang dynasty, the kings who ruled the land were merciless, and constantly fought battles and killed their feudal vassals to secure power. One of the feudal vassals killed was the king of Zhou, and after his death, his son Chang Ji inherited the throne. Chang Ji was a man of high moral standards and treated his people well, which made him famous and became known as a sage.

The current King of Shang, Di Xin, grew afraid and jealous, so he eventually tricked Chang Ji into visiting his empire and later arrested him. Di Xin wished to kill Chang Ji, but it was not allowed to kill a "sage" without reason. So he let him rot in prison.

Quran Math Miracles Ep 10, DNA, Embryo, Gender, Fingertips --- 83 views -- Published on Apr 9, 2018

DNA, Gender, Embryology, Fingertips and more! Sorry for the delay but this took more time than expected...

Shlovaski --- 6 hours ago -- Mashallah amazing video. But some of these are not miracles but simple maths. Like when you multiply chapter 23 by verse 13 and 14 then take the difference, its obviously going to be 23 because theres only one number jump from 13 to 14. ---- Also when you add  $138+69=207$  and you see that its a multiple of 23, its because 138 is a sum of 46 and 46 and 46 which are a sum of 2 23s each and 69 is also a sum of 3 23s. So if you add all the 23s you get 207, which would in turn be a multiple of 23.
Nonetheless many amazing miracles in the video, especially with the last 5 chapters have 23 verse etc. Thank you so much for uploading.

Without the unnumbered Basmalahs, the number of verses in the Quran is 6234. The mathematical structure of the Quran based on the number 19 makes this number an undeniable fact, and confirms that Sura 9 always had 127, and not 129 as has been disputed historically.

hey, just bycause other vids by these khazaks do show in suggs don't mean you're relieved of the moral obligation to credit them eh? ... see skakvac

An interesting observation about surat Alqamar (54) is that it has 55 ayas all ending with the letter r. The number 55 is the order of Surat ArRahman and r is the first letter of Rahman. It could be that all this is to stress the significance of Surat ArRahman. Additionally, the last verse of Surat Alqamar connects well with the first verse of ** Interview Summary: Pasang was born in Geji Zakarnag in Kham to a nomadic family that raised yaks, dri â€"female yaks,' sheep and goats. As a young girl she assisted her mother with milking the dri and making butter, cheese and curd. Meat and dairy products were the main part of their diet. They exchanged their dairy products, meat and wool for grains in Jekundo and Nagchuka. Pasang's family lived in a tent and relocated whenever they needed to find greener pastures. The only fuel available in her region was dung. Pasang describes in detail how dung was flattened, dried and stored in covered heaps to be used when it rained in summertime. Water was easily accessible during the summer, but during winter ice had to be melted. Pasang describes the nomads' cookware, tea, clothing, jewels and medicine.The Chinese appeared when Pasang was 8 years old and she was unable to become a nun as she had hoped to. Her family spent many months on their escape journey until being caught at Thoe Bawa.

Her father and brother were taken away to China and Pasang, her mother and her sister were forced to tend sheep for the Chinese. After seven months, they escaped again but Pasang's mother died on the journey. Pasang and her sister continued on to reach a settlement in Nepal.

Interview Summary: Phurbu Bhuti was born in Khangmar in Utsang Province to a large family of seven children. They were farmers and as the eldest child, she had many chores and responsibilities. She describes her daily routine and the family's three-room home. She had to collect water each day from a nearby river in wooden vessels. Her family was allotted land from a large estate and tenants like her family sowed the lands and collected manure as a tax in the form of service. Phurbu Bhuti notes the absence of modern medical care and hospitals in Tibet. She describes in vivid detail the rituals performed at the time of one's death and the system of sky burial where bodies are fed to vultures. She was taught to chant prayers by her father and each night the entire family would say their prayers before dinner. She believes that boys were treated a little bit better than girls and had more independence. When the Chinese first arrived, Phurbu Bhuti felt they were helpful. The situation changed rapidly after the Chinese began dividing the community into categories based on economic status and distributing property of the wealthy to the beggars. She witnessed the 'struggle sessions' of wealthy men. After being warned that middle class families like hers might be next, her family fled in the night leaving behind three of her siblings.

Writing for the Second Time Through Finnegans Wake

This score is a means for translating a book into a performance without actors, a performance which is both literary and musical or one or the other. The first blank space in the title is the title the work will take, i.e. Roaratorio. The second and third consist of an article and an adjective, i.e. an Irish. The last is the title of the original book from which the work as a whole was drawn, i.e. Finnegans Wake. In 1979, Cage made the first realization entitled Roaratorio: an Irish Circus on Finnegans Wake. In 1983 Merce Cunningham added choreography for the American premiere at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York, October 26, 1983. In 2009, in the wake of Cunningham's death, the Merce Cunningham Dance Company set out to revive the work, which was subsequently seen, in 2010, in Los Angeles and Montpellier.

Q: "WHY?" (As inâ€” "Why did the great poet/playwright go to these enormous lengths to encode this elegant poetic/mathematical puzzle at such personal risk to himself?")

A: I believe this masterpiece subterfuge was intentionally set up by the real Shakespeare (and his polymath accomplice, Dr. John Dee) for multiple purposes. Like all great art it communicates on many levels, reaching us wherever we're ready and able to comprehend it. On the basic, human level there's a tragic, comedic, personal story hidden in the plays and poems, particularly the Sonnets. On a deeper, intellectual level, there are mathematical and philosophical truths being conveyed that were forbidden at the time â€” considered heretical by the church. On the highest, spiritual level, he's conveying an extraordinary scripture encompassing secret, hermetic truths and principles mined from the depths of Ancient wisdom. And overall he delivers the whole thing with a courtier's flourish, wrapped in a gorgeous red bow, as a brilliantly entertaining Game designed to educate us, spiritually, to the true mystery of life. The most profound Truth of allâ€” "it's all one" (from Twelfth Night). So are we reddi? The Game's afoot!

Ready to build your wizard's tower? (self.alchemy) submitted 1 year ago * by [deleted] ----- How about using John Dee's design? There is a treasure trove buried in this website by Jim Egan including a deciphering of Dee's Monas Heiroglyphica. And if that catches your fancy, then you might be as intrigued as I am by Alan Green's work.

[deleted] 2 points 1 year ago ----- Petter has done excellent work. Thank you for the tip! And I can empathize with his frustration. At least for his sake he was validated by Jola Sigmond. Petter should touch tips with Alan Green, Jim Egan and Teresa Burns. Alan has cracked even more via the Sonnets, here's a link with more depth: Dee-Coding Shakespeare.

Pixygon 1 point 1 year ago --- Yeah, I thought it was wierd how Petter wasn't mentioned by Alan, since each of their research fits together! If it was actually written by Bacon, as petter finds good evidence for, that would put all of shakespeare in a much more occult light, and in my mind, make it even more powerful. I also believe this to be very close to what the bible and jesus-story actually is!

[deleted] 2 points 1 year ago ----- Assuming Bacon was a Rosicrucian the door gets opened to admit multiple contributors. Speaking of the bible, Carl Jung utilized alchemy to link himself with the gnostic authors of the Nag Hammadi Library. So we have the ongoing repetition of a theme, an unenlightened, uneducated populace, an elite interested in preserving the status quo, and those who toil in the background, sometimes getting clues to their knowledge out into view.

Dysnomian_Wretch 2 points 1 year ago* --- I havent read it yet but there is a book which theorizes that Shakespeare knew that Catholicism was founded by the Roman Empire and is actually based on emperor worship... Its called "shakespeares secret messiah" and is by Joseph Atwill... I suspect John Dee and some other writers (probably Spencer and Marlowe as well as Bacon and his writing club) were all part of this as a Rosicrucian reformation... which is basically a Gnostic Alchemical restoration of ancient philosophy which was co-opted by the Roman state

That locking-out serves a purpose however. The most important purpose is to actually identify us "only" with the body. The fixation of identity to the "rigid" form of the body, combined with the lack of psychic perception forces us to push forward our development ourselves, independent of "psychic" powers. Topper mentions there "was" an edenic state of "adam and eve in paradise". You can compare this state with what you probably know about sorcerers of the "Carlos Castaneda" type, where no barrier is too hard to pierce and no distance to great to seal.

Fascinating stuff. Entwined all through misogyny is a fear and hatred of anything perceived as feminine, which is completely backwards in a heterosexual context. In theory heterosexuality is supposed to be a love for women, but men so often seem to want to destroy that which they desire. I'm sure homosexuality plays a role in there, but I suspect it also has a great deal to do with resenting their own vulnerability, with not wanting to face the fact that women may have power over them. The female version of this same fear is evident in feminism, where all men must be regulated and controlled.

Christianity, or rather the teachings of Christ, are actually a more feminized version of Truth, so rather than might makes right, Christ speaks of how we are made strong in weakness and how what we do for the least of these we actually do for God himself. Watching some modern Christian masculinists of today try to reconcile these teachings with what they want to believe is the nature of their own selves, can be rather interesting.

-----Ronald Thomas West - April 16, 2015 at 6:44 pm

"The female version of this same fear is evident in feminism, where all men must be regulated and controlled" It would be really interesting to see a woman write about this, as well the misogyny practiced between women (which has also been pointed out to me)

Katherine Wyatt - April 19, 2015 at 1:34 am

Misogyny is so often created through patriarchy and then the women are taught to inflict it on one another. for instance in China the women would bind the feet of the female children, crippling them.. In Africa where there is now Muslim rule the female child at about age nine to eleven is taken out into the woods by the women in the town and the genital mutilation is done with a seashell by the elder women, this is expected, in India,. the women cannot receive sonograms anymore because if they find out the child is female they will self abort it, sati forced a woman to throw herself on the funeral pyre of the husband if he preceded her in death as she is then "inauspicious" and the head of the household that forces this is the mother in law, all Indian brides go to live with the groom's family and the mother in law is in charge f the wives of her sons,. So most Indian women pray for a good mother in law instead of worrying over the husband who will be doing things outside the home and is not really involved in the fate of the wife. I have heard from native women that they are now murdering one another in the Canadian regions over jealousies and position - this I have heard from a woman living in a native community, but I am unclear of the specifics..

Part of gynocide and patriarchy is to teach the women that it is their responsibility to inflict the norms of that society, which are torture and mutilation on the next generation of females.. just an interesting side bar A lot here to contemplate.. I have seen extremist feminism but I do believe that Mary Daly originally an etymologist who worked with language.. while EXTREME.. and also a lesbian had some important points to make in her works "God the Father" and "Gyn-ecology" and while she was the far end of femiinism. she found English to be absolutely impossible in order for women to regain a sense of their self hood and created a "Wictionary" a thick dictionary of new words that allowed a woman to be able to use a lexicon that was not polluted with the patriarchal overtones of English. Yes she went too far which is why Boston University dismissed her.. but she does makes some points that are worth reflection.. in my opinion I think your insights on those two writings would be interesting realizing her extremism I think if one sifts through that she still has a lot to say worth looking at..

Ronald Thomas West --- April 19, 2015 at 7:09 am

I would simply note the physical orientation is the wrong focus but where the controversy seems to be trapped. Gay or anti-gay (one could as easily say fascist or anti-fascist and the transposed roles make little or no difference at all) with attending demands at the level of practical or practiced sexual orientation invites incessant battles; where there is no open exam of the underlying cause because of cultural prejudices (on all parties part.) I doubt this can be resolved short of the dismantling (or much more likely, the collapse) of the hierarchy. Where both sides play out of the identical framework, the chances of authentic change seem negligible when it is the cultural foundation requires replaced to effect positive outcome. As much as the essay challenges the cultural narrative of the conservative; it breaks the rules of the liberal. This is inevitable where both (or all sides) have been shaped by mirrored forces within identical structure.

Katherine Wyatt -- April 20, 2015 at 5:38 am

"This is inevitable where both (or all sides) have been shaped by mirrored forces within identical structure." I think that Daly knew this up to a POINT.. .. her ideal was that women would live on an island that had no men and would not allow men . and speak their own language.. She wanted to collapse the structure and create something totally different but she was in error. i think she misplaced hatred for patriarchy with hatred for men in general and thus was no better than those she saw as victimizing women.. I would have to research to see what . if any thoughts she had on androgyny. and the male and female brain I heard her speak when Gyn-ecology came out and she was making connections about the female Earth being raped by mankind.. but she was still working on a model that basically denigrated men.. so far as I can tell.. although she understood the Church and culture had to change.. I am not so sure that her version of what to change to would not have ultimately been . a different side of the same coin.. I would have to research that more it has been awhile but that is what I vaguely recall in the directed studies I did on her and from the books.. Boston Univ fired her for not allowing men to take her class.. which always hit me wrong it spoke volumes.. but there was still a few things she had to say that were worth listening to the fact she saw the pathology of English in general was my first exposure to how language shapes our understanding of things .. some grist for the mill for me that has certainly taken on larger proportion since then English as a language made for business I heard a Vishnuvite here speaking on that this year .. I thought it seemed to hold some veracity dollars and money and the bottom lines .. etc..

last 3 alineas:

The time I fondled a dog's nuts goes to shocking the western ego as a matter of demonstration. A younger Native male, my relative, was a hot-shot fire crewman, the elite of the USA's wild lands firefighters. His White colleague had heard my dog was actually a wolf and wanted to see this creature. This "dog' could take off the arm of anyone that "smelled' wrong and wanting to see it for simple ego sake was not the brightest thing. In any case, here was this White guy, all young and tough, walking up to see my dog and could be in easily be in danger, depending on how the dog perceived him. Not wishing to introduce fear into the exchange of energy, and not wishing to be rude and say "stay away from the dog", I defused the situation by asking the question "Do you know how to determine if your dog trusts you?" The young guys looked at me, I gave the proper cue, and my dog lay down on his back for me and I then held the dogs balls and rolled them together gently, like large dice, and looking up with straight face said "When your dog will let you do this" as my dog's tongue was spilled out the side of his mouth to maximum length and the dog's expression was nothing short of heavenly joy.

Saying nothing (the White kid was speechless, the Indian kid knowing how to keep a straight face), the young men walked away but later, my relative (I won't give up his identity) told me, speaking of his colleague, "Man, it JARRED him when he saw that." But you know what? Those times that young man will want to brag he'd seen, and been up close and personal with, a wolf, he'll be confronted with memory of the wolf rolling on its back to have his nuts fondled and his White culture's gynophobic male identity or suppressed narcissistic homosexuality (experienced as homophobia) and it's associated macho ego will take a hit. And that's pretty funny, especially considering he'd never come close to knowing why I'd done what I'd done, Native humor saving his life as it were.

Native Americans and Race ----- August 12, 2013 //

There is No Native American Concept of Race

A Native American concept of race never existed as we know the idea of race in the modern world.

The term for a Black man translates from Blackfoot language as "Black White Man" and the thought behind this is completely alien to modern western ideation. The Blackfoot "Black White Man" derives from interaction with the Black cavalry regiment stationed north of Browning during the military occupation of the Blackfeet reservation (into the 1930s.) "Black" is descriptive solely in a superficial sense and when coupled to "White", points directly to European mentality or state of mind and is not primarily concerned with skin color. This is reinforced with the Cree translation for White Man being essentially identical concept: "Not like us" in a sense of thought process. This again loops back in identical sense in the proper Blackfoot term for a White Man per se: "Napi Kwan" or "White Man" refers to someone who is crazy from a cultural perspective and figures in the Blackfoot proverb "Everyone knows the White Man is crazy." All of the translations taken with the proverb point to color as superficial or descriptive only, with the emphasis on state of mind or thought process. This is clearly reinforced by the noted action anthropologist Karl Schlesier when he states:

"In the old world of the tribes skin color never mattered; what mattered were the expressions of one's spirit and the voice of the heart"

Karl has spent most of his life in close association with the Southern Cheyenne, and is honorary son, brother and father to three generations of Cheyenne Holy Arrow Keepers and most certainly would be in a position to know this as well. Karl, like myself, is a White Indian and we are not discriminated against in the culturally intact Native community on account of our skin color. If it were a Black Man had achieved the old, culturally intact thought process, their welcome into the Native community would be no different to our own; complete, warm and integrated.

In the present times, when we see modern academics discuss Race in relation to Native America, particularly when those academics skins are Red, we are witnessing European mentality co-opting original Native thought. Were there to be an original native thought assessment of today's politically correct arguments over race in stereotype such as team sport mascots, terms such as "Indians", "Redskins" and "Braves" would be patently meaningless in any sense of insult. Wilma Mankiller, past chief of the Cherokee, drove a Jeep "Cherokee Chief" and I am certain her choice would have been deliberate and taken in a sense of Native American humor. In the more traditional Native communities, you have "Redskins" memorabilia and fans, the politically correct arguments simply do not apply and in fact are never given a second thought.

The modern racial stereotypes are so patently preposterous to the original Native American mindset, the racial ideas are not worthy of consideration beyond Indian humor:

Why don't Indians marry Blacks? Because we'd have children too lazy to steal!

Of course Native Americans do sometimes marry Blacks. The point of the humor is actually built into world-view where human experience has an aspect that is a cosmic joke, in a mental construct that does not suffer ego in a sense of the western mentality. The preceding joke is actually funny in the original Native context and its only bearing on Race is pointing out the idiocy of racial stereotype and the falseness of any cultural ego behind the very idea. The American Indian deity of many tribes, "Old Man", serves as an ego buster in a culture where ego as the western personality knows it, is historically considered to be more than undesirable, it is a mental disorder based in self-illusion: When Old Man knelt to drink, he saw cherries over his head and forgetting he had knelt to drink, he reached for these cherries in the reflection!

Of course Old Man, fooled by the illusion and consequently wet from head to toe, looked like an idiot.

Racial affronts are grounded in the ego of non-indigenous cultures and the essential concept in and of itself, cannot find traction in original Native worldview and thought. The very idea of Race is equivalent to reaching for cherries in the reflection. The alien concept of self-importance is the ultimate underlying cultural principle in the Blackfoot proverb Everyone knows the Whiteman is crazy. Old Man the fool, Napi to the Blackfeet, and the "Napi" in the Blackfoot expression "Napi Kwan" that translate as White Man, are one and the same.

Were original Native thought process applicable to African origins, Chimpanzees, Gorillas and Baboons would be perceived in the community as magnificent creatures. The stupid primates would be those people who were possessed of European mentalities looking down on these sentient beings which, in Native view, possess a greater practical social intelligence than those who would consider these creatures as lesser to humans.

That all life stands on par with humanity is not exclusive to original Native American philosophy it would appear; this author has read of a Black African tribe, living in proximity to Chimpanzees, know the Chimpanzees as "people of the forest", indicating other "non-mainstream" cultures perceive their living surroundings in a similar, non-egoic light.

A different perception to the modern, for certain.

Note: Authentic Native American philosophy has, for the most part, been boarded schooled, uncle tom-tom'd (stereotyped), and "native studied" out of existence (in precisely that order.) In the present time, relating to any politically correct western anthropology program with the "native studies' euphemism, it is the western ideas are coming to dominate the native perception of themselves. With the loss of language & oral tradition in the original form ("Native Studies' in the western university system reflects this loss"), these people don't even know who they were anymore.

jews turned Anthropocentrism into a verb coterminous with monetization.

Marx kept faith with exactly that ethically void 'anything goes' (wat een gek ervoor betaalt) runaway train first boarded by mesopotamians who fled and/or ventured forth from birthgrounds and birthplaces in order to conquer and/or buy, occupy and/or turn into a 'bio'-industrial pigsty (incubating 'poplosions', plagues and stampedes) one region after another.

This cult institutionalized their 'abarts' of tearing worlds asunder and into parts (i don't need to remind educated chinese people of the opium wars do i?) so firmly it matters not they aren't themselves any more .. anymore than china managed to respect and keep alive a diverse mosaic of ethnics and ecologies without sacrificing most of it to endlessly rekindled wars.

they 'underline' their doctrine in most cruel and incisive ways possible; the self-traumatization of circumcision is an abuse of leverage and multiplication of imposition powers which appears to be an inversion of what Pierre Clastres explains deep but not genital, thus less vital scarring to mean, resistance to too large, strong and extensive type bonds; resistance to delegation, command structured spikery of sociographics

Anthropocentrization pretends figure is ground enough, it prefers and favors lateral moves over and at the expense of vertical / radical / radial ones, but to erect a cross erection of a plumb straight support comes, indispensably, first, .. indepenence comes before sharing, ... rock into soil before fruit to frienemy

.. It would be better to gift germany with a statue of Julius Hensel, John D Hamaker ... make lots and lots of liddul ones from finest fresh dust, to quickly weather into and feed soil life, whence / hence all life. It would be the crown on your efforts to give meaning to inclusiveness. Don't let the dark diviners like these below, able to, in a while, say i told you so:

ECOVILLAGE BRASIL - On the path to the sustainability of the being ---- 569 views --- Ecovilas Brasil - Dec 19, 2016
The documentary directors of "ECOVILLAGE BRAZIL - ON THE PATH TO THE SUSTAINABILITY OF THE BEING" visited 10 places to understand what aspects and values Ecovillages are bringing to humanity and how they can contribute to a paradigm shift of our civilization model.

In 1998, Ecovillages were officially named by the UN as one of the 100 best practices for Sustainable Development. The film addresses a vision of integral sustainability, in its economic, ecological, social and world view dimensions. Moving on to topics such as permaculture, forms of governance, decision making, leadership, shared economy and conflict resolution.

With a light script, accessible and at the same time with deep content, the documentary demystifies and clarifies many aspects of community life, through testimonies of those who live this experience, showing that it is possible, feasible and even close to our daily life a more sustainable path, starting from another point of view, no longer of competition or separation but of collaboration and in common union.

The whole project was carried out in a collaborative way, from the capture of resources through a crowdfunding by the platform O Sujeito - Catarse, to all the production made with the collaboration of friends, partners and Producer ITmix. In this year 2017, after another successful crowdfunding campaign, a book based on the experience of the film Ecovillage Brazil will be released with even more content, contributing to the deepening and development of this theme in Brazil.

Forty million Americans driven from their lands; rural culture crushed; and wildlife, forests, and rangelands dying--an investigative reporter documents the destructive impact of the environmental movement in North America and beyond.

. Journalist Elizabeth Nickson was forced to subdivide her small forest on Salt Spring Island in the Pacific Northwest. To do so, she needed the Islands Trust to grant her the "right" to build one more house on her twenty-eight acres. Her long and expensive struggle with the radical greens led her to investigate the broader impact of the environmental movement on ordinary men and women in North America and around the world.

Marshall McLuhan Writes Ezra Pound About Secret Societies

<https://ionandbob.blogspot.nl/2018/05/marshall-mcluhan-writes-ezra-pound.html>

Dear Pound

Last year has been spent in going through the rituals of secret societies with fine comb. As I said before I'm in a bloody rage at the discovery that the arts and sciences are in the pocket of these societies. It doesn't make me any happier that Joyce, Lewis, Eliot, yourself have used these rituals as a basis for art activity.

Monopolies of knowledge are intolerable;

The use of the arts for sectarian warfare! ugh;

The use of the arts as a technique of salvation!

as a channel of supernatural grace!;

The validity of the rituals is entirely in the cognitive order;

|Art is limitation of the process of apprehension, clarification of " " " " " "

Now that I know of the nature of the sectarian strife among the Societies I have no intention of participating in it any further, until I know a good deal more. To Hell with East and West.

2014 Valedictory Speech by Nadim Diab

Deans, invited guests, faculty members, families and friends: Welcome.

Two years ago we embarked on an odyssey of epic proportions, setting sail for the promised land of knowledge and braving the high seas, searching for the light of learning. The journey was arduous and far from smooth sailing. We encountered tidal waves, endured gusty gales and withstood homesickness. There were starless nights and bleak days that caused our hopes of reaching shore to dwindle, and treacherous turbulence that set us off course. It is no secret that, at different junctions of time, we drifted upon the currents of the unknown, skeptical about whether we would ever make it through to our destination.

We've been navigating the waters for a long time now. But the voyage was blessed by tailwinds that propelled our boat onward and by beacons that lit the abyss looming ahead en route to enlightenment. We encountered the guiding hands of veteran men and women who shared their experience and imparted wisdom. They were our lifelines that we hung onto throughout our expedition until today.

Today marks the conclusion of our trek. Today, the ship safely moors at the dock. At last, we drop the anchor as we have finally -- victoriously -- reached our port of call, not a single man or woman left behind.

he ends with a phoney 'reserves' tale (47 of them covering 35% if you have to know) which potemkinizes (blocks view / taboos / blocks discussion of) the horribly effects of toxic mining [which] the conquerors have bestowed on 'their' willy now new nilly wards.

i do hope his focus remains tibet and regreening ... does he know John Liu for instance?

It is thought that this artifact is perhaps a piece of hardware, perhaps a coat hook. The Italian Hall's interior had many coat hooks and the depth of this coat hook in the ground, indicated that it was a historic artifact, likely from Italian Hall. The next step for this artifact is a good cleaning in the Tech's Industrial Archaeology lab to remove the rust and dirt from around the artifact.

Socialism for the Xi Cult is all about realizing the tekno dreams of Albert Speer and nothing about guaranteeing the masses of humanity comfort leisure adequate sleep time holidays warm homes good food health service liberty space for self determined fulfilling life. Only contempt for those who are suffering their gallstones or their COPD or their Crohns or their GID or their cancer without access to all these vaunted technical marvels socialist billionaires demand applause for providing planetary elites. is the xi cult much diff than any of the other dengist Chinese leaders? never noticed any Chinese premiers having American clerk cults before , though Mao of course had a certain mass-counterculture celebrity like Che .... Right i am a fan of Mao and i now he had a cult im just talking about the post-mao capitalist era what makes Xi any different? the @pslweb has made it part of their party mass line to uphold china as socialist post 79 and made cults out of each one as if they were mao's heirs. Well "upholding China as socialist post-79" is kind of meaningless but also not on its face unreasonable considering the country was not re conquered in a day. I never saw a Hu cult. Xi Cult is a kind of Obamamania/Syrizism: a right wing offensive disguised as left revival. The "anticorruption" campaign appears to have decapitated the left of the Party's wealthy elite (Bo) who seemed to favor a check on the dispossession of the masses and the integration into US empire. This complete pantomime of trade war, the coordinated predation on DPRK Zim etc, and the utter political moral decrepitude of their proZionist stance in these conditions of escalating extetminism are cloaked in lip service to celebrity Mao image the success is very striking just on here with formerly ferocious antizionists now sniffing at BDS, calling it off, and 'realizing' after all it's not fair to 'single out Israel.' Bug Music: How Insects Gave Us Rhythm and Noise

by David Rothenberg - Hardcover, 288 pages

Published April 16th 2013 by St. Martin's Press

3.18 Â Rating details Â 101 Ratings Â 30 Reviews

In the spring of 2013 the cicadas in the Northeastern United States will yet again emerge from their seventeen-year cycle - the longest gestation period of any animal. Those who experience this great sonic invasion compare their sense of wonder to the arrival of a comet or a solar eclipse. This unending rhythmic cycle is just one unique example of how the pulse and noise of insects has taught humans the meaning of rhythm, from the whirr of a cricket's wings to this unfathomable and exact seventeen-year beat.

In listening to cicadas, as well as other humming, clicking, and thrumming insects, Bug Music is the first book to consider the radical notion that we humans got our idea of rhythm, synchronization, and dance from the world of insect sounds that surrounded our species over the millions of years over which we evolved. Completing the trilogy he began with Why Birds Sing and Thousand Mile Song, David Rothenberg explores a unique part of our relationship with nature and sound - the music of insects that has provided a soundtrack for humanity throughout the history of our species. Bug Music continues Rothenberg's in-depth research and spirited writing on the relationship between human and animal music, and it follows him as he explores insect influences in classical and modern music, plays his saxophone with crickets and other insects, and confers with researchers and scientists nationwide.

This engaging and thought-provoking book challenges our understanding of our place in nature and our relationship to the creatures surrounding us, and makes a passionate case for the interconnectedness of species.

I have to admit that I was hoping for a more anecdotal and less scientific account, but this book offers a mixture of both. It's an entertaining book and when my eyes weren't glassed over by the numerous sonograms, graphs, diagrams, and musical scores, I was very engaged by the narrative.

OK " what was the date that Pol Pot's name first appeared in the New York Times? Answer " August 1, 1976.

The name did not appear again in the Times until May 2, 1977. The name Saloth Sar first appeared in the times first in November 1973, and appeared three more times until the end of 1976.

Between April 17, 1975 (liberation of Cambodia) and May 2nd, 1977 (the 2nd time Pol Pot's name appeared in the times), there were 1074 articles in the New York Times about Cambodia. So what does this say of your claim that Pol Pot had a "personality cult"? Pol Pot had the exact opposite of a personality cult, in his opinion, the less the American press wrote about him the better. He also had nothing approaching a personality cult in Cambodia, I'm sure a good number of Cambodians had no idea who he was.

The idea that Pol Pot was a mass murderer is equally ridiculous. That propaganda campaign went out the window as soon as the Vietnamese invaded Cambodia in 1979 anyway, and the US began fighting to let DK keep its seat at the UN. I guess now that that "problem" is gone they are trying to revive it or something.

The main thing the cult of "Cambodian genocide" people hang their case on is the Cambodian census. The problem is the last census done in Cambodia prior to 1979 was in 1962. And the last census done after that was in 1998. Even if you put aside the idea that the Vietnamese could have been politically motivated in their 1980 demographic survey, which was not a census and involved a lot of guess work, you must take account of factors from 1962 to 1980. Such as that the US air force dropped over half a million tons of bombs on Cambodia during that time period, probably killing hundreds of thousands (no one knows, all the studies have been in how many people the evil Khmer Rouge killed, not the brave, God-fearing US pilots). Or that one reason the population was lower was due to refugees going to Thailand and Vietnam and whatnot " how many? Who knows?

The US government and corporate media gets kudos for its "Cambodian genocide" propaganda (which ended promptly in 1979, when the Cambodians became angels again), but the case for it falls very flat when one looks at the evidence. The KR's real crime was not having as good a PR department that was focused on western liberals as the NLF did. ----- - Lance

With George W. Bush making war on the world, it amazes me that the mostly white yuppie denizens that inhabit this list are spending their time bashing one of the gears of his "axis of evil". Then again, maybe it doesn't. Some conservative was recently telling me how horrible North Korea's dictatorship was, so I asked him if he supported the South Korean dictatorship of Park Chunghee. He'd never heard of him, he simply informed me that South Korea was free since we helped "liberate" it in the 1950's. From the US media, or sources like this list, I could see the information that South Korea was a dictatorship for decades would never be discussed, and might even be disputed if brought up. Countries that are not autonomous are not free. Thus, the only list we can look at to consider if a non-industrialized country is free or not is that of the US list of "rogue nations". This list in hand, we can go down the list and see if any of them are free. In the US hagiography, Guatemala is more of a free country right now than Cuba. It has "free elections" after all, right?

I see a lot of whining about WWP. This seems to be because the WWP is actually out doing stuff - organizing anti-war demonstrations, solidarity with countries on the Bush's hit list and so forth. Actually getting off your ass and doing something instead of going to the Socialist Scholars Conference and pontificating on Zizek's latest development on the connection between Lenin and post-modernism must rile the white yuppies who are being shown up by people out on the street actually doing stuff. The WWP is not a large group - but they get a lot done because they go out and do things instead of sitting around bullshitting. I think people here are bitter they can't replace David Corn appearing on "The O'Reilly Factor" so that Fox News viewers could be informed that the anti-war demonstrations were all being run by commies.

In a just world, white liberal yuppies would have to go to North Korea, Cuba, Guatemala, Colombia, Palestine and so forth and get down on their knees and beg the workers there for forgiveness for what they and their government have been doing to them. I'm sure the Rothschild's usury in Europe had negative effects on the borrowers, but I wouldn't feel pleasant sitting among the Nazi high command and looking for the speck in the Jews, or the Russians eyes during the 1930s. While you white yuppie liberals and "progressives" sit around wringing your hands about the WWP and North Korea, I'm going to go down and help them in their solidarity efforts to Colombia and other places. You can sit on your asses and wring your hands and go on Fox News and criticize the people out doing something.

Yes, it is. However would you agree that there can be no genuine discussion if a criticism is responded to with a counter-criticism? If I criticize Castro, or any other politician or country, and then you respond by saying that the person or country I support is worse, then you are just skirting the issue. It will just turn into a volley of criticisms. Some people will always respond to a criticism of North Korea by saying, "well, at least they are not imperialist like the US." That is indeed true, but does it follow from that that my criticism of North Korea is any less valid. This rhetorical tactic of shifting the focus of a conversation away from the country/ideologue being criticized is used far too often, especially by those apologists for "real socialism", to divert any criticism of those countries (past and present). ----- Thomas ===== <<Be like me! I agree with Lance. I'm still pretty optimistic about the possibilities of radical social change, although I've been frustrated with the post-9/11 downturn in dissent. It's entirely possible that this downturn may have happened without 9/11 as the intensity of the post-Seattle movement would have burned people out.

There are plenty of signs that the left, generally speaking, is growing in the U.S. I think many of these people tend to shun labels or affiliations at this point. There hasn't been any growth among the old school sectarian groups, despite the pretenses they put up.

The anarchist movement, and the number of non-movement, anarchists continues to grow. My role as an anarchist organizer is a 24/7 job that I don't always do very efficiently. Still, these days I'm more likely to hear from anarchists in offbeat places. The biggest anarchist newsmaking event this week was a feisty protest in Houston, Texas. And I'll be attending an anarchist conference in South Dakota later this year! ----- Chuck

Even when I don't respond to him, the festering, roiling madman Lacny can't desist from his obsession with me. He accuses me of being a "nut" and a Usenet addict, yet he

(a) initiated this whole dialogue with me from out of nowhere and

(b) maniacally perpetuates this one.

Just to clarify Lacny's latest sallies into fantasyland: if anyone doubts the veracity of my characterization of Lacny as a Stalinist, I invite anyone who might be interested (and I can't imagine who would be) to go to www.deja.com, click on "Usenet," and then go to "Power Search." Then fill in the appropriate categories: Author--Lacny; Forum--alt.politics.socialism.trotsky; Key words--variously "icepick," "Trotskyite wreckers," and "Khrushchev." You will find that I have been utterly scrupulous and exact in my reporting of Lacny's classically Stalinist views.

Moreover, you are further invited to apply the same methodology to my comments about the policy of Michael Gavin's group--the British Socialist Workers Party--about North Korea. Contrary to the malicious and intentional lie desperately hurled above by the foaming Lacny, I have never supported any aspect of the regime in North Korea. I do support the idea, however, that when any Third World Country is attacked by an imperialist power, one should defend the people of that country--not its regime--against such attack. Gavin's group at the time did not defend the Korean people against imperialist attack. The proper policy was to defend the Korean workers and policies against both the (a) the tyranny of Stalinism and (b) imperialist aggression. The forebears of the SWP did (a) but not (b), therefore calling down the justifiable scorn of large segments of the left.

You have not seen the last of Lacny's lies. He is still nursing his insensate rage over my effective discrediting of his Stalinist treachery in APST, and his whole life is reduced to a simmering, devouring vexation as he awaits opportunities to flame me on Usenet. He is like the protagonist from Dostoevsky's Notes from Underground. Bumped by an anonymous pedestrian on the street one day, the protagonist is consumed with humiliation and rage for a year as he summons the courage and opportunity to find the man on the street and bump him back. Such is the sad story of Lacny's life these days. It takes all kinds. -- Michael Pugliese

I also explain that you can visit: www.AllAllahNames.com to see that 'Sheet' in Real-time. There are over 5000 different Names & Attributes of Allah in the entire Quran. You may have noticed that God's names are pretty long and of many sizes therein, because Allah SWT Names & Attributes do not follow the rules of Anthroponymy. Which is the study of the names of human beings like how we have names and certain attributes. Since Allah SWT is NOT a human being, rules of Anthroponymy do not apply to him.

Dear Pound,

Last year has been spent in going through the rituals of secret societies with fine comb. As I said before I'm in a bloody rage at the discovery that the arts and sciences are in the pocket of these societies. It doesn't make me any happier that Joyce, Lewis, Eliot, yourself have used these rituals as a basis for art activity.

Monopolies of knowledge are intolerable;

The use of the arts for sectarian warfare! ugh;

The use of the arts as a technique of salvation!

as a channel of supernatural grace!;

The validity of the rituals is entirely in the cognitive order;

|Art is limitation of the process of apprehension,

clarification of " " " " " "

Now that I know of the nature of the sectarian strife among the Societies I have no intention of participating in it any further, until I know a good deal more. To Hell with East and West.

Kicking off the Herbert Marshall McLuhan Centennial year, this discussion will separate the aphorism from the cliché in one of McLuhan's most radical yet relatively under-explored works, COUNTERBLAST. Two very different versions of this text exist, the full 1969 edition produced in collaboration with Harley Parker, and the biting never-before published manifesto McLuhan distributed as a hand-made 'zine' in 1954. Using the visual language and modes of production of each to illustrate McLuhan's transition from English professor to timeless media guru, the panelists will examine the two versions in the context of their time and relevance to media culture today.

10 types of Rainbow People:

1. The experienced: "I have been to 150 rainbows since 1972. I personally know this and that guy and the holy spirit has changed since then. The new generation sucks"
2. The butterfly girl: she looks like she loves you, you actually hugged yesterday evening and had deep conversation but today she is kissing someone else. Dammit.
3. The antispiritual: "Why should we circle before the food? Lets just eat. I dont want my right hand to touch their left hand. Thats how they wipe"
4. The sex guru: she tells everyone that she has years in orgasm teaching just to sleep with you. When you are ready to come, she punches you in the face. At least you lasted longer.
5. The first timer: "Wow. This is so nice. And that is so nice. Can I make a photo? My instagram is private, only selected people will see"
6. The mother: she cooks, she cleans, she hugs, she smiles, she cares. She gets mad if you steal a cucumber from the kitchen.
7. The focaliser: he finds the place, works hard, builds, brings people together, but when everything is fine, he doesnt touch anything again. When people complain he takes it personally.
8. The parking people: they stay in the parking, listen to the radio and eat canned food. They coome every 3 days and stay for 2-3 hours before going back. They like the between of babylon and rainbow.
9. The "disco-disco party-party": they come only for the full moon, never cook, never help, just dance all day under the magic influence. At least they contribute good in the magic hat.
10. The lawyer: has a rainbow guidebook and refers to the concensuses of every gathering. Might get promoted to a Rainbow Police at anytime.
11. The silent: never speaks, never eats, never dances. Has the tent 3km away from the fire.
12. The guy with a shirt and no pants. I love you but it doesnt look good

Michael Topper and his wife echo those themes in Topper's peculiar prose. The theme of dark path beings thriving on fear, even to the point of inducing fear in people, extracting chemicals that fear produces in the human body, then bathing in it, are in Topper's writings.[13]

The Soul Of China: Buddhism the Power behind the Chinese Communist Party

When the West corrupts Chinese Buddhism in China the Chinese Communist Party will collapse: Listen up Chinese Communist Party this <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tsVb6qEzEpl> so called hermits, ancient China have a name for this people and the shaolin call them Japanese pirates and with just one French coca cola they will turn against the Chinese Communist Party and just like the fall of the previous Dynasty will suck Jesus balls. Monks are still people and they can be tempted if they live a very hard and inefficient lifestyle when the very destructive and wasteful Western lifestyle comes in. Remember how dangerous feudal Tibet was because compared with Japan Tibet had thousands of very organized Feudal Lords and if the West barged in and liberate them then you will have a more robust and obedient indigenous Tibetans compared to Japan which has so many people from Southeast Asia and India. If those highly disciplined Tibetan monks were armed they would have swept across China and become a better samurai than those Japanese who could not control most of their soldiers. The hierarchy of Buddhism from the most cruelest or most inefficient to the most ideal 1.) Tibetan Buddhism where non noble males are forced into celibacy 2.) Angkor Wat 3.) North Korea 4.) Thailand 5.) Confucius Imperial China. Angkor Wat fell because they never developed ancestry worship and just like the Aztec when the West comes in the population simply left the temples and its communities. When Buddhism cannot develop its talented people descending into a loop of monk rituals because they lack innovation and fail to develop a system of administration an outside force can easily overpower them. This is what's happening with <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=382VklGpDai> Thailand now with Mitt Romney's Japanese media slandering Thailand Buddhism. Thailand Buddhism is slowly being defeated by the West because it does not have an educational system to create and effect their spirituality into administrative efficiency. Confucius, its schools and the civil service exams is better than the Western system and Lao Tzu never walked aimlessly begging for food but rather was himself a Chinese Government Official. As North Korea develops a decade from now their soldiers will no longer be as monotonous as they are now and the next generation will have diversity getting employed into various hi tech and government departments and Thailand will be left behind as their monks go wild and abandon Buddhism when they are outside Thailand. Chinese Buddhism focus on diversity incorporating everybody all under heaven and allowing Communities and renowned families and leaders to thrive and lead their people to prosperity. Thailand never had renowned generals, scholars, inventors because they have no administration and like Vietnam easily corrupted by the fake US dollar. Stalin, Karl Marx, Lenin who are these little people!? They never mattered in China, it was all under heaven thus socialism is compatible with Buddhism. Those Wudan, Shaolin, Tia Chi etc., who run China and deal with the people directly keeping order and harmony have no time to protect decadent Westernized Landlords. Japan on the otherhand is not a Buddhist country they answer to Mitt Romney and they only use Buddhism as a mafia to take over their neighbors government. ----- Johannes of course the movement (inspired by the anastasia series, a russo equivalent of the tolkien one without all the drama, although the micro world is just as 'moving' if not more of course) was well underway without and before the landgrants:

THE SOCIOECONOMIC AND CULTURAL SIGNIFICANCE OF FOOD GARDENING IN THE VLADIMIR REGION OF RUSSIA

Leonid Sharashkin ----- ABSTRACT

Russia's family gardens currently produce over half of the country's agricultural output and represent a major sector of the country's economy, involving two thirds of the population. Despite this prominence, household gardening has been viewed as a recent phenomenon, an adjunct to the country's industrial agriculture, or a temporary response to the hardships of Russia's economic transition. However, this study of the current status of family agriculture, Russia's agrarian history, and the results of a 2006 survey of 1,500 families in the Vladimir region, show that gardens not only perform a wide range of economic, social, and cultural functions, but also represent a highly sustainable practice embedded in the region's - and the country's - environmental, socioeconomic, and cultural context.

The survey offers detailed information on the economic, agricultural, social, and cultural dimensions of gardening in the Vladimir region, including respondents' adherence to a wide range of agrarian values. Based on the results, family gardening can be seen as a highly sustainable, diversified, and culturally important practice, which needs to be given due consideration by scholars and policy-makers.

Russia's experience shows that food gardening even as a leisure activity can be highly beneficial and productive, and the development and encouragement of similar practices in the U.S. may offer similar benefits.

I would like to conclude with a quote from a famous Russian proponent of healthy living through closeness with nature, Porfirii Ivanov. He wrote: "Separate not your thought from your deeds. It's good that you've read this, but it would be much better if you acted on what you've read!" In my research, I have witnessed that many a Russian family do not diverge in their actions from their tradition-honored aspiration to live a good life in harmony with Mother Earth. Come spring, millions of hands touch the earth, and it sprouts billions of shoots. Today, as a thousand years ago, Russians "have their food from the earth." And the light flows on.

other than the year older post with a translated manifesto / program from the 'motherland party', there's no news there .. not twotter links no nothin ... odd for a global network ... hope that NZ lady is well and safe.

sam roberts ----- 2 years ago -- Hello, I am probably the Australian who is mentioned in the Ringing Cedar Series and this is the book that Anastasia asked me to write (you may need to download the pdf to view properly).

Could you please pass this on around your community in the hope that it reaches Anastasia. Thankyou.

Book 3. The Space of Love. The Spirit of a foremother.

"Indeed, others had been saying earlier that there was a young man in Australia who was worthy of me, that he and I would meet."

"In the book you are going to write, Vladimir, there will be unobtrusive combinations, formulations made up of letters, and they will arouse in the majority of people good and radiant feelings. These feelings are capable of overcoming ailments of body and soul, and will facilitate the birth of a new awareness inherent in people of the future. Believe me, this is not mysticism - it is in accord with the laws of the Universe." Anastasia.

Daniel Troger ----- 2 years ago -- +sam roberts Hello, let me just say: WOW! I hope I'll find the time some day to read your book.... Have you written all this by yourself?! I'm just asking because I don't see you stated as author anywhere... Still: wow! So.... Have I understood it right, that there first are just definitions or... let me say explanations and then at page 186 the real book starts? Or are there two books?? Don't really get it. And what are they about? The russian PDF seems to only contain all the definitions?

And, ehm, may I also ask when Anastasia told you to write it and about what?

If you want to reach Anastasia, I think the best way would be to write to Megre's Information Department and ask them to forward the letter to Vladimir. Sure, I also could post this in some of the facebook groups, but for all that, may I just ask what the book is about?

This month the QGR team is taking time to enjoy Design In Nature: How the Constructal Law Governs Evolution in Biology, Physics, Technology, and Social Organizations by Adrian Nejan & J. Peder Zane .

And, truly, "paradigm-shifting book" is an understatement.

â€œ

"Everything - from biological life to inanimate systems - generates shape and structure and evolves in a sequence of ever-improving designs in order to facilitate flow. River basins, cardiovascular systems, and bolts of lightning are very efficient flow systems to move a current - of water, blood, or electricity. Likewise, the more complex architecture of animals evolve to cover greater distance per unit of useful energy, or increase their flow across the land. Such designs also appear in human organizations, like the hierarchical "flowcharts" or reporting structures in corporations and political bodies. All are governed by the same principle, known as the constructal law, and configure and reconfigure themselves over time to flow more efficiently. Written in an easy style that achieves clarity without sacrificing complexity, Design in Nature is a paradigm-shifting book that will fundamentally transform our understanding of the world around us."

The gate of the Mysterious-Female is called the root of Heaven and Earth. It is unceasing and continuous, and its operation never wears out.

http://www.goldenelixir.com/jindan/ruyao\_jing\_1.html

So why is it called the Mysterious-Female if it is Yang Qi as Yuan Qi?

Because alchemically the Positive Fire as Yang Qi has an inner "Female" that must descend while the Earth as yin has an inner "male" that must ascend.

It can be said that the ancestral cavity is the mysterious entrance that humanity must pass through during self-cultivation, but the mysterious entrance is not inside the body, and the ancestral cavity is not outside the body. ////

But this process takes "place" in the 5th dimension that is non-local - as TIME - as listening or logical inference.

<http://qianfengdaoismuk.weebly.com/daoist-meditation-stills-and-calms-the-mind.html>

You must unify your will (concentrate yourself). Do not listen to it with your ears but rather listen to it with your mind. Do not listen to it with your mind, but rather listen to it with your qi. ...Qi however is something that is empty and waits for things. Only the Dao gathers where it is empty.
Zhuang Zhou, Zhuangzi chapter 4

The heart is called Yi because when intent moves, spirit is agitated; qi is dispersed. Qi is the Mother of spirit; Spirit is the child of qi.

So Yang Shen creates yuan jing. Yin qi creates yang qi - also called "positive generative force" or "positive vitality" or positive fire or prenatal vitality (yuan qi). Yuan qi activates Yuan Shen which is still a Yin Shen. The yin qi also has yin shen. So the Hun Soul of the liver is a yin shen and the Po Soul of the lungs is a yin shen.

So the spirit of the Earth is a Yin spirit but as the yin qi is converted to yuan qi - then white-yellow light of the Moon becomes Golden as the Yang shen.

This is what is being referred to - the golden light of the Yang Shen is created from the Yuan Jing by converting the yin qi into yuan qi.

Yin qi has no substance while Yang qi has substance as the alchemical pill since it creates yuan jing or original essence. This is why celibacy has to be maintained and purification and cleansing has to keep occurring.... And also if a person does create a yang shen - then it will not want to enter back into this body, once it leaves the body. So it has to be "trained" to enter back into the body - since there is still some demonic yin qi left in the body, even though the yang shen has been created. And so the Yuan Qi is what guides this whole process and then in the end the Yang Shen still vaporizes back into Yuan Qi. The Yuan Qi decides if the Yang Shen will manifest again - as a golden immortal body.

So the paradox being that the more immortal a person becomes, the less of an individual person or mind they have. It is an impersonal process of energy transformation. The Emptiness does the healing and transformations.

Daoist Diet of Avoiding Grains ----- Original Chinese Language Article By: Qianfeng Daoist Master Zhao Ming

Wang (èµµæ~žæ—°)

(Translated by Adrian Chan-Wyles PhD)

Some people have said that whilst practicing the special Daoist diet of "Bi Gu" (è¾¼ç²³) "or "not eating grains", they have lived for a year without having to eat or drink. Is this possible? In fact, Daoist self-cultivation is also known as "Hibernation Teaching" (è°—è—? "Zhe Cang) activity. This is the technique of intense cultivation of essential nature (jing), vital force (qi), and spirit (shen). When it is bright, such as in the time of the Autumn Moon, a practitioner withdraws from the world and stores the resultant energy in the dantian "or lower energy centre (two inches below the navel). This is the qi point for gathering true yang "or positive energy. This point (or cavity) has both an internal and external element, therefore it can also gather external yin and yang energy. This is where the immortal foetus takes root, which is nourished with internal energy (see: Chapter 14 of Charles Luk's Taoist Yoga), and becomes firmly fixed in the chamber. This requires a great effort that cannot be achieved in a single day. Zhao Bichen (1860-1942) achieved this state. He was the 11th generation descendent of the Dragon Gate (Longmen) School of Daoism "who then founded the Qianfeng Prenatal School (Forming the immortal foetus is returning to the pristine prenatal state which is non-thought, non-breath, non-pulse, and non-awareness of worldly existence). Zhao Bichen wrote the book entitled "The Secret Cultivation of Essential Nature and Eternal Life", which explains clearly the Qianfeng method in 16 chapters divided into four sections of effort.

What makes Humans "special" - Human Paradox of Rhythm and the Dendrophilia Hypothesis of W. Tecumseh Fitch, Ph.D. researcher professor --- To see "tree structures" where ever we go - especially musically and linguistically.....

This is his lecture. It is completely fascinating and backed up with lots of research.

I have argued that Darwin's model for language evolution, 'musical protolanguage,' suitably updated, provides a compelling fit to both the phenomenology of modern music and language, and to a wealth of comparative data.

EARTH MOTHER SACRED LANGUAGE:

A Key to Ancient Names Worldwide =- by Dr John J White, III (1939-2016)
This article introduces an elementary Earth Mother Sacred Language (EMSL) model that attempts to support the thesis that many of the ancient names found worldwide with great similarities can be explained as strings of God-related names. This approach to ancient names has a passing similarity to an exceptionally innovative book The Key by John Philip Cohane,<sup>1</sup> however both its genesis and its structure are unrelated. The author is a physicist, not a linguist, and the interesting characteristics of EMSL were the result of some shockingly simple discoveries from some minor linguistic inquiries. The whole idea is surely incorrect, but it satisfies The Rule! The Rule of the Venerable Ockam (nature is never frivolously complex) big time, and I currently have no sense of where its disastrous weaknesses occur. If I wasn't experiencing a similar success with the recognition of Earth Mother Culture Religious Symbols,<sup>2-6</sup> I think I would have withheld publication of this paper.

John Philip Cohane is an American archaeologist with Irish ancestry who published The Indestructible Irish in 1969, which included a proposed Mediterranean origin for the Irish. This was followed a few years later by the The Key in which he proposes a form of hyperdiffusion based on his view of global linguistic connections. If he was on thin ice with The Key, in my opinion, he fell through it with his third offering in 1977, Paradox: The Case for the Extraterrestrial Origin of Man - In The Key he touches on the subject of Atlantis when he claims that "much of Donnelly's research tends to support the major premise of this book" (p23).

This 7-part vid remixes a radio broadcast called "Cash Flow" with James Martinez, aired on March 25, 2009. Though he claims his real name is Bob Dobbs, on "Cash Flow" the man known as "The Wizard of Media Ecology" speaks under the nym "Bob Neveritt" (he's never it), employing this device to minimize static from the SubGenii, who claim that J.R. "Bob" Dobbs is nothing but a clip-art head-shot of a beamish, avuncular man smoking a pipe; that Bob Dobbs stole his identity from them; and that his real name is Bob Deane.

man mediates one way or another .. it's never a 'to mediate or not to mediate' matter, but more like a 'to be decent or to not be decent' one; that fork for duh subject / figure [head] causes his [pow{d}er of] decision and decisiveness (onderscheid / entschluss are as much to be preferred as continentalism is over atlanticism - as long as seagoing is wrested from the feminine rule [see wabond account] by 'sex[ s]tream[ ] mists') to either harm or benefit life/lives from the tiniest ones on up cause it keeps the vertical line open (rradeality / radiality unreadilly dallied) and what's more, openING .. unlocksofely ..

Going from figure to new and better but also BACK TO ground requires composting perfection (no toxic residuals, cycle completely), however, McLuhan's trick of declaring a stray figure (failing to point this out and even actively betraying this loyalty, royalty, affiliation and allegiance) the new ground from a morphed and metastasized promontory / outlier of itself is going from bad to worse. He and Bob alike, secretly celebrate and indulge what they appear to lament and sanctimoniously, for alibi sake, warn about.

Have you ever heard of the I AM Activity, Guy Ballard, Edna Ballard, Godfre Ray King, Saint Germain, The Ascended Masters, Mt Shasta, The Great White Brotherhood?

Were you ever an I AM Student? Do you wonder why the magic you first felt when you became an I AM Student was gradually replaced with uncertainty, confusion, fear, loneliness? You are not alone.

Are you ready to stand with God and take a real honest look at the origins of the I AM Activity? In the year 2000, a book originally written in 1940 by an early I AM student, Gerald Bryan, was republished after being out of print for 60 years. If you are an I AM student, its insights into the Ballards will shock you.

I remembered a quote by astronomer, E. Hubble: "Equipped with our senses, man explores his universe around him and calls this adventure 'science'."

McLuhan adds media in the expanded exploration - the era of going to macro- and micro-visual space, subatomic particles to the cosmic, and metaverses of cyberspace (once visual space is completed) - calling the result "art."

The Bob era updates what Hubble and then McLuhan gathered: Equipped with the never-before uttered Non-Physical, Bob muffdives the Unenvironment and calls the rhapsody, "hypo-poetics."

The Origin of the Spiral in Nature -- 1963

Oil on canvas and painted wood -- 37 x 43 3/4 in. / 94 x 111 cm

Subject: The Pulsation of the Universe Symbol Evocation: The Interaction of Archimedean and Logarithmic Spirals

----- There is no such thing as simple stand-alone geometry. Geometry is always about more than simple geometry - Earth - and metria - measurement. What geometry really is is a method of describing the way the universe works.

Therefore, looking at the origin of the spiral is a way of assessing the conditions of the cosmos. The spiral is born of the desire the point and the circle have to become one, without becoming obliterated or obliterating the other. The force of the will of the originating point is expressed as a line that moves out from the point. The line's successive movement is a loosening outward from the originating point toward the pull of the circle, which causes it to curve in a spiraling action. An Archimedean spiral, also known as an arithmetic spiral, advances in this way as it approaches infinity, or the perfect circle that is the periphery of the cosmos. Of course, it is impossible to actually arrive at infinity and the edge of the cosmos, so the energy of the line moves back toward the originating point, this time in a logarithmic spiral that begins with an angular movement away from the circular curve. This movement is repeated along the line's course back to the originating point. Whereas the Archimedean spiral seeks the circle - and as such represents feminine energy - its inverse, the logarithmic spiral, seeks the straight line and the originating point - representing masculine energy. The two spirals are the paths of an out-and-back motion that represent....

on the accompanying illustration / exhibit, he calls concentricity 'point-order' and radiality 'point-chaos' a fibspi is a 'relaxing circle' and a coil 'pointactive'

McLuhan Way: In Search of Truth --- 626 views -- Deiren Masterson -- Jul 16, 2011 ----- A promotional clip for the award winning documentary McLuhan Way: In Search of Truth which explores the influence of faith on the ground breaking media work of Marshall McLuhan Produced by Deiren Masterson, founder of Relative Strangers Interactive and Masterworks Productions.

Once dubbed the high priest of the electric age, Marshall McLuhan found fame coining truth in our time: "The global village" and "the medium is the message" were both products of his formidable and complex mind. Often leaving people as bewildered as they were enlightened, it is irrefutable that many of McLuhan's visions of a future transformed by electric media have proven prophetic.

An entire aspect of McLuhan's life is routinely ignored by those who often hail or revile him for his status as a prophet of modern media studies. The fact is McLuhan spent the majority of his career teaching and theorizing out of a converted coach house in the back of St. Michael's College in Toronto, Canada. McLuhan was a Catholic and a convert, "the worst kind" he would jokingly say. As his biographer Philip Marchand put it, "faith was number one" on his list of priorities. As much as McLuhan took care to keep faith a private matter, particularly in the public scrutiny of his work, the paradox is his faith was "in fact the basis of his work", as Marchand explains in the film. McLuhan sought out truths behind the laws of media, and came to his faith on those same terms.

The 7 Ss of Co-creation by Barbara Marx Hubbard --- Syntony: attunement with the patterns of creation experienced as one's own inner motivation and intuition.

Synergy: the coming together of separate parts to form a new whole different from, greater than and unpredictable from the sum of its parts.

Synchronicity: the apparent a-causal relationship among events; coincidences that could not be planned by human mind but that appear to flow from a larger and more comprehensive design.

Supraxes: the passion to express unique creativity, stimulated by vocational arousal, comparable to sexuality at the next level; instead of joining genes to procreate, we join genius to co-create "to give birth to our greater Self and to our work in the world.

Syntropy: nature's tendency to form whole systems of greater complexity, consciousness and freedom; evolution's tendency to optimize.

Spontaneity: the experience of unpremeditated action and thought that flows naturally without thinking or planning; action that is on the mark, which facilitates and coordinates life.

Self-creativity: the tendency in nature to organize itself; autopoiesis; the inherent capacity in nature to self-organize without apparent outside manipulation, springing from the field of Universal Intelligence out of which everything is arising.

Syntony ----- "This term, coined by Eric Jantsch in his book Design for Evolution, described one of the ways of accessing conscious evolution, as mentioned earlier. The relationship between the cosmic design and the individual intensifies through some form of syntony or resonance. Syntony feels like guidance, intuition, or direct knowing. We do not have to figure out what to do. We know. We perform with spontaneous right action. The inner world of subjective experience and the outer world of objective reality blend and become one. We and the world "outside us" are interconnected in one larger field of intelligence. The great flashes of awareness that mystics have experienced throughout history are reinforced and normalized. Each of us becomes more attuned to the deeper patterns; intuition and intellect blend. The mystical state becomes grounded and manifested in spirit-motivated social action." Fred Meagher-- One Magnetic Circle -- Nov 21 Alliance Plenary --- Forum ---- Chaup is the local Kuumeyaay Indian name of a 'ball lightning' manifestation; a fire that burns without consuming; very similar to a burning bush. Like Kachina Entities and the Elohim of whom it is said Jehovah was one; these beings/forces were known to respond to human evocation at the proper times and places. Ball lightning is still unexplained in current physics; as is consciousness for that matter. Having had manifestations of these Beings including an image in the photo sphere of the Sun from the SOHO observatory mimicking my reading moments before, to an actual fireball floating over the trees tracked by the Cuyamaca fire department, I can say I have an opinion on these manifestations; channeling I know nothing about.

The existence of plasma beings in various forms can be found in mythologies from every corner of the earth. Djinn, Elohim, Nagas, Kachina, Kahunas, Taathua Danaan, and so on were seen and called on since humans began. I believe They are the origins of the ideas of gods; but are a mystery far greater than myth or physics can indicate. Residual ghosts of humans were only a fifth of the spiritual dimensions of the Tibetan Buddhist cosmology. There are the worlds of the Spirits of Animals, the world of Ghosts and Demons, the World of Humans, Demi-gods and the realm of the Gods Themselves. These energy force Entities seem to be the background for all these beings/phenomenon. I have personal stories of numerable contacts with beings of this nature, human ghosts I know nothing about. Here is a bit of Clark Maxwell's thinking about all this, a founder of modern physics, and a mystic to boot:

WHAT KIND OF LOGIC DO YOU HAVE?

This post is also available in: German, Albanian, Turkish

Do not forget that this probability is the result of a single table. If we calculated the probability of all the phenomena related to 19 in the Quran, the number would be astronomical. This probability is much smaller than finding one single grain of sand after hiding it somewhere in the world. And it is even smaller than finding a piece of an atom randomly, after hiding it in a galaxy somewhere in the universe. The number of particles of the atoms in the universe is thought to be 1080. If we brought all the tables related to 19 together, the probability of forming a mathematical pattern coincidentally like the one we have would be even smaller than 1/1080.

We wonder what kind of logic you might have. Do you think that the Prophet was the first inventor of the computer, or that he was hiding a computer in the sand dunes of the desert in order to perform a miracle like this? Or do you think that we should accept a probability smaller than one over the total of all sub-atomic particles in the universe in order to ignore the Quran's miracle? Or will you accept this great miracle of the Quran and appreciate that all humans and jinns could not compose anything like it, even if they worked together? What kind of logic do you possess? What kind of logic would you prefer to possess?

88- Say, "If all the humans and the jinns came together in order to produce a Quran like this, they would surely fail, no matter how much assistance they lent one another." ----- 17-The Children of Israel, 88

THE ULTIMATE ASSERTION: EVIDENCE OF SUPERNATURAL DESIGN IN THE DIVINE PROLOGUE

Abstract - Our Bibles are translations of early documents written largely in Hebrew and Greek. Both languages are alphanumeric, i.e. their letters may be fairly read as numerals, and words as their sums. It is here demonstrated that the seven words of the Hebrew Bible's first verse are far more informative than has previously been supposed. They feature several one-of-a-kind numbers and imposing structures of coordinated numerical geometries; these provide persuasive support for this strategically-placed and powerful assertion, and thereby ratify it, and all that follows.

This is made clear in the next diagram where we observe first,  $T(10) = 55$  uniting with an inverted copy of itself to yield the pair  $37/73$ , i.e.  $H(4)/S(4)$  and again,  $T(7) = 28$  generating the pair  $19/37$ , i.e.  $H(3)/S(3)$  by the same means. However, triangles are again involved in the basic structures of these figures. Such are appropriately termed elemental(e-)triangles and in the foregoing instances are  $T(3) = 6$  and  $T(2) = 3$ , respectively.

word values of the first Bible sentence:  $[J] = [55, 719, 58, 70, 373, 31, 70, 373, 58, 450, 420, 134, 31, 284, 58, 70, 373] = [3627]$ to claire, molly and kristin:

yesterday, kin 161, kruiswijk, tour de france participant, runs a very heavy stage with 3 peaks mostly by himself ahead, 3 minutes lead left before the last climb, beaten by 6, ... the number he carries? 161!!!!!!!!!!!!

this is the morn i realize, or hear for the first time rather Mbappe pronounced 'papay' by Soral, here: <https://youtu.be/yGtDxTof2RU?t=1387>; the section is on race [s] in france <https://youtu.be/yGtDxTof2RU?t=1380>

some while before that he says Marie Le Pen pulled a 'jodenstreek' (means mischief or region about equally often in dutch) by 'punishing those who hurt her' .. that of course made think of you instantly Molly, cause isn't gods greater love for jews clear as plain as day by the amount they are plagued with 'involerts' of every description? 'i teaze whom i would have turn to me' as feminine adage and wile par excellence?

and you Claire, i have a strange tale for you too, you who combine rigour as well as fast/loose to 'numbonotions' (i variously called it stuff like numonotion and such but perhaps numbinotion is even better, do you feel adressed as numbinotesse?); you who gamble professionally and turn yourself into a globalist almanac strong enough to compete with big ball gamers, gimmersians and 'verdraaiboekers' [distortion brokers] from the saud white orb to a [thumbdrive laden?] soccerball (the receiver should have rattled it rite into the camera .....) cause George Webb can use a little more attention before that brings inevitable dangers and he begins to have enough had enoughts to join his brother on a mountain retreat ... leaving others to fight the faux .. which really don't have to be searched for ... i mean ... we see plenny of examples of people who don't use rock much less roll it when they say rock and roll is their profession ... or banging a rainbow drum, whatevs ...

the case is as follows .... halfway januari i decided to add a 4th marker to my date specs and do so manually since i don't use any preshaped agenda for my daily notes (i think i skipped only a few in many years).

so i started off typing the amount of days since mother's crossing with a number that was 249 out of whack for some reason and over the course of the year went forwards and backwards more than the few times i cared to check ... 255 and as much as 508 .. backwards.

low, it's good you did not approach me ... imagine, having to contend with someone who can keep up an error for half a year like that .... though i'd rather have your partner [k240 right?] to contend with than the soul scarring contact w k42 and k244 .. which was, lucky for them not reciprocal and for which they were not to blame. Did i encourage them to trangress against their parents? the first time it was exactly the opposite but the results undesirable; the second time a team of specialists had gathered evidence in at least 5 households w devastating effect. Whereas before kids went out of their way to catch of glimpse of me and/or inspire themselves off an imaginal me stretching forwards and backwards in time right along with them, at a loving distance one might say, exchanging a one syllable call here and there ... all that ....? It stopped.

My urge to move is amplified by the downright unhealthy water and air qualities especially when the weather extremes raging all around nip & nibble at the old trusty piety on the peat polder (pieties on the peats?) my car is STILL not legal .. it's been inching there though; almost all work done it seems but you know how old cars get .. and some in his collection (the fancier ones) are a rodent's gourmet it appears.

he survived an operation his twin bro did not (simultaneously) by subjecting his large cancer tumour to flushing with saline solution for a week before cutting more of it out; seems to have worked.

sent version differs a little, added blumenthal where he belongs ...

I don't see the "devil games" connection. Here are the facts: The grains were mixed with water, then that liquid was mixed with cement powder, then that concoction dried in the sun in an ice-cube tray to make little rock-like cubes which were then put in regular polluted water which was then "purified" of flouride, etc., and "energized". Not a reversal of anything mentioned in the Bible.

"Bread from Stones" is a book title from the 19th century by Hensel, you'd know that if you weren't so one way traffucky. Odd though, i hear about cement powder put in Pali drinking water by Zionists a day before your reply (in The Zionist Story docu 2009). i recall you and Ion reverse the hole and nothing but the whole biblehell / all bible books but not the details? the last 4 alineas are from Regina prophecy as popularized through Mexican author Antonio Velesca Pina: "In Mexico, for sure there are still some of those artifacts. Their shape is always like a pyramid, and its interior, a highly negativve energy is accumulated, that when being transmuted in positive, consitutes the Force with which it is possible to break the prison of the moon."

a thinly veiled nod to the type of sacrificial bloodlet altarity which takes a queen to preside over and sign off on perfectly believably ... with perfect believability.

i'll leave you all to the diagonal bits ... wouldn't want to get you too close to the 'hellend vlak' .. hah!

as far as a symbol signifies a hope / ambition / intent / direction that turns 'verzetten van zinnen' (sumtin nice) to it's in-, ob-, trans- and most of all perverse ... let me illustrate .. after some dry formulaeizzumz:

'verzet tegen zin' ('simnut' defaitistic / traitorous, injurious, etc), de tegenzin betrokken bij zinnen op iets zetten (hard to keep intent untainted by resentment, suppression of which is the fuel to inflict install tranfer and spread it).

the car to the star (care to stare thru me lense hey?) earlier today i scolded a rightie on eco matters vid, pasted below .. and his starry eyed groce over estimation typical of the venturesome nomansland conqueror, often squeezed out by nothing more than better equipped but equally hi testy bands, armies and gone bad dabcompanies ... even if they all go offensive only ever so slightly (leave it to mommy to have her kids lay and pour into each other, feistiness and finality determined to not inconsiderable extent by the luxury of toxing up to the point the changes of having a monetizable savant arise from the pool of utterly damaged and broken off- and 'forthspring'.

or if they all go succesful with a rite of way, that inches into marginal lands and turns deserts into lush and lively, iow, have a way to impose their garden manners (not to put an all too harsh mark on all who take a potshot into the dark - god knows it's child's play to have that result in a food for all beings producing park).

in practice however, behind the hype and pep and ad verse teasing (just add horn, toottoot, cheeky toet sells all) there's the death rattles and roars hidden in plain sight cause in the end, there's nothing you can do when planet earth is thru.

So whittle at it with eco no miserly moderation, you can take on, not over but on .. some weatherchores and there'll be no nasty suprisers and sudden bursts if you do the raw finery with a rubberroll, buff per spin and mud per basin (backyard size ... a sight for sore todds and elders eyes alike).

if you've never heard of Molly Klein, you must remedy that, this from here fingertips .. some passages from the last 3 months where she throws 'Xi cult' into the mix (or manages to make of reconstituting veggies from the broth of her wroth rather):

These Xi cultists have a new kind of fascist mentality that delights in the masses being subjected to drudgery +exhaustion and life without pleasure to give a minority wonderful journeys on luxe trains that run on time. Their fascism isn't the point of view of The Biological Race but of the race of videogamers, mind-blind by habit (after all the things that they kill daily weren't ever living, but already dead labor they consume) and gazing upon their imaginary worlds like gods. It occurred to me why these hipsters delight so in stories from the pov of the supernumeries or minor characters, or toys, as if that premise itself is wildly clever. Because they are mind-blind habitually : out of the habit of imagining others' povs except insofar as they are the surveilling themselves, the panopticon and projected camera eye taking the selfie. In the first age of Euroempire, the pov of the servant and the socially marginalized was a typical focus of literature and perspectival reality the norm. *panopticon ----- This is how the Xi cult resignifies "communism" to mean it's very opposite, the sacrifice of anyone and everyone to the profits of the owners of capital . The complete disregard for reality -- claiming 100% of Palestinians are grateful to Chinese gov for their staunch support, while in fact 74% think there is no support at all and a growing number consider the CPC an enemy -- is characteristic of, er, people who are NOT communists june 8:

China is a key part of the imperial system, key to breaking the powerful workers of US and Europe. Hollywood people gate the pollution but they still go to China to get away from powerful US workers and exploit those under harsher discipline, much cheaper and obliged to work longer days and more dangerously. When these ridiculous Xi cultists from their "perches" in the most powerful+highest status working classes in the world (white euro is much richer than US workers) say "yankee workers could just overthrow the empire and should!" they show to be completely ignorant and infantile, but Phil takes this further even to _celebrate_ how the super discipline of Chinese workers is used by capital as a weapon against his own class' hard won entitlements and social rights. with idpol pity party chaser where some storytelling delivers the British workers ending up the victims of what is purportedly the Chinese working class' successful struggle to penetrate big private equity as investors.

dog wave ends in wind .. i think it's the most esoteric wave of all wind opposite human = kontrolle::wille yesterday in the deserted village just before supermarket closing at 4pm i see 2 young ladies on very tight mountainbikes and hear them speak swiss (one of them has bought fruitsalad); i neglect to speak to them ... could have said something like 'he, hat der integrations-schaffner euch keine niederungbike verschafft?' .. thought of a different come on after the fact yesterday but forgot that one ..

one of them looked real tight, sporty with a thick braid escaping her helmet. i made note of the functionality and condition the bikes and the gals were in .. that's all.

now .. today, just now, the news reports on two small swiss planes downed ..... oddest of quirks .. is all i know. one w all 4 lives lost and a 'historic' plane ...

the knowledge that opened this letter comes from a guy i exchanged one volley of comments with, who calls himself 'rolliestonie' ... how do you like that ...

isn't it a crime none of the 7 people listed here:

<https://www.operatiesteenvreek.nl/over-ons/>

.. in addition to geert managed to find and/or link to, much less approach me for their noble campaign .. if i think about it for more than a few split seconds i'm ready to burst into tears .....

oops I just found an error in Stuart's "commentary"! Wow I read this book back in 2001 or in 2000 even! That was the last time I read it! Now I can notice an error! He says the left eye is the sun as yang shen and positive vitality while the right eye is the moon and negative vitality (yin shen). But actually the negative vitality goes with the yuan shen - so the left eye is the Dragon as yin qi (not positive vitality) with the Sun. So the negative vitality is within the positive shen that is external. It's not the "yang shen" but rather the yuan shen. I have to double check this last point. But I was confused about this as well. The right eye is the po as the tiger - and so is the positive vitality as yang qi but is the yin shen as the moon.

i.e. the positive yang and negative yin. "

yeah so the left eye is yang shen...

"The left eye stands for the East whose element is wood and the right eye for the West whose element is metal. "

But the left eye is also wood as the dragon - which is yin qi (not positive vitality as Stuart claims).

p. 82 of his Jade Emperor Classic book he makes the error again on p. 81 - and so ....

yeah I'm surprised that I discovered that error - but then again, as I said, I too made the same error. The Taoist Yoga: Alchemy and Immortality book is very complex in how each layer is interwoven with yin-yang dynamics. It is easy to glance over this or not realize the complexity, because it is subtle.

Beginning with the demonstrable existence of a mound of expository writing accumulated over the 70s decade (which collectively would buckle the locked door of a considerable bedroom, and that constitutes the foundation-work of the Southern Crown teaching as generated between AAA and MT), all one need do is trace the speech-patterns of such publicly-significant entities as Seth over the course of Jane Roberts' channeling career to note the decisive modification of descriptive palettes taking place abruptly with the publication of The Individual and the Nature of Mass Events, 1981 and Dreams and Projection of Consciousness, in 1986 (note that 1979-83 is the span of the Process described in 'What Is The Mother Current"', and in Chapter VI of "T-Bird Meets The Phoenix" in T-Bird vs. The Flying Saucers). Since Seth only begins using the exact or similar phrases, sentence construcÂtions, expository devices etc. as noted above, with the advent of these books so manifestly different in tone and stylistic approach to the matter published previously, it is not possible that MT appropriated these very distinctive phraseologies from the Seth teachings â€” deliberately or otherwise. Because the Southern Crown writings were not widely circulated, and were used primarily in relation to a private group of students during that time, there is zero-likelihood of Jane Roberts having encountered and subliminally apApropriated the typifying diction on behalf of æSeth"

Thirty-one years ago on August 16-17, 1987 (Kin 55-56), Jose Arguelles spearheaded the Harmonic Convergence, the first synchronized global peace meditation with the purpose of synergizing the Highest Collective Intention of Humanity. He envisioned that the synchronized intention of a human collective would create a signal more powerful than the atomic signal at Los Alamos in 1945.

This date was also the conclusion of a 1144 year Ancient Mayan prophecy of the 13 heavens and 9 hells. Arguelles put out a call for 144,000 people to meditate simultaneously at sacred sites around the world to establish a planetary receptacle to activate a new harmonic grid.

"... our own bodies (activated to their full bio-electromagnetic capacity) are the best and most sophisticated technology there is."

below is a quote from Michael Topper (early nineties) whose writing is incredibly uneven, rich and odd .. his 'rags' were laid out in piles for free in places like organic food co-ops around LA and apparantly there were cassette tapes for sale ... none of which seem to have transitioned into newer media (odder still) but he was definitely part of the wave that blocked feel for & views of indigeneity, turning their heads upwards on the 'new age' front (*i recently scolded SuspiciousObservers [very sunfocused sciency guy] for having caught [and spreading a metastatization of] that virus/meme / medium / amputation**); i almost immediately took issue with his taking of most rooted concepts and sterilizing them, holding them up to 'the light' and doing them the old Antaeos disfavor (of 'deracination'). For years i struggled thru his at times awful turgid writing ... and at some unhappy point i actually sat down and searched out the passages where he goes alliteratively crazy with p-words .. did a fisk/take down and packed similar defusions of work by Laurence into that [2011] timeslot ... then killed the hddrive with spilled water before backing stuff up ... so .. if in your tecnerd acquaintance circles there happens to be someone who is good at 'reflow' to retrieve the data (perhaps only the green printer plate got shorted) i'd love you to send them on a mission or pave my way to them.

12:42 = But more often I see people alluding to them (safe spaces) as a kind of emblem - trigger warning and safe space culture - in order to caricature college-age leftists as delicate, whiny snowflakes, which, well, there might be a little truth to that. But you're lying if you pretend that this is fundamentally about free speech, and worse, you're doing it at the expense of people who have suffered actual trauma and of embattled minority groups whose request for safe spaces is perfectly reasonable.

"So your sly attempt to invoke liberal values like free speech and diversity to malign these people is taking a pretty low road indeed, and I want to ask people who constantly make jokes about trigger warnings and safe spaces, what percentage of confidence are you at that you're not just being a huge ****ing asshole for no reason? "

your "LOW ROAD" gets a fail on account lacking grounds

a note on joyous grinds:

join me imag[in]ing 'LOW' roads which are based as [they involve] a most democratic of deeds, getting down and dirty with the 'omnimergent' single cellers, escaping the anthropocentrically insular & sterile traspaces fixation / isolation altogether, ... [in order] to acknowledge and feed into the tie ins with larger lives (largest/oldest ones a mightily prosecuted class oy vey .. pray for pali olives), i mean the never moral always majoritarian (both bulk- and numiwise) simplest fundamental hydrocarbons at the bottom of all chains of lives ... unchaining them with a rubby roll that mills rock that unleashes music from getgo and rite on up said chains of beings ... dig?

as you know i have been following Douglas Dietrich for years and i still do but i removed the uploads i had made of his radio program and my estimation for him has plummeted right past non existence and waaaaaay into negavite territory ... to the point i've taken my notes on him out of a collection i'm trying to make of them with halts and starts ... and to the point where i wouldn't mind if you removed all comments i made mentioning him on your blog ... (not that it ever had any effect i can positively identify).

what would be an even bigger favor though is this:

navigate to my playlists page and see if you can click to see more than a screenful ... i personally can't anymore and it's been that way a looooong time ... might have to split them off into a different channel to make them visible again

Playlists are a mystery. You think you figure out how they work and then they change. There are system playlists too. Some of these only play videos with advertising.

could you please begin referring to the United States as United Reprobates? Consider yourself excepted and in the vanguard of emptying it out completely .. till null, void and properly buriable. Resurge the red races to fix the quarter they own which is a given either way and always. All perturbations in the other ones stem from this given being taken till given back ... cleaned up and vacated by the 'impostants'. I'm gonna look up when i first asked you this upstairs on my old box ... to provide my readers with a measure of your stubbornness and hardness of heart. Meanwhile, could you do a vid about eco-IQ and permicooledsure?

The baby mocking bird is coming to sit across from me in the garden, every afternoon around 4 She comes alone like Bathsheba did And she gets her whole body in the green water bowl and bathes You can hear the water going all over her as if she is pouring mocking bird size buckets all over herself She trembles in relief And goes down again for more And then more The whole time you can hear the water running all through her Then she ascends to the branch above her, prunes and shivers and then just abides With me Til something comes along And wakes us into our weary mortality Which she doesn't know about yet Meanwhile, im constantly running to the computer to look up the birthday of some abandoned, forgotten family member to see what kin they are and what part they play in the play After that beautiful ozzy lady showed me the head of the trail tip dank je wel kristin ... you'll be happy to learn i kindled a lifeline ... i refuse to die until all my notes are collected in one big pdf file ... working thru 2008 at the moment ... odd how this or that response and/or turn of phrase (gelukkige woordwending ... gelukte woordwending) can cheer the bruised and weary soul in my breast ... ..

the fishmonger lass had .. instead of the excema attack a nearly clean skin with really odd lines around her mouth area .. i called them angel's skidtracks 'to her face' ... she recounted last sunday's crisis and meeting a new doctor who pretty much threw the book at her, pulled out samples from all the relative draws and attacked her symptoms scatterfire style ... but it worked.

i wish you could meet her ... forgot her kin at the mo ... will send it in a while also .. a 3 year old began calling me pieta at the market (only 4 stalls now, the fella with the truck full of plants, including 6 foot olive trees for 100 euro each is on holiday) in front of the church ... which may have still been lawn when you visited ??? Now parking lot most of the time ... a fish and cheese monger show up other days respectively.

i had to explain how pieta (who worked in mom n pop's shop before marrying and beginning her family and family biznis in the hague selling milk) was in hospital again with feet open again (diabetes) and a fresh pin in her leg from falling of a bicycle on holiday by the sea shore.

roshilde hasn't written back yet ... must be busy ...

she went wild and in the course of it i played doggie with a bag of red chilis i held out to her .. she expected a solid attachment but i played tree letting go of ripe stuffs .. so she fell but took it like a man and kept on to perfect the game ... i was about to lift her as she was holding on good ... .. running in little circle circles and trying to spin her, throwing the chili big across a 4 foot sign on wooden legs were all on the repertoire before i got shy and scared to keep it up .. on account of my ill repute ... but the mom has different worries, she's expecting her third. don't think i ever spoke to her or the daddy yet but they live very close .... and before i forget ... i told mom's egg lady (the one with the sons at nearby farm) the last mishap with neighbourdears (happily on a holiday now) and she must have told her daughter who also lives in the little row of houses that are first perpendiculars to the north of here (20 paces and you're at the small playground between us). well, the granddaughter came by the next day being really sweet to me .. it's a 3 year old also ...

Today occurs another remarkable synchronisation between the RealTime (Ancient Maya Tzolkin) and the DreamTime (Galactic Maya Dreamspell). It is a Once in a Lifetime Synchronicity, unless we live another 52 more years. Its timing is so Divine!

* REALTIME: 5 Lamat (5 Venus)

- Equivalent to Kin 148 in the Dreamspell (5 Star).

- According to the inscriptions of the Pyramid Temple of King Pakal, the Tzolkin date of 5 Lamat marked his Accession to the Throne at 12 years old, an event registered on Long Count date 09.09.02.04.08 (equivalent to 26 or 27 July 615 AD).

Ancient Tree Research Project | Giant Cedars of Lebanon - Part 1
422K views -- ODD Reality - Jan 6, 2018

When it comes to history the world we walk on is quite puzzling. Our "Scientific Dictatorship" will have us believe that they have all the answers, but when you begin investigating on your own you find that official explanations given to us about natural landmarks and natural landscapes don't make much sense. Places like Devils Tower and other giant mesas may not be what we are told. They may just be remnants of what they once were. Why does the Grand Canyon look like an ancient city? Why do we have so many mud fossils that take on near perfect shapes of giants, flora and fauna? What really is the Eye of Sahara? These are just a few questions, but the real question is were there actually giant trees that have been cut down? Are the forests of today merely miniature reflections of what they were in the past? The earth is still full of mystery and the more people that we get looking into this, the more we find out. Without a video called 'No Forests on Flat Earth', many people, including me, would have never even looked at this and now it's resonating with people everywhere. Was there really a giant tree at the center of all things called the Tree of life with more massive trees scattered all over the earth plane? We want to know all that stuff. Ancient Tree Research Project is a joint effort between myself, Rosette Delacroix, Shadie and CrackerWV. This is only part one so stay tuned for upcoming additions to the series. Thanks for watching.

her newsletter reads:

I'm aware it's not ideal to use the name "Anastasia" in our websites. The difficulty is that "Ringing Cedars" and "Ringing Cedars of Russia" are trade names owned by Vladimir Megre and his family. I had been previously contacted by Nina Megre (in 2016) when I used these words on my first website. I was courteously asked to remove them, which I did.

In the English translation of the books, the 1 hectare of land is alternatively called the "kin's domain" or the "space of love". Every language group in Europe has its own variation: in Germany "Familienlandsitz", in Scandinavia "Morland" or "Fosterland", in other countries "Native land" or "Ancestral land" (in their own languages) - so a homogenous word for the 1 hectare of land right across Europe is impossible to find. If there was a common term for the land that all 23 countries (and a greater number of language groups) could have rallied to, I would have used that.

Nearly two years have gone by since I created The Motherland Project website. A lot has happened for me in the last two years. In August 2015, my partner and I talked about returning to live in Sweden. In December 2016, I made my application to immigrate. Only 6 weeks ago, my application was approved. Yes - it took 19 months to go through the process due to the current immigration crisis happening in Sweden. I wasn't holding my breath to be approved. It now has been. This is quite a lot to take in...

I'm still here in New Zealand, tying up loose ends, both physical and emotional. A part of this process of letting go the old and opening to the new has been to lay the foundations of the website that I originally started building - a website to bring together Ringing Cedars readers from all over Europe. This is where my heart is. This very soon will be my "back yard".

Ben Etherington: Primitivist Transformation & The Fuckable Utopia --- Last Born in the Wilderness Podcast

Wilderness Podcast

In this segment, writer and lecturer Ben Etherington and I discuss Primitivism in contemporary culture and media, using the highest grossing film of all time, James Cameron's "Avatar," as the focus of the discussion.

In modern Western societies, the primitivist ideal is expressed through various means "a few examples being contemporary dietary fads like the "Paleo Diet," fitness regimens like barefoot/minimalist running, radical anti-civilizational and anti- technological political philosophies (e.g. the works of anarcho-primitivist John Zerzan and the manifesto of the UNABOMBER Theodore Kaczynski) " as well as in popular films, literature, and art. Primitivist themes and aesthetics run through several popular films, most notably in James Cameron's blockbuster film "Avatar."

To quote from Ben's essay: "The plot of the film follows the tested formula of primitivist transformation. A man of civilization, in this case the paraplegic US marine Jake Sully, is sent to colonize the primitive lands beyond civilization's perimeter only himself to "go primitive" after learning of their innocent beauty and recognizing the barbarism of his own destructive civilization. It's a structure that underlies other blockbusters like "Dances with Wolves," its sci-fi equivalents, and numerous journey-into-the-interior classics (especially the work of Joseph Conrad). Eros is built into this formula. Coition marks the point at which the civilized man gives himself over to the primitive tribe and discovers, or recovers, his primitive self. Primitivist utopias, in short, are fuckable utopias."

What does this theme of "primitivist transformation" tell us about our current set of living arrangements in the "modern" world? What does this longing for more "primitive" forms of living and being mean within the broader scope of historical development, especially as we enter into the late stage of capitalist development on this planet?

Ben Etherington is senior lecturer in postcolonial and world literary studies in the School of Humanities and Communication Arts and a member of the Writing and Society Research Centre. He holds honours degrees in Musicology and English from the University of Western Australia. He was awarded a General Sir John Monash Award to undertake an MPhil and PhD in English at the University of Cambridge, where he was later a Faculty of English research fellow. His publications include "Literary Primitivism," the "Cambridge Companion to World Literature," and "Unsettled Poetics: Contemporary Australian and South African Poetry."

"The Faustian Ordeal" --- 271 views --- the Bronx Blogger --- Sep 17, 2018

UNPOSTED: i met JosÃ© Arguelles (part mexican) very very briefly (slipped him a piece of paper .. as i have done to AGore and RLubbers in the 80s and noughties with no response) ... he revered buddha, muhammed (claims [contemporary] telepathic contact with him in previous incarnation as Pacal Votan, tomb dug up in 1952) and jesus [whose fate and life DOES need the tpe of introduction Ralph Ellis provides].

He did not claim white origin for the sense[s] of perspective, proportionality, 'paronymy' (just made that up), ethics, etc he tried to champion (permaculture included). His movement began hemoragging after his death in 2011 before the event he popularized focusing on [*cycles node 2012 and leading up to it, the Harmonic Convergence of 1987, first globally synchronized meditation in human history**] but still enjoys reach and support on pretty much all continents.

Don't try tell me folks like him were white 'supraEMOsist'.
And don't tell me there aren't any, much less never were any perfectly plausible kinds either.

My personal fave [and example of the latter, iow] for readily acceptable 'memeries' are the one encoded in Cernunnos who spread some sort of ['raw' clay coin, redeemable at a soil bank wher'er your foot may fall] practice from the Caucasus to Europe .. until the Romans caught up with 'him' in rheims and ended that episode of rainbow diversity [in a very wide and non anthropocentric sense, reaching well into and below the surface]. A bit like Jesus banishment to the fort in Chester, the only one with a temple inside, let alone a precession illustrating one, according to Ellis).

Turning to the 'milling' crowdz of surplus, losing sight of said guidance, you not only fixate on victimvectors of expansive desert memory but redouble their guilt as you (and the host of pointy finger wielding sjw hasbara cucks) turn a blind eye to their scapegoat status, the latter going viral with or without you wallowing in the stupid myopic throngtox hanging on for squashed, or as you call it, 'smushed' life. Drew with an oldie but goldie:

yes Anti-Semitism is Platonic philosophy as left-brain dominance paranoia of the Left. So it's based on circular tautologies - Jews have "Jewish" qualities. When cultures become literate and their language takes written form then suddenly they are afraid of the secret Jewish written language. So antisemitism is antiscience - as the logical extreme of science itself from Platonic philosophy (aka logarithmic natural law). There is no escaping anti-semitism just as left-brain dominance is mass mind control. The Hellenization of Judaism changed gematria into a symmetric logic - whereby the solar calendar became dominant over the Lunar (the origins of Christianity is from the Essenes rejecting the lunar calendar). Anti-semitism therefore is an escalation of the Solar Calendar as extreme left brain right hand technology (science). So the attempt for a materialistic liberation of Russia - by Jews - is inherently anti-semitic since science itself is based on eugenics of Natural Law. Each citizen equals  $9/8$  major 2nd interval (Plato) to be "compromised" for the good of the state ( $9/8$  cubed = the tritone devil's interval = the square root of two, the Power Set Axiom). Therefore SeT is from Egyptian-Jewish battle between Horus and Set as the hypotenuse of the triangle. Just read math professor Abraham Seidenberg on the ritual origins of geometry and the need for mass ritual sacrifice.

Robert Forte: Psychedelics, The Elite, & Our Brave New World
20 views --- Last Born in the Wilderness Podcast --- Sep 27, 2018

In this segment, longtime psychedelic scholar and researcher Robert Forte discusses his concerns regarding the "psychedelic renaissance" currently underway, in particular as we begin to see a resurgence of public interest (including more positive coverage in the corporate press) of MDMA and other psychedelic compounds in recent years. To understand Robert's perspective, we touch on the work of Aldous Huxley and his book "Brave New World" and its addendum "Brave New World Revisted" in order to frame our understanding of what is currently taking place within the broader cultural and societal trends regarding the use of psychedelics (and cannabis) for therapeutic, medical, and recreational use. Having a deep respect for psychedelics and their appropriate use, Robert asks that the psychedelic community be aware of and counter the underlying agendas of these forces within our society, in particular when it comes to approaching the subject of the legalization and therapeutic use of these substances in the modern era.

Robert Forte is a scholar and researcher of psychedelic drugs. He first studied with Frank Barron, who started the Psilocybin Project at Harvard with Timothy Leary in 1963. In 1981 he moved to Esalen to study with Stanislav Grof, and then attended the Divinity School, University of Chicago. During this time Forte conducted an independent investigation of MDMA. He obtained his master's degree under Mircea Eliade and has collaborated with many of the leaders in the field of psychedelics, including R. Gordon Wasson, Albert Hofmann, Timothy Leary, Ralph Metzner, Alexander Shulgin, Claudio Naranjo, and many others. Robert is the former director of the Albert Hofmann Foundation, and currently is adjunct faculty at CIIS.

Psychology Prof. Jerry Kroth on Male Stress reaction and Violence in contrast to Female Vagus nerve Subwoofer Orgasm Thedaobums military website is trying to use these subwoofer orgasm vids to kick me off their website. haha. It's just science! But check out the subwoofer dudes trying to figure out the "mechanics" involved!

Voidisyinyang Voidisyinyang 15 seconds ago

It's the CERVIX - the vagus nerve is resonated by ELF subharmonics. This is what kundalini is also - check out "tantric mongoose" - he does this through meditation - gives females orgasms without any touching.ï»¿

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9cwOyqHi7kU>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cPzy9E8FqRI>

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=r3Y5\_IBqRAI

So what Jerry Kroth does not get into is how when males ejaculate it spikes the cortisol stress hormone, as Professor Robert Sapolsky details - as a switch from the parasympathetic vagus nerve lust to the sympathetic nervous system as stress.

So Kroth does not go into the ancient training of males being celibate by trance dancing and standing exercises - to ionize the vagus nerve - through an extreme sympathetic nervous system "rebound" as a parasympathetic rebound. This "resets" the vagus nerve energy to recharge it and store it up - and eventually crack open the pineal gland so that the vagus nerve energy can then be transmitted externally at the "O at a D" healing energy.

So right here - the author falls for McClain promoting Archytas's Harmonic Mean "bait and switch" of what used to be the noncommutative Subcontrary Mean! oops.

Another one bites the dust! I guess it's all down hill from here folks! Too bad Siemen Terpstra didn't dig deeper. Yep - promotion of the irrational magnitude tuning is soon to follow, of course.

That's all she wrote. OK I google the name to discover infamy on youtube for making the experimental music instruments....

The Shadow of Light from the future as Infinite Liquid: Sonofusion as Negative Refractive Index plus Quantum tunnelling = Superluminal noncommutative phase 5th dimension formless awareness .... Are you Greek?

<https://ecoechoinvasives.blogspot.com/2018/01/dionysios-g-raftopoulos-asymmetric.html> I corresponded with this electrical engineer who rediscovered ancient Greek projective geometry as the quantum undertone harmonics.

Professors Pierre Deymier and Keith Runge:"We first introduce the concept of a phase-bit based on the fermion-like [spin1/2] behavior of phonons in some elastic structures as an analogue of a quantum bit (qubit). The analogy with the notion of spin suggests the possibility of developing quantum information technologies based on superposition of elastic waves.... the external electromagnetic field created by the piezoelectric microtubules interacting with the water then is it possible to create this superluminal virtual photon field - that has an evanescent mode (reverse time) from the subharmonic within the tubulin - and this evanescent tail - the pilot wave - then extends outside the microtubule so that it enables a macroquantum supercoherence state.

then he shows a tzolkin like diagram dubbel prison tunneling

So negative refractive index plus quantum non-local tunneling = superluminal Mozart music!

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/G%C3%BCnter\_Nimtz proven by a quantum physicist in Germany.

Because the second prism was close to the first prism, some light leaked across that gap. The transmitted and reflected waves arrived at detectors at the same time, despite the transmitted light having also traversed the distance of the gap. This is the basis for the assertion of faster-than-c transmission of information.

So most scientists cling to relativity when in fact the foundation of reality is quantum, based on frequency, not on amplitude as wavelength squared. This means the signal can be just from a phase wave as the quantum potential - and does not even need classical energy! It is a new type of "self-force" from the "form" being noncommutative phase.

So how do we get sonofusion from a shockwave as negative refractive index?

First let's review my research: <https://ecoechoinvasives.blogspot.com/2018/02/donatello-dolce-explains-plancks.html>

Since temporal-spatial periodicity and energy-momentum are two faces of the same coin, we can equivalently describe the retarded and local variations of energy-momentum occurring during relativistic interactions in terms of corresponding modulations of temporal-spatial periodicity of the elementary particles.

So the sonofusion researchers are stating because the electron has relativistic mass as momentum then the phonon energy plus the electron is able to achieve sonofusion via acoustic cavitation.

EM drives works the same way - the asymmetric phase creates a superluminal momentum as positive pressure from the future!

Another exemplary essay from the FN collection. Text: <https://drive.google.com/open?id...>

MITPress

A dizzying trip through the mind(s) of the provocative and influential thinker Nick Land.

During the 1990s British philosopher Nick Land's unique work, variously described as â€œarabid nihilism,â€? â€œmad black deleuzianism,â€? and â€œcybergothic,â€? developed perhaps the only rigorous and culturally-engaged escape route out of the malaise of â€œcontinental philosophyâ€? â€”a route that was implacably blocked by the academy. However, Land's work has continued to exert an influence, both through the British â€œspeculative realistâ€? philosophers who studied with him, and through the many cultural producersâ€”writers, artists, musicians, filmmakersâ€”who have been invigorated by his uncompromising and abrasive philosophical vision.

Beginning with Land's early radical rereadings of Heidegger, Nietzsche, Kant and Bataille, the volume collects together the papers, talks and articles of the mid-90sâ€”long the subject of rumour and vague legend (including some work which has never previously appeared in print)â€”in which Land developed his futuristic theory-fiction of cybercapitalism gone amok; and ends with his enigmatic later writings in which Ballardian fictions, poetics, cryptography, anthropology, grammatology and the occult are smeared into unrecognisable hybrids.

Fanged Noumena gives a dizzying perspective on the entire trajectory of this provocative and influential thinker's work, and has introduced his unique voice to a new generation of readers.

Endorsement

Land had the most brilliantly seductive and meteoric mind, endlessly imaginative and capable of adopting, inhabiting and discarding any philosophical position. With himâ€”and rightly soâ€”philosophy infected every area of life, and sheer vitality of life reverberated in his thinking. I see Fanged Noumena as a kind of righteous revenge. Nick was dismissed by professional philosophers because they simply didn't want to think and preferred their turgid academic complacency. I always admired him for his unwavering desire to take thought to its absolute limit and then see how much harder one could push.

WHAAAATTT!!!!!!!

Land vs Kant is as Joachim vs Striker (link[s] below):

... very flattered Land picks Kant as the capacious and receptive enough object to pitch his evil into without fear of mortal rebound (but hey, he dead), bycause Beckerath was a Kant admirer and though the former's grounding leaves lots to be desired and perfected, i feel pleased i managed to do just that just in time ... before the impending onslaught of Alzheimer from breathing fumes trying to hitchhike across the USA more than the 5 times i managed, peddling in traffic waaaay too heavy and long for my own good, etcetera ....

supertragic and tired truth (due to me repeating it onto utterly fed up exhaustion to no avail) but a truth nonetheless: Land is blind to the diff between force and violence. Told him so personally in the noughties.

Oh & dont forget "Coo Coo CON"!!!! Ya stop & think about it for a LONG second.
Tammy - 4 minutes ago @Rocks-to-Earth-SPIinner I think I found & read comment u referred to but not sure what u are saying.

your pun is cute .. clever even but i hurry to invite you to a 'step upndown time into|n|out of the mirror' game: what are the chances that ...
...conquistadore 'tsjujtsjoids', the 'other' arm of the inquisition, in turn nothing but weaponized inwardness, aimed at the jewish revolt originally but turned back on themselves by their targets [djooowzies], .. i tag'm all 'together' (no such thing amongst monomanics, nor does 'science' unify anything) other than thanatopian eradication programs) 'big time tsjujtsjoids' .....

.... what are the chances blood sacrifice on the pyramids tales are fables with which to drape and disguise their own barbarizzumz???

i guess britraelians were able to dupe guys like Robert Graves, despite his far above average awareness of demographics, into believing dah jewz did great reading god's preference of a goat over a human when it comes to sacrifice ... but hey ... bolshpooks galore, betting on evermore colourful herding tricks, ignoring indications of heightened toxicity .. pacific dead? ... oh well, .. it's more like holland now .. leitkultur of the ZogPire it's difficult to struggle not just against the line that holds the bait i bit but against the entire industry attached .. and when i try to say more than 'time winning' crypsis can possibly convey, the line to the perch from which i view, feel and report on freedom breaks .. and / cause i sink into the gambly crowd i purport to expose ... sorry .. Tammy don't wanna overreach ya to wit, i was just trying to point to the role of 55 in the numonotionalizzum that Jose built ('lost chord' / lost planet, lost footing lost grounding, lost mars, lost marduk, name of a planet we blew into the asteroid belt smithereens he alledges), .... the dust issues with 9/11 timer linked [cleverly bridged?] to nukes on japan by the US .. and the radical recalibration of all that via/at/after the harmonic convergence, .... and let's not forget RQ's oracle 'outcome'/'aim' kin.

As it 'happed', i showed up to the HC in glastonbury feeling out of place, .. not yet realizing of what utterly fitting 'symbol' bearing status the following fact is in the dreamspell dispensation of which jose is the messenger, can become .. is .. always was ..

but first .. [ver]schnaufpause ...

JA is, i have no doubt, on a par with that much much more famous telepathpal of his .. of him of yore, .. him in a previous incarnation .. Pacal, ... pal of Muhammed ... trying to offer a better remedy against the denudation of dust and ashes than a veil (JA's crowd went for 'CREST', a permie movement spin-off that will affect at least a few among a few generations to come, CRESTs are a few percent of all communities listed here: ecoaldeasabyayala.blogspot.com.ar/) holominding calender numonition punpals who forage and scatter fraction codes thru and around more than their own planet[system/s] And you wonder why Pacal got erased from a history cannon ruled by these imPOSERS????

A [and B] word[z] about the 3 pronged intolerant hegomoniatic diabolic monotheistic pact of the 3 fundie faiths

.... talk about lost footing, imposition and hystericalization of pride, .. as if it was a shippable commodity .... holland thinks itself so innocently sportly with it's ball games ... but it is in fact helpin the devils i mentioned via their superiority in 'fair' fighting memes promotion. it's the one 'play' fits all disregard for borders and utter degradation of 'we are THE people for/of THIS place' meme (a truly native one that Vine Deloria pointed out in the 40s and 50s i think).

.. but ....what about 'dat' metal mortar pestle strapped on my car roof then 'dowe'? Look, .. it's a 6 foot tall drive shaft with a transmission sprocket welded to one end of it# and some sort of plate welded to an end of of waterline as tall as a forearm ...

i was gonna make freshest of dusts the hard way ..... for show, for meme inapct spread, ...

= me imagining it might work like the ramshorn on Cernunnos's torqued snake .. eerily reminiscent of the milky way churn operated from either side of a river via helpful snake, no doubt eager to see it's offspring and all it's relation downstream benefit from the rockmilk .. and perhaps aware of the bonobo chimp rift in africa, trying to heal something similar on eurasia .... hoo nooooozzz?

i simply saw it as a first step to redo designs that model and put out a mix as 'heady' as that of glaciers and volcanoes at the time (mindblowing already i'm sure, i had John D Hamaker to thank for all that .. but there was to be more later:), prayermill, and any manner of peacetool ornament and evidence, coming into the picture after about 22 years additionally, cumulatively ... and given time i [t]ll get better ... i can hear it now: 'wow, look at that green belt 10 miles wide, soooo popular amongst critters .. did the peace circus caravan come by here too a century ago'?

yup, just before WWII, blatantly, purposely ignored by the instigators, even prosecuted for stuff they got projected onto them like a red search dot out of a lazer gun 'fighting the good fight' [retch].

spent some time with [windwave] skywalker's article and these passage were, i thought, worth placing in my note cabinet:

November 29, 2018 (NS1.31.5.15) KIN 35 9Eagle, EXACTLY 27 days after rising as Morning Star for (one sidereal cycle of the moon). -- Baktuns 13 to 20 ~ 2012-4772

7th posish: 13

The 10th position is 55. KIN 55 3Eagle ~ 8.16.1987 ~ End of Quetzalcoatl Prophecy 13 Heavens 9 Hells via the Harmonic Convergence of 1987- First synchronized meditation on Earth ~ Next KIN 55 we will celebrate the 42nd (41+1) Tzolkin cycle of this event. KIN 55 also signals the start of the 65-day blue galactic season of Vision.

11th position is 89: KIN 89 11Moon ~ 3.23.2011 ~ Ascension Portal of Jose Arguelles/Valum Votan, exactly 1408 years after the birth of Pacal Votan.

GALACTIC -- : 260 X 7 = 1820 days

LUNAR ----- : 364 x 5 = 1820 days

SOLAR ----- : 365 x 5 = 1825 days

Difference = 5 days = 5 Days Out of Time 2012-2016 therefore: 65 Moons = 7 Tzolkins = 1820 days ::::: 1820 days + 5 Days Out of Time to complete 5 solar orbits = 1825 days (5Ã—365)

By Wade Frazier --- April 2012

On July 29, 2011, Brian Oâ€™Leary passed on. His departure from this world left a tremendous hole in the lives of many people, including mine. After having curiously similar paths in ways, our lives had various intersections for 20 years. In 2008, I helped edit his last book, The Energy Solution Revolution.

Brian played Paul Revere honestly; he rode and rode across the world. He pounded on every door that he could. He looked up his environmentalist pals. With almost the sole exception of Alden Bryant, who was the hippest environmentalist that I ever met, Brian found no takers. Brian approached one of humanityâ€™s most prominent scholars on the environment and humanityâ€™s immense problems, whose publications Brian liberally cited in his books. When Brian mentioned free energy as a potential part of the solution to humanityâ€™s seemingly intractable problems (it would be the cornerstone), the scholar looked at Brian as if he had insulted his mother.

good short post about disruptive tec (7802 in thread) about walking with 'greys' (psychedelic wizzies), an sf novel, posted two and a half years ago; Quote:

That ends chapter 9 of his Into a Timeless Realm. ----- I first encountered Roadsâ€™s work about the time I was getting the crap kicked out of me in Ventura. His Into a Timeless Realm was his fourth book, but that out-of-body experience that lasted all night happened before the experiences chronicled in his earlier books. He was afraid that his initial experience was too bizarre for readers to connect with, and I think he was right. When I have recommended his work, I usually suggest starting with his first books and working up to Into a Timeless Realm. I met Roads in about 1994/1995, when Into a Timeless Realm was published. He is gregarious and humble in person, which is a fitting demeanor for somebody who had his odyssey.

----- In the nearly twenty years since I read that account to two future Earths, it has been one of the stars that I steer by. For me, it was a reaffirmation that my FE journey is not chasing phantoms. Around the same time that I was being introduced to the idea of those future Earths (I have been familiar with the parallel reality concept since the mid-1970s, with Sethâ€™s work, but Roadsâ€™s first-person account is the only one of its kind that I am familiar with), my friend told me about the little show that he received:

ahealedplanet.net/camelot.htm#underground ..... but that was also several years after hearing about Sparky Sweetâ€™s FE device: ahealedplanet.net/brianmem.htm#sweet ..... and slowly becoming familiar with the FE milieu. I got my experience in the milieu before really knowing much about it. I am not sure I would recommend that path to anybody, but it can be an insanely-steep learning curve. In the coming days, I will make some observations about those two future worlds, and the energy/love/consciousness connection. A lot of it is obvious to even the casual reader, but with my background, it became a gold mine of information. It really did not give me many new ideas, but it essentially reaffirmed the path I have been on for nearly the past forty years. -- Time for chores. Best, Wade a warning to those who are insufficiently wary of promoting 'disruptive tec' (Wade Frazier on sparky sweet, dennis lee, adam trombly) from recent posts on his nearly 400 page thread at ProjectAvalon forum.

Home Kids Who What When Where How Why Links

This brings us to the end of our MUSICAL COLORS family tree timeline.

The idea of using color to represent musical whole tones in tandem with the idea of combining these same colors to represent the musical half tones between them is practically as old as the science of music itself. Whether these half note color combinations are represented as actual mixtures of two colors (i.e. one resulting mixed color), or whether these half notes are represented by two separate colors (i.e. not mixed into one color but never the less shown in tandem with one another), does not really matter, for the two colors chosen are still present in referencing half notes. Therefore, the theory behind such an idea remains consistent. ----- The randomness of assigning colors to notes demonstrates how these MUSIC/COLOR schemes are arbitrary to somewhat scientific at best. It is fairly easy to coordinate seven colors to seven notes and a scientific relationship is not necessarily established just because there can be equal numbers of each. The concept of tone to color calibration has been, for the most part, an arbitrary but necessary starting point for these systems. Like many other people throughout the world, here at MUSICAL COLORS we understand these systems and we participate by bringing this ancient knowledge to full application potential. After all, the knowledge has always been there in some form or another. ----- However, the one specific and fairly recent example that validates these principals quite poignantly is the U.S. Patent No. 2,284,868, which clearly states that "...seven elements representing the natural notes of an octave in the musical scale are preferably colored...â€? (and remember this is an arbitrary selection of colors); while the â€œ...five elements representing the half notes of the octave are preferably colored as a mixture of the colors applied to the natural note-representing elements at opposite sides thereof...", also being arbitrary, although enharmonically theoretical in nature based on previous musical knowledge. This patent was granted on June 2nd, 1942 to Gertrude M. Heaney, an elementary school teacher, and it provides that this knowledge is now and forever legally in the public domain. ----- Even though there are many current systems and methods for teaching music, for the most part, music theory, music composition and musical instrumental appreciation have been taught the old fashion way; as cerebral and physical disciplines in scholarly institutions. Within the elusive past though, there is still much more to be rediscovered, just as now there is something showing us the future. ----- Join the MUSICAL COLORS family. Proto-Dravidian (Tamil) is interesting and useful for studying esoteric history and etymology.... (pre-sanskrit)... Dravidians came to India much before the Aryans did. Their origins are uncertain. According to Tamil legend, the Dravidians came to India from the lost island of Kumari Khandam. It is possible that the residents of the lost Indus Valley civilisation may have been Dravidians. Both languages came from different language families. Hindi came from the Indo-European linguistic family while Tamil is a descendant of the Dravidian languages. ... Tamil is much older compared to Hindi. It is the oldest of the Dravidian languages and one of the longest and long-lasting languages in the world. Hope U don't mind I share this link... no affiliation just u may find it interesting as he includes etymology .... <https://www.youtube.com/user/tamilsantham>

From geomancy to mankala board-games

How could I make sense of the Francistown geomantic tablet oracle which I learned as a sangoma? In the Arabian form of ilm al-raml, classic geomancy revolves on pairs and foursomes. For while patterns of single and double dots (arranged in four horizontal lines one over the other, e.g. ) are the standard notional units in later geomantic divination; its notational symbolism initially, among Islamic writers as from the 9th century CE (third century AH), consisted of dots and lines, e.g. " in close reminiscence of the I Ching symbolism of broken and unbroken lines, e.g. from which the Arabian geomancy partly derived. Here, and in the geographical and historical patterns of distribution and the role of Islam of a major vehicle of spread, lies the link with the mankala board-game. Pairs, threesomes and foursomes constitute the basis of mankala; the board consists of two to four rows of cavities (cup-holes) along which counters (pebbles, beans, grains) travel according to fixed rules. Both geomancy and mankala are prominent and intercontinentally distributed formal systems, characterised moreover by a remarkable constancy over time and an amazing power to cross social, cultural, linguistic and political boundaries. One cannot study geomancy without realising its close structural, distributional and historical association with mankala.

Since cup-holes are the hallmark of mankala (as the instances of mankala boards in Chapter 1 demonstrate), one is tempted to try and understand mankala in the context of the earliest cupmarks known to scholarship: those of the Middle and Upper Palaeolithic. It is this what triggered the research and the argument of the present book.

New section of the Shikanda website: Essays

Over the past fifty years, Wim van Binsbergen's literary work has been overwhelmed by his scholarly work as an anthropologist, historian and philosopher. This cannot be undone, and considering his proven aptitude at scholarly work may all have been for the best. Moreover, he has increasingly approached his scientific work with an artistic flair, engaging in ecstatic dancing, soothsaying and healing as a fully qualified African wizard; broadcasting views (such as the potentially veridical nature of telepathy and divination; or the qualified soundness of Afrocentricity) that have been extremely unpopular in North Atlantic institutionalised knowledge production; proclaiming the fusion between academic mythologist and myth; and engaging with ancient myths as if they, of all texts, would contain the secrets of the remote past. Even so, after two years of retirement it is time to retrieve more of his earlier, literary orientation, and to stop sacrificing so lavishly to an academic career that has already had its full course. Work is now in progress on an edition of Wim van Binsbergen Verspreide Gedichten ('Scattered Poems' -- to return to the scatter-centred leopard-skin symbolism that has informed much of his scholarly work over the last decade). In addition, a new bilingual section Essays has been opened in this website, to accommodate old and new texts that belong to a no man's land beyond academia. Here, also his literary studies of the work of Vladimir Nabokov and Hugo Claus will soon be accommodated -- while we also anticipate his sketches of an intercultural ontology that is hoped to provide a more systematic foundation for his controversial views on knowledge production. A first instalment is a retrieved essay (in Dutch) on the Dutch poet Gerrit Achterberg in his relation to music.

New essays will be added at the top of the page

So he [Professor Tito Tonietti] says that, translating the reed pipe tuning - the first pipe is the number 1 but is also the number 81 as the harmony of the Sun and Moon!! --- Why? Because consulting the book Early Astronomy (google) 81 months and 19 years have a common division of days so the months were lunar and the years were solar. The remaining fraction past 365 days has a denominator called the "Day denominator" as 1,539. Fascinating!! ---- O.K. Back to our music tuning. So 81 is the lunar. He does the math wrong - he claims it is all just year numbers with 81 as years!! No 81 is months of the Lunar energy. ----- Which means a Tong was actually 6.75 years (81 months) x 19 years not 1,539 YEARS but rather 128.5 which is the SAME as the Pythagorean Comma!! Holy Smokes!! So the harmonization of Sun and Moon as the first note is the Pythagorean CommaSo the first pipe is 9 long and the 2nd pipe is 6 long ( $2/3$ ) and the third pipe is 8 long ( $4/3$ ) of the 2nd pipe. That matches what Moran was trying to explain. ----- So now we can see what happened - Apollo was based on Hermes using a Lyre along with Orpheus - while the Pitch Pipes of Pan were discarded as supposed wild frenzy of Dionysius - of the Underworld of real alchemy!! ----- And yet what did Anaximander teach? That the Cosmos is created by pitch pipes or flute holes and when the air blows across them the fire and light shines out.

Marshall McLuhan Predicts the Phenomenon of iON - When the Environment of the Gulf ("Heaven") Merges with the Physical ("Earth")

"When people don't have bodies, they are like people in a dream who just move in and out of each other like fantasyâ€¦! At the speed of light, the people on the planet, minus their bodies and minus their identities, move back and forth through each other in forms we have come to call â€˜newscasts.' "

Marshall McLuhan, Address at the "Alliance for Life Festival", May 6/77 [manuscript], National Archives of Canada

"The present electric ESP age of multiple interfaces finds no problem in metamorphosis or transubstantiation such as baffled abcede-minded culture of the sixteenth century and after."

Marshall McLuhan, CULTURE IS OUR BUSINESS, 1970, p.82

"Some feel that Christianity's existence must always stand in the tension between being in the world and standing outside it. Kierkegaard was keenly aware of this, as were St. Paul and, later, Martin Luther. But the tension between inner and outer is a merely visual guideline, and in the age of the X-ray, inner and outer are simultaneous events."

Marshall McLuhan and Harley Parker, THROUGH THE VANISHING POINT: Space in Poetry and Painting, 1969, p.254

"The flipout of the visual literate world after 2500 years would seem to call into question the whole Graeco-Roman basis of a Christian bureaucracy and emotions. The Church, mystically considered, is tribal, and now the secular world is becoming tribal - the separation of Church and world becomes more and more difficult."

Marshall McLuhan, Letter to Larry Henderson, Oct.20/75, National Archives of Canada

"My immediate feeling and impression is one of total futility as regarding the kind of participation possible between here and Rome. I am sure that telephone conference calls would be an enormous improvement on the type of bureaucratic prose and comment that are currently in use."

Marshall McLuhan, Letter to Rev. R. Drake Will, 1974, National Archives of Canada

"The invisible and total environment of information, electrically established, presents an ethereal world that is a â€˜reasonable facsimile' of the mystical body. This ethereal-mundane form demands a total submission and involvement that challenges the claims of the church itself."

Marshall McLuhan, "The Papal Interview" [manuscript], no date, National Archives of Canada

"The Gutenberg revolution was visual hardware. The electric revolution is acoustics. Hardware congealed and legalized Catholic doctrine. Software blurs it into a kind of echo chamber of all religions at once."

Marshall McLuhan, 1968

"For, if the private person is an artifact, then it becomes criminal to perpetuate him technologically in the electric age."

Marshall McLuhan, Letter to Alexis de Beauregard, May 11/72, National Archives of Canada

Will Falk: Making Space For The Sacred To Thrive
36 views - Last Born in the Wilderness Podcast

In this segment of my discussion writer, lawyer, and environmental activist Will Falk, we place Will's activism and insights within the broader context of what is currently unfolding at the Unist'ot'en Camp, part of the Wet'suwet'en territory in so-called British Columbia. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP), on January 7th, breached the borders of Wet'suwet'en territory, violating Canadian and International law, as well as the sovereignty of the uncaded territory of the Wet'suwet'en Nation. The proposed construction of a massive $4.7 billion Coastal GasLink pipeline through Wet'suwet'en territory has been in the works for almost a decade, and finally, after years of harassment by numerous parties, including the Canadian government, the RCMP broke through the barricaded Gitdumt'en Checkpoint of the Wet'suwet'en territory. We discuss how (speaking as settlers in North America) we can begin to understand what this struggle for indigenous autonomy means, especially within the broader struggle to upend white supremacy and colonial expansion in the modern era. In being able to preserve, maintain, and defend space for human and non-human life against the tide of colonial expansion, the continued autonomy of the Unist'ot'en Camp and the Wet'suwet'en Nation is key in our collective attempt to reclaim, heal, and live on the lands that have been violated in the name of human progress, civilization, and maintenance of the status quo.

It must be stated that Will is not a member of the Wet'suwet'en Nation, nor a spokesperson for the Unist'ot'en Camp. He speaks as someone who has spent a significant amount of time at the Camp and has developed a deep respect and love for the Wet'suwet'en people, the Unist'ot'en Camp, and the beautiful space they hold in their struggle against the state of Canada and the fossil fuel industry. Learn more about the Unist'ot'en Camp support their struggle for autonomy at: <http://unistoten.camp>

Will Falk is a writer, lawyer, and environmental activist. Will graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison Law School and practiced as a public defender in Kenosha, WI. He left the public defender office to pursue frontline environmental activism. So far, activism has taken him to the Unist'ot'en Camp - an indigenous cultural center and pipeline blockade on uncaded Wet'suwet'en territory in so-called British Columbia, Canada, to a construction blockade on Mauna Kea in Hawai'i, and to endangered pinyon-juniper forests in the Great Basin. Learn more about Will's work at his website: <http://willfalk.org>

For further research, when I took the number of appearances of the letters of the word masad (13) in the chapter and subtracted there total from the number of appearances of the letters of the chapter title in the chapter, al-masad (34) I got 21 which of course is the total number of letters used in this entire chapter. also keep in mind that the total numerical letter value of the chapter is 5431 which is a prime number and its order among prime number is 717 which is a thread worthy of more research.

scoopwhoop.com/Banyan-Tree-Under-Arrest-Pakistan/

The tree was put under arrest more than a century ago, in 1898, when a British army officer, James Squid, under the influence of alcohol, thought that the tree was lurching towards him! Threatened by the tree's attempt, the officer decided to teach a lesson to the offender.

As a punishment for moving from its place, the British officer ordered the mess sergeant to arrest the tree.

Though, according to some locals, through this act, the British signalled the tribal people that they would meet a similar fate if they went against the government. Whatever the reason may be, the tree in captivity has made the area popular among people who come to have a look at one of the most random acts ever.

Correct, Piet 55, there is that GM108X again, 108 days until the end of this year.

But, there is no Day-out-of-Time in the Cosmic Turtle Calendar. The CTC counts every day/kin.

The differential of PVCS 245 days applies only to this first year.

Please let me know when you hear that Cees is OK

Thanks so much for this fascinating and synchronistic material, which I'm beginning to investigate.
2 of your recent e-mails have mentioned Palenque, after I booked a trip to there a moon ago--for July
I currently am having trouble accessing my blog [when I press Approve, it takes me to a site I recently opened -not posted there yet] This week, I'll have a computer pro help me get back onto my Skype account and to the admin board of 2013 - TMQ.
I'm currently re-reading the 5 remaining CHCs in my possession. Things are happening below the radar Hoping you're well and happy, Blessings from sunny Mexico, Claire 138

thank you for this precious 'proof of life' claire.
i posted a link to Claire Grace Watson on your about page today but already regret doing it before checking closer .... besides, i vaguely remember she passed thru my purview once before she seems to spend half her life in fantasies, reports on alledgedly lucid dreams in which pacal gave her his penis in her hand (one of 10 short stories) calling herself a mystery queen (among loads of other things). but if you do know more than this about her, i'd be happy to read it.

also .. it's hi time you offer a refresher to your audience huh?

ps: stilll haven't been to russia ... still planning to ... tips and contacts appreciated ...

.....of karma was already initiated on August 16, 1987. Within the radial matrix of galactic time, August 16, 1987, the Harmonic Convergence, and August 6, 1945, the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, bear the same galactic gateway: KIN 55, Blue Electric Eagle. Because a critical portion of humanity was able to be aroused and open again to the Sun at dawn, August 16, 1987, the process of reversing the 12:60 Dreamspell of History was able to commence.

According to the biosphere-noosphere transition timeline, this day signaled the arrival to Earth of the "New Galactic Beam", the entrance into higher resonance with the new 13:20 timing frequency and the activation of new evolutionary programs.

This was the second most important evolutionary threshold after the closing the 13-Baktun cycle of history on 2012-21-12 (OMEGA Point of 13-Baktun Map). Jose Arguelles described the significance of this passage as follows:

"But what is this beam? How do we describe it? What does it synchronize and how? In Mayan terms, this beam, the Great Cycle, measures 5,200 tun in diameter. In terms of kin or days, a tun consists of 360 kin/days each, or five days short of a vague solar year. An actual solar year is 365.2422 days. Thus 5,200 tun equals 5,125 vague solar years or 1,872,000 days.

As we have emphasized, the Mayan concern was with calibrating an equivalence between the calendar marking Earth's solar passage and the actual galactic harmonic.

The 5,200-tun cycle represents a fractal of the 52-unit key, the Loom of Maya, synthesizing the galactic harmonic. As a fractal, the 5,200-tun cycle can be broken into 260 units of 20 tun each called katuns, and 13 units of 400 tun each called baktuns. While the key harmonic number of a tun is 360 kin and the katun is 7,200 kin, the baktun is 144,000 kin. It is very important to keep in mind that Mayan numbers are multi-dimensional. Their translation into days or years does not mean that the numbers cease being operational for other factors or values. The cycle of history as a 5,200-tun diameter harmonic wave-pattern is but one slice of a multi-dimensional galactic hologram.

The Mayan Matrix, the Tzolkin or Harmonic Module, bearing the code of the galactic harmonic, informs all systems with a common regulatory resonance called the light body. Just as each living organism possesses a light body the D N A infrastructure and even the entire species has its common collective light body, so the planet, as a conscious organism, is also characterized by its evolving light body.

Like the light body of individual and collective organisms, the planetary light body is the consciously articulated resonant structure that regulates and allows for the fulfillment of evolutionary destiny. It is important to bear in mind that the planetary light body, embedded in the planet memory program, can only be activated by conscious, cooperative effort. As we shall see, the key to the conscious articulation of the planet light body in the science generically known as geomancy "Earth acupuncture."

"The prophetic date, December 21, 2012 marks the crest of a 104,000 tun galactic spiral density wave (1 tun = 360 days), an evolutionary shift point of unprecedented magnitude, this shift from mind to super mind and the standards of spiritual mental values over materialist ones.

From December 22 through the end of the 7 storm year, Day out of Time 2013 there are exactly 216 days. Six is the number of the cube, and as the number six cubed (6X6X6), 216 days represents the frequency of the perfect cube. This means that there are exactly six 36-day cycles following December 21, 2012, through the Day Out of Time, 2013, Kin 163, 7 Night. The next day, 26 July 2013, Kin 164 is known as galactic synchronization, the launching of the Timeship 2013. The six 36-day cycles represent the cubing of the earth, in which there are a pause before the next 104,000-tun wave begins its next pulsation. The last four of these 36-day cycles in the 144-day cycle of the "144,000 cubed within".

What is meant by the cubing of the earth is the super mental telepathic creation of a cube of perfection around the Earth, representing the six days of the second creation generating a New Heaven and a New Earth. "

Jose Arguelles — It is then of special interest that yesterday, February 4th we reached a perfect milestone of 2019 days from this portal right on the 26th day of this 7th moon, as this is the perfect analog date of July 26 (26th day of the 7th month):

7.26:7.26 ---- 2013:2019

It is also worth noting that tomorrow, day 2021 will synchronize in a very elegant way with both the 13-moon count and the Tzolkin count of 260 days. How is this?

The last day of this 7th moon corresponds also to the 28th day of the 28th week of the year and with KIN 104 13 Seed the last day of the 13-day wavespell of the Human and also OMEGA point of the second 52-day cycle of the Tzolkin: The white northern castle of crossing.

The date July 26th, 2020 represents therefore a master number milestone for humanity, as it marks the completion of a perfect cycle of 7 years from crossing the Galactic Synchronization event horizon. 2020 also refers to perfect vision, it is therefore an invitation to ask ourselves: "What is our collective vision for the planet?" TO BE CONTINUED.

Ultimate Mathematics and Miracle 19 of the Quran -Tape #15- 19K views -- Religion WhistleBlower -- Dec 10, 2014

You are going to witness some hidden secret in the Arabic Quran called "Hikma", which you have never heard before. In order to study the Arabic Quran you must learn the Arabic language as the Almighty Allah has been repeated 12 times in His Book. Here are the verses from the Arabic Quran if you want to find the only name for the Religion of Allah: (4:125; 2:130; 6:84-90; 2:136-285; 3:84-85; 3:179). Here are the verses that permits you to study the Arabic Quran (3:42; 5:41; 26:89; 37:84; 56:79; 98:2) and if you have qualification of these verses then you are able to understand the secret knowledge of the Arabic Quran called "Hikma" (2:269). Now we have the scientifically proven scripture, "The Untouched Message of the Almighty Creator" supported by mathematics, the exact science. There are 1500 pages of scientific reports available on mathematical miracles of the Arabic Quran, based on number 19, the hidden secret of the Quran, and the Ultimate mathematics of the Arabic Quran based on prime numbers, composites, twin primes, Gaussian primes, and so on plus 2.6 million websites. For newest "Hikma" you may click here: http://www.religionwhistleblower.com/...

Arabic Quran: http://www.religionwhistleblower.com/...

You must know that the Arabic Quran came down for all the people in the world. Quran does not have anything to do with those who came up with this fake and false Religion called Islam. Make sure do not get fooled by them. That is why they have been cursed and suffering all over the world.

note yesterdays 'ds' number was a very pivotal one in khalifa's life (it made him believe he was written into it, the kin number sticks to more liminal hintage i guess and what can you expect if you take gestation as a norm for everything .... bit of an anthropocentrizzum itself innit? and aren't i fulminating against implications of that as much as against those of literacy????), and so, .. some quirky english tin honour of turfie turfie tally tally ho ho ho:

When ever we stop learning that would be the time of our address change . . .

If you do not study the Arabic Ghor-on you would never ever get any Hikmat. If you study the Arabic Ghor-on you would find out that none of the followers of those messengers made it at the end. Except Youness. Moo-saw condemned his people and left them with his brother, E-saw and Dawwod cursed their people, Nooh, Ebrahim, . . . Do you know why? Because Allah choses the believers from among the pure ones and polluted ones (3:179). Therefore, you are sitting and praying with people who are pure and also they polluted, but you do not know them.

Now your job through your life time is to find out from the Arabic Ghor-on that why followers of the messengers will not make it at the end. And also to recognize who are the polluted ones, and pure ones around you. If you find the answer to these questions then you would be saved at the end.

Do not let that link fools you. You are not going to enter Heaven with math. Your test is Allah's Arabic Ghor-on.

That is your passport to Heaven. When people take a wrong step the Almighty guides them to that path. There is no word of "Authorized Translation" in the Arabic Ghor-on. The Almighty Allah does not go against His law.

Dr. Khalifa's job was only and only to deliver the mathematical miracle in the Arabic Ghor-on. As you know English Ghor-on does not have any mathematical confirmation. That is why Allah says, "We did not sent it down to you "the Ghor-on" in order to put you in difficulties" (20:2).

Thanks to the Almighty Allah, I just received this Hikmat as I am writing. Sobhan Allah! Allah say, "I sent you the Arabic Ghor-on in order to use your brain." But, we love to reject this awesome commandment, and instead we like to use some else's brain, and read his translation. .... It seems like you are not familiar with Ultimate mathematics of the Arabic Ghor-on came down few years after Dr. Khalifa. v=6LVFzHU4fKc

Tibetan girl makes headway in promoting quality community education - 271 views -- CGTN -- Mar 20, 2019

China's doing a great job in Tibet and Xinjiang. No unrest there and the people are enjoying progress and prosperity contrary to what has been told by western propaganda news.

yeah .. and / cause they learn to pay mining for toxtec no heed .. pretend that type of 'unrest' is not there either, that's cause the ziosinospherians get cured the minute they enter tibet and start to learn about soil and water instead of falling for toxtec, solidified desert memes.

between the lines this is all about the dirty tricks and pretty excuses to get people off the land so sinoidyids can get their claws on the rare earths beneath them .. and prevent complaints of them getting sick ... they'll use the old dilution solution for that ... let downstreamers deal with it

yes science is actually driven by a structural logic of math that philosopher professor Oliver L. Reiser called the "Music logarithmic spiral" - but he got that term from Esther Watson, the daughter of Thomas Watson who co-created the telephone. So we think of science as being the opposite of religion when in fact science IS a religion. Esther Watson got CLOSE to realizing the Ecofeminist truth when she wrote a letter to Einstein. See Einstein had supported this "Actual Matrix Plan" of Reiser via the UN - as I exposed back in 2001 -

So I call this the "Surplus Value of Consciousness" because the Cosmic Mother is always-already who we are as eternal LISTENING but since humans left the forest - we confused our GUT 2nd brain (the branches of the tree) as the roots of the tree - since as primates in the forest we like to swing upside down. So our Shrew tree ancestor had their Jawbone as OUR inner ear. So the Inner Smile is our psychic pineal gland Lunar energy connection to the Cosmic Mother as an electrogravitic transducer.

Another example of this carving's manifestation in pseudoarchaeology is the identification by JosÃ© Arguelles of "Pacal Votan" as an incarnation named "Valum Votan," who would act as a "closer of the cycle" in 2012 (an event that is also significant on Arguelles' "13 Moon" calendar). Daniel Pinchbeck, in his book 2012: The Return of Quetzalcoatl (2006), also uses the name "Votan" in reference to Pakal.

In the Mayan calendar, 13 lunar months of 28 days each ended in midsummer, on July 24. The Day Out of Time that completed the 365-day cycle became sacred - a day of forgiveness, peace and harmony, for being attuned to nature, and to exemplify that Time is Art.

In Roberts Creek, for the past six years, preparation for the Day starts a week or more before as hundreds of community artists cooperate to paint an original Mandala (featuring the 20 Solar Seals of the Galactic Maya). Artists Rob Marion and Erika Snowlake designed and developed the first Mandala as a statement of peace and love, and a positive reaction to the ugliness of hate graffiti in the area.

On July 25, we gather at Roberts Creek pier to honour the rising sun, then bless the newly created Mandala. These events are the only thing organized about the Day Out of Time. It just grows, sprouting music and magic, budding with happiness and dance - a day, a time for art.

Sean David Morton calls in from the slammer

Well, guess who was on the phone call-in line to Strange Universe radio yesterday. A clue: The call was interrupted by an official voice announcing "This call is from a federal prison." Yes, indeed, it was Mr. Scamalot himself, Sean David Morton, banged up for six years starting last September. Sean and his wife Melissa defrauded around 100 customers of $6 million between 2006 and 2007. According to the SEC, only a fraction of the money received by Morton went into foreign exchange trading accounts and the rest was placed in shell companies run by Morton and his wife. They also scored $480,323 off the IRA [oops, IRS...] with an entirely fraudulent 2008 tax filing.

Grandmother Francisca Kolipi: "Thunder Shaman" - Mapuche Machi - Chile --- 105 views - Jaguar Bird - Mar 31, 2019

This is a collection of words, photos and video clips about Grandmother Francisca Kolipi., a Catholic, Mapuche Machi (shaman) from the community of Millali in the Araucañá region of southern Chile.

This is an edited/condensed version of a paper written by Ana Mariella Bacigalupo, before the release of her book: "Thunder Shaman". The complete paper is available at academia.edu. and the book itself, is available through Amazon.

In the rural community of Millali, the spirit of a thunder shaman named Rosa Kurin from southern Argentina, struck 39-year-old Francisca with a lightning bolt and possessed her, thereby transforming her into a "Machi" (Shaman).

"My stomach fell as if they had cut it off," Francisca told me. "I ripped off my sweater and my shoes. I was like crazy. My head was drunk

The sky opened and I was hit by lightning. The spirits brought me down my kultrun (drum). Then I looked upward and they gave me all the remedies I should use.

They got my right arm and gave it power. I drummed and prayed and the earth-quake stopped. I saved the world." - (March 24th 1992).

I claim no ownership of any of the clips, video, music and words expressed in this video...and employ my borrowing of them with much respect and thanks. Credits are given at the end of the video.
No personal monetization is being done with this video, by me..., nor am I receiving any other benefits from any of this video.. It is meant for all.., to heal, teach, discuss, inspire and inform...and share.

Subtitled The Neo-American Church Catechism, the Boo Hoo Bible is practical guide to life from the church's founder, Art Kleps. A classic of psychedelic small press hilarity, its got everything from sci-fi creation myths to instructions for setting up and properly tithing your own branch of the the church. It reads like a dairy of a highly intelligent hippy with a god complex. It is full of great charts, lists and illustrations that support Mr. Kleps well developed if slightly naive take on human existence. I highly recommend getting a copy for your bunker, if the man hasn't burned them all yet.

Donald Trump Humanizes Our Post-Literate Culture

WFUOGN ----- by Kyle Ferrer

The harangue from Trump supporters listing the laudable qualities of our celebrity president are myriad and borderline mystical.

To wit: Trump is an outsider who cuts through the political pablum, speaking in a no-nonsense, New York vernacular; Trump's personal fortune extricates him from the influence of big donors, authenticating his ideas; Trump's rough-hewn, business impulse creates a bottom-line presidency dedicated to crude (and sometimes cruel) efficiency. These qualities that some say are admirable - simplistic language, self-sourced ideas and a fast-twitch, business instinct - find their anti-intellectual inception in what Marshall McLuhan calls a post-literate society, now epitomized by our post-literate president. The notion that Trump's mind is not an austere, calculated intellect as much as it is a barren landscape where life struggles to take root becomes less insulting (sadly, not less worrisome) when we read it as a cultural inevitability. Claimed to be a materialization of the anti-elitist, anti-politico ache, Trump really remains a product of a televisual culture fixated on the image. His degenerate language skills and self-promoting ethos stem from a post-text society in which a kaleidoscope of images massages thought into an empty elevator pitch. Continue reading at WFUOGN

King Trump

Declared by me sometime before 30 June 2017:

To "make America great again", President Donald J Trump must retrieve visual/kinetic archetypes/values, i.e., the abrasive, opinionated, Newtonian billiard-ball "literate" individual ("I will defend to my death the right for you to disagree and insult me!").

This goes against the 20th-Century's electric mandate for the corporate, "tribal" put-on (the paleolithic state is "God", i.e., fascism, socialism, communism, liberalism, conservatism - all quadrophrenically apply to the USA) to be worn at all times by the multi-correct President via the major TV networks like CNN.

President Barack Obama was the last of that ilk. But now under post-Android Meme, iONic/Dobbsic conditions, the President must create his own anarchistic "visual" spaces to keep up with the anarchic lifestyles of most North American-orbiting citizens and bureaucratic institutions.

This puts the "journalist/entertainer" in a very uncomfortable position trying to relate an image of iconic centralism (the old copacetic role of the English language) to their post-information cyclicity.

It can't be done anymore. This is why President Trump will be "king" as long as he wants. We (all 7 billion of us), with our five Bodies, can't be toppled today so we let the iconic janitors keep curling/sweeping as long as they stay out of the way of our quadrophrenic stutter/flow. Viva 150 YEARS!!!

Oh, by the way, listen to the first 3 songs of this while you absorb the impact of my facts.

2. The American Civil War was a media war - the telegraph vs. New England industry (Marshall McLuhan).

4. The Trump Era is a multi-body war (Ingredients: the Chemical Body, the Astral Body, the TV Body, and the Chip Body) -

President Trump's "Rumpelstiltskin" vs. the Android Meme's quadrophrenia (the Four Bodies in discontinuous hyper-exchange that can be organized conveniently via McLuhan's tetrad for useful pattern-recognition [like a comforting security blanket]).

Ethics can't be applied in getting a perspective on this PARAMODERN war (for starters, see McLuhan's statements on how "discarnate man" cannot live or be judged under Natural Law "conditions").

Bob Dobbs, "I Say There's Now, Life Before Death"

The Chemical Body thinks we're living in a Global Village/Magnetic City (Wyndham Lewis); the TV Body thinks we're living in a Global Theater; the Astral Body thinks we're living in a Mythic Erogenous Zone (see McLuhan's introduction to Key's SUBLIMINAL SEDUCTION); and the Chip Body thinks we're living in a Global Membrane (see McLuhan's Dec., 1964, NATION Magazine review of Burroughs wherein he coins the term). A Rolling Stone article with the headline "Acid Crawlback Fest: Armageddon Postponed" and published Aug. 3, 1972 read:

"By the middle of May, all 800 or so people in Granby expected to be overrun - by an estimated one million fanatic Christ and dope addicts coming to a blasphemous festival at Table Mountain, right smack in the middle of their park."

<https://www.welcomehome.org/tech/shantisena/carlas-story.html>

At one point, it sounded like the folks hanging out there were leaving, and I heard someone tromping down the hill right behind my tent in a really noisy way. My dog was startled and jumped up, barking at the "intruder." I heard cussing, more barking, a yelp, and then the guy really went off, yelling about how my dog had bitten him.

I left my tent to go mellow things out. The guy and the dog were behind my tent, she standing about a dozen feet from him barking, and he standing there swearing and threatening her life. While I did not believe Lacy had actually bitten him, I apologized anyway and put her on a leash. He bitched loudly about not being able to find all the dog food that he had just gone to town that day to get for his puppy. I offered to use my flashlight to help find it - seems he had several cans of dog food in a plastic bag, and when my dog jumped up to protect her camp, he had slung the whole bag at her. It had torn, and cans of food were all over the place. It looked like he had swung the bag as hard as he could.

Well, he was very drunk. And you know what, I'm one of the folks who works the front gate a lot. I like most of the A-campers, and for the most part we work with each other really well, with a lot of mutual respect. At times I have been mistaken for an A-camper or a drinker because I hang out with them at the gates, the road, and Bus Village. Most of the guys themselves think I am an ex-drinker (I never have cared for it much), which I consider a compliment. I also work with drunks a lot in my job, and know how to deal with them pretty well.

It is largely dissynchronous timing standards that have kept human beings off-balance and alienated from the natural cycles of the Earth they inhabit. The worst culprit is the Gregorian calendar, and by extension the "12:60 frequency" that it fosters - together these have become, in essence, the inescapable time clock of globalist capitalism. Ben Padiah (Angel) Scroll The "Angel Scroll" or the Book of the Visions of Yeshua ben Padiah ----- February 26, 2017 -- Michael Moore

Four months ago I was approached by a senior writer from the Jerusalem Report, Netty Gross, and was asked if I would help verify the existence of a Dead Sea Scroll manuscript which had not been published previously.

I was aware of a story, known by other scholars, that there was at least one rather well-preserved scroll which had made its way to Europe and which was similar to the Book of Enoch or Jubilees. This may be identified as the source of a scroll fragment examined by Prof. John Strugnell sometime in 1967-1968 which he described elsewhere as something "resembling the Book of Enoch"

-----Bob Dobbs -- May 19, 2016 at 2:12 PM ..... Read Arthur Kroker's essay in THE POSTMODERN SCENE (1986) on the discovery of the third aspect of perception that evokes the "individual self/soul" (a spectacular and bizarre effect of the phonetic alphabet, not evoked by earlier writing systems that the Hindus used). Gnosticism is an effect of the phonetic alphabet. The "New Agers" (literate Boomers and Generation Xers) are nostalgic for this alphabetic effect CONCEPTUALLY as they flounder around in the tactile squared, post-self, post-"love" (recently said by iON) extensions of postmodern media.

-----Papa Robotnik July 25, 2018 at 2:46 AM .... That is brilliant !

-----Brent Baskin (quoting me [Bob Dobbs] 15 or more years ago) 9:25am, 29 Nov 2018:

"but I have the tape of that interview" McLuhan says "you know I have ESP", and she goes "what?". Now here's a print, academic, university guy, you couldn't talk about having ESP in the 60's and 70's and this is 1974, he says "I have ESP", that's pretty neat. He says "I can feel it, when a friend of mine is in New Guinea" which would be Ted Carpenter; she was stunned by that, you can hear it in the interview, but she didn't put it in the print version.

Now you go back to an essay, in 1957 Explorations, called "Electronics as ESP". Now this is the key point, how is electronics ESP? And then in later books he points out that ESP is a nineteenth-century knee-jerk concept. See, he knows that you have a certain literate version of ESP, and he needs to break that down, so he doesn't mean "ESP" as you normally think when he says "Electronics is ESP", he really means tactility as ESP. So here we have electronics, an extension of ESP, which is the most Paleolithic intimate environment. When humans first interacted, they didn't call it ESP but they had a very sensitive response; they had a very intimate response with their sensory environment. In retrospect we romanticize the shaman awareness, and we call it right-hemisphere and all this, but it's natural. But as McLuhan said each new invention they made would push their awareness out into an environment, so the tools they made would limit, change the ratios in their initial sensitivity. So if electronics has brought us back to a Paleolithic sensitivity, then for me to say that we are resonating in one node, and only one person, one thing can represent it, and therefore there's no relationship, there's no connection with anything, then you understand why Carpenter and McLuhan's book "They Became What They Beheld". Starts off with the phrase "only connect" What are you going to connect with? If we're all one thing, then "as McLuhan was once asked, "will there ever be silence?" and he said, "objects are unobservable, only relationships among objects are observable." So that was his answer; silence is one object, one thing, they're unobservable

Ryan, thank you for getting a hold of Lyons. Jesus means the seed that is set in the Earth only to rise up and be born or resurrected. He is a symbolic story that reflects what happens in the heavens, the story of the sun. The sun's story is personified in human form, so they say the "word" made flesh. The language of light spoken through a person in flesh. As above so below. IHS is the Greek abbreviation sounds like 'yes'. Yes, he is the way. The story of Jesus is no different than that of Buddha and hundreds of others. He, just like Hercules who carried the pillars of reality, the ones erected on the Mediterranean towards the Atlantic that pointed to the sun, is the story of taking the leap of faith to believe in the light of God. GOD is made of letters that also show you the division and cycle of the circle. The division of the circle creating the letter C. This is the very beginning of the serpent of knowledge. To know the ledge is to know the coin and how it spins the cycles. The word coin comes from a root word meaning cleft, or edge. A creation from a cut, creating a head and a tail, beginning and end, alpha and omega. Also creating the alpha-bet, compound word meaning house of the alpha. Like "beth-lehem": house of bread/food. I can talk forever about this, if this connects please contact me as I'd love to tell so much about the hidden 'angles' of creation and how we are today living in the flood/blood or waters of con-science-ness where the Ness monster/oroboros/snake/dragon guards the eternal womb, elixir of life. That is the fountainhead. I know this may not make as much sense but I'd love to have some time to describe this. Please respond to this if it p33ks your interest so we can correspond.

We see something very phenomenal: Even though the life of the biosphere is just a very, very thin and very fragile film, it has, nonetheless, remained constant, going through innumerable numbers of changes, continuously transforming cosmic energy.

That is the basic definition Vernadsky gives to the biosphere, that the biosphere is the region of the Earth for the transformation of cosmic energy. So when we think about that and we say, "Well if the trees are doing their photosynthesis, what are we doing with the cosmic energy? What are we doing with the solar energy?"

I know some people like to use it to get a good tan, but that really is only skin deep. So what are we really doing with the cosmic energy? That is a question we keep needing to raise. When we talk about the invariance and continuity of life, it's invariable in the quantity that exists because, as we see, there is only so much air, so much atmosphere - and all of this is actually a delicate balance. So the continuity of this invariant mass is continuously going through changes, through transformations of cosmic energy. This is what Vernadsky called the biogenic migration of atoms. In other words, when we eat that bread, that actually was at one point some wheat of a p236 of 544

We are living in this little contained envelope, a very thin contained envelope, where these processes are continuously recycling. We see through the biogenic migration of atoms, that the atoms we are recycling have been around for millions or billions of years. So when people have past life memories, maybe it was something they ate. It's nothing psychological at all. We see this is a very delicate balance. Vernadsky also noted that as we proceed through the life process, the human species is unique because through the thought process of the human, it was able to create concrete effects of change in the natural environment. Vernadsky describes this whole process that we talk about as a bio-geo-chemical process. But the introduction of the humans with the projections of its thoughts began, in time, to accelerate the biogeochemical process, until we come to a point of biogeochemical combustion.

What's more, the perceptions you have today can fit nicely with the shifting perceptions of those around you.

Have a smooth relaxed flight, see all around you and zoom in on the appropriate tasks as they surface, one after another...

[Extra message from Laurence to contemplate on 6 Eagle. First posted on 6 Eagle of 4 August 2011, but still highly relevant today; all figures updated for 6 Eagle of 3 June 2019:]

Post-2012 and Planetary Consciousness

Eagle gives us access to the planetary consciousness, which is a level of development on our horizon. Once a sufficient number of people develop planetary consciousness, this will give rise to a planetary civilisation.

The developmental level for individual human consciousness - and for society as a whole - of a globalised culture is the precursor to planetary consciousness.

Connected World — Image found on Google

Globalisation - which includes global economics and politics - is rapidly emerging and will reach a certain critical juncture over the next 5 to 15 years with the full coverage of the internet. Internet access is presently available for 4.39 billion of Earth's 7.70 billion humans (with 5.11 billion of us being 'unique mobile users'). With the next level of mobile technology, this will dramatically increase - along with internet sensors, which are now appearing in public places, on buildings, on street corners and the like. This is the beginning of the all-seeing Matrix and the integrated global linkup. Internet sensors will most likely far exceed humans, in terms of the number of internet portals.

To this we need to factor in the following realities that are occurring today and which are barely reported in the mainstream media: ----- The troublesome innovations in genetic sciences, where all manner of genetic mutation are being produced, including human/animal hybridisation; =----- The potential convergence of technology, such as computerisation and genetic manipulation, leading to artificial life forms, cyborgs and robots, which can act as hosts to other-dimensional beings;

The large number of extraterrestrial species that are moving in and out of our atmosphere and yet are also resident on Earth, in underground bases and even walking amongst us; ----- Advanced reverse engineering of alien technology by semi-secret groups or special interest groups, which has been carried out since the 1940s;

Extraterrestrial agreements with governments and special interest groups;

Pollution and environmental instability, with increased space weather as the dominant factor in the environmental situation; and, ===== A groundswell of awakening in the alternative world that the truth of history, evolution and science is extraordinarily different from that which is being artificially perpetuated within our mainstream education and informational environment, which is decades behind cutting-edge research and evidence.

We are accelerating towards what I call the Omnidirectional Gate, which is a portal of choice regarding our reality.

Planetary consciousness is the awareness that we are not living on an enclosed globe of human society, but that we live within the Earth's consciousness field and that, as co-creators of the Earth, we are part of a complex living system.

Furthermore, this living system is an open system; Earth exists within the cosmic plasma ocean.

Planetary civilisation is the culmination of one order of evolution and the start of the next order of evolution. A big part of my work is showing how this level of development is a natural emergence of individual psychological development and a natural artefact of a highly populated planet. I also explore the basic structure of such a society. This issue will be most pressing as we move into the 2020sâ€.

This, and the two images above, represent Laurence's conception of the Holosphere

- his holographic understanding of the solar system - which contains within it the Enchantments of Life model, which in turn reveals the structure of the individual human psyche and its symbiotic relationship with cultural development.

Through an understanding of the orbital realms, the entire solar system can be read as a code for the whole of human evolution, history and cultural expression

When you reach the second floor hallways be sure to look up. One of the important features of the Châteaux de Chambord are the architectural carvings in the vaulted ceilings. There you will find the letter F, for François I, and his emblem the salamander. He left his mark, the salamander, on the buildings that he had constructed or that he modified. I've been told that there are more than 800 different salamanders on the ceiling of the main hall, but I have yet to find a book to document the information. Regardless, there are an incredible quantity of salamanders carved in stone and one could totally miss the rest of the beautiful architecture if you concentrated only on the salamanders.

iON on vacations in Paris. Hidden in plain view, the Alchemist wrote their recipies, but they used methaphores, the argot, the green language of the changes that were to occur. The horses of the Apocalypse are actually alchemical operations of different stages in the transformation of matter, affecting both humans and the Environment.

In the book "the Mystery of the Cathedrals", Fulcanelli showed this knowing to the masses, explaining the meaning of the architectural decorations of Gothic architecture. L'Art Gotique, the gothic art, mixing Goetia (Magic) and the secret Argot. They were like the Argonauts, exploring the Path, encountering Monsters, or thunders (That Joyce translates as the technologies, creating the changes, the expansions of men, that Marshal McLuhen saw as the cause of the real transmutation of men). Thank you piety piet5 for your question.

Unfortunately my beloved Laurence is no longer with us on the Earthly planes to answer your question himself, so I will do my best. There are 5 other pages on this blogsite that you might want to explore (look in the menu, although it is probably easier to access if you use this site on a computer, rather than a phone).

Also, just to clarify, the Mayan Sacred Calendar (sometimes called Dreamspell) is a 260-day calendar, which is in fractal resonance with the Mayan Long Count Calendar of 26,000 tun. These are just two of the at-least 17 separate but interlocking calendars used by the Maya (and the pre-Maya civilizations).

Here is what Laurence says, taken from our Mayan Sacred Calendar handbook (which I have not yet had the chance to make into an e-book, this is the handbook we used for our workshops):

â€”The Long Count calendar measures the Earth's relationship with the Galaxy and is based on a 26,000 tun cycle (one tun is 360 days). This gives us a period of 25,625 of our civil years. The 260-day Tzolkin is a fractal of the 26,000 tun Earth-Galaxy cycle, which is to say it is in harmonic resonance. So by following the 260-day rhythm on a day-to-day basis, you tune your consciousness to the incoming high energy associated with the 2012 era and the Earth changes we see all around us. The 260-day and the 26,000-tun cycles describe the influx of gestating energies and their potentials coming into manifest form.'

If you would like to explore more about the Mayan calendrical systems, then here are two websites that might be of interest. This one, by our friend Geoff Stray, focuses on the Long Count Calendar:

<http://www.diagnosis2012.co.uk/oldindex.htm>

This one is another excellent site about the Mayan Sacred Calendar: www.mayanmajix.com

CLEVER SIMPLETON COUNTS LETTER AMOUNTS NOT VALUES ... LIKE A TRUE EQUALITARIAN ... HUMAN'S TIES TO GOD BUSTED DOWN TO ATOMIC LEVELS COULD BE A GENIUS MOVE ACTUALLY ... HMMM???

New Mexicans for Science and Reason --- Code 19 in the Quran? --- by Dave Thomas : nmsrdaveATswcp.com (Help fight SPAM! Please replace the AT with an @) Amazing "19" Codes Found in the American Declaration of Independence! :::: "When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation."

QOUTING THE DESCRIPTION OF A TRICOLOR DIAGRAM:

In the image above, the words of the first paragraph of the Declaration of Independence are listed vertically. To the right of each word appears the number of letters in that word (punctuation marks such as commas and apostrophes have been omitted, per standard code custom).

The Red Boxes show all the occurrences of groups of contiguous words (e.g., a few words IN A ROW) which have sums of letters equalling 19. BEHOLD - THERE ARE EXACTLY 19 SUCH "COINCIDENCES" !!! Each occurrence is identified with a bold-face number above the corresponding Red Box.

The Blue Boxes show all the occurrences of words occurring ONLY ONCE in the entire Declaration of Independence, AND WHICH ALSO appear in the first paragraph: BEHOLD - THERE ARE EXACTLY 19 SUCH WORDS !!! Each occurrence is numbered with an italicized number to the left of the corresponding Blue Box.

Is "Code 19" found ONLY in the Quran? Quite simply, "NO!" (Or, as the slang expression goes, "Not a chance!") exactly ja/vv's point right?

#536 Taking Back the Rainbow, and the intellectual dark web spiders eat themselves -- 79K views -- Owen Benjamin - Jun 3 end 26th minute you shift thru rainbow history from noah to duh gayz ... ever heard of the rainbow family buddy? And this after a long rant about how exceptionally fast your brain works? faster than 'brainslow' i guess huh?

how different is rectal hygiene from it's uncontroversial dental equivalent? Nobody insists a dick is the only tool to measure bad breath right?

wanna know what the 'other' side of the rainbow is? follow it to the bitter truth end, not the pot of gold one ... it's moral perhaps mirrored by the story element sequence, shown in reverse, like so: rainbow weather attracts and sustains diversity .. a shipwreck will come and settle down but he'll overplay his winning hand and crowd too many disparate organisms that come in on trade routs together until sin ensues ... it's a condemnation of [occupation / regime change / demoncrazy] atlanticism.

this is a brand new interpretation ... i used to pass along a different one: floodplains (hi diversity, hi fertility areas) need not houses but tethered boats able to ride up and down ... rather than dikes and rainwaterpumpin windmills ... if long term stability is dear to you ...

All Allah Names | Seven Mathanis 1/2 + 99 Names Hadith Fake

86 views - The Warner -- Jun 12, 2019

1080p60 - AHL-Oi19-S1B | This video is part 1 of 2 of the Seven Mathaanis (15:87, the next video) and it explains a major part of the 7 Mathaanis - Phase 1 of the Quran Cipher. At Part 2/2, it will become very clear why I presented this first instead of what the Seven Mathaanis are.

Thus, this video is critical to see before you understand what the Seven Mathaanis are, as it directly interconnects with it (as explained in this video).

This video contains a 'Sheet' of the Q-Exegesis File which is called: *All Allah Names & Attributes*. I also explain that you can visit: AllAllahNames.com to see that 'Sheet' in Real-time.

There are over 5000 different Names & Attributes of Allah in the entire Quran. You may have noticed that God's names are pretty long and of many sizes therein because Allah SWT Names & Attributes do not follow the rules of Anthroponymy. Which is the study of the names of human beings like how we have names and certain attributes.

Since Allah SWT is NOT a human being, rules of Anthroponymy do not apply to him.
This video will end by proving that the 99 Names of Allah Hadith is FAKE as there are over 5000 different names and attributes in the Quran. Surah Baqarah (2) has over 100 different Names & Attributes of Allah SWT.
Additionally, this video will prove that ALL Hadith/Ahadith Chain of Narrators are HYPOCRITES and are NOT trustworthy.

The Milky Way Churn is a big thing thru-out asia, but neutered into static meaninglessness or pageantry at best the same way a western fair ferris wheel don't dynamize gravity to harvest a surplus which we were well on our way to learning via Bessler and the still alive Finsrud, etcetera.

That rock to soil unstowgrowmakery came from the vedans by way of cernunnos ... one and all are now suppressed to a handful of 'part[er]s per billion. The weathering tickle is the easiest and funnest 'ethingkc' for kids to grasp which is why access to them and access by them to it gets militantly and jealously guarded by the dependencymongers and it's all about defenselessness when you talk about the slickness of slnglecellers whose every nonvote counts if you take the tasks of democracy sacredly, riiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiite?????

What was Jesus' complaint regarding kids again? I dare say i have SUMthing in common with that geezer.

Meanwhile, even would be revivalists of permie / primie type regionalizzum like Jose Arguelles are challenged to do so and fail.

Over It are 19 | Phase II of Cipher Jibra-El (1/2) - AHL.S2.1/3

how could we ever guess? quick digest:

over IT are 19 (sura 74:30) refers to scorching grilling planks over one of 7 hells (as per previous verse) the construction occurs 6 times, once the same and 5 times referring to a plank tablet ... some sort of book holder judging by the illustration

27th minute: godfearing and 'fearful of' are not synonymous ... dutch equivalent of the former is 'godvruchtig' (pious, vroom), the latter is bang / angstig (guilty conscience referring to deeds rather than being born in sin, which dutch flavors of kkkristDjinnity hold)

54:13 = noah's 'plankery' (last ones referred to) so ... 6 around 1 and 12 around that is the 19 flower / hive / cell companions of the fire comes around 20x .. it kinda means angels (guardians of hell) but comes with a handful of mundane characteristics / functions after the last occurence: 74:31 is the 20th

When I began to struggle with colour code and assigning 13 of them to the 'tones', then triggering shifts from one day to the next with a simple 'replace all', I did not yet realize that days ending with quotes caused a headache .. not to mention skipped days .... endless tries and scrolls [not to mention quite a few years] later I found that using /span over /font has many advantages. They are 'honoured by Libre Office [a linux editor that converts to pdf for example]. ----- This file has many 'gap' days [missing dates .. cause no relevant notes jotted that day] and unlike the 2018 files .. I did not add them to make the colours 'jump along' as in the list below. So in that sense I allowed them to be chaotic here, which allows me to avoid loads of work.

the comet i saw WAS a comet and is suspected to have come down near Zwolle, about 90 miles from here .. which reminds me ... on my way to milk the other day i paused to collect large swan feathers close to the backroad right by one of the last substantial, but a short row of trees (mature poplars), in the shade of which the male presided over swanniness with a view of the 8 other members in his family, going down a 2 yard wide 'sloot' slobbering and doing their swan language. He was suspicious at first but settled into relaxed dignity by the time i finished pleading my string of plights .... I talked to him awhile, cried at him a little and felt well relieved afterwards.

sigh ... been 4 off for who knows how long is it 8 tzolkins minus a 'hunab ku' day?

.. those hunab ku days irk me .....

In the original Mesoamerican calendar, there were 13 days not part of any month at the end of a 52-year cycle to account for leap years.

If the Gregorian calendar weren't in existence at all, the 0.0 Hunab Ku would still be the necessary intercalary day to keep the 52-year cycle (of 18,980 days) intact.

Numbering of the years

So far there is no "official" numbering system for the years. The years are simply named after the first day of the year. For example, a year that begins with a "Blue Magnetic Storm" day is called "Blue Magnetic Storm Year". This creates a cycle of 52 years, made out of four cycles of 13 years each. The basis of the Dreamspell Calendar is that time is not linear, but cyclic, and so does not require a strict "numbering" of years.

However, ArgÃ¼elles recently address this issue because many followers of the calendar inquired how to number the days. He explained a system, similar to the dating system of the Mayan calendar (for example, 13.0.0.0). The system simply counts from the first year of the Dreamspell (1987), with the initials "NS" â€” standing for "New Sirius" cycle, since the 52-year cycle of the Dreamspell calendar is the same as the 52 years it takes Sirius B to orbit Sirius A. For example, if it is 23 years after the beginning of the Dreamspell, month 1, day 2, the date is "NS1.23.1.2"

This system, as mentioned above, is similar to the dating system of the "Mayan calendar" cycle which "ends" on December 21, 2012. However, there have recently been discovered dated Mayan artifacts which predict dates well into the future, far beyond 2012:

"It is interesting that recent decodings of the hieroglyphs at Palenque, which are understood to have been made during the reign of Pacal the Great, refer to dates beyond the end of the Long Count calendar. On the Tablet of the Inscriptions at Palenque a date of 1.0.0.0.0.8 5 Lamat 1 Mol can be inferred " otherwise known as 21 October 4772, almost 3000 years in the future. Perhaps we can deduce from this that Pacal himself believed that the end of the fifth age did not represent the end of time or of the Earth, and that his name would be still mentioned in the sixth age." David Douglas, p. 133, The Mayan Prophecy 2012 (2009)[7]

For three days they twitter and hover in holding sostenuto pattern under the piano and on the three inches of porch space available and or under the dining room table with the piles of bookmaking material: wedges, awls, bone folders, 100 clamps and shims and wdgcs of all sizes and descriptions, calmps, paper cutters, canvas, binding thread, glue, squares, hammers and rulers, planes, sanding paper, wx paer needles of all curves and linear kind Then the two on polar ends fly away on the 5th, then one on the eight Then one on the eleventh 13 days Whose signature, wave and tone will we be under?

This people dont have nothing to do in San Agustin, if you Rainbow Land Promise Land is a bunch of disoriented pseudo hippies, all day smoking ganja, then you are in the right place, lack of discipline to really create a Eco Town or something that look serious, is just a bunch of plastic shelltters where they engage in sex, drugs, etcâ€¦is just a disgrace to compare the Rainbow Land with those suckersâ€¦and for sure is not going to last longer. the Paramilitars or the Guerrilla, will trow them out very soon.

why don't you teach those mobs to bow before the charismatic real quick .. to make up for your slander ... that fella is a famous artist or something .... but yeah ... no respect for sensitives in SA, specially those who make a stand, not even for those who do so in very out of the way places. We are already putting all our resources in adding the land with our precious water source into our care. The ownership will go to a collective association formed by all of us with the rainbow crystal Land vision as its manifesto. In this process we want liberate as much additional land as possible, and there is a lot around us. The mountain range in front of us still protects us for airborne contamination of GMO-crop that is increasing Worldwide. It also provides the magical gathering place where we held the last rainbows here. Even though the land prices rose rapidly, this land I still undervalued because it used to be too cold here in the last decades for comercial use. This has changed and investors catching up on this.

We are lucky enough that we do not need money anymore to sustain the family that is here already. But we can do way more than that.

I went to the 40-acre sustainable Permaculture community Jasper Hall in Australia in 2010 with an intention to work as a WWOOF'er... but instead of getting my hands dirty I ended up behind the camera again. This is a video to introduce Jasper Hall to the world, very much as THEY wanted it to be. For myself, I imagine a slower, longer and more poetic film which will go deeper into such interesting concepts such as community and sustainability, in general.... some day!

Spaceship Earth -- July 26, 2019 -- I can't do this anymore

The world is ending because of global warming and I just spent the day pulling trees out of the ground because they were in the "wrong" place and because someone paid me to do it. I've often said "we don't need to plant trees, we need to let trees plant themselves" and yet I'm removing them willingly. How do I forgive myself? I guess it doesn't matter if I do, but I need to change what I do in the future. Today I killed hundreds of trees and other plants. Some were edible and all would have provided habitat for other species and cooled the planet a little. I am not a gardener, I am a destroyer. I can't do this anymore. My renewed mission is to move away from the monetary system as much as I can so I don't have to kill things anymore. Maybe I will be able to help others do so as well. Oh yeah, and another of my missions is to take more naps. I need to sleep when I can because my brain doesn't like the sleep schedule our culture forces on us.

maybe the trees can feed mushrooms and the mycelium will feed the dead trees to the living trees. There is still necessary death in the cycle of life. My ABC (chinese) high school friend used to stay up at nights in the summer since it is too hot. Made sense to me. Also it is more quiet at night. So then I take a siesta during the day or a couple power naps. But I have that luxury right now. Still we need to check up on our sleep. I tend to go off caffeine and then catch up on my sleep. Then I end up going back on caffeine if I am driving long distance, etc.

Yes I drink tons of water :-} I think I get enough because I usually don't end up with headaches . I cover up from head to toe as well because that sun is insanely bright! Seriously, even when the plants are all hydrated the leaves shrivel in the sun. There was a neighbour of one of our clients who commented on it the other day she said "the sun is different now. It makes the leaves droop!" That was the first person to notice it. She's a little old Chinese lady, so no wonder she's smarter than most eh.

This evening I had a chance to finish reading Mark Fisher's phd thesis Flatline Constructs: Gothic Materialism and Cybernetic Theory-Fiction. Weaving together the CCRU-era emphasis on capital's radical deterritorializing edge with foreshadows of the critique honed in his later writings (the concept of "capitalist realism' even makes a brief appearance), Fisher bounces Deleuze and Guattari's nomad thought and Baudrillard's cool pessimism off on another to explore the uncanniness creeping in through ultra-late cybernetic capitalism. This uncanniness is explored, as the title of the thesis suggests, through the lenses of "gothic materialism."

Fisher:

Gothic Materialism is flat with its material; it names both the mode of analysis and what is to be analyzed. It does not arbitrarily conjoin materialism with the Gothic, but insists that all effective materialism must lead out towards a non-organic (dis)continuum. Amongst other things, the Gothic can serve as the proper name for this continuum, and cyberpunk is the registering of its arrival on the terminal shores of a wired humanity. Whilst an organicist left finds in cyberpunk the quietist collapse of transformative political projects into a "hardboiled" "survivalist" hyper-nihilism, Gothic materialism locates in Baudrillard's ecstatic communication, Gibson's hyperspace, Jameson's total flow, and Cronenberg's Videodrome the map of a hypermediatized capitalism that is decoding privatized subjectivity. /Q

Going Stag

On March 20, 2019 By edmundberger

1950s-american-population-growth-industry-footage-082902135_prevstill

In the comments to yesterday's post, DMF posted an interesting, albeit short article published yesterday by Yanis Varoufakis on the topic - appropriately enough - of stagnation. The bulk of piece deals with what Varoufakis considers to be the myth of the single, floating, real (that is, one adjusted for inflation) interest rate, that concept so central to what we might describe as "neoliberal governmentality" (though I must add that, as time goes on, I find the term "neoliberal" and the politico-economic histories associated with it to be suspect). Such a thing cannot exist, he argues, for if it did capitalism would never stagnate "unless a meddling government or self-seeking trade union damaged its dazzling machinery". Varoufakis then proceeds to lay out three reasons for why this is not true:

The "real interest rate" what Varoufakis calls the "magic number" does not exist.
Even if it did exist, there is no rational mechanism that would drive things towards that convergence point.
Capitalism has a relative tendency that sees the market 'usurp[ed]' via the strengthening of what John Kenneth Galbraith called the cartel-like managerial technostucture".

A key pivot for Varoufakis is that capitalism's absolute tendency is not towards a roaming equilibrium, but towards stagnation. It is the universal law of development, occulted by the rhetoric of the free marketeers and the complexity of the global financial markets. He correctly notes that investment is lagging, and that insofar as firms are doing something with their cash reserves, it is mergers and acquisition and financial instruments that rule the day. We thus encounter a forking path:

capitalism has only one natural tendency: stagnation. Like all tendencies, it is possible to overcome by means of stimuli. One is exuberant financialization, which produces tremendous medium-term growth at the expense of long-term heartache. The other is the more sustainable tonic injected and managed by a surplus-recycling political mechanism, such as during the WWII-era economy or its postwar extension, the Bretton Woods system. But at a time when politics is as broken as financialization, the world has never needed a post-capitalist vision more. Perhaps the greatest contribution of the automation that currently adds to our stagnation woes will be to inspire such a vision.

There are several points, all of which are in need of further elucidation, I would like to make:

-- The positioning of stagnation as the absolute tendency, as opposed to a relative tendency, is a dubious maneuver. Similarly, the implications, as far as governmental policy is concerned, for stagnation to be posed as the absolute is that the need for stimulation becomes ubiquitous and diffused across the whole of developmental history writ large. This too is dubious, and runs roughshod over the highly bounded character, historically speaking, of such forms of state management.

A proper analysis of the role of stimulation must unfold alongside the proper positioning of the state - which, after all, is the bourgeois state - not as some transcendent figure standing in some Archimedean point outside the capitalist mode of production, but as fully enmeshed within the matrices of that mode's historical epoch.

--The analysis of state managerialism, of which fiscal stimulus is just one tool, needs to look the interrelationship between the paradigm-shifting productive technologies, uneven socio-economic development relative to those technologies, and the moment of institutional recomposition. Similarly, we would do well to head the avenue of approach staked out by the Regulation School, in which the content of managerial forms - which really alludes to the formal and informal coordination (or lack thereof) of increasingly sophisticated specialization - is bound to changes in the way that relative surplus value is realized.

--The Galbraithian technostructure is best understood through the lenses of the program advanced in point no. 3, and thus its operations tend not to prevent capitalism's slippage into stagnation from an exogenous position, but one that is endogenous.

There is an implicit identification of capitalism with the market in Varoufakis's essay. This can be challenged, not only on Marxist grounds, but on Braudelian one as well: capitalism understood via the unity of anti-markets (which, for Braudel, is really what capitalism is about) and markets - or, more properly, the capture and subsequent redeployment of markets forces by anti-market entities.

Also relevant: Adam Tooze's excellent reflections on Bretton Woods, and why calls for a "New Bretton Woods" are profoundly missing the point.

either way, it could be argued (and i sense it has, by Freud?) that the tendency of all living systems is to stop, here, now. Fortunately, they can't. points to negative cybernetics.

March 21, 2019 at 5:48 pm

edmundberger: "Yeah it is. It's an interesting point, with regard to Freud, and it opens up a giant can of worms. Freud did pose that the drive goal of life was diffusion back into inert, dead matter - it's a manifestation of the entropic paradigm that flourished as a cultural force in the wake of the discoveries around the 2nd law of thermo, which is also the source stagnationist ideas that ground themselves in transcendental entropy (I actually have an uhhh like 7 part post series planned on this, linking tracing notions of techno-economic decadence back through the evolution of this paradigm. Hopefully I can get back to it soon enough). --- Deleuze critiqued Freud quite viciously for articulating the death drive in this way, arguing that he mistook the manifestant, empirical form of death (death as we know it, in our lives) as the transcendental form of death. It plugs with his critique of the primacy of entropy as well, which he designates as a transcendental illusion. This all needs to be formalized to a higher degree as of course, but it seems like it could very easily be slotted into these frameworks. On what grounds is there to suggest that the tendency of the capitalist mode of production is towards stagnation, as a transcendental principle of development? It seems odd to me, especially when it comes from people who ostensibly label themselves Marxists, like Varoufakis does. ----- March 21, 2019 at 6:06 pm dmf: One of Freud's weakest speculations, some bits and pieces of compulsions to repeat (against pleasure), outward aggression against the lifeworld, masochism, and the like, best left to the Schopenhauerites I think along with the general notion of repression as something that registers at some level but then is pushed down/away, bring on the fun-house mirror glasses of the cognitive-biases.

John Osborn

Jain mathematicians (6th-7th century BCE) have the distinction of being a bridge between the Vedic Period in mathematics to the so-called Classical Period. They are also credited with extricating mathematics from religious rituals. The Jains' fascination with large numbers directly led them to defining infinity into several types.

Pingala (300 to 200 BCE), a well-recognized Jain mathematician, although not strictly a mathematician but a musical theorist, is credited with first using the Binary numeral system in the form of short and long syllables, making it similar to Morse code. He and his contemporary Indian scholars used the Sanskrit word sunya to refer to zero or void. He is also credited with discovering the "Pascal triangle" and the binominal coefficient. Basic concepts of the Fibonacci numbers have also been described by Pingala.

The Enochian System (3/4)

JA/VV borrowed from multiple sources freely (very much a Dan 'Winteriter' in that respect) .. but it seems like Gee has been inspired by Votan more than he admits .. in fact, it's odd he never mentions synchronotronication ... i'm sure he runs into dreamspellers often enough in the SouthWest .. or wherever he is ....

Do you know the answers to those riddles .. or can you refer them someplace .... claire ? ...

The Enochian System (4/4) - a lecture by: Jonathan Barlow Gee - 59 views -- Rev Jonathan Barlow Gee -- Aug 15, 2019

Golden Dawn Basics ---- session 3, section A, part 1 = 00:00 introduces us to the Enochian material as it was applied by the Golden Dawn, a 20th century group of occultists and magicians who studied John Dee's works. We begin with a basic introduction to some concepts essential to understanding the Golden Dawn applications to Dee's work. First we look at the model of the Pentagram of the Elements as applied to the Zodiac. Second we consider the model, reprinted by Aleister Crowley in his "Book of Thoth," of the 7 planets and the 7 days of the week. Comparing these two we yield new insights into both, and I have colour-coded both to make them easier to visualise. The colour-coding for the 7 planets of Crowley is given as the division of light by a prism, while the colour-coding for the Elemental Pentagram and Zodiac round given by Mathers derive from the so-called "King's" and "Queen's" scales of colour, given by Aleister Crowley in his book "777."

The Concourse of the Forces as a Torus:

session 3, section A, part 2 = 06:00

covers the second portion of the Golden Dawn system that is not directly Enochian, but which should be considered a pre-requisite to understanding the Golden Dawn applications of John Dee's Enochian system. In this section we discuss SL MacGregor Mathers' chart for the "Concourse of the Forces," and apply this model onto the shape of a torus or hypersphere. Before we look at the chart in 3-dimensions, we first examine each of its component descriptions, including the order of Elements for each Season, according to the signs of the Zodiac, as well as the application to these Seasons of 3 traits each, each Common, Moving or Fixed. This method of "counter-rotation" of the zodiac on one side and the (4th order) elemental forces on the other in opposite directions yields the seasons as the "Concourse of the Forces" around the outside of the model torus.

Basic Golden Dawn Enochian Attributes :

session 3, section B, part 1 = 11:04

introduces the Table of Union, a chart used by the Golden Dawn to relate the four elements by rows and columns, thus rendering 16 squares, which we see can be attributed to the royal cards of a tarot deck's lesser arcana, or by Enochian letters. We are also introduced to the method of "squaring" each square, that is, labeling each square's sides as well as its centre. Thus, the elements along the columns above are labeled on the left side of each square, and the elements upon the rows below are labeled on the right side of each square. To derive the elemental labels for the other two sides of the squares, we look to deciphering the four Elemental Watchtowers by applying this method. We find that by substituting the Tetragrammaton (Hebrew 4-letter name of God) for the four elements, S.L. MacGregor Mathers has given us an ingenious code to solving the attributes per each square or letter of the four Elemental Watchtowers. We find that by resorting of elements by rows and columns, each square on the four Watchtowers has its own unique recombination of elements.

Golden Dawn Enochian Attributes Color-Coded:

session 3, section B, part 2 = 15:42

shows us the completed model of John Dee's Enochian system's four Elemental Watchtowers as envisioned in its ultimate extent by S.L. MacGregor Mathers. We are introduced first to the colour-coding system, derived from the Rose Cross Lamén used by the Golden Dawn and drawn exclusively from their original cipher manuscripts. Secondly, we look again at the Table of Union to discern the application to each letter-square of an elemental trait on the right side, per row, and the left side, per column. Next we examine the four Watchtowers themselves, describing the Dekan crosses with a planet per right side and a zodiac sign per left side for each letter-square, and the Calvary crosses, as described by the ten numbered squares of each sub-angle on each elemental Watchtower of the Enochian system. We consider the interior-most sub-angles, the so-called "doubled elementals," as representing the seasons of the mean year in a clockwise order, as well as the counter-clockwise circle of the 12 sub-angles surrounding these four. Finally, we examine the method of mapping these graphs onto the exterior surface of a cube to produce Aleister Crowley's version of a Golden Dawn style recreation of the original Enochian altar used by John Dee. This concludes the section on the Golden Dawn applications of John Dee's Enochian system of magick.

Regarding the number 264 there is another connection at the end of this month of August, 2019, being the 22nd anniversary of the death/murder of Princess Diana.

From 31/8/1997 to 31/8/2019 = 22 years or 11+11 years or 264 months = 88+88+88 months!

Or 8035 days and  $8+3+5 = 8+8$ .

On that very same day it will be 8096 days since the UK handed back Hong Kong to China with special conditions on 1/7/1997.

8096 days =  $(88 \times 88) + (88 + 88 + 88 + 88)$  days!

8 days before 31/8/2019 is 23/8/2019 being 8088 days after 1/7/2019 and only 3 days away.

The Aug 31st date is very interesting -  $8 \text{ --- } 3 \text{ --- } 1 \text{ --- } 2 \text{ --- } 1 \text{ --- } 9 = 432$  and  $432 + 234 = 666$ .

And  $8+3+1+2+1+9 = 8+8+8$ .

August 31st is day# 243 =  $9 \times (9+9+9)$

$2+4+3 = 9$

In the Bible the number 9 stands for FINALITY!

$2 \times 4 \times 3 = 8+8+8$ .

More on the number 264. The 266th Pope came to the USA on Sep 21, the 264th day of the year 2015.

The 266th Pope met Obama in the WH on the 266th day of the year, Sep 23rd. Xi Jinping met Obama in the WH on Sep 24th and 25th which was 264 days back from his next birthday on 15/6/2016. This meant that on Sep 23rd the 266th day of the year the 266th pope met Obama in the WH and that same day was Xi Jinping's 266th reverse day counting back from his next birthday on 15/6/2016! and Jinping was in the WH the next day the 24th and the 25th which was his 264th reverse day! Astonishing! The last day of the pope's visit to the USA was Sep 28th the last day of the Tetrad of blood moons which means he had 8 days in the USA.

For this 8 days the day# added to Jinping's reverse birthday number both add to  $266+266 = 532$  = the number of days between each of the last three Tetrads going back to 1947.

$21 - 264 + 268 = 266+266 = 532$

$22 - 265 + 267 = 266+266 = 532$

$23 - 266 + 266 = 266+266 = 532$

$23 - 267 + 265 = 266+266 = 532$

$25 - 268 + 264 = 266+266 = 532$

$26 - 269 + 263 = 266+266 = 532$

$27 - 270 + 262 = 266+266 = 532$

$28 - 271 + 261 = 266+266 = 532$

This 8 days has some more astonishing numbers attached to it but I will relent!

Chapter 264 is chapter 666 counting from the end of the Old Testament!

Pope John Paul II was the 264th pope buried in a trapezoid coffin on 8/4/2005.

Is celibacy necessary for advanced qigong meditation training (neidan alchemy neigong)

If you want to learn the real training then I recommend studying the real traditional books. The biography of Wang Liping is a good one - "Opening the Dragon Gate" is I think the title.

I studied from Chunyi Lin of <http://springforestqigong.com> and he did the 49 day cave meditation - non-stop full lotus with no sleep - at Mount Qingcheng. Another Daoist master at Mount Qingcheng is <http://qigongmaster.com> who also does the yearly cave meditation - Master Zhang.

It is 22,375 days Or 61 years, 3 months, 3 days excluding the end date ... since my birth .... Or 735 months, 3 days ... or ... 3196 weeks and 3 days

160 + 375 = 535 = 2 tzolks and 15 ... so i'd be 86[ed] now

21375 : 441 = 48 and a half note: this date differs 10 days with 10 years ago ... and adds 14 units to my galactic bd [tzolkins lived] with a lengthier [and fresh] description

NOTES

----- ideal postscript (19th of september last year) ----- ... am writing with fresh dust and water only now .. finally followed my own advice, peptalkn whatnot .. left keyboard, screen and 'cnexjinns' behind .. if you can get me face to face all you'll hear are retrospects about time awastin .. but taking the risk this work contributes to your personal detours, i present this 20 year digest / residue on the chance you'll plough thru it all much easier and quicker ... this is what led to it, the giant delay ----- that note comes right after this:

18 september:

... the final of 44 files got the work over most consistently ... like adding all days including void ones to complete the spectrum each time ... funny enough, the last few years i did little writing and so their files are filled with quotes rather than txts of my own, spiked w parentheses or not.

We'll call that a slothrop fade out ....

.. i decided the JA batch goes up first then the dutch and german mixes

then the E mix w permie stuff, on jews and gender .. the only other 'seperate' collection is the tec section.

i use scare quotes cause there were years i posted lots on Drew Hempel's blog until he blocked me for a the next few .. and from about 06 forwards i merged stuff about him into the JA section which became a mix ... even more so from adding the Bob Dobbs material ... perhaps to prove a point i used to hammer home in the noughties, namely that the work of savants overlaps due to them borrowing from each other but unmergeable cause they are loners and work begged borrowed or stolen material over till it is their 'lone'.

Peace Calendar man Jose Arguelles [JOSÃ%o ARGÃœELLES]

<https://archive.org/details/ja04b05> (sorry, i'm failing to adjust that 'name')
10-years-worth-of-notes-on-Valum-Votan there's 13 files there (the oldest material with only a few pages for the first 16 years and taking of from 2002 onwards) ... the 31 files here cover the subsequent years up to 2018

A further note on colours

It applies to all the 'later' files of this whole collection, but especially to the 'JA' section [which] i am electing to park at archive.org 'ahead of the pack' so to speak, hah!!

I chose to begin with JA (part mexican american, art historian buddhist drunk, global cult leading recluse savant weaving a web of numerical intrigue, borrowing liberally from peers in that field like all plagiaristic respect payers do) .. to bolster that cause and make their case ... even more suspect ... as the case may be, BYCAUSE although I was a 'block on that boner' [bad translation of 'blok aan dat been'] and consistently ignored for that reason

.. BUT ALSO BYCAUSE i think numeracy, even more than plain literacy, steals and then perpetually distracts ....

[hochstaplerei, every stage/story declared the new 'ground' till runaway .. not lift off but 'bottom outdrop reached. JA claims he knows what squandered mars, squanders earth and god knows, might get stop us getting to [fuck up] venus ... ?? where were we?? ... oh yeah]

.... distracts

... from my INnumeracy rehabilitation / PRElit or grounded literacy as a phase worthy of being treated as well as we mistreat neoteny now (a sly ref to Andrew Lehman's work [free book at neoteny.org], for whom i did not make a 'separate' 'split-off' section to the tune of 7Mb).

.. YET [LASTingly] BEAK AWEZ i wish to express my respect for JA which also speaks from the fact i 'pub' his 'shtick' related notes [7Mb*] now, to celebrate my galactic age of 84 ..

* = but that number swelled considerably on the same account i already mentioned, which makes 'separate' not so much ... that is to say i added notes about, comments towards and quotes from at least 2 others who figure large in my surfage effects on life and who suffer similar biases: Bob [Dobbs] Dean and Drew Hempel (the latter first mentioned in 06, the former a little later).

260 x 84 = 21840 + 535 (2 'tzolks' and 15 days more today since my birth) .. so i'd be 86[ed] now

22375 : 441 (a derivative of the number of minutes in a day i learn today from MR TACPANS) =
50,736961451 ... i don't mess with these things all that much actually .. dating is either absent or chaotic thru-out the first half of this decades spanning note pile ...
..... and so once i do start making earnest efforts, i have too little practice and respect ... not to mention residue resentment to exactitude [you sure she won't explode in your face once you see to getting her naked? really??] to work thru ... but i did give myself some time trying ... and decided i'm not a fan ... remain unfanatic .. happy to give all that a pass in fact ... in favor of a 'final' solution and period, see note below.

recent also:
youtube.com/watch?v=-kq05YbWXms jain on 108 .. and the relation between 9 and 12 (kin 90 is a crystal / 12 tone and i know it well cause it was my mom's)

recent message to tmq (she appears around 2011 in this collection): the colours don't come out unless viewed thru an older browser, then each day will have it's tone colour ... you know what's funny .... you're the only person i actually ever skyped with ...

[22:14:04] Active Rooter: woops, not true ... i was on a group call with DD once .. whose vids on my account were all privated and notes taken out of my collection (for the most part anyway). there's enough leftie fascism already, no need to promote it.

this is the first installment of planned 'pubs' (parkings, 'aan de dijk zetsels', archivage) of my notes covering the oldest raggy handful of handwritten ones i saved up and began to digitize in the late eighties, then refined and expanded upon in the early nineties .... supplemented with surface derived stellation and struttery to nearly now almost 40 years later since then on top of that.

coming soon [Collection Sections] Up next (soon, if the response to this is nihil, which i fully expect .. to continue):

German (1.2Mb)

So I just had an amazing experience - being face to face with 1200 pound steer with wonderful organic my comment:

good move dewy drew-E ... perhaps you will finally lose that quantum bug .. which is nothing but a metastatization of your ufo bug (lasting many many years also, .. remember?)... i never traced out what caused you to finally bury that only to grow toxic fumes ... kinda like the moonhype goin on in holland ... as my cactus blooms with 13 petals .....

incidentally, i am kicking and clicking all my saved notes and commentarian fare into some sort of shape which amounts to 4Mb each in dutch and german, 4x that much in english (maybe 10% of that size is code for all the coloured parentheses [within parentheses{{, within ... }}] which takes some correcting .. cause i sloppily left all too many of them open .. guess i been too jumpy a writer huh? So there's my metastatization ... i coloured each individually before .. now i do them in bulk a whole file at a time .... hahah!!).

I am tempted to put all of it under one click as pdf or park it piecemeal at archive.org ... or should i just stick with blogger and see if i can crowdsource some further editing process ....? what do you all think?

no reply and the next time i try comment months later i find them restricted. I think acerbity is internet probity, to defy and ridicule even the highest authority isn't something you wanna get famous for, so the off putting factor is a life saver .. good thinkg i don't have a baby face of someone whose gnawed bones all will pity .. like Joshua Moon's, owner operator of Kiwifarms, guardian angel of masked sj doublefajews in all but name.

(TibetanReview.net, Sep29-19) - The Communist Party of China has marked the 70th anniversary of its founding on Oct 1, 1949 of the People's Republic of China by issuing what will be seen by many as a big lie. It has issued an 18,400-word white paper claiming it had not invaded a "single square of foreign land" nor provoked a "single war" in the past 70 years.

The white paper, "China and the World in the New Era", issued on Sep 27 by the State Council Information Office said, "China safeguards world peace through real action. Over the past 70 years, China has not provoked a single war or conflict, nor invaded a single square of foreign land."

Xu Lin, deputy head of the Publicity Department of the Communist Party of China Central Committee and minister of the State Council Information Office, said the document details the relations between China and the rest of the world to help the international community better understand China's development, reported China's official chinadaily.com.cn Sep 28.

In fact, the PRC is not only in occupation rule in East Turkestan (Xinjiang), Inner Mongolia and Tibet but had also launched at least three other wars. These included the invasion of the Korean Peninsula in the name of Chinese People's Volunteer Army in Oct 1950, the aggression against India in late 1962 and invasion of Vietnam in Feb 1979.

Indeed the Indian media pointed out that it was China which started the 1962 war with it. "It may be mentioned here that China had started the 1962 war with India and that vast tracts of Indian territory, especially the Aksai Chin area, continue to be occupied by Beijing," reported timesnownews.com Sep 27.

And the heraldpublicist.com pointed out Sep 27 that China claims sovereignty over all of South China Sea with Vietnam, Malaysia, the Philippines, Brunei and Taiwan having counter claims over sections of it.

The House of Darkness & Secret Caverns - The legendary Yucatan ...
ancient-origins.net/ancient-places-americas/house-darkness-secret-caverns-legendary-yucatan-hall-records-found-yaxchilan-021843
Was Valum Votan the same as the mysterious land of Matwiil, to which the kings of Palenque traced the beginning of their first divine dynasties?If so, this would add further credibility to the account contained in the post-conquest Probanza de Votan and, indirectly, to Cayce's claims of a foreign, possibly "Atlantean" colonization of Yucatan.

Associations of Votan with Palenque have led New Age spiritual leader JosÃ© ArgÃ¼elles to identify Pacal the Great as "Pacal Votan" and to identify himself as an emanation of "Valum Votan". However, no mention of Votan has been found in the inscriptions of Palenque despite considerable progress in the decipherment of the extensive Maya inscriptions known for the site.[10]

Ancient Turks: Who Brought the Mayans to Mexico?

viewzone2.com/ancientturksx.html

Had he been more knowledgeable about ancient India and Ceylon, he would have known that they were Ceylonese, for in Tamil, VALAM POTAM means "Place of Boats." Valam Potan (Ceylon) was located between the Tropics of Cancer and Capricorn, where the trade winds are. The differences between Valum Votan and Valam Potam are trivial.

Yes, there is a connection between Old Vedic and Maya. Maya are a tribe of (galactic) navigators in the Vedas, and this is the source of the knowledge of the Kalpas, etc. of the Vedic civilization and transmitted into Buddhist and Hindu thought. The image described shows the principle of polarity operating the zuvuya (rope), or universal memory circuit, which squeezes wisdom (Law of Time) out of the galactic "milk ocean" turtle. The common root and interest in chronocosmology of Vedic and Maya is also seen in the cultivation of yoga (Sanskrit: divine union) and yok-hah (Maya: higher truth).

dream of travels with mom ... after she went to her little place and the details of it were examined i was apparently tasked with travelling on (no details as to why or whereto .. but it was russia) and guess who became my personal assistant? At least he views Trump and Putin on par which isn't far off the truth.

A process that seems like an inverse of the porniness underlying the care industries to me, under ever more expansive licence and rising tolerance (if they even dare to measure anymore at all), plowing the fall out back into the workload, care of the ever deniable and thus celebratable supremasorrytory protocol pruttelpottenpakkerij dictacs [VKClark claims the britzis are guilty of it and i agree but they are harder hit by other tentacles of it]. Me niece won't have me 'sully' her conventional idea of what jesus is/was/must be [dust complications and completion no must for her]. I carry on tryin to tappetiptaper 'it' into our futures regardless .. 'like it's chiseled' (an expression that is fading from dutch parlance fast: 'alsof het gebeiteld staat' = sense of permanence associations with a prefix before the fade: lying as if written in stone' ... or am i confusing the anglo meaning with the dutch one now???) ..

meanwhile in dutch land .. farmer protests (nitrate and climate probs triggered, the [out of] touch[y stumble]stones of 'my' time ... Now, where's my crown so they're gonna listen this time .... )

TRAFFIC JAMMIN ALL PROTESTING FARMER GOODWILL AWWAYYYY and another chance missed to teach about incredible common sense revival via their profession, via it's absorption of 'my' memes , helping the gods making dead matter come alive.

Working Women Weaving Tales in Ovid's Metamorphoses and James Joyce's Finnegans Wake -- Cynthia Hornbeck

James Joyce's literary debt to Ovid's Metamorphoses is unquestionable.

..... Grace Eckley has recognized that Ovid's Metamorphoses inspired the washerwomen's transformation, seeking precedents in the stories of Daphne, Baucis and Philemon, and Dryope (Eckley 1975). This paper will argue, however, that in content and form FW I.8 most closely resembles the Minyeides episode (Met. 4.1â€"415), in which three sisters entertain each other as they work by telling stories, until Bacchus arrives at dusk and punishes the sisters by transforming them into bats and their work into vines. 3}: THE FIRST TURN OF THE SCREW: see 5.19; only this chapter and III.3 ("The Last Turn of the Screw") have titles. Grace Eckley finds a parallel between R's twenty-two chapters and the twenty-two tarot cards ("Exorcising the Demon Forgery," 131). More relevant, perhaps, is Graves's comment that "The secret sense of 22 - sacred numbers were never chosen haphazardly - is that it is the measure of the circumference of the circle when the diameter is 7," another sacred number (WG 191). Gaddis later commented drolly: "while the 7s were intentional, the 22 = 22 tarot cards is the kind of scholarly ingenuity I find fascinating (since it never occurred to me)(but am willing to remain silent & take full credit: perhaps there is a guiding hand, a 'grand design?')" (WG/SM).

183.37 psychoanaloser: discounting Joyce's influence, WG wrote Grace Eckley, "No I did not read FINNEGANS WAKE though I think a phrase about 'psychoanalooosing' one's self from it is in THE RECOGNITIONS" (letter dated 3 June 1975). In Finnegans Wake, Yawn tells his questioners, "I can psoakoonaloose myself any time I want" (New York: Viking, 1939, 522). Anselm repeats the Joyce pun at 453.31.

According to Stead's biographer Grace Eckley, this was an exhibit of Stead's "journalistic prowess". Stead published an article titled "Lord Cromer and Government by Journalism" detailing his viewpoint of the affair.

Or as Grace Eckley suggests in "Beef to the heel: Harlotry with Josephine Butler, William T. Stead, and James Joyce," Studies in the Novel 20:1 (Spring 1988): 64-67, he may be thinking of the licensing of Whores by the State. OccupyGaddis: Joyce and Influence | Infinite Zombies

<https://infinitezombies.wordpress.com/2012/06/26/joyceinfluence/>

A great many scholars, including Bernard Benstock, Margaret Solomon, Grace Eckley, and Danis Rose all argue that it takes place on page 250:

Willest thou rossy banders havind?

He simules to be tight in ribbings round his rumpffkorpff.

Are you Swarthants that's hit on a shorn stile?

He makes semblant to be swiping their chimbleys.

Can you ajew ajew fro' Sheidam?

He finges to be cutting up with a pair of sissers and to be buyÂtings of their maidens and spitting their heads into their facepails.

Still others place it on p. 252:

Now may Saint Mowly of the Pleasant Grin be your everÂglass and even prospect!

Feeling dank. Exchange, reverse.

And may Saint Jerome of the Harlots' Curse make family three of you which is much abedder!

Grassy ass ago.

And Roland MacHugh, perhaps more persuasively than anyone else, claims in his Annotations (with Slepon chiming in as well) that the final exchange is on p.253:

But Noodynaady's actual ingrate tootle is of come into the garner mauve and thy nice are stores of morning and buy me a bunch of iodines.

- Evidentament he has failed as tiercely as the deuce before for she is wearing none of the three.

While there are good arguments for all of these speculations (and probably more), I think they're all likely fueled by little more than a desire for the pattern to be completed. Joyce has, of course, quite deliberately built up these expectations over the course of four novels, but his writing really only ever consistently follows one rule, and here it is grace-eckley: At the woman's comment, Grace made no remark. Fear had kept her inside and away from work for the past week or so. Both of her parents kept requesting that she just move back home, but for now she refused, trying to retain some of her dignity. "I have one right here for you, Ms. Stanton." With that, Grace pulled a small menu from her back pocket. "How are you doing today?"

Maud took the menu without uttering a thanks. In no mood for pleasantries and keeping up with appearances, she barely glanced at the waitress. "Considering the migraine I had from listening to the ruckus, I would say I could be better. I hope you won't be adding to my stress, dear. I have no patience for anyone's complaining today." She gave the woman a sharp look before going back to gazing over the menu.

The much smaller U.S. Nationalist Party of Douglas Kaye and John Sullivan was orthodox Yockeyist. They were openly contemptuous of Rockwell and called his party "nutsies." There were reasons for this. In the mid-1950s when Zionists made an all-out attempt to infiltrate to infiltrate the National Renaissance Party, Mana Truhill, the key infiltrator, wanted the NRP to start wearing swastika armbands. Truhill also advocated the NRP picketing synagogues about 2 weeks before Zionist fund-raising appeals went out.

Hence all three leading instigators of the USA's first and most enduring Nazi party were Left-wing agents for the ADL. Without these it is doubtful that the NRP would have ever existed.

When Madole broke with Stepankowsky in 1948, having discovered his communist background, the Animist Party became dormant. Madole renamed it the NRP in 1949. One of the earliest supporters of Madole's new NRP was Mana Truhill, who issued a crudely anti-Semitic bulletin without Madole's approval. Truhill, a.k.a. Emanuel Trujillo, was an agent for the Anti-Nazi League (ANL), another division of the ADL. Rabbi Stephen S Wise, the president of the American Jewish Congress, had founded the ANL in 1933. Truhill had studied communist strategy at the Communist Party's Jefferson School of Social Science. He was funded by ADL functionary Sanford Griffith. By 1954, Truhill was de facto head of the NRP.

According to the late H Keith Thomson, whose activity within the American extreme Right spanned decades, writing in an autobiographical series on his life as an "American Fascist" in Expose tabloid, it was Truhill as NRP international liaison officer, who would write to nationalist, right-wing and "neo-Nazi" organizations throughout the world attempting to draw extreme responses on questions relating to Jews, and it was Truhill who would distribute anti-Semitic cartoons.

It is interesting that Carl brought this information about the Peyote Way Church of God being a Mormon splinter group to Jan Irvin several years ago, yet for some reason he didn't want to cover it. can you recommend some reading on chronological ordering and the criteria for the final 'shuffle' .. come to think of it it reminds me of the ordinary playing card deck used as a calendar and the cards spread across the year diagonally twice (once in order and once in a jumble named the 'mundane' spread) ... i never could find any good reading on that thus far either ... and as an aside: .. a parallel with the 19 sum diagonal in the tzolkin per Volum Votan perhaps?? (ref to previously mentioned and linked work). i find those working in 'spiritual' disciplines as often borrow, steal, and plagiarise for personal remix branding purposes as they do to actually have something to pass on that carries easy and pragmatic, not to mention immediately beneficial instructions.

45:28 you show what at first seemed like a dubious sentence .. but after thinking about it i do not disapprove ... you equate "prophets with angels* and if this is permitted (as i suspect it is, .. that they ARE equivalent) ... then why leave doubt lingering when it could easily have been taken away by using 'these' instead of 'the' (in front of the second '19' here):

"Henceforth, the 19 prophets with the book & wisdom that are represented & reminded by the 19 angels are a test / temptation / oppression / fitnah for the unbelievers so that they will become certain those who were given the book" the again, the meaning may be quite different, for example: 'unbelievers must certainly be given the book' (as if to give them a 'fighting chance' fair and square, realizing that it is a dangerous tool - not sure about that disease reference further down).

* = not to mention [with] messengers and even humans as well .. as per what you show earlier in this video (sorry, no timestamp, i might have to redo this but only if you are interested).

just now the thought struck me that a rank pyramid / hierarchy [of skills rather than kills?] might be implied, prophet (individual), angel (small circle), messenger (larger circle), human (the messes .. i mean masses .. a mere microscopic sliver of the latter overlaps with the previous more qualified characters .. that sliver expressed in figures surely and syrially [sorry] runs into a factor that's downright stellar i guess ...huh?)

back to the quote

'become as certain as those who ...' ... ??

'become certain, like those who ...' ... ??

There are awkward formulations prone to misunderstandings in all very old texts by definition and that speaks in favor of my better arguments and claims to keeping .. cough ... 'it' (much made of that word in sura 3 verse 81, take note Claire) NOT AT ALL stupidly but CLEVERLY simple than any and all of my colleagues / competitors but then again, the ones i do not understand may understand more truth and/or truth of a higher caliber than i am to ... and so that just an empty bloatboast of the type i really detest.

The Warner lays claim to simplicity after showing us the extra book he extracts by overlapping repeats of snippets on identical topics found / treated in different places thru-out the quran ... as if it was shredded to teach us something [prolly not 'shred rock, catch water, green the desert huh?] or give us a pass time in the bunker as we wait out harsh radiation or sumtain .. wait ... i've got it .... it was and always was ... as that type of trick still is a way around censorship and repression (hate speech laws, you name it): hide chronologies, tweak names, etcetera. Read Ralph Ellis on the shenanigans with chronologies.

at point 5 of the verse after the 'over it are nineteen' one there is talk about disease but the text in red is not very visible for me. This may be due to my settings, .. tolerance for white screens, glare and unshaded sunshine diminishes as i age.

How the Hippies Saved Physics

David Kaiser Norton Publishers 2011

there's 270 pages the size of these (where Einhorn comes up)::

<http://www.paradigmshiftnow.net/key%20data/How%20the%20Hippies%20Saved%20Physics.htm>

it's a Sarfatti thing i saw a long time ago

p. 122 f:

Others circulated in photocopy form thanks to Ira Einhorn, darling of the New Left, who led huge anti-war protests and had a hand in early environmental mass events, including the first earthday, in 1970. By the early 70s, he served as a one man distribution center for the FFG's ideas. By this method they were able to spread their message far and wide for almost a decade. Although interested in physics, he also fell in love with literature.

p. 123 f:

One of the first books he read was Thomas Kuhn's The Structure of Scientific Revolutions, later to become one of the most influential books of the 20th century. Everyone from historians and sociologists to physicists, economists, and political scientists assigned the book in their classes.

Einhorn was especially captivated by Kuhn's argument about anomalies: stubborn findings that fail to fit within prevailing scientific theories. Some of Kuhn's examples included the accidental discovery of x-rays in 1805, and the unexpected detection of fission in a Berlin lab in 1938. At first these seemed like minor deviations that would eventually be explained by the existing ideas. Kuhn argued that when the collection of anomalies grows to critical mass, and no accommodation with the reigning theory seems possible, they prompt a "paradigm shift"; reordering all our basic assumptions about how the world works.

The window of October 21-22 marked a KEY milestone within the 8-year Venus-Earth pentagonal cycle. How is this?

October 21, 2019 marked the completion of 12 orbits of Venus around the sun and the entrance to the 13th orbit of our closest neighbor before completing the 5-STAR Pentagon on June 2, 2020 KIN 65 13 Serpent (5.13). Please note that  $65 = 13 \times 5$  and Venus meets the Earth 5 times during 13 orbital periods.

In other words: Venus orbital period is 224.6 days. There are 225 days before the next conjunction between both planets on June 3rd, 2020 (KIN 66 1 Worldbridger) and the start of a NEW pentagonal cycle (2020-2028). Therefore, on October 22, 2019 we entered the 13th orbit of Venus around the sun before Earth completes its 8th orbit in 224-225 days.

Please note that there are 224 days comprised in 8 moons ( $8 \times 28 = 224$ ). Therefore 224-225 marks the Golden Mean segment of 365 days:

Since this 5th Venus Synodic cycle is comprised by 585 days, the OMEGA Point (DAY 585/585) holds a perfect mirror square harmonic of 144 : 441 DAYS ( $144 + 441 = 585 = 12 \times 12 + 21 \times 21$ ), while the PHI Point (DAY 361/585) holds a perfect square matrix of ( $19 \times 19 = 361$ )

2002 Actual Real Matrix Plan Expose!

<https://www.mail-archive.com/ctrl@listserv.aol.com/msg98562.html>

-Caveat Lector- In 1975 Oliver L. Reiser and the World Institute editor Ervin Laszlo published the REAL MATRIX PLAN called "Cosmic Humanism and World Unity" in collaboration with Dr. Andrija Puharich -- documented as a top-level CIA mind control researcher in the all important expose, "The Stargate Conspiracy: Revealing the truth behind extraterrestrial contact, military intelligence and the mysteries of ancient Egypt." by Lynn Picknett and Clive Prince.

This is why Drunvalo Melchizadek has assimilated the Kogi -- the only intact pre-Columbian ecological-shaman civilization. This is why Jose Arguelles has assimilated the Mayan shaman-yogic culture. Reiser himself published in Sri Aurobindo's ashram newsletter and prominent students of Aurobindo believed that the future NEW HUMAN would have a radioactive body! (Letters on Yoga III). Reiser's "Cosmic Lens" (All-Seeing Eye) is directly ?????ed on Ramana Maharshi's concept of Brahmin-Patriarchal "All-Seeing Eye" yoga -- the same yoga as transpersonalism promoted by Ervin Laszlo's Matrix plan, "Macroshift" (2001). This also explains why the Pope is so adamant to put a telescope on Mount Graham -- all indigenous Mother Earth powerspots must be assimilated. Just like the crop circles around Stonehenge. Many feminists, like Riane Eisler and the whole critical theory "biosemiotics" movement have also been assimilated into promoting "techno-feminism" whereby nature is just a symbol that can be rearranged at the will of the apocalyptic All-Seeing-Eye.

Drew: "riveting but I think he got the asymmetry of time switched around. haha. I can see why though, as he is writing from the perspective of a physicist, instead of a mathematician; even though he can clearly separate and understand the two perspectives. But he at least argues that paranormal phenomenon must be real - despite being rare - and so that is what I really appreciate about it."

So the issue here is whether time is fundamentally asymmetric - as Costa de Beauregard argues is the case for relativity or is time symmetric as he states it is for the more fundamental quantum reality?

So because quantum mechanics relies on waves that are reversible then even though we can not observe it, there has to be a reverse entropy from the future.

So normally entropy is inherently unknowable as randomness but in quantum physics just because something is indeterminate or unknowable directly does NOT mean that it is therefore random as entropy, and so also could be Negative Entropy or reverse time information!

I-Ching geno-logic code

I-Ching, dyadic groups of binary numbers and the geno-logic coding in living bodies

The Moscow Conservatory has already conducted a few concerts of this "genetic" music in Europe and Russia (their fragments are shown at sites <http://youtu.be/gagKLDuO9z8>, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v1â?„4kxxH3-793WQ&feature1â?„4youtu.be,http://pentagramon.com/video>).

9. Concluding remarks

The principle of the universal binary symbolization, which is presented in the Ancient Chinese book I-Ching in graphical forms, Z. Hu et al. / Progress in Biophysics and Molecular Biology 131 (2017) 354e368 anticipated the logical calculus and binary arithmetic of G. Leibniz, the binary algebra of J. Boole, modern computers and many digital technologies. Modern sciences and culture reveal new useful interrelations with the doctrines of the Ancient East. In particular, deep analogies between the genetic coding systems and Yin-Yang schemes of I-Ching have been considered useful to develop the matrix-algebraic genetics as a new modern scientific direction represented in this article. The results of the matrix-algebraic genetics can be applied in the modeling of wave biomechanical and bioinformational phenomena and in other fields.

The ideas introduced in the current paper can be considered as an example of the emergence of new concepts and approaches appearing on the borderline of the cultures of East and West.

Friday, April 27, 2012 ---- Talpiot Tombs Encode Stunning Proof New Testament is a Roman Deception History records how groups like the Essenes, Gnostics, Ebionites, Cathars, Templars and others were ruthlessly eliminated by Rome, and their knowledge destroyed, because they possessed some evidence that contradicted the Bible or Christian dogma.

The recent controversy surrounding the Talpiot Tombs in Israel was initiated by the Jesus Discovery Team's efforts to spin a wholly unsupportable interpretation of the meaning of very unique imagery on one of these latest ossuaries. They claimed the fish/vessel like image was the "sign of Jonah and the whale" and the earliest proof of Christianity. The Biblical scholars arrayed against them have been arguing it is only the picture of a vessel. Both sides of this transparent staged controversy have gone to great lengths to avoid saying the word symbol or even admitting the possibility. Clearly, they have been tasked to steer the conversation away from Hebrew symbols or meanings, by going to great lengths to entertain New Testament assertions, while quickly dismissing all others.

A problematic detail in the story of Moses and the ark is the assertion of the literal details of 10 commandments, which should not be in this originally symbolic tale. They are later symbolized as 10 horns in Daniel and Revelation and associated with beasts and dragons. A dragon is a mystical and mythical beast and is thereby symbolizing a mysterious empire based on myths, such as the religions controlled by the Vatican. As shown herein and described in great detail throughout my book, the correct number should have been 7 items or lines on each "table of stone" with the understanding that a table is a list of items. This is described in detail in the Preface of Finishing the Mysteries of Gods and Symbols, so I won't put it all in this already long article.

Why I am the Vatican's Hidden Agenda

If you are patient with my methodology, you'll learn something vital that has been aggressively hidden about the events of the past two decades. I am the hidden agenda of the right wing in the USA and they act as the racist foot soldiers for the Vatican.

Because of my work since the Bush administration, and other details I will explore later, I have been aggressively targeted by the Vatican and right wing leaders. In their persistence and arrogance they have left a very precise trail of evidence that exposes those behind the events since 2001, and before.

some quotes to conclude .... from 4 years ago:

<http://vatican-evil-illuminated.blogspot.com/2015/04/double-unto-them-double-part-two.html>

As before, take the time to understand the import of what I present in this article. It shines a bright light on some ancient "symbolic date math" that can be traced back directly to the magicians of ancient Babylon.

We are currently in the 15th year of the 17th 360-year cycle and Christianity has been around for less than six 360-year cycles. Though its seeds were sown during the 11th cycle (Second Temple Period), it was later than claimed by religious leaders. Hence, this points back further to the transition between the 7th and 8th cycles (see page 1 of chapter 8 for the cycles chart). Again, notice the 7 and 8 number combination this purposefully encodes. There are three valid ways to view the timeline encoded by this symbolism. One is to look strictly at the math and count back  $9 \times 360$  ( $5775 - 3240 = 2535$ ) years from 5775 and it puts you into the beginning years of the 8th 360 year cycle. Another is to count back from the start of the 17th cycle in 5761, which then puts us at the end of the 7th cycle.

shield themselves from the "bad karma" they have created. This clearly exposes they have relied far more on magic and mystical techniques, deception, and other blatant evil, proving they have no faith in "Jesus" or religion except as the tools long used to dupe and manipulate the masses to gain the authority to forge and maintain empires and generate vast wealth.

Bel and the Dragon

1:1 When King Astyages was laid with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian received his kingdom.

1:2 And Daniel was a companion of the king, and was the most honored of his friends.

1:3 Now the Babylonians had an idol called Bel, and every day they spent on it twelve bushels of fine flour and forty sheep and fifty gallons of wine.

1:4 The king revered it and went every day to worship it. But Daniel worshiped his own God.

THE 111:11.11:11.1 PORTAL

Let's remember also that this 11.11 transit event is the climax of Mercury's retro journey that started on KIN 111 7 Monkey (October 31, 2019) EXACT midpoint of this Serpent wavespell.

This retro journey will come to an end on 2019-11-20 - KIN 131 on the Tzolkin count and EXACT MIDPOINT of the 13:20 Matrix. The vigesimal notation for KIN 131 is 11.1 (Seal 11, Tone 1)

In other words: This entire Mercury Retro phase is enshrined by Numbers 1, 11, 111, 1111 !!! How is this? Mercury Retro retro journey... ... STARTed on KIN 111, will PEAK on 11.11 Gregorian during the transit, and... will END on - KIN 131 (11.1) at the perfect CENTER of the Tzolkin Matrix!!! The PERFECT core of harmonic 33 (11+11+11)

Norman O Brown ..... got a firefox addon to read epub (what fucking clumsy myopia that is)

Page ix ..... great religious thinkers and philosophers of the past, Freud attacks the 'illusion of free will' and shows that the 'basis of our ordinary morality is irrational and superstitious.'

---Brown develops his psychoanalytic interpretation of history in opposition to the neo-Freudian revisionists, with their 'lullabies of sweetness and light.' Revisionism, according to Brown, seeks to assimilate psychoanalysis to ordinary morality. It pleads for better understanding, better communication, more enlightened methods of child-rearing, an end to parental authoritarianism. It searches for the 'right kind of toilet training, as if parental behavior was the cause of anal traumata and subsequent anal character.' In its preoccupation with 'parental indoctrination,' revisionism misses the deeper sources of repression. It follows Freud's early work in postulating a clear-cut conflict between the child's libidinal desires and their suppression by his parents. The revisionists ignore Freud's later work, particularly his theories of narcissism and death instinct, which they find repugnant and incomprehensible. Even Marcuse, whose critique of revisionism resembles Brown's in many ways, sees only the conflict between 'Eros and civilization,' between desire and the 'performance principle' the socially imposed compulsion to work, which forces us to deny the playful and erotic side of our nature.

---Brown celebrates playful eroticism, too, but he has a deeper understanding of its repression. He insists that psychic suffering originates, not in the social demands imposed on the psyche from without, but in an internal conflict in the need to deny the painful knowledge of dependence and separation, which intrudes on the primal experience of oneness with the world. The 'oceanic' feeling of oneness, as Freud called it, makes no distinction between the self and the surrounding world. The discovery of this distinction also entails the discovery of the ego's dependence on sources of gratification outside itself, the intolerable discovery of limits. Brown builds on Freud's theory of a 'Nirvana principle' that longs for equilibrium and thus goes 'beyond the pleasure principle.' He sees that Freud's theory of primary narcissism and the so-called death instinct which seeks to reestablish the undifferentiated equilibrium of the womb forces a reconsideration of.....

10 pounds for THE SEX COLLECTORS - MURDERS - How the World is Run on Shame - Vol II

Something similar to these books were sealed by High Court Judge Stevens to be unsearchable and unreadable - after Stevens had admitted his employer, Chief Justice Sian Elias had murdered the Chief Historian Michael King, using the same police from TSC1, plus the Political Ombudsman. This outlines the Blacklisting, Boiler-Plating, Silent Weapons for Quiet Wars attacks on the author, as he was investigating the murder of Chief Historian Michael King on the orders of Prime Minister Helen Clark, carried out by Chief Justice Sian Elias, as well as the remote murder of Sir Peter Blake, after a theft â€¦ an outline of this bravely published in The Truth newspaper. People thought the author had bought the paper.

I went by bike to the nearest city to meet a captain. I found out I need no sailing certificate to be on a boat on the lake Zurich. I ran into Miiisch, who has been learning to build boats himself. He shares a boat at lake Zurich. I am still looking for at least two people that would agree to form a legal entity with me to further the health of aspergers and electrosensible by avoiding toxins having a life on the seas.

The Four of Club is known as the debaters card; probably because of their fixed opinions and unique ability to shut off emotionally. The people born on a Four of Club day have strong, productive minds, and a good education is key, or they run the risk of talking much, but saying little.

KARMIC CHALLENGES for the Four of Club: Dispassion and Passive Aggression

Four of Clubs are always afraid of not having enough money, even when they do, and they are known to drive a hard bargain. Work is healing for them, especially when it involves large, male dominated organizations, and their health is never much of a problem.

The 4 of Club like to look good. They have unique and unusual emotional interests, often attracting dubious or manipulative people into their lives. They have a natural ease about them, especially when involved with large groups of people, and they make for great travelling companions!

At that time, as Marshall McLuhan has pointed out, the media were shifting from orality and illuminated manuscripts to the new kind of literacy configured by the printing press, a kind of literacy in which visual space was favored, and the sense of sight stepped up at the expense of the other senses, especially those of hearing and touch. The collapse of the Medieval sensorium, with its highly tactile and involving nature, was registered by painters like Bosch and Bruegel, and literary artists like Shakespeare and Cervantes, as a catastrophe. Hence, Bruegel's Triumph of Death as the triumph of visual, three-dimensional space inside which objects exist, as opposed to the Medieval order where they glow with their own self-luminous energies like the newborn infant Christ in Geertgen Sin Jans's 1490 Birth of Jesus (shown above). But ever since the nineteenth century, and coinciding both with the rise of Paul Virilio's Vision Machine and the twilight of Flusser's historic mentality, the sense of sight has been gradually stepped down to allow the senses of touch and hearing to configure acoustic space, which is spherical rather than box-like, while melting down visual space, as reflected in the shift from three dimensional painting to aperspectival Modern Art.

last alineas:

Beksinski, as all great artists do, clearly foresaw what lay ahead for us, the posthistoric human being, now polarized into Fukuyama's Last Man at the End of History and Hobbes's First Man of prehistory. The Last Man is the human being as ubiquitous consumer, capable of participating in global free trade agreements and the endless circulation and proliferation of free floating signifiers and signs; and Hobbes's First Man, whose life is nasty, brutish and short, that is to say, the life of the Third World human being who is slowly proliferating around the planet and may even, as Hurricane Katrina showed us, soon irrupt into the civilizational fabric of our world cities everywhere.

As Heiner Muhlmann pointed out, the Roman gladiatorial arenas were essentially zones of exception, of maximal stress, that is, that were demarcated on the inside of zones of cooperation (i.e. cities), so that the brute struggle of zoological existence walled onto the outside of cities as eternal zones of stress and conflict could be carefully caged and staged on the inside of city life as zoological exhibits. But nowadays, such zones of exception, of stress and conflict, are constituted not by gladiatorial arenas but by refugee camps that are slowly emerging within zones of cooperation and juridical order everywhere, as posthuman fabrications of purely zoological human beings who have no rights because they have no cities.

Beksinski's art, therefore, is an art that captures the revised ontological status of the posthumanist being of the Biopolitical Age. It is a being for whom all systems of signification have disintegrated and who sits atop the midden heap of the metaphysical age, picking through the discarded signs and wondering what they must once have been used for.

Fabre d'Églantine's names reflect the changing weather and crops of the year, with considerable effort being made to find verbal rhythms to suit the moods of the seasons. His months are Vendémiaire, Brumaire, Frimaire (the autumn), Nivôse, Pluviôse, Ventôse (winter), Germinal, Floréal, Prairial (spring), Messidor, Thermidor, Fructidor (summer).

A satirical version is immediately provided by George Ellis, an English poet deeply hostile to French revolutionary pretensions. He translates d'Églantine's efforts (beginning in January 1 with Nivôse) as: 'Snowy, Flowy, Blowy, Showery, Flowery, Bowery, Hoppy, Croppy, Droppy, Breezy, Sneezy, Freezy'.

Professor Basil J. Hiley on the need for noncommutative logic and the coherent observer and Costa de Beauregard on Macroscopic Telekinesis a few of the Qs & Cs from and on 'the reality of the paranormal' by Costa de Beauregard:

The physicist, actively "decohering the phases" in measurement (retroparation says Hoekzema) realizes an empirical reality that is the semblance of a traditional reality. Our claim is that "the paranormal" is thus excluded.

Complementarity entails that the coded and decoded signals are truncated -Picasso style. So the signal flying on the wave differs extremely from a "real molecule;" Wheeler (9) likens it to a "smoky dragon" living in the complex plane. By Hermitian reversibility of a transition amplitude (replacing Bayesian reversibility of a transition probability) the retrodictive and retroactive aspects of decoding (measuring, retroparing) are made all the more radical. Wheeler names this the "delayed choice" effect -which I (10) had been briefly discussed before.

Pre- and retroparation thus are two reciprocal active interventions by which the physicist draws the dragon down from the complex plane on the real axis -by "decohering the phases." The dragon's remains consist of prepared and a retropared truncated representations--the semblance of a "classical" reality.

The claim here is that what is lost by "decoherence" is the "paranormal."
"Time extendedness of matter implies existence...of subjective side of nature...because if there is no "time instant of the universe," awareness of the present is subjective."

Rationality of the paranormal, an essay on seeming contradictions.

Abstract

The related concepts of probability and information refer to the interplay of reality and representation; in cybernetics coding impresses organization and decoding expresses knowledge, the twin faces of Aristotle's information.

Psychokinesis is elementary level coding. Why knowledge is normal and psychokinesis is paranormal stems from "the second law," which is a jurisprudence. "Lawlike reversibility and factlike irreversibility" are synthetically expressed as "the information-negentropy equivalence" where the change rate is Boltzmann's very small factor.

Born's recipes for handling probability in quantum mechanics amount to defining a wavelike telegraphing of information with a built-in "nonseparability" and an "impressionistic" style representation of reality. It is argued that "phase decoherence in measurement" amounts to discarding the paranormal.

13P BOOK REVIEW

Back to the future: tracking the moral imperative in, of, and through Samskara.

ABSTRACTS

U. R. Anantha Murthy's Samskara has been predominantly read in terms of a temporal-ideological encounter in which an older, essentially fixed tradition faces off against the dynamics of a fledgling modernity. While there are instances in the text that lend themselves to such inference, the broad matrix within which the interpretations find articulation[NEEDS A COMMA HERE] slants one's reading of the novel in telling ways. This essay argues that the central dialectic in Samskara is not between tradition and modernity but between two forms of traditional thinking that conceive value and (human) reality differently. In making this argument, the essay offers an alternative, culturally oriented frame for reading Samskara in which narrative structure, form, and sense cohere to present a markedly different interpretive and moral trajectory.

CONCLUSION:

The other reason why it seems plausible to read Naranappa as a malignant outgrowth of tradition is that underneath his bluster and profanities he is never able to completely wrench himself free of the worldview against which he ostensibly rebels (Murthy 1999, 45). As the text says, "He may have rejected brahminhood, but brahminhood never left him" (9). This not only explains his deathbed utterances--according to Chandri, Naranappa dies calling out the name of God (45)--it also clarifies his attitude in general and toward Praneshacharya in particular.

Eventually, in these terms too, Naranappa justifies the asura analogy invoked earlier. One understanding of the asura-deva dyad available in traditional thinking is as polar expressions of human potential. The asuric debases the human by a cognitive error that identifies the truth of its self with its materiality, while the daivik refines human potential in right cognition. Or, as the mythic version tells it, after the toil of the samudra manthan (churning of the ocean), the asuras get distracted by the appearance of Vishnu as Mohini (an apsara or celestial enchantress) and give up on the nectar of immortality, while the devas persevere with singleminded concentration in their desire for amrita. So their paths diverge, as do their destinies, but for all that they belong to the same worldsystem; they are consubstantial in their origins. Naranappa, like the asuras, is caught up in Maya (illusion; the creative power of Brahman). Just as his name, Naranappa, is a corruption of Narayana, so ontologically he is simply Narayana--a name specifically for Vishnu but also used to refer to God in general--in a corrupt form; he is Narayana unrealized. Naranappa, then, is not other to Narayana or completely different in essence from Narayana. But insofar as he misrecognizes his own real nature, Naranappa is not the same as Narayana either. Functionally, he represents both the means and the mechanism for internal correction and autocritique which are crucial if the traditional is to survive and become revitalized.

Raja Mohan looks at Indo- Chinese naval rivalry using the metaphor of Samudra Manthan

OVER the years C. Rajamohan, currently at the Observer Research Foundation in New Delhi, has earned a reputation for himself for his long- sighted analyses of geopolitical developments. In his 2003 book Crossing the Rubicon , he provided a well received account of how India's foreign policy had changed since the end of the Cold War and how India was emerging as a world power.

Looking at the future, he sees three possible alternative orders for the region -- cooperative security, great power concert and a balance of power system. This is where the United States come in. The book puts out the metaphor of Samudra Manthan without quite telling us who the devas are and who the asuras . But the Shiva figure who must swallow the poison seems to be the United States which, Rajamohan indicates remains in two minds in dealing with China.

The clear portrayal of the glyphs on the new drawing was a key for the INAH specialists, who were able to reinterpret the Maya verbs ubut'uuw (to bury) and uâ€| a'n (which the researchers inferred to be equivalent to 'unearth'). The new depiction of the inscriptions also shedded light about the details of the alliances, treacheries and historical figures enshrined on the stairway.

I MASHED THE BLURB WITH A NEARBY ONE [A THIRD, THE PUBLISHER'S, IS FURTHER DOWN]:

With George Lucas's Star Wars, we entered the Heimat of blockbusters, which lies in the borderlands of the fantasy and science fiction genres folding out of and staggering a contest that J. R. R. Tolkien inaugurated in the 1930s around his introduction of a new or renewed genre. The critique addresses the genre or style as well as the faculty, the wayward kin of the imagination, which philosophy and psychoanalysis applied to ethics and poetics, respectively.

Science fiction failed to predict the digital relation, but fantasy did not so much succeed in its anticipations as draw benefit from the basic resemblance of fantasizing to the new relation's special effects. If the fantasy that is true is no longer the Gospel (which was Tolkien's grounding definition) but instead digitization, then fantasy indeed verges on the dread prospect that modern philosophical ethics ever sought to contain: the deregulation of wish or will.

According to Freud in "The Poet and Fantasizing", the constitutive fantasy arc in every daydream, which takes off from an idealized past and jump cuts to the future of wish fulfillment and circumvents the present, is a bridge that will fall down. Its defective cornerstone is the Zeitmarke or date mark that indelibly stamps the present moment that triggered the fantasizing that denies it. By its date mark, a fantasy is historicization waiting to happen, the mortal recoil of its flight.

WRITTEN THE FOLLOWING DAY: ..... exceedingly interesting .. as if written for me .. as if to open .. to collapse the defense of a goal, CHILD'S PLAY for me to score .. it's a matter of 'quirlen des milchozeans' via Freud thingie.

As Freud stipulated via the datemark, stamping it's denied trigger in the present, fantasy is historicization waiting to happen, the mortal recoil of its flight. SF, the allegory of fantasy also lies in wait.

Walter Benjamin's derivation of modern allegory from the shortfall of Christianity's purchase on the future can be seen to apply to the failure of science fiction's predictive service, which commits the genre to read in the ruins of its forecasts.

A NEARBY VERSION BEGINS THE SAME AND THEN:

... apply to the consequence of SF's failure to extrapolate the ascendancy of the digital relation. SF began supplying, instead, captions of legibility for deregulated fantasy.

By its right or wrong extrapolations science fiction indwells the present between a crypt and a date mark, the span of allegorical legibility it visits upon fantasy's once and future realm. In this presentation, I will focus on the instance of crypt transmission across the borderlands of fantasy and science fiction binding The Tempest to The Picture of Dorian Gray.

By it's salvos of right or wrong extrapolation, it is grounded in the present tense and within the borderlands it shares with fantasy, illuminates ongoing tensions in encrypted contents. If the netherworld of supernatural afterlives is, already according to Immanuel Kant, the ultimate occasion and setting for fantaseeing and fantasee, writing on and reading crypts is Science Fiction.

time to translate the last lines of Laurence Rickels on futures contested [i'd sooner say congested] by fantasy vs SFiction before a reemphasis of what i already said (in dutch a minute ago ending thus): crypt crap my ass ... just scratch rock in ways that catch water, never mind the shape of scratch meaning ascription en- and/or decrypZion ... this is how it began before i switched to dutch (inspired by the local footbridge too i guess): the reeds whispered to me: salacious delicious silicious salubrious silica ... slick slick willy's .... oops, delay ... side trackery .. see below ...

i begin transcribing:

Greenaway looked past the christian focus on surveillance in anticipation of the digital relation, to hilite instead the upsurge of archival citation of every name, form and event and medium in history, but each time as an entry removed from it's former settting upon opposition ..

HELL OF WAY TO DESCRIBE SJW CANCEL CULTURE strike thru / wipe out / censorshipping Larry!!!!!!

differ word (comparing the reading footage with the description in the teaser vid on youtube) in caps: Science Fiction failed to predict the digital FUTURE Science fiction failed to predict the digital relation,

..... but fantasy did not so much succeed in its anticipations as draw benefit from the basic resemblance of fantasying to the new relation's special effects. If the fantasy that is true is no longer the Gospel (which was Tolkien's grounding# definition) but instead digitization, then fantasy indeed verges on the dread prospect that modern philosophical ethics ever sought to contain: the deregulation of wish or will.

the next day i discover the next section is exceedingly interesting .. as if written for me .. as if to open .. to collapse the defense of a goal for me to score .. it's a 'quirlen des milchozeans' via Freud thingie.

i go check if there happens to be yet another ascii version .... god ... haven't heard or seen that word for a decade .... and there is a good chunk of the conclusion here: <https://punctumbooks.com/titles/critique-of-fantasy-vol-2-the-contest-between-b-genres/>

... but it again, as i suspected, differs slightly ... -- LR can't leave his texts alone .. they churn him on ... autoerotic stuff that pen and ink huh??? -- .. from both the vid description and the publisher's page, the last lines spoken are:

If the fantasy that is true, is no longer the gospel [Tolkien's definition] but instead digitization, then fantasy becomes the genre, quite pointlessly of fiction. The unmooring of fantasy from it's belief system occurred in tandem with the revaluation of the Science Fiction genre. Once it's future orientation was history, the genre indwelled the ruins of it's faulty forecast.

Critique of Fantasy, Vol. 2: The Contest between B-Genres Imprint: Brainstorm Books ::: by Laurence A. Rickels
FORTHCOMING Winter 2020

In The Contest between B-Genres, the "Space Trilogy" by J.R.R. Tolkien's friend and colleague C.S. Lewis and the roster of American science fictions that Gotthard GÃ¼nter selected and glossed for the German readership in 1952 demarcate the ring in which the contestants face off. In carrying out in fiction the joust that Tolkien proclaimed in his manifesto essay "On Fairy-Stories," Lewis challenged the visions of travel through time and space that were the mainstays of modern science fiction. In the facing corner, GÃ¼nter recognized in American science fiction the first stirrings of a new mythic storytelling that would supplant the staple of an expiring metaphysics, the fairy-story basic to Tolkien and Lewis's fantasy genre.

The B-genres science fiction and fantasy were contemporaries of cinema's emergence out of the scientific and experimental study and recording of motion made visible. In an early work like H.G. Wells's The Time Machine, which Tolkien credited as work of fantasy, the transport through time - the ununderstood crux of this literary experiment - is conveyed through a cinematic-fantastic component in the narrative, reflecting optical innovations and forecasting the movies to come. Although the historical onset of the rivalry between the B-genres is packed with literary examples, adaptation (acknowledged or not) followed out the rebound of wish fantasy between literary descriptions of the ununderstood and their cinematic counterparts, visual and special effects.

The arrival of the digital relation out of the crucible of the unknown and the special effect seemed at last to award the fantasy genre the trophy in its contest with science fiction. An yet, although science fiction indeed failed to predict the digital future, fantasy did not so much succeed as draw benefit from the mere resemblance of fantasizing to the new relation. While it follows that digitization is the fantasy that is true (and not, as Tolkien had hoped, the Christian Gospel), the newly renewed B-genre without borders found support in another revaluation that was underway in the other B-genre. Once its future orientation was "history," science fiction began indwelling the ruins of its faulty forecasts. By its new allegorical momentum, science fiction supplied captions of legibility and history to the reconfigured borderlands it cohabited with fantasy. The second volume also attends, then, to the hybrids that owed their formation to these changes, both anticipated and realized. Extending through the topography of the borderlands, works by J.G. Ballard, Ursula Le Guin, and John Boorman, among others, occupy and cathect a context of speculative fiction that suspended and blended the strict contest requirements constitutive of the separate B-genres

The exponents in the prime factorization are 1, 1, and 1. Adding one to each and multiplying we get  $(1 + 1)(1 + 1)(1 + 1) = 2 \times 2 \times 2 = 8$ . Therefore 370 has exactly 8 factors.

Factors of 370: 1, 2, 5, 10, 37, 74, 185, 370

Factor pairs:  $370 = 1 \times 370, 2 \times 185, 5 \times 74, \text{ or } 10 \times 37$

370 has no square factors that allow its square root to be simplified.  $\sqrt{370} \approx 19.235$

How 111 as a product of prime numbers?

As a product of its prime factors:  $3 \times 37 = 111$

Michael Hayes belongs to the utterly "optimist" stream of consciousness, he sees the physical 3D cosmos and the Earth as basically benign and true, therefore one must read and listen to what he says or writes with this cautionary note in mind; he at no point engages in the much deeper critique belonging to the very ancient and way more advanced GNOSTIC truth sources which reveal this 3D physicality as intrinsically counterfeit, as heavily laden with demonic/archonic designs of vampiric overtones. However his example serves to illustrate the many facets of the DNA genetic issue, and how devolved a nightmare we as a "humanity" are presently experiencing.

A review of Michael Hayes' The Hermetic Code in DNA

I quite enjoyed reading this book, but its title is a mouthful of words, so I have found myself referring to it, in conversation with friends, as "the new book which I am reading that tries to find a relationship between the so-called "hermetic code" and the code that informs the structure of human DNA." When I say that, people look amiss or agog, and I know why. I repeat that the author is "trying to find a relationship" and that it is an struggle worthy of the exertions of a Sisyphus (an uphill battle) or the frustrations of Tantalus (an ever receding reward).

The author who so resembles Sisyphus or Tantalus is Michael Hayes is described on the cover of this quality paperback as "an administrator at the University of Central England" (formerly Birmingham Polytechnic) and "the author of "The Infinite Harmony: Musical Structures in Science and Theology"" (McArthur & Co. / Orion Con Trad, 1994).

<https://web.archive.org/web/20130613154148/http://thehermeticcode.blogspot.com/> his first work was published in 1995 i guess

i went and harvested that blog ... there's comments from the early teens and early noughties .. here's a sample, this guy cannot be traced via his profile:

SuperiorEd said... : DNA, Page 39 on the precession. 72 years is a generation when mentioned in the book of Enoch. Enoch gave the watchers 70 generations. He gave this before Adam reached 19 jubilees (950). Assuming that he delivered this message to the before the flood, we calculate 5040 years. Add Adam's age and you get 6000. Why did the Mayans leave a calendar of 5125 years until 33.33 degrees? 33.33 degrees is 2012.9 nautical miles. Paris Louvre to Egypt Giza is 2012.9 miles. Mt. Hermon is 33.33 X 33.33 using Paris as the Meridian. Genesis 6, God gives mankind 120 years. That's 120 X 50 years for the jubilee. That's 6000 years. In the Lost book of Adam and Eve, God gives Adam a 5,500 years countdown. I could go on with 12 others. The precession is a generation. I am enjoying the book, but thought you might want feedback as I read. I may know a few things you have not considered. - 6 June 2013 at 03:21

Hi Piet, Thank you for your concern. My health is fine, I've just been busy and dealing with lots of stressful issues.

I'll think of whose contact # to give you.

BTW, today is Cosmic 20. This Cosmic Moon began on December 1, which of course was a Sunday. 'Each Week, Moon and Year always begins on Sunday', re Votan's oft-scrubbed admonition. Thanks for continuing to keep that alive by following the Cosmic Turtle Calendar :}

Claire, sent yesterday :: Hi Piet, It's easy to track the CTC this Moon, since Cosmic Moon began on Dec. 1. So today is Cosmic 21 on Dec.21.

December 29, 2019, a Sunday, is the beginning of a new year, coded by Magnetic Dog. Another expression of the harmony of the CTC, is that every year is also the beginning of a new Wavespell, in other words, a Magic Turtle Day. So Magnetic One [the new year] is coded by Magnetic Dog. I want to produce this Calendar, but am still wary of my experience in Australia, which affects me in several ways to this day. Again, Thanks for following the Cosmic Turtle Calendar .. Chapter 25 Day 17 Blue Spectral Eagle – mage day 1712/29/2016

Today is Thursday, December 29, Day 17. – Blue Spectral Eagle. Kin 115. Third Eye.

Notice this is the last day of the 10 Cosmic Activation Portals. This is the Cosmic East of the Keter Sepheroth. This is our Spiritual Body, the Cosmic Medicine Wheel. The body part is the back of the neck/base of the skull. The element of the East is Fire, warm Sun.

On 10/28/99 my Cosmic East Aspect wrote:

I must admit, being in human form has been most challenging to me. I have a cosmic mudra that is soft and sensuous. It and I HONOR ALL LIFE. Reverence for Life is my Essence. ----- This is a HUGE day, because we have entered into the Eastern Gate of the Promised Land. Not since the Fall of Man, have humans entered this Keter Sepheroth. In fact, since there have been 2 failed attempts to return, Lemuria and Atlantis, this third and final attempt is extraordinary. It is believed that Keter itself had to be extended to include what we are calling The Throne Room, and the South Pole had to be recreated as what we are calling The Crystalline Core.

do you know this lady????

Rev. CC Absurd (AKA Miriam Wilson) is the facilitator of the center. Since Miriam's near death experience in 1974, and her guidance asked her to become a clown in 1981, she studied dreamspell for 23 years

Until 2008, the center was in the original diamond of Washington DC between the Pentagon and the CIA as the crow flies. Does God have a sense of Humor?

Currently we are in Denver, Colorado, looking for a new place on Jackass Hill. (This is a real location along with Jackass Park in Littleton, CO.) Rev. Absurd is the Founder and President of AARPWHNW (American Association of Retired Persons Who Have Never Worked). She is also auditioning people for a Laughing Chorus and a KAZOO Symphony Orchestra. Authoring a Book, "You CAN Make Wine out of Raisins" is also on her list of now projects!

The Shocking Math of Chapter 27 - binimad book (10Mb), i got mine on the second of februari last year btw, i am certain CeCe calls into Bob/Ion shows and they milk her for everthing as much as we hear her doin the reverse ... they call her Barbara (realized this last sunday) none of the matured even the slightest since i gave them a rest

Okay, so the Quran specifies that it is the "singular" sperm from amongst "emitted" sperm from which the male and female sexes are determined! The verse after this (Quran 53:47) says, "And it is upon Him (Allah) to bring about the second creation." This is in reference to Resurrection Day, which some doubt-and therefore Allah addresses this doubt in several places, as we will see next. So, having been created, the child is formed with the known features, with four limbs, and on each hand or foot, five 154 fingers or toes. The uniqueness of human fingertips (and toe tips) is well-established now, and investigators have long used fingerprints-and even toe prints-to help them find criminals. It is this uniqueness which Allah addresses in the Quran, saying: "I swear by the Day of Resurrection! And I do swear by the self-reproaching soul! Does man (a disbeliever) think that We shall not [again after death] assemble his bones? Yes indeed! We are most capable of [perfectly] restoring even their very fingertips!" (Quran 75:1-4) So, let us get to the amazing mathematics and what the scholars of QuranWay have found regarding this. In Quran 75:4, Allah states that He is able to perfectly recreate every human being, including all of the fingertips. The stunning mathematical harmony is as follows. This verse from the start of the Quran is Verse 5,555. Can you see it? This is the 4th verse of the chapter and the 5,555th verse of the Quran, while humans have four extremities (two hands and two feet), with five fingers or toes on each! Stunningly, the verse is about fingertips, and it is both Verse 4 and 5,555-so one five for each of our four extremities, with five fingers or toes on each! This is truly amazing. But again, this is the Quran, and the miraculous is never-ending, so we dig deeper and find that the word "fingertip" is the chapter's 20th word. As you know,  $20 = 5$  (the number of fingers or toes on each extremity) X 4 (the number of extremities)! The miraculous code is truly endless. Of course, you also know now that four fives together (5,555) is the order of this verse from the start of the Quran. In fact, the word "fingertips" itself in this verse (which appears as 155 "bananah" in Arabic, meaning "his" fingertips) is exactly five letters long, and I would also add that it is comprised of four different letters from the alphabet. Remember, too, that the number five was at the center of all of those earlier findings derived from another five-letter word ("ihdina") similarly made up of four letters from the alphabet. Now having mentioned all that we have about fingertips, let me add my own observation to this. In total, there are only four chapters in the Quran that have five verses each (Chapters 97, 105, 111, and 113)! Subhan Allah! But let us get back to the findings of QuranWay (which again uses Approach A). They note that Quran 75:4 is amazingly 23 letters long! Yet the word for "fingertip" is also mentioned in one other verse of the Quran (Quran 8:12), which contains the first mention of fingertips in the Quran and appears in the singular as "banan." The second and last verse to mention fingertips is the verse we addressed previously (Quran 75:4). Examining both the first and last verses to mention fingertips, we see that-amazingly-the first has 23 words, while the second has 23 letters! The number 23, as you already know, is the number of years in which the Quran was revealed as well as a main mathematical key. Note that this term in its two forms ("banan" and "bananah") is mentioned nowhere else in the Quran, and that its second mention is a challenge and promise by Allah that He will recreate every human completely and perfectly. So why only two mentions of this word with the number 23 highlighted as the total number of words in one, and the total number of letters in the other? You have almost certainly already guessed the answer based on all that we have discussed in this chapter. These two 23s, of course, match the 23 pairs of human chromosomes. But what can confirm that this is an appropriate mathematical explication? Let us use the key word which unites the two verses. The letters used to make up the word "banan" (fingertip) appear in these two verses exactly 46 times! Of course, you know that 46 is the total number of chromosomes resulting from the human pair of 23. This is truly stunning. The words used to make up one verse are 23, the letters used to make up the other are 23, and the letters used to make up the word that unites them appear in both verses a total of 46 times (i.e., 23 + 23). firmly believe that if we are able to embrace the mystical power of these experiences, and use them for genuine - heartfelt healing and transformation, we can gracefully evolve into a new kind of human, and in that... a new way of life altogether. Remember, just taking a shamanic plant medicine does not automatically guarantee you healing. You have to genuinely want it, your intention must be right. If you use these experiences without a pure intent, or without any intention at all... well, there's really no telling what could happen. At Rythmia, there is the establishment of a community intention. Everyone who visits enters into a group intention, which supports everyone moving upward and healing together, instead of each on their own. The powerful intention helps keep everyone on track, so that all who journey there receive their miracles, and transcend to a new level in their lives. ----

In seeking for proofs of the Law of Time within the Quranic nineteen code, we need cite but a few examples which can demonstrate from within the nineteen code itself the key mathematical components of the Law of Time. In addition to the number nineteen, we must look for any of the factors involved in the 13:20 frequency, such as 260, seven, sixâ€”the difference between nineteen and thirteenâ€”and, of course, thirteen and 20, or any of the multiples of these integers.

Following the method of Dr. Khalifa, probability analysis of mathematical constituents based on the assumption that certain numbers will be self-verifying, we start our program with the six suras which are multiples of nineteen:

Sura 19 "Maryam": 98 verses

Sura 38 "Saad": 88 verses

Sura 57 "Iron": 29 verses

Sura 76 "The Human": 31 verses

Sura 95 "The Fig": 8 verses

Sura 114 "People": 6 verses

=> 399, total of Sura numbers = 19.19 in vigesimal code

=> 260 verses in six Suras which are multiples of nineteen.

As can be seen, the sum of the six numbers of the Suras which are multiples of nineteen is exactly 399, or  $19 \times 21$ , the maximum factor in the vigesimal  $20 \times 20$  matrix. Expressed in the vigesimal code this number,  $399 = 19.19$ , the only multiple of nineteen in the  $20 \times 20$  vigesimal code which is written with two "19s," whose sum is precisely twice nineteenâ€” $>38$ , and is written with fourteen notational symbols rather than seven. This unique number, 19.19 (399), verifies "nineteen is over it," by placing nineteen over nineteen itself. The unique qualities of this most unique of multiples of nineteen, also indicates why the Quran consists of exactly six times nineteen Suras. Six is the difference between the Quranic nineteen and thirteen, the prime number of the Law of Time.

The Holy Quran and its nineteen-based mathematics and the tomb of Pacal Votan and its 13:20 frequency code constitute two incontrovertible pieces of evidence which support each other in their mutual truth.

And now, X-rays really aren't dangerous anymore - that's because your resistance and tolerance has changed. You notice that? They even changed the number of "rads" that your body is - and can stand and can be - because otherwise, you'd have to amber it out to say: "This can't be here anymore, because it's too radioactive". Now, that becomes just a fun hotspot â€” it becomes a new playground.

Bob: Yeahâ€¦ which is not a constellation - a bunch of stars the way our telescopes see it, or the way science sees it.

iON: Right!

Bob: It is a parallel dimension â€” parallel realm â€” parallel aspect - that our little globe stuck inside the Black Hole is an image of â€” the globe in the Black Hole â€” but it's not an accurate visualization. In other words, I am in touch with Andromeda if I've activated my power...

bob got married in 1970 supposedly:

A week before MM's stroke on Sept.26/79, MM invited Carolyn to his home so she could explain the D-Cell to him (he had heard about it from Jim). The D-Cell was an obscure invention that "purified" and energized water. We had been using it since 1969 and it had slowed down our aging. MM could see that and wanted to try it, perhaps. MM decided to start using it so Carolyn gave him one a few days later. On Sat. (Sept.27/79) Jim was entering the front area of MM's Wychwood home and saw the D-Cell package, unopened, sitting on a little table in the hallway. It was, of course, a sad day and Jim was struck by how MM had just missed the benefits of the D-Cell by a couple of days.

Carolyn went on - as her reputation spread - to speak at hundreds of conferences over the next 3 decades, always introducing MM's "ideas" when she had the opportunity. She was the only doctor applying "media ecology" (I prefer to call it "paramedia ecology") to the medical discipline, as far as we knew. She even dedicated her first book (1991, of subsequently 35 or so books - many free now) to McLuhan.

As the years unfolded, I never forgot MM's first response to Carolyn 42 years ago. Even though MM had said that he found it difficult for people to project to him and for him to project to people, he had a "knowing" about people when it mattered. He had immediately picked up on Carolyn as "a person of destiny" just as he always knew he was one.

So, Ms. Sharma et al. at the new Coach House scene would be well advised to take advantage of Carolyn's "ms.-understanding" of McLuhan's work as applied to their agenda.

Meanwhile, take a look at this beginning point of the public life of one of the top doctors (now studied at Purdue University) in the world."

Since McLuhan referred to Havelock's 1951 Crucifixion of Intellectual Man a decade before The Gutenberg Galaxy, this is clearly false. And there is much indirect evidence indicating that he read Havelock's 1946-1947 essay in Phoenix, as well as his 1948 review in UTQ, as they appeared. But Stamps seems to have used ....

McLuhan had not read Havelock's 1963 Preface to Plato, which, in reference to the 1962 publication of The Gutenberg Galaxy, is vacuously true.

Unthinking Modernity: Innis, McLuhan, and the Frankfurt School Judith Stamps

This comparison of European and Canadian political thought, reinterprets the communications theory of Harold Innis and Marshall McLuhan as a Canadian variant of the critical theory associated with the early Frankfurt school. Stamps argues that Innis and McLuhan worked towards a theory of how westerners have developed classifications through which they perceive the world. Moreover, he shows that they used insights derived from their North American experience to add a new media-based perspective to such a theory.

Hour of Slack #1766 - Cautionary Tales of the SubGenius

We start with Part 2 of Rev. Xister's rather sober collage "Ship of State." Uncle Onan Canobite presents two Cautionary Tales of the SubGenius (from 21X-Day), and we get a brand new somewhat sardonic song from Bob Walkenhorst from his new Patreon outlet (just a tease, as it's a subscription and you haven't subscribed yet). There's also a new RSP instrumental and a pretty old prank call from "Melba" to Bob Larson's Christian-cartoon talk show. At Tarzan's Radio Station, StangDoe tell Lonesome Cowboy Dave of some new mind control apps just to scare him. By the way, he had a car wreck last week, and never actually did have a horse, and could use help, so please check his fundraiser page if you have ANY spare change! ----- Hour_of_Slack_1766.mp3

Hour of Slack #1765 - Ship of State by Rev. Xister

This episode (rerun of #1341, from 2011) is all one fantastic old-school media barrage by the hard-working and very talented Rev. Xister, previously heard weekly on a fellow SubGenius show, The Ministry of Slack. It's a collage about The Conspiracy, using what would be to him older movies and music, and harkens back to the carefully-arranged media barrages that we used to splice together on reel-to-reel tape back in the 1980s before Hour of Slack was born. "Bob" and SubGenius are not mentioned at all, but it is PURE SubGenius. It's 90 minutes long too, so this is only Part One of SHIP OF STATE by Rev. Xister. ----- Hour_of_Slack_1765.mp3

Wed, 5 February 2020 ---- Hour of Slack #1764 - I'll Let You Be in My Dream If I Can Be in Yours

This is the first episode in about 20 years to use what we might call "Famous Commercial Bands Signed to Major Labels" instead of new original work by relative unknowns and unknown relatives. It's basically Rev. Stang's favorite rock songs about religion, philosophy, and everything from his high school and early college years, ~1968 to 1975 or so... songs by well-known bands that nonetheless weren't widely heard on rock hit radio, because, well, obvious reasons: the touchy subject matter. And, nightmarishly, these old timey ditties are possibly MORE relevant today than they were even then. A horrifying thought! Still, this particular episode, in ways that no previous episodes ever has, ROX, MAN!! IT FUKKIN ROX DUDE! The original title of this episode was "You Should Probably Froop for This One." Don't worry, kids, we probably won't do it again. But we bet that Boomerian Subs on their veritable deathbeds may well be brought back to rampaging life by this collection.

Hour of Slack #1732 - Skipper "Bob" Dobbs and Chicken Caccia-TwentyTwo-re ---- Internet version: 68:45 Radio

Version: 59:57 (lacks last two tracks)

We're gearing up for X-Day by playing some great stuff that was recorded two X-Day Drills ago, in 2017, but forgotten when Stang and Wei then moved to Texas. (Lots more of that unheard footage to come, too!) This includes part of a show with Dr. Hal, Rev. Stang and Dr. Onan Canobite, and a great new "Bob" song that Onan created in the form of a sea shanty, and taught to the X-Day audience. Dave calls in and joins Stang and Wei in a long-ranging discussion about everything; Dr. Sinister joins in near the end. Also: 100,000 Leagues Under my Nutsack, Psycho Skeletons, and a really rare Bob Walkenhorst song, "Broken Radio."

In this episode, Fidd Chewley once again intentionally gets caught by "To Catch a Predator" in his ongoing investigation, "To Catch a Predator Catcher", and you'll NEVER BELIEVE the AGGRESSIVELY PREDICTABLE CONCLUSION!! Professional Hopscotch referee, Doktor Cosmac, joins the show halfway through to satisfy government-mandated psychological diversity requirements. Reverend [sic] peas [sic] delivers an overly-long, underly-cautious PSA. Fidd delivers a PSA of his own: if you don't do drugs, then drugs will do YOU. Doktor Faux doesn't understand either PSA and demands to be mansplained to. Peas defends his championship in our new game, "Is It a Band". We hereby apologize to our sponsors for forgetting to mention them during the show AGAIN: Adderall PM, Johnson & Johnson Human Growth Hormone, and the Make-a-Wish Foundation (please don't tell them I'm not terminally ill).

George Lipscomb: Mary Church should have married Varg or Professor Derrick Jensen. - 1

John Ebert: No, she preferred me. She read my "Age of Catastrophe" and that did the trick. I was her favorite public intellectual. And btw, Derrick Jensen is gay. - 3

Literary Libations: John Ebert I think he was making a point that those are her male counterparts when it comes to anti-civilization. Neither is an intellectual (though Jensen pretends to be one). - 1

George Lipscomb: Seems like she was an Anarcho- Primitivist at heart.

if Ebert had followed up on my first comments directed at him and turned Mary on to my drift who knows what would have happened. I certainly would have encouraged her grounding efforts instead of turning my back to them like he did, cause he lacks the talent and humility for it, not to mention the talent to notice, much less make note of that..

Joseph Russell Smith, c. 1908. Picture: American Philosophical Society Digital Library, 2013.

Excerpt from Tree Crops: A Permanent Agriculture by Joseph Russell Smith

"The creation of soil by the weathering of rock is a very, very slow process. Years may have passed in making soil that, if unprotected, may be washed away in an hour. Therefore, today an observer in the Old World might see myriad landscapes once rich with farms where now only poverty-stricken men creep about over the ruined land, while their sheep and goats, scavengers and destroyers, pick the scanty browse that struggles for life in the waste. A handful of men are now living uncomfortably where once there were prosperous villages. Similar examples, even of large areas, can be found in almost any hill country with a long history of occupation by agricultural man.

Syria is an even more deplorable example than China. Back of Antioch, in a land that was once as populous as rural Illinois, there are now only ruin and desolation. The once prosperous Roman farms now consist of wide stretches of bare rock,<sup>2</sup> whence every vestige of soil has been removed by rain. Greece, once so great, is shockingly ruined by soil wash. In parts of Europe people even pound stone to get a little bit of loose material in which plant roots can work.

In our own South millions of acres are already ruined, and the same destructive agency has caused ruin and abandonment of land in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana - indeed, in every one - agriculture is based primarily on cereals that came to us from our states. The total of this destruction has been estimated at 16,600 square miles, equal to the cultivated area of England. And yet, as human history goes, we came to America only yesterday.

If we think of ourselves as a race, a nation, a people that is to occupy its country generation after generation, we must change some of our habits or we shall inevitably experience the steadily diminishing possibility of support for man."

DO-IT-YOURSELF FATE Everyman as Finn Awake As all monopolies of knowledge break down in our world of information speed-up, the role of executive opens up to Everyman. There are managers galore for the global theater. By their deeds you will know them â€” the instant catalysts. Today, while efforts are intensifying to prop up the old hierarchical structures, they are being eroded and transformed by new modular forms of human organization. Based on dialog, these modules are where the drop-out becomes the drop-in for remaking all cliches while retrieving the archetypes â€” new treasures for all.

The Global Village: Transformations In World Life and Media in the 21st Century p. 11

The new video-related technologies promise to impose a new monopoly of ground over figure. Whatever is left of mechanical age values could be swallowed up by information overload. Media determinism, the imposition willy-nilly of new cultural grounds by the action of new technologies, is only possible when the users are well-adjusted, i.e., sound asleep. The vortex of side-effects was penned by James Joyce: "Willed without witting, whorled without aimed." --- There is no inevitability, however, where there is a willingness to pay attention. -----p. 46 ...since World War I and the advent of those technical wave-surfers Marconi and Edison, the rumbles of aural-tactility, the power of the spoken word, have been heard. James Joyce in Finnegans Wake, celebrating the tearing apart of the ethos of print by radio, film (television), and recording. He could easily see that Goebbels and his radio loudspeakers were a new tribal echo. And you may be sure that emerging mediums such as satellite, the computer, the data base, teletext-videotext, and the international multi-carrier corporations, such as ITT, GTE, and AT&T, will intensify the attack on the printed word as the "sole" container of the public mentality, without being aware of it of course. By the twenty-first century, most printed matter will have been transferred to something like an ideographic microfiche as only part of a number of data sources available in acoustic and visual modes. Something here should sound vaguely familiar; for the filmmakers are only reporting on the real-life formula. The toxic effects from which everyoneâ€™on a world-wide scale presently suffers, aren't just the peculiar high-tech demons of identifiable byproducts that can be duly isolated; the poisons that are smelted and packaged, refined and harvested, ejected and ingested incessantly through the sum-total of industrial living, work such thorough subversion of the immunology system (and in the process produce such unique and resistant ailments) owing to a synergistic interaction that simply couldn't be accomplished by each operating independently, i.e. in the manner of the standard linear model which mainstream medicine insists on imposing so as to focus on "the" reductive cause, the isolated irritant. Due to the same blinders which have served over time in accelerative synthesis of items for limited/profitable use or specialized effect, neither official science nor mainstream medicine have yet developed theoretical eyes adequate to view the dilemma in its proper dimension.

It's for this reason the Joker, underworld master and crime czar of the Industrial Chemistry-set, can impart his lethal humor with invisible panache, with utterly silent and undetected effect. Only Batman seems able to see the gestalt, the Way of combination and synergistic reinforcement; everyone else appears to be looking in hypnotic left-brain fashion for the isolated factor, the irreducible particle, the underlying "entity".

Only "Batman" sees it; he alone can figure it out. And why?

The actual source against which such agencies seek defense, is the same which teasingly extended the original leads relative to such super-technology; the real fear haunting personnel of DARPA (Defense Department Advanced Research Projects Agency) and the counterintelligence branches has to do with the altogether transcendent faculty of space alien factoti to impose just such technological manipulations unhindered, and indeed to do so from a "density" or higher-dimensional point of leverage which is untouchable and inaccessible where the militarists stand. The potent admixture of truly Psychic force with electrogravitic wizardry as characterizes the capacity of higher-density "alien" forms, preempts and completely outflanks anything that may be developed at the purely mechanical 3rd-density level. The military/power-structure has certainly gotten the hint over the years that Psyche patterns Soma, and that the void-value of mind informs the complex nonlinear matrix of em identity-signatures in the same way that "paper covers rock".

salvia one final time

February 26, 2020 â€” 10:34 am

I finished smoking this stuff, or anything else. I broke my bong. I won't need it any more. I have finished my examination of the jolly green giants, and here are my final conclusions. They are activated archetypes from the collective unconscious in Jung's sense, which means:

They are neither divine nor supernatural, but a product of subtle material forces.

They only seem to have â€”minds' in the common or garden sense, because they do not actually understand words. But they do understand voice-tones, facial expression, body language, visuals, music and rhythm.

That is not to say they necessarily lack in â€”wisdom.' After all, the most important of the archetypes in Jung's personal record are of the â€”wise old man' type, but â€”wisdom' cannot be expressed in words, so the â€”wise old man' cannot impart his wisdom in words. That doesn't mean he isn't wise, nor that he isn't imparting his wisdom in some non-verbal way.

What is it that â€”constellates the archetypes in the collective unconscious,' to use Jung's terms? He says variously that their source is material and that they are within us rather than without, and that they are hereditary. He was writing some decades before the discovery of DNA. His most famous essay on the activated archetypes talks exclusively of a warrior archetype specific to the German people. It is hard not to see this as racist, but he is saying that the more DNA they have in common the stronger the archetypal bonds created thereby.

The archetypal realm is the realm of the instincts, and monsters from the Id, like in the film "Forbidden Planet," are thrill-seekers. They are activated instinctual forces: what can they seek but instinctual goals? Rough sex, violence, torture & mutilation, atrocities of every sort: what should we expect when the instinctual archetypes are released through drugs or ritual invocation, but that they become devouring demons?

The Crowley OTO, like many â€”occult' groups, knows how to release the archetypes in the candidates for initiation, so that the candidates become acquainted with their own deepest devils and gods, demonesses & goddesses, but the Crowlean tendency is to treat these as real gods, not just as released interior forces. If so, they are gods of the pit, gods of pure passion, brutal, asocial and ruthless. They need to be made the objects of psychotherapy, not used to implement Crowley's fascist world-view.

Kenneth Anger / Morgan Fisher Reception & Performance

Thursday, June 6, 2019 // 7:00 PM --- Slash Art San Francisco // 687 Minna Street, San Francisco

Facebook Event runs May 17 through June 23, 2019

Laurence Rickels in The Case of California tells us that music is the ghost noise of identification, a haunting melody that replaces projection with mental images and associations recomposed as impressions. "Only the listener capable of self-concentration tunes in on the composer's original wavelength." Projection, and the projector, have their own associations with haunting, as the technology developed alongside the re-emergence of the esoteric and the magickal at the turn of the 20th Century. These two movements often find themselves entwined, and this is certainly the case here: music and magick both find their proper place in the projections of Kenneth Anger and Morgan Fisher.

Kenneth Anger's legendary film Invocation of My Demon Brother was largely assembled with out-takes from his first version of Lucifer Rising combined with new footage shot in 1969 at San Francisco's Straight Theater and the William Westerfeld House, which got its "Russian Embassy" nickname in the 1920's when it was occupied by a group of Czarist Russians who ran a night club out of it. The house later became a center of acid test hippie culture, mystic experimentation, and rock and roll, the magick of which becomes projected through the film's imagery. Invocation of My Demon Brother stars, among others, Lenore Kandel, Harvey Bialy, Anton LeVay, and Bobby Beausoleil. The film's score for Moog synthesizer was composed by Mick Jagger.

ARTIST STATEMENT: "Every point of contact between a body and its media extension marks the site of some secret burial." - Laurence Rickels, Aberrations of Mourning

My work addresses the resonances of death in the still image. It owes its fragmented aesthetic to the interaction of new and old media, and the collision of the body with imaging technology. I combine cutting-edge means of reproduction, like 3d laser scanning and 3d printing, with ancient bronze casting techniques. Using damaged 3d data, I create sculptures and video works that resemble de-constructed monuments or memorials. The precise 3d scanning technology I use was never designed to capture the body, which is always in motion. When confronted with a moving body, it receives conflicting spatial coordinates, generating a 3d 'emotion blur'. From these scans, I create videos or 3d printed molds for bronze sculptures. The resulting sculptures bear the artifacts of all the digital processes they have been through. The scanning and 3d printing process strips color and movement from the body, leaving behind only traces of its form - a scan of the face resembles nothing more than a digital death mask. I scan my own body frequently, but what I end up with is a series of digital doppelgangers with a (n after-) life of their own. These scans, realized as life-size 3d printed statues and installed in darkened rooms as a damaged ancient artifact might be, serve as incomplete memorials to the body as it moves through time and space. I work with this deathly imagery not because I want to be morbid, but because I am interested in the ways that technology can fail to capture life - and what the poetics of that failure might look like.

The Metapolitics of the Noosphere

By William Irwin Thompson |â€", July 12, 2016

Feature Image: "Cosmic Biogenesis" by James Moss.

Editor's note: The following piece is part of an ongoing series that cultural historian William Irwin Thompson has been running on his blog. We're featuring it as the first in a new section we call "Microdoses." These will often be shorter, experimental publications like visual art, film, music, podcasts, and the poetic, philosophical "mind-jazz" that Thompson's style embodies so well here.

Microdoses are hypertexts. Connective, interlinking ideas between larger thought-pieces and works of art. They're assemblages, which in their inter-weaving, reveal the "patterns that connect." We consider the Microdose to be a digital mutation of the literary fragment.

This is not aimed to be definitive but does now represent a very good selection of pre 1855 Regular units. If you find or have an early one not shown here please do send it in as there are many known types not recorded here and of course new ones are showing up all the time. Post 1855 tunic buttons are not recorded here as by that point issues were far more regulated and the excellent works by Howard Ripley cover them in more detail than we could ever hope to. For earlier items Major Parkyn's work remains the definitive but with the ever improving technology that means more are being found by metal detectorists every year, we hope he would appreciate our efforts to build upon and 'keep updated' his work.

posted atop one of the 2017 files i am editing that day:

kind of a raggedy period again (more quotes than notes [and the latter shortish / selfabsorbed / dense], subject matter jumps around) 20 sets of 13 'wavespell' days make up a 'tzolkin', that famous mayan calendar with the crisscross loophookfigure running inwards from all 4 corners. Jose Arguelles [Volum Votan*] challenged his followers to see them in tetrahedral mode but not much came of that unfortunately. Anyway, he called them 'wavespells', part of the 'dreamspell' 'time[skip]scape', an early nineties dispensation plotted in/out as countercultural artifact no worse nor better than say, a guitar. * = 'Count her cultsure all' artilect jose arguelles came to see himself as one of many in the mayan royal votan line ... a liddul the worse for wear, still further from home .. but hey, it's proly due to duh 'drift' we all contend with. Today, the 5th of march 2020 i learned, from a Georges Brassens translator that, in french 'deride' can mean a women's excitement and - the less prepared, the more reckless - collusion course during ovulation. Much to be read about him elsewhere on this adress.

End 10th wavespell marks the middle of the middle of the tzolkin on the dreamspell dispensation

Today marks 28 Tzolkin spins since Dr. Jose Arguelles emerged from a TimeTunnel of tranceformation on K133 remembered his past, re-stored his cosmic self and re-framed his spiritual name as Valum Votan. "The Heart of the people- the heart of Nine" (Valum 9 x Votan 3 = 27)

K133 is also at the center/core of the 19=260 Matrix. The scripture Holy Quran and the Law of Time is a text initiated by Jose on K259 Self-Existing 27 during the 6th year of Prophecy and compares the little understood Quran and the codes of the vigesimal (0-19) Maya time science. Note that in 2013, EXACTLY 5200 days 20 tzolkins from its inception, pope Ben Ratzinger by his Galactic Signature K133 announced his "stepping down from the throne" on K259. Thus matching as if divinely choreographed and with perfect elegance into this occult matrix of redemption.

"Today, Red Electric Skywalker, Self-Existing

Moon 6, (Oct. 23 1997) is exactly one spin since I emerged from the 28- day Time Tunnel, "Retrieving the Divine Plan" (20 Tablets Instruction Manual, p. 13). The arrival of these 20 Tablets of the Law of Time was synchronically ordered by the Rinri Project opening of the first half of the first psi bank plate. It took another 24days to transcribe all of the information, and prepare an initial set of Tablets for a press conference in Costa Rica. This press conference occurred on Magnetic Warrior [K196=11+185/Uranus Bode #], exactly 91 days later (13 weeks of 7 days each, 7 perfect wavespells of 13 days each). The 91-day interval marking the precise commencement of the Time Tunnel, "Retrieving the Divine Plan", and the press conference was marked by two solar flares of unusual magnitude, which heightened the intensity of Earth's electromagnetic field by 10,000 times."

It happened that K133 or 13.3 (13 Skywalker, tone 3) was once again an activator of time/vector potentialities.

karayalcon2011 on 5 Graves works

auded chapter on King Jesus .. in 2 parts ... with only the last lines overflowing size limits:

According to Graves in King Jesus, Christianity is based on a fundamental misunderstanding, a misunderstanding which is the source of the spiritual decay of humankind. If The Golden Fleece serves as the prologue to King Jesus, then both texts are a way of fitting Graves's argument and the poetics of The White Goddess into the final part of the 'story': The White Goddess being the remedy to the degradation of Western civilization that was set in motion when the Goddess was supplanted. With King Jesus, Graves attempted to create a new myth, believing that only a true poet can re-establish what has been lost: the relationship between humanity and its divine source (Psilopoulous, 'Esoteric', p. 169). With the retelling of the story of Jesus's birth and death. Graves wrote a convincing parable demonstrating his own views, to be practised in his poetry thereafter.

In 1945, under instructions from the NKVD, Russian intelligence operatives planted a passive covert listening device—designed by L. A. S. on Theresin and concealed inside a carved, wooden replica of the Great Seal of the United States of America—in the American embassy in Moscow. The bugged seal was gifted to the USA by members of the Vladimir Lenin All-Union Pioneer Youth Organization and, once installed, was sensitive to remote activation by means of a microwave signal transmitted in the vicinity of the embassy building.

The nurlu is a multimedia ritual technology native to the West Kimberly region in Northern Australia that functions as a channel between local spirits and living members of the indigenous communities, often for purposes of testifying to the latter's possession of magical powers and for the transmission of important messages. Nurlu are procured via psychosonic transmission and typically comprise a sequence of vocal and rhythmic components communicated during dreams or other altered states of consciousness to a maban or shaman.

translation of Vacillations by François J. Bonnet - together with Robin:

For long he believed he was still striding through the forest, in the numbingly warm wind, which seemed to blow from all sides and move the trees like snakes, following the barely visible blood-trail of the regularly pulsing ground in an always similar twilight, alone in the battle with the animal. In the first days and nights, or were they only hours, how could he measure the time without the sky, he even asked himself sometimes, what might be under the ground, which beat in waves underneath his footsteps so that it seemed to breathe, how thin the skin over the unknown thing beneath and how long it would hold it back from the entrails of the world.

In this incomparable text by Heiner Müller, the exact title of which is Heracles 2 or the Hydra, Heracles sets out in search of the many-headed monster in hopes of vanquishing it. Walking for some indefinite period through a shifting, living forest which transforms as he moves through it, Heracles suddenly realises that what he had taken for a forest was, itself, already, the hydra:

[ ] [He] understood, in the rising panic: the forest was the animal, for some time now the forest he thought he was walking through had been the animal, which bore him in the tempo of his steps

spectral world

Superstition is a modality of being-in-the-world. It is not an ad-hoc stringing together of more-or-less justified, more-or-less grounded beliefs, a rosary of faithless explanations. On the contrary, it is a tendency to believe that the world is irrigated by invisible forces, emerging and dissipating to the rhythm of ritual gestures and fortuitous coincidences. What this implies, ultimately, is that the world possesses an obscure side, which casts its invisible glimmer on the real, but whose interventions are knowable and avoidable—in short, it implies that an economy of the invisible is possible.

Malefic forces set their trap beneath a ladder because it forms a magical triangle with the wall and the floor; they incarnate themselves in a cat whose baleful power resides in the blackness of its pelt; they lie in wait in the fragile surface of a mirror which cannot be shattered without unpleasant consequences for the unlucky person who breaks it.

“We are not at home in this world.” This sentence of August Strindberg's perfectly summarises the vexed situation of the superstitious person, warily negotiating a strange world, a world containing secrets no human will ever penetrate, yet whose effects make themselves known and canâ€”indeed, mustâ€”be warded off iON: What is a God? God is one who is not "Fallen". God we're answering her question because she pumped it in, which is going to follow to what you're going to ask. So, let's just get it done! A God is one whose cellular structure, like a diamond, is perfectly patterned. A God is one whose meat sack body feeds in and of - to itself. The Bible gives specific references of attributes of God: "Feet likened to brass" ah "Skin as in, an amber - alabaster amber or a rose gold shimmer". Bob almost has that! And we could talk about Bob - but we don't want to be that long - he'll get confused again - the "Dark Soul" that he is. But then, what happens is - is that the power that's flowing naturally to this planet, what you call "Earth" - which is going to become Heaven - which is where you're going to live eternally â€” has energy that you as a God focus!

So the wavelength expands and gets bigger as the frequency of the particle as velocity increases towards the speed of light - due to relativity. But due to the music harmonics of frequency as inverse to time then since the frequency as momentum is increasing (from de Broglie) therefore if the time as wavelength is also increasing from relativity then there HAS to be a negative frequency from the future that has a reverse time. That way the quantum frequency as negative energy (virtual photons) is inverse to the negative time as EMPTINESS from the future.

It is William Tiller (working indirectly with Chunyi Lin via Dr. Nisha Manek) that emphasizes the power of Yuan Qi is not from the frequency being negative as virtual photons but from the Negative TIME as negative mass!

This paper was written in 1984 while I was a student of Professor Arthur Lieberman at Cornell University. Professor Lieberman was then Director of the Cornell Tree Crops Research Project and taught landscape ecology in the Department of Landscape Architecture. This version was submitted to the international journal Agroforestry Systems in 1988, but never published there due to its length. A somewhat condensed version was later published in the 1994 Annual Report of the Northern Nut Growers Association (Volume 85). 2. Perennial Crops Remain an Underutilized Resource

As Smith envisioned, advances in tree and other perennial crop breeding have the potential, if properly implemented, to dramatically increase the world's sustainable food production capacity. This can be achieved by developing a variety of perennial species, including tree crops and grasses, legumes, and other forbs, to produce nutritious food on hundreds of millions of hectares of steep, rocky slopes, degraded forests and rangelands, and marginal farmlands unsuitable for sustainable production of annual crops. No virgin forests would need to be cut, as vast areas of currently deforested or otherwise degraded land exist throughout the world, with 850 million hectares of degraded lands reported to be found in the tropics [4,55â€"57]. Planting these lands to improved tree and other perennial crops would return some or many of the environmental and ecological services once provided by the forests. Perennial crops can also be produced in home gardens, edible landscapes [58], parks, waterways, and along roadsides, as well as in small towns, suburbs, cities, and other places not currently growing plants for food. Overall, this approach could greatly increase and diversify food supplies, while providing a means to alleviate many of the environmental and ecological problems likely to arise.

A study published in the American Journal of Chinese Medicine has shown that a Chinese woman with â€"special abilities' has successfully grown seeds using the psychic powers of her mind.

The study shows that Chulin Sun was able to use the art of Waiqi (a type of qigong) to induce plant seeds to grow.

"Chulin Sun is a woman with exceptional powers (Shen and Sun, 1996, 1998; Sun, 1998). A member of the Chinese Somatic Science Research Institute, she is a practitioner of Waiqi. Waiqi is a type of qigong that teaches the practitioner to bring the qi energy of traditional Chinese medicine under the control of the mind. Chulin Sun can induce plant seeds to grow shoots and roots several cm long within 20 min using mentally projected qi energy (Fig. 1). This has been demonstrated on more than 180 different occasions at universities as well as science and research institutions in China (including Taiwan and Hong Kong) as well as other countries (e.g., Japan, Thailand, Malaysia, etc.)(Ge et al., 1998; Qin et al., 1998; Lee et al., 1999). We took part in and repeated the qi germination experiments seven times, and five of them succeeded (Ge et al., 1998). This remarkable effect on seed development has drawn widespread attention (Tompkins and Bird, 1973; Lee, 1998), but the biological mechanisms that underlie this phenomenon are unknown."

The Octahedron is also found in the large-scale structure of the universe. In the work of Battaner and Florido in 1997 they found evidence of an octahedral structure in galactic clustering. They call this the "egg carton" universe. In this model there would be larger amounts of matter along the edges of the octahedra, which would be sites of the superclusters. Outside the filaments there would be large voids.

When this process works well, it creates very intelligent people as Crowley is quick to point out, but in the Prince of Swords this process is not grounded in anything practical and so what he creates rarely comes to anything fruitful.

He is a mass of fine ideal, unrelated to practical effort

(viii) Minor Arcana Cards Ruled by Prince of Swords

The three minor arcana cards ruled by the Prince of Swords are the Four of Disks, Five of Swords & Six of Swords

1. Four of Disks

Prince of SwordsThe Prince likes his freedom and the 4 of disks contains this. This is about knowing your boundaries and working for a stable material life, which is not really in his nature. It also implies knowing where boundaries lie, but the airy nature of the Prince just goes through any set boundaries. This is his weaker side (representing the last decan of Capricorn) and so his energies are weak in this card.

2. Five of Swords

This card normally represents defeat that we have experienced in the world. Applied to the Prince of Swords it often represents self defeat. Just as the swords turn in on themselves as if to self wound, the undisciplined mind of the Prince can often self sabotage and hence the chariot does not move in a creative way (compare to the green under the chariot of the Prince of Wands).

3. Six of Swords

Prince of Swords Aquarius ruled by Mercury gives rise to the intelligent side of the Prince of Swords. When his mind is working well he is highly creative, artistic, philosophical and able to analyse situations, especially abstract ideas. This quality is highlighted by Crowley in his description of this card. The diagram comes from French Sword Fighting as illustrated in the diagram below and the Six links the Prince with Tiphareth, like his Head Crest and gives him his positive qualities and potential for greatness that counterbalance his destructive nature.

The circle, Square & Background Lady Harris explains the pattern in the background, along with the circle and square, in the little instruction booklet with the Thoth Deck:

"The swords are lying on a fencers diagram (14th Century) which was worked out scientifically to show the positions in which a fencer can stand and be invulnerable"

thank you, .. me to a T (though i think i am aa tad more purposeful than depicted above, as i prove below).

The bad reputation comes from one peculiarity of this card and the Knight of Swords, I think. They both tend to appear when a man is angry, violent or vicious. However this is a function of the Suit - Swords deal with conflict and pain quite extensively. So don't imagine that every Prince of Swords you see is bad - most of them aren't.

Although Plato does not mention the relevance of the number 55, it is implicit within the two number chains given in respect of the Platonic Lambda.

1,2,4,8 -Doubling Sequence -Value =15

1,3,9,27 -Tripling Sequence -Value = 40

Total value =55

Dante's 'Inferno' and the number 55.

Dante Alighieri mentions the word 'star', 55 times throughout the three books of his 'Commedia'.

Might this possibly infer he was aware of Plato's Lambda and its connection to the cosmic soul?

And if so, what other information might he have likely encoded into his work that might infer a knowledge of a 'lost' mathematical system?

If we count the number of lines per canto within the 3 books of Dante's 'Divine Comedy'-'Inferno', Purgatorio' and 'Paradiso', and subject the result to single digit reduction, a visible pattern starts to emerge.

Dante Number Sequences

Original version of this chart available at Peter Chou's website;

<http://www.wisdomportal.com/Dante/TotalLinesCommedia.html>

(I have corrected Peter Chou's calculation on Canto 23 [Inferno] as he has given a 9 for the reduced number of the lines whereas his 3131 should reduce to a value of 8-This was the one glaring exception within the whole calculation.) The sums rendered by reduction across the respective Cantos of Dante's three books all fall neatly into the 1-4-7,2-5-8 and 3-6-9 patterning we note are represented within the device formed from the 24 reduced Fibonacci numbers.

This understanding is highly remarkable in that it may offer a conclusive proof that Dante Alighieri was indeed aware of this ancient mathematical knowledge and had gone to the great length of choosing to encode it into the three books of his 'Divine Comedy'. We see that in Canto 12, we have a 3-3-3 configuration, 12 reducing to 3. Similarly in Canto 17 we are presented with 8-8-8. 17 reducing to the number 8. In Canto 18, we have 9-9-9. 18 reducing to the number 9. The Cantos I have underlined in red all render sequences which contain complete permutations of 1-4-7,2-5-8 or 3-6-9.

The Frequency of Love follows cosmic rapper & lyricist, Omboy Rome aka Rome Edin. Omboy is a steward of the Earth, believes that food is medicine and sound healing is the key to living a balanced, high vibrational lifestyle. Like the other radical beings he converses with in the film, his family and society at large have trouble understanding this conscious way of life. Through Omboy's inspiring rhymes and poetics and compelling conversations with teachers, artists and activists, he explores the underlying premise of the film: perhaps we can tap into a way of being that is not ruled by a finite sense of time, but rather by the ability to live in harmony with the true creative nature of our existence.

Many astrologers have been pointing an accusing finger at the current planetary traffic jam in Capricorn, with the Saturn-Pluto conjunction as the main culprit, and Mars currently helping it along. Neptune in Pisces has a correlation with contagion too, as Maurice Fernandez has emphasized. All that is solid astrology, but it leaves out an important piece of the puzzle – one whose significance has been banging us over the head since 2005, but which astrologers still tend to ignore. That is the planet Eris, which is currently squaring the Pluto-Saturn conjunction, and doing so from the edgy sign Aries.

greek myth makes Eris a sister to Mars

this man has a nice way of writing:

"Pluto is the part of us that can squarely face difficult truths. But when we instead make a weak response to Pluto, those difficult truths manifest in your life instead of showing up in your head and heart in the form of liberating insights."

ps: after listening to George Webb closely i doubt taking the WHO for anything, let alone birth charts, can end well ... jussayin "Austerity reigns. Blessed are those with toilet paper – a situation that was literally unimaginable just a few weeks ago."

Meanwhile, all of that Pluto-in-Capricorn pressure is grinding away on Eris through that hard square aspect – and let's not forget that Eris lies in Aries, which in its darker potentials is the angriest, most violent, and most selfish sign of the zodiac. Here are some good rules of thumb: don't annoy Eris. Don't try to tell her what she can do and cannot do. Don't force rules upon her. And of course that is obviously exactly what Pluto is doing – and doing in ways that reflect a mixture of justice and corruption. How does Eris feel about that? And how is Eris going to react?

Bob Dobbs on Martin Heidegger

posted what i wrote the 12th

I asked McLuhan researcher and call-in radio guru Bob Dobbs about the reasons behind the current vogue for 20th-century philosopher Martin Heidegger in contemporary cognitive sciences. He gives a provocative historical account of Heidegger's influence in academia.

His essay that he mentions on McLuhan's intersection with the post-modernists Derrida, Lyotard, Foucault, Virilio, Baudrillard, and Deleuze and Guattari's "Literary/Aesthetic Cliché Probes in the American Classroom Without Walls" was my first exposure to Bob's work, and what first prompted me to get into contact with him in the summer of 2017. Enharmonic Equivalence Noncommutative Unity: Distance is no longer a geometric wavelength, but now it is noncommutative time or period aka "inverse-frequency": My response to my yogi friend in India and to the Osteopath in the UK

Yes qigong master Chunyi Lin says playing piano or typing is good acupuncture treatment for the meridian channels. I'm glad to hear you had a good experience with Sai Baba although I have also watched the documentaries about him being a predator on young males. Also I have read Ananda Bosman but my view on time-frequency is noncommutative like the "three gunas" - not the symmetric Western frequency. So we can use Western science as it is our current religion on Earth as the Matrix - as I discovered this UN theosophist Matrix Plan after my master's thesis on music theory. Yes Jose Arguelles promoting 2012 was also part of this Matrix plan based on the "music logarithmic spiral." So Bosman is relying on Dr. Andrija Puharich but maybe Bosman just has not studied the science enough. In order to breakthrough to the other side of the Matrix then we have to study the problem enough to get to what I call its "rotten root" - from the Power Set Axiom (satan) or square root of two from the wrong music theory.

So these are all just conceptual "play" differences. I have conceptual differences with the qigong masters also. <http://springforestqigong.com> was going on cruise ships every year as a tax deduction - taking Tibetan monks to do healing of the Earth via the water energy. Only the cruise ships are one of the worst sources of pollution - taking one cruise ship is the same as driving a car for half your life! haha Also cruise ships just spew the humanure right into the water creating bad pollution. The virus is very much real from the Pangolin being sold in "exotic" wet markets of Asia. So due to Westernization of the world - deforestation in Malaysia has caused the Pangolin to mingle the bats. So I have read up on the latest science - my blog has the details <http://elixirfield.blogspot.com> So now cruise ships are concentration zones for the virus.

Yes in deep enough meditation then we can change physical matter indeed! Quantum biology has proven that dna is held together via non-local 5th dimension ether-energy. So the virus is made of DNA and so we can change it with deep enough meditation. But unfortunately the frequency on Earth is too low. I'm not sure there is a need to raise the Schumann Frequency. As Dr. Puharich details - in fact the ideal Schumann frequency as I think it's 7.8 hertz? Anyway the goal is for water to be a tetrahedron macroquantum molecule so that ultrasound splits the water into proton (yang qi) and electron (yin qi) via virtual photons (yin matter or Yuan Jing). So then we access reverse time energy as Yuan Qi.

both Drew and Rowan, only 2 out of 200 thousand plus links visited in the noughties i still visit regularly have a particularly suckcuck day today .... sigh .... wsws are morons too.
Drew goes with the pangolin theory:

Our follow-up study also found that the genetic sequence of a coronavirus, discovered in lung samples of Malayan pangolins, was highly similar to SARS-CoV-2. The two viruses shared 91 percent of their genetic sequence.

There is a particularly strong similarity between the spike proteins of these two viruses. The spike protein, which is on the surface of a coronavirus, is used by the virus to get into an animal cell.

The bat coronavirus, which was the ancestor of SARS-CoV-2, has 19 amino acids on the spike protein that are different from SARS-CoV-2; the pangolin coronavirus only has five amino acids that are different from SARS-CoV-2.

Meanwhile, several other research groups have found further experimental evidence of pangolins being infected by coronaviruses highly similar to SARS-CoV-2.

<https://christopher-germann.de/phd-thesis/>

he goes nuts on the music fractions ..

"On the other hand, the ancient Pythagorean musical scales naturally lead to a simple quantum circle....There is something profoundly quantum in all music. A discrete spaceâ€”the skeleton hosting any musical score, morphs into a true musical form, only after being symbiotically enveloped by a geometry of sound. And this geometry is inherently quantum, as it connects the points of the discrete underlying structure, invalidating the difference between now, then, here and there; thus creating an irreducible continuum for a piece of music: continuous discreteness and discrete continuity.... By taking the inverses  $L$  to  $1/1 + L$  and  $1/\text{infinity}=0$ , we can identify  $M = \{0, 1, 1/2, 1/3, \dots\}$ . The geometrical picture is that we have a circular object, unifying infinitely circular 'oscillating modes.' The limiting oscillating mode is the classical mode....All other modes are purely quantum 'virtual modes,' so we can not distinguish separate fibers over the classical points labeling these modes. The entire structure is a unified and irreducible quantum circle.... The oscillating modes base space  $M$ ...will be quantum (noncommutativity of the algebra  $V$ )." JoEbYX: The Cosmic Joke pertaining to Western tuning can be summarized very succinctly:  $3^{12} \neq 2^{19}$ .

91

foo0815: Not quite, with  $3^{12} \approx 2^{19}$  you are talking 3-limit (only using octaves and fifth) but omit the next prime (5), which is necessary for well tuned thirds and is used in classical music theory. These lead to different kinds of commas, e.g.  $2^7 \approx 5^3$

Some modern theorists go even further and include 7th, 11th and 13th harmonics...

Tudi20: Me taking a while to get if I should read that as 3 to the power of 12 factorial equals 2 to the power 19; or as 3 to the power of 12 doesn't equal to 2 to the power of 19.

Yo Yo!: @Tudi20 In equations like these, a space (character) is significant. "12!" means "12 factorial"; "!=" means "not equal"; and only " $3^{12} \neq 2^{19}$ " would be truly ambiguous. Your second reading is spot on! - and your confusion is understandable!

JoEbYX: @Yo Yo! Yes, I could have found the "not equals" character but I wasn't up to it and I was thinking like a programmer anyway.

JoEbYX: @HilmEthan - Ah, yes,  $81 \approx 80$  includes 2, 3, and 5, but it can be derived algebraically from  $2^{19} \approx 3^{12}$  and  $2^7 \approx 5^3$ . So to foo0815's point, we only need two of these three equations describe the Cosmic Joke for 5-limit tuning. I still stand by my original statement that the breakdown at the perfect fifth is already the Universe's joke on us. :-D

Tim H.: But that's just a comment on 12-TET:  $2 \cdot 2^{(7/12)} = 2^{(19/12)}$ , which is close to, but not exactly, 3. Or are you referring to a trip around the circle of fifths not landing back where you started?

"A key feature of this expansion is how uniform it is. Imagine a bunch of folks standing around the edges of a stretchy piece of fabric, tugging at it. Let us assume they're choreographed well and are able to walk backward and pull at the same rate. You, standing in the middle, would correctly observe that your "universe" is expanding: any objects placed on that fabric would slowly move away from you. Because stretchy stuff is stretchy, the objects on the fabric close to you would appear to move away with some speed, but the farther objects would appear to move faster. Even though the folks doing the pulling are moving at a constant speed, the apparent stretch changes with distance. I swear this is true; you can even try it for yourself at home!"

guitaoist: this is very important for Jews to understand (I grew up a jew and had my bar mitzvah in 2000), the Septuagint is 1000 years older than the Masoretic Text even though 99% of bibles use the MT today instead of the Septuagint. Sadly, the Jews saw how many prophecies Jesus fulfilled in the Septuagint and created their own translations around 900 AD and changed Isaiah 7:14 to "young woman" instead of "Virgin" and other similar things, thereby altering the Word of God, and then Jerome used it to translate the Latin Vulgate instead of the Septuagint and now we all have the wrong bibles. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pFTGqqUIMHo> fleetwd1: thank you for your interest in my video by professor Dr Gary Rendsburg. since you are new to this I hope you will be open to some ideas you may not be aware of. the LXX was likely complete as far as Torah/the Books of Moses by your date. However the Psalms and Prophets were likely added over time. the fact that these were used to draw on by New Testament writers indicates they were accepted by that time. Like English in current time Greek was the most common language Latin Hebrew and Aramaic were also known but the most common language was Greek. Next I am sure the Hebrew translators of the Septuagint/LXX were likely aware of the difference nuance they were making perhaps by inspiration. Since the Dead Sea scrolls there are those who have compared the Hebrew texts found there which date much farther back than the Masoretic text and they have found there are little differences between Hebrew Scripts found and the Masoretic texts. So we should use care in our attempts to say Jews changed texts in Isaiah or Psalms to eliminate references to Jesus. While there is a temptation to think this at first when we discover the differences, the Jewish scribes used incredible care to recreate texts. There are more errors in copies made of Greek texts than of Hebrew texts. Also we must understand God is not on trial in what we know of God's word. Human error is known to exist. The intent of God is not thwarted by these errors. The Word is meant that we might come to know him and his Son to whom all Scripture prior were pointing to for fulfillment. You mention your own Jewish heritage in your comment left on my video. I have a great deal of respect for you and those like you. that is why i hope you realize my attempt to help you understand these issues more clearly. God can use you to reach others from your cultural background, so being accurate will benefit your effort. blessings and peace to you. PS you might want to search my channel for a video by Peter Williams on the Septuagint. Also I have many Scholarly Seminars where they discuss the Qumran Scrolls and how accurate the Masoretic text is in comparison.

Inverse Doppler Effects in Pipe Instruments. --- Zhai SL1, Zhao J2, Shen FL1, Li LL1, Zhao XP3. --- Abstract: Music is older than language, and for most of human history music holds our culture together. The pipe instrument is one of the most popular musical instruments of all time. Built on the foundation of previous flute and flute-like acoustic metamaterial models, we herein report the experimental results of the inverse Doppler effects discovered in two common pipe instruments - recorder and clarinet. Our study shows that the inverse Doppler effects can be detected at all seven pitches of an ascending musical scale when there is a relative motion between a microphone (observer) and abovementioned two pipe instruments (source). The calculated effective refractive indices of these two pipe instruments are negative and varying across a set of pitches, exhibiting a desired characteristic of broadband acoustic metamaterials. This study suggests that recorder and clarinet may be the earliest man-made acoustic metamaterials known so far, offering a new explanation why pipe instruments have enjoyed wide popularity in Europe and Asia over the past hundreds and thousands years. This newly discovered phenomenon would also offer a clue into designing next-generation smart broadband double-negative acoustic metamaterials with varying refractive index.

The mechanism of metamaterials is based on resonance in periodic structures, such as electromagnetic metamaterials with metallic wires exhibiting negative permittivity or with split resonance rings displaying negative magnetic permeability 26,27 and acoustic metamaterials with a high-density solid core and a soft coating exhibiting a negative dynamic mass density 28 or subwavelength Helmholtz resonators with a negative effective dynamic bulk modulus 29 . The bandwidth of this resonance is narrow in nature. Previous theories 30,31 and experiments 32,33 demonstrated that a metamaterial in each distinct unit cell resonates at its inherent frequency and elicits almost no coupling effect with other materials; thus, a weak interaction system can be formulated. The total response of a weak interaction system can be treated as an overlap of the single resonance spectrum of each type of unit cell. Multiband or broadband metamaterials can be developed using a simple method because of this intriguing feature. Moreover, in our previous work 34 , we have demonstrated the feasibility to realise broadband negative mass density by using a meta-atom cluster model.

Experiments and theories have demonstrated the lack of interactions among surface plasmon polaritons Acoustic artificial meta-molecules can simultaneously produce negative mass density and bulk modulus 35 ; as such, a meta-molecule cluster is formed by combining meta-molecules with different resonant frequencies in a particular arrangement.

Conclusion

We propose a model of 'flute-like' acoustic meta-cluster sets and developed a broadband, omni-directional and double-negative acoustic metamaterial. The experimental results show that the metamaterials can manipulate sound waves, such as the broadband negative refraction, the inverse Doppler effect and the shift from the Doppler effect to the inverse Doppler effect, in a system consisting of a normal medium and the metamaterial. The inverse Doppler effect of the flute implies that complex broadband metamaterials can be implemented with present technologies. The acoustic meta-cluster sets provide a new way to design and fabricate metamaterials with an arbitrarily changing refractive index and broadband double-negative Ancient noncommutative natural overtone music scale instruments = advanced alchemy metamaterials

16 views - 2:0 -- Apr 19 - Voidisyinyang Voidisyinyang -- 256 subscribers ---- Metamaterials rely on reverse time or the inverse or transverse Doppler Effect. So by using the natural number overtones as the music scale the ancient oldest human music instruments also exhibit a metamaterial acoustive negative refraction. This means that as the musician and instrument moves toward the listener then the frequency goes down in pitch (in opposite to the normal Doppler Effect of a frequency pitch perceived as going up at the time wavelength is compressed towards the listener). So this means that the "phase wave" is like the shock wave but it is going from the future in reverse and so the phase wave is in the opposite direction to the group wave going forward.

There are two ways for this to happen. One is to have a subwavelength resonance of the actual sound and this is from the sideways resonance of the tube or sphere versus the lengthwise resonance. The second secret is by using the natural number harmonics this enables each hole to be its own self reversal of phase in relation to the whole length of the tube itself. So the natural number resonance itself is creating a reversal of phase via the natural overtones also having a subharmonic that is noncommutative phase to the root tonic. This means that the inverse octave is effectively an enharmonic root tonic due to the noncommutative time-frequency resonance. So for example is C is 1 and the octave C is 2 then  $2/3$  is C to F while  $3/2$  is C to G and therefore  $F=3=G$  at the SAME time as noncommutative phase, creating a negative refraction superluminal sound wave.

G. Nimtz proved that indeed these superluminal sound waves or evanescent virtual acoustic oscillations are around us all the time as Nimtz was able to transmit Mozart as a superluminal acoustic signal. Nimtz used a crystal as a metamaterial for negative refraction but now we know that the natural number overtone/undertone series as the ancient music scale (documented to be used by our original human culture - the San Bushmen - as older than 50,000 years ago when human language first developed two different dialects). The original human culture, the San Bushmen, rely on music as the truth of reality as a negentropy or negative refraction index of spacetime itself - as inherent healing energy, as the Law of Phase Harmony of de Broglie explains. The original human culture that we are all from calls this energy, N/om and in China it is called Qi and in India it is called Prana. The indigenous cultures of thousands around the world were all from the original human culture of the San Bushmen and so they also use this same scale of noncommutative phase natural numbers and they also have words for the natural energy of the Universe as the Cosmic Womb that can only be LISTENED TO as a positive pressure healing energy.

Christopher Moore: Wish you would speak. I think you're brilliant. I reread your ats thread yearly. I would absolutely love a podcast format from you. Thank you for once again sharing your insights!

The Clock Mirage
Our Myth of Measured Time

Ultimately, time reveals itself as something that rides on the rhythms of our minds.

A tour of clocks throughout the centuries-from the sandglass to the telomere-to reveal the physical, biological, and social nature of time What is time? This question has fascinated philosophers, mathematicians, and scientists for thousands of years. Why does time seem to speed up with age? What is its connection with memory, anticipation, and sleep cycles? Award-winning author and mathematician Joseph Mazur provides an engaging exploration of how the understanding of time has evolved throughout human history and offers a compelling new vision, submitting that time lives within us. Our cells, he notes, have a temporal awareness, guided by environmental cues in sync with patterns of social interaction. Readers learn that, as a consequence of time's personal nature, a forty-eight-hour journey on the Space Shuttle can feel shorter than a six-hour trip on the Soyuz capsule, that the Amondawa of the Amazon do not have ages, and that time speeds up with fever and slows down when we feel in danger. With a narrative punctuated by personal stories of time's effects on truck drivers, Olympic racers, prisoners, and clockmakers, Mazur's journey is filled with fascinating insights into how our technologies, our bodies, and our attitudes can change our perceptions. Ultimately, time reveals itself as something that rides on the rhythms of our minds.The Clock Mirage presents an innovative perspective that will force us to rethink our relationship with time, and how best to use it.

JM talks about a 35 year span [of corruption] but if she wasn't so lost in detail myopic and obsessed with being the good wizards herding evil wizards ... she'd say 35 centuries .. or millenia even .. still not much in the scope and zoom out such people as Oscar Kiss Maerth present (approaching tibetan / mongolian / mayan timespans with tales of cannibalism ... oh my).

10th of may was electric wind, k42, the day i find out JM is a Rhythmic Skywalker [reed / corn ear / bee], k253, the last one in the wave spell of a tzolkin, which is a schematic that needs and benefits from dynamic viewing, prolly much like 'dem vaunted, vaulted and revaulting to being crowded too frictionheat raising closely' 'live' viruses and live dance scenes might be more instructive than pixelated ones. In this case a recent thought reaches heights [no pun intended] hitherto escaping focus although the simple slingshot gravity game (only one i ever enjoyed [thanks jorn barger] and ot so fully satisfied i never longed for any others or even for more) ...

a skywalker is preceded by the 14th seal, wizard when times are bad, entartung etc, are rife ... red guard antifa types rampant ... a plague of wizards and wizzies is never too far off, wishing and wooshing along ... the very stuff prophets warn us about and then get blamed for instead of being asked about alternatives bycause of.

don't ask a dreadie but a tangle lost it's tingle [i am partial to petting with silky hair .... goldmine if there ever was a cornpatigory able to compare]

if there is already a designation for a multiple of wizzies i don't know what it is but i suggest it be redesignated to CROWD of wizzies ... to indicate lack of o so necessary barrier between humans known as trees playing perpetual guest of honour. no chance for them in her breathless, part excuse for being lost among the stars and part expose on how to get out.

Reversing the Spiral of Silence into the Spiral of Sigh-Lens Bliss Healing: My response to Planet of the Humans doc I enjoyed this discussion. (youtube vid link for the webinar discussion of Planet of Humans doc) "the silent spiral" is a great phrase new to me.
<https://www.communicationtheory.org/the-spiral-of-silence-theory/>

But the "silent spiral" in the opposite direction means that this bliss can go downwards from reverse time itself - what ancient cultures call the Cosmic Mother as healing energy. This actually requires relativistic quantum biology to understand. The point being that Silence then becomes Sigh-Lens - using deep reverse breathing leads to a "Lense" or focusing of energy that is healing. We experience that "matter" on Earth no longer matters since it is Light itself as our original DreamTime - the essay by the Dr. Keeney team - Re-Entry into Creation - explains this.

To go back to that article I linked - Ken Amis and Donald E. Simanek. It's a huge cosmic carousel.

Every year theoretical physicists discover new conjectures supporting the idea that space itself can act upon matter, even at the quantum level. For example, Feigl [10] has concluded that virtual photons which arise spontaneously from a vacuum, then vanish before they can be directly observed, can, in a magnetic field, move with momentum biased in one direction. Therefore, in large enough quantity, they could move small objects in a particular direction. Feigl claims that this would not violate any fundamental laws of physics.

It makes perfect sense that black Africans were the first humans to be created, even if it was to serve the the "gods" who created them. Maybe Sitchin's Anunakki story is correct -that the gods who came to this egg universe (presumably from another egg universe) hundreds of thousands of years ago, tried to terraform this plane and shape it to their needs, but it was too much work, so they created blacks as primitive workers to relieve them of their toil. It was their terraforming, by the way, that destroyed or greatly changed much of the natural biodiversity which existed before they came here. It's like a developer from the city who comes into a forest or jungle and cuts down the trees or clears the foliage and then builds roads and houses and whatever defines his civilization.

Further interbreeding and genetic manipulation created the other root races and subraces and the process continues to this day. New races equate with new continents and land rings, each with their own luminaries and qualities. The Hyperboreans or Black (Saturn) race was used to dig tunnels for supersonic tram systems for the gods. The original black race was not only very strong physically, but very large or tall as well (Jupiter) and instilled with deep religious fear or fervor from their rulers. Most of them were settled into the African continent which they still dominate today.

The next oldest root race, the Asian Lemurians or Orientals have Venus and Mars as their Luminaries, planets associated with both peace and war and beauty and grossness. Their lighter skin coloring and hidden eyelids may be a product of the Orangutan which is native to southeast Asia just as the darker African gorilla was used to produce the black race. Or they may actually be associated to the lemur primate (hence Lemurian). This "yellow" root race and their subraces settled into China, Japan, and Southeast Asia. They were (and are) a highly spiritual and family-oriented peoples using crystals and nature as their technology.

When Atlantis was birthed some 30,000 years ago, it pushed Lemuria outward, and began its rise toward a scientific and technical society, quite opposite from the Lemurians. It even built vimanas or flying machines and became a very powerful force militarily, but infiltration by the dark forces led it to its eventual demise. With the the Sun and Moon as their signature planets, they made full use of solar power but also harnessed the negative influences of the Moon and resorted to black magic both of which were used to eventually destroy them. They played with genetics and produced living monstrosities and deviated sexually and when the evil got out of hand it was decided to sink the land with a great flood. The survivors produced our current civilization which is even now repeating the same mistakes and also faces destruction.

Arya followed Atlantis but is still in its infancy

<http://www.librarising.com/flat/objects.html>

Are the stars cities or mansions in the sky?

How an object in Heaven is bestowed with powerful influence is still a mystery to most, but I would guess it is something similar to being knighted or crowned. Certain objects in the sky are authorized to be important bodies having rule over certain matters. The ten most important are the ten we know of today such as the Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. These are the archangels or movers and shakers of our realm. The fixed stars are all of the important souls throughout history that have left a permanent mark on us. The brighter the star, the more important the accomplishment

What about all of the other bodies such as the centaurs and dwarfs and asteroids? Certainly, they have their place and influence, even if inferior to the main planets or stars. They no doubt have their own peculiar influences, some positive and some negative. The smaller, more irregular, and less visible they are, the more likely they are to be negative. Most asteroids, comets, or dark matter objects are probably linked to demonic entities.

Who'll Stop The Rain -- 356 views ---- Jun 6 -- ForgottenOriginDotCom -- 2.74K subscribers

By Steven & Evan Strong - Special Thanks to Eddie McPhee & Professor X ----- In Australia, going on its recent archaeological track record, the answer is no-one. Over the past ten years in the field under the direction of the relevant Elders and Keepers of Old Ways, we have been either actively or indirectly involved in trying to save or gain recognition of eleven sacred sites or artefacts. At present we haven't scored one solitary run, to this date we have lost every fight. In each battle to gain recognition we have had excellent science, Elders of the highest pedigree and supporting historical records, and it made absolutely no difference because it just never stops raining silence, red tape and under no circumstances.

This most recent example of a blatant disregard for protocol and a holy site of the deepest significance is as tragic as it is so much a part of a continuous pattern of post-Cook neglect. No-one has apologised for the destruction, no-one will be blamed or punished, and the shareholders dividends will continue to increase. What needs to be appreciated is that what just happened in the Pilbira, was always going to happen. I first got involved in a similar struggle at a site very, very close to this one about five years ago. ---- An Elder of whom I have highest regard by the name of Eddie McPhee, contacted me about the imminent destruction of another sacred cave that is directly connected to the site now so badly damaged. At that time I knew nothing of the location, politics or any background. Nonetheless, Eddy's plea for help to assist in preventing the impending destruction of a cave (Ganga Maya) and archaeology of global significance left me no option but to agree to help in any way possible. The Order of All Things: Mimetic Craft in Dante's Commedia p315 (pdf spec) schematic figure resembles a flattened tzolkin:

A 2011 diss by Catherine Adoyo

The Tetrahedral model and the terza rima: Geometric semiosis

Mimetic Craft IV: The terza rima details of these data points with the rhymes listed in both ascending and descending order. The first two cases (the rhymes -aggio and -ema), the entire terza rima (i.e. the complete rhyme triad) is reflected across the center of the poem. Five of the reflected rhymes involve only 1 of the elements from that particular terza rima while in the remaining twelve cases, two elements of the terza rima are reflected across the poem's midpoint. Finally, while these reflected rhymes sometimes occasion the uses of the same end-word in alternate positions in the corresponding terzina, two of them occur on the same end word, gira and monte, resulting in identical rhymes.

Harmonics of Pyramids and Octaves: Part 2 of 2

47 views - Jun 23 -- Jain 108 Academy - 3.95K subscribers

The Harmonics of the Circle is based on the 360 degrees that the ancient seers decided to settle on.

When we divide the Pyramid's base angle of 51.84° degrees into this value of 360 we get a surprising result:
 $360 / 51.84 = 6.94444444$  which can be summarized to "6.94 Repeater" and further summarized to 6.95 to round it off.

In the Harmonic Maths of Bruce Cathie, we are permitted slide the decimal point to the right to maximize the number (the Macro) or minimize the number (the Micro), thus 6.95 is Harmonic 695, being one of the titles of his 5 books: "The Energy Grid: Harmonic 695: The Pulse Of The Universe" 1990 that gave rise to our current understanding of the leylines circling our planet.

Note that this value of 6.9444 was the length in feet of the antenna used by Tesla to power his car, running on an invisible resonance speaking to the Ethers.

Note that this value of 6.9444 derived from the pyramid angle and circle harmonics is further linked to the Reciprocal of the Speed Of Light Harmonic, understanding that the 144,000 nautical miles per second of grid arc when divided into its reciprocal and harmonic value of 144 is  $1/144 = .006944444444$  defining this value as the Gravity Constant, and when we slide the decimal to the right we achieve that same value again of Harmonic 695.

How amazing is this, that all this ancient knowledge of space travel and Earth Grids is embedded in Kepler's Triangle that contains the anointed values of phee, Phi, Pho and Phum.

Note also, that the original unit of measuring the Earth was the Nautical Mile, being exactly 6,000 feet, compared to the imperial measurement of 5,280 feet that we learnt at school. 6,000 feet is Harmonic 6 which connects back to the Six Circles Around The Central One, and when we examine Prime numbers, they appear to have an order when we chart 6 columns of natural numbers, such that all the primes are seen in the 1st and 5th columns (see the image on the next page). Thus 6, 6 Squared (36) and 6 Cubed (216) are fundamental energies of Creation.

Aim: Here we sought to investigate the effects of psilocybin on nature relatedness and libertarianâ€”authoritarian political perspective in patients with treatment-resistant depression (TRD).

Not sure why this "1 amp" magnesium battery is a big deal. Just buy spirulina - chlorophyll is the same "heme" molecule as blood except it is magnesium as a photoreceptor that converts photons via the pineal gland into electron-proton power for mitochondria internally. The brain is 25 watts and two-thirds is for external vision. So meditation is an 18 watt laser holographic energy source when the light is turned around with the eyes closed. It was "graded" by David Muesham who also studied physics and yoga meditation and qigong - later on I discovered David Muesham's research on music healing secrets from relativistic quantum energy.

That's why fructose is a toxin because it's left-handed. Corn syrup is a patented synthetic chemical because it lacks the enzyme needed to break down or digest the bond between the sucrose and fructose. Corn syrup makes even babes obese when corn syrup is put in baby formula. This medical doctor has a great lecture on youtube, "Children of the Corn Syrup." Corn syrup is in almost all processed food. It is not acute as a toxic but it's chronic and eventually calls metabolic breakdown and all sorts of mortal diseases - not just obesity but diabetes, cancer, heart failure, etc.

Although most people were illiterate, creation myths and other god-related mythology related to the life of the gods began to be written down in Akkadia. Apprentice scribes learned to write by copying these myths in special schools. The world's first self-identified author, Enheduanna (daughter of King Sargon) dates from this time. The Best Documentary To Understand The Hippies ---- 2.3M views ----- Mar 13, 2017 ----- 36K --- David Hoffman ----- 800K subscribers----- Hippies. The word seems to provoke people one way or the other. There are so many comments on my channel regarding people who "hate" hippies although mostly, what they are talking about, isn't about hippies at all. The hippies my team found when we were making our television series on the 1960s for primetime PBS (it aired on TV in 1991) were not political. They avoided politics. They also avoided for the most part cities. They were part of the counterculture. They mostly lived in the countryside. They provoked a national interest in organic food etc. Smoked dope for sure. Did a lot of other strange things and probably for the most part had loose free sex relationships. But they weren't the ones who for example, spit at returning Vietnam soldiers at the various airports of the United States. A very small group of political radicals did that who were aggressive and sometimes violent. Hippies had philosophies which many just went along with but some created. Aggressive behavior was disapproved of even if only spoken. Hippie clothing was unique. Fabrics were "natural". Art was very flowery some of the time. Travel through America and traveling the world to other hippie centers was a part of life. When the city got too hard, you went to the countryside. There were many hippie behaviors based on values and ethics and then repeated by people who wanted to be part of the community. Was it a cult? Some of the time. Was it a movement? Some of the time. Was it just teenagers not wanting to grow up â€œ having a good time â€œ living off the land or off mommy and daddy's money? Some of the time.

I interviewed many hippies or as some of them call themselves "x hippies" for my television series and for other films that I have made and most like that they were part of that generation and that movement. Some became practicing born-again Christians. Some became farmers. Some became stockbrokers and businessmen. Some teachers and social workers. To categorize their actions after the 60s as any one thing is incorrect (such as that they are all greedy business people today).

I am very proud of the TV series I made for PBS called Making Sense of the Sixties. I had the chance to spend a year examining my youth and how I became an active member of the 60s generation. If you are from that generation or a child of the 60s, I think you would find the entire series of value.

Here is a quote from Hesiod in the 8th Century BC â€œI see no hope for the future of our people if they are dependent on frivolous youth of today, for certainly all youth are reckless beyond words. When I was young, we were taught to be discreet and respectful of elders, but the present youth are exceedingly disrespectful and impatient of restraint"

The Principle Variations (PVs) for the purpose of textual analysis will be defined and a Normal Book model based on the stochastic nature of human writing will be developed. It will be shown that chapter word frequencies in Quran fit into an exponential model, in sharp contrast to the uniform distribution model commonly observed for other books. In particular, a phenomenal cross diagonal characteristic of the PVs in Quran will be shown to completely distinguish its exponential structure from observed structures of the world literature. Graphical and Parametric effects of the exponential construct of Quran will be shown through logarithmic plots and Fourier analysis of its PVs. The couplings observed from its variations in addition to an independent analysis of the prime numbers point to  $i\pi$  and  $e$ , as pillars of the mathematical construct of Quran.

Computed parameters of a Stepwise Fourier analysis (SF-analysis) of the PVs in Quran, reveals a finely regulated Nineteen Based Fourier Structure (NBFS) highly sensitive to the textual manipulations. These observations seem sufficient to qualify Quran as a case of.....

007.01 " Rashad Khalifa's scientific big mistake
November 14, 2020 Mustafa Kurdoglu Huruf-u Mekkatarlar 0
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wBMxOz0EGRs>

All of the mathematical determinations here are; it shows us that the last two verses of At-Tawba surah are not removed from the Qur'an, but that these two verses should be considered as a separate group, similar to the definition of a separate group of un-numbered Basmalahs. None of the mathematical determinations that emerged provide a mathematical argument that requires the removal of these two verses from the Qur'an. As a mathematical expression, the situation is as follows.

As a result of this definition, the problem is overcome. The error is corrected by redefining the method.

The method used in word counts in the Qur'an:

The word counts in the Qur'an are applied to a group of verses numbered 6234. The 112 un-numbered Basmalahs in the un-numbered Basmalahs group and 2 special Verses are not used for word counts in the Qur'an.

Why? Because if you include the words in the un-numbered Basmalahs and 2 special verses in the counting process, not all of the results are multiplied by 19, they do not validate the code 19. If you do not include the un-numbered Basmalahs group and the 2 special Verses in word counting, the encoding count is verified.

Rashad Khalifa has already solved the issue, his determinations were correct, but his conclusion was wrong.

The above mathematical expression is the same the following expression.

$$6348 \div 2 = 6346$$

As you can see at the beginning of this article, this is the first statement of Rashad Khalifa.

But Rashad Khalifa made a big, very obvious mathematical mistake. He ignored the 2 verses. When he did not see the number 2 by closing his eyes, he thought that the number 2 would disappear from the mathematical equation. The results of Rashad Khalifa's study lead him to deny two verses;

$$6348 = 6234 + 112 + 2$$

He showed us that the Qur'anic data should be grouped in this way and gave us them as gifts

At this point, I would like to say that we owe a lot to Rashad Khalifa.

We wish him mercy from Allah. May Allah forgive his sins. (Amen)

Our wish is that today his followers will see this clear mathematical mistake and return from this mistake and give up the denial of verses 128 and 129 of the 9th At-Tawbah Surah before time is late.

<https://www.7and19.com/book/>

The mystery in the numbers of the Circle and the connection with the basic numbers (114, 57, 19) of the Numerical System of the Qur'an

360 degrees, the most basic expression defining the circle, where does this 360 degrees come from, why 360? --- The definition of the Degree is as follows: A measure of the plane angle. A full circle has been accepted 360 degrees in total. It is not a standard unit. It is calculated as 1 degree =  $\frac{1}{180}$  radians. It is not known where the degree came from in history. In the past, astronomers may have found the movement of the sun. Because in the past, a year was considered to be 360 days. In this case, the sun changes its elliptical path by one degree every day. In addition, the number 360 can be divided into many numbers. Of the numbers from 1 to 10, only 7 can not be divided exactly. In addition, the Babylonians were using the 60-based number system, not the 10-based number system like us. It may be coming from them. They accepted a full circle 360 degrees. Another measurement unit, Radian, is calculated as  $\frac{180}{\pi}$ . 1 Radian is slightly larger than 57 degrees. 1 Radian =  $\frac{180}{\pi} = 57,29577951...$  degrees. ----- The circle is symbolizing perfection impossible to reach; The Pi ( $\pi$ ), it is the most mysterious number of mathematics world, that is, the ratio of its circumference to its diameter and its decimal places without repeating itself, namely; It hides the mystery of number in itself.

Wherever there is a circle, there is  $\pi$ . Unfortunately, books are not enough to explain the mystery of Pi ( $\pi$ )

Smallest and closest integer ratio as prime number:

Why 19 and 114? !! No more numbers left? !! the question comes to mind.

Radial Circle: 1 radian =  $180^\circ \cdot \pi = 57,29577951...$

The length of its circumference is 360 units and its radius is; In the circle with  $r = (1 \text{ radian}) 57,29577951...$  units, the length of the arc seen by the central angle is equal to the value of the angle in degrees.  $\hat{A}^\circ \hat{L}^\circ = S \text{ unit}$

The square root of 360 is 18.97366596 ... the nearest integer is 19.

$\pi = 3,1415926535897932384626433832795...$

We push the limits an expectation of perfect harmony in the Circle

The angle value and the length of the arc it sees, the number of slices they are all equal or closest to each other,

We are looking for the Integer Number to be able to adapt to this value of radius and diameter.

$2 \cdot \pi \cdot r \hat{=} n \cdot 360^\circ$   $2 \cdot \pi \cdot a \hat{=} n \cdot 360^\circ$  we are looking for the closest integers, a: number of factor and n: number of slices,

The number of slices will be an integer, but due to the infinite decimal places of  $\pi$ , the Angle value and Arc length will not be possible to be an integer that satisfies these conditions. Therefore, Angle value and Arc length will be converted to integer. It appears as an integer 19, where the converged Angle value and Arc Length are closest to each other and equal to the number of Slices when rounded to the nearest integer. Here the coefficient a is found as 3. Again; The radius length, where the angle value and the Arc Length are closest to each other, are 57 units as integers. The number 19 is compatible with the radius 57 ( $19 + 19 + 19$ ) and the number 114 ( $19 + 19 + 19 + 19 + 19 + 19$ ).

$\pi$  number related link:

The fact that the number 19 is the closest integer in the circle with a radius of 57 units and a diameter of 114 units, enables us to establish the connection between the number 114 and 19 on the universal constant  $\pi$  number.

$192 \hat{=} 2 \cdot \pi \cdot r$

$192 \hat{=} 2 \cdot \pi \cdot 57$

$192 \hat{=} 114 \cdot \pi$

$19 \cdot 19 \hat{=} 19 \cdot 6 \cdot \pi$

$19 \hat{=} 6 \cdot \pi$

This result is the same as that Ph.D. Baback Khodadoost found in his work with another approach halfway the 75 pages Kim H. Veltman wrote in ??? a fifth of which are weblinks to very similar pages ... plenny of these scale scalaries [toonladders not to be confused with toonbanken] seem duhh simple but the intro frames it all spaciosly:

Our purpose is twofold. The first part of the paper will link the 8 letters of the word alphabet with Sanskrit equivalents. We shall show that these eight letters reflect much more than the first two letters of Western alphabets; that they are linked with first, middle and last letters in Sanskrit. We shall show also that a fourfold division of Sanskrit (A k t p) offers a key to understanding the underlying structure of Western alphabets: i.e. that the Sanskrit sequence 1, 11, 22, 28 provides a framework for early alphabets of 22 letters. The middle letter 11 has multiple cosmological associations, which evolved over time. Among these are the 11 th mansion of the moon, 11 th month and 11 th hour. We shall explore how this 11 th month was linked a) with January-February in some traditions and b) with October-November in other traditions. The second part of the paper examines how the alphabet became linked with the elements (earth, air, fire, water and space) in early cosmological systems. We shall demonstrate that a combination of an Indian framework and Chinese methods help us to understand the origin of the alphabet in the West.

.... and i smile when see stuff like this:

The 25 consonants of Sanskrit form a 5 x 5 square. If we join consonants 1 and 25, ka and ma we have kama, desire. If we join consonants 20 and 5, pa and na, we have pana as in pan. The first of these axes links even numbers in a 12 month year, the latter links uneven numbers.

Alphabets, Elements and Cosmologies -----Abstract ----- 8. Greek Vowels

Western scholarship typically traces the four Greek elements of Earth, Air, Fire, Water back to the Egyptian gods Atum, Shu, Ra, Nun. 182 We have shown that these same elements are also found in Sanskrit.

In Greece, Aristotle, linked the four elements (air, fire, water, earth), with the four seasons (Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter), the four humours (sanguine, choleric, melancholic, phlegmatic) and with different combinations of qualities: hot moist, hot dry, cold dry, cold moist). 183 Such combinations are also found in Sanskrit in the form of gunas (qualities or attributes of life), 184 which began with three basic gunas, sattva, rajas, tamas, (goodness, passion, darkness) and then evolved into systems with 7, 20 (figure 37) or 24 gunas. There is every reason to believe that the Indian system was in place long before Aristotle in the 5 th century B.C.

Guru = Heavy :: Laghu = Light :: Sita = Cold :: Ushna = Hot :: Sthira = Static :: Sara = Moving :: Mrdu - Soft :: Kathina - Hard :: Snigda - Wet :: Ruksha Dry :: Vishada Transparent :: Picchila Opaque :: Manda Slow - Tikshna Swift :: Slakshna Smooth -- Kkhara Rough :: Sthula Coarse -- Sukshma Fine :: Sandra Solid --- Drava Liquid ===== Figure 37. Two sets of ten opposites to make 20 qualities (gunas).

A second Greek tradition associated five vowels, with the five elements and five phases of the moon. 185 A third tradition linked five vowels with the five elements and linked them with the five points of a pentagram. Taken together these five vowels spelled u g e i a or Hügeia (cf. hygiene), the Greek word for health. 186 In Rome, the equivalent was salus.

222K subscribers ----- A documentary about the art of living outside of conventions, in deep integrity with one's essence. ----- TheWisdomOfTrauma.com ----- As a rising star in the field of abstract mathematics, Michael discovered that he could see beauty and pattern where others could not. But his path was not to be inside academia, or even inside society. He went on a grand adventure to unify his Buddhism with his ability to see an expanded view of reality.
He created beauty in a place where nobody else would, and made his friends amongst dolphins.
Zaya and Maurizio went to Hawaii a couple of years ago and, on a remote beach, met Michael. After a short while it became apparent that Michael was not an ordinary man! We spoke about quantum physics, Buddhism, spirituality, art and he then invited us to his house after he made sure we had "good enough shoes"
Soon after we parked the car on a remote road we understood why!
Michael lives in the middle of a thick jungle, 20 minutes from the road in a plot of land he cleared himself. "by hand!!!

He brought all material on his shoulders, and built an amazing garden based on sacred geometry. An amazing place devoted to beauty and impracticality... The house has no inside running water, only a shower outside and no electricity. Michael recently bought a small solar panel so he can continue his research and communicate via his computer with other mathematicians and the world. In that jungle mosquitos are so ferocious (ALL day and night) that the only temporary relief is to take a shower outside and run around to get dry. But I am not spoiling any more of the story" ----- It was an honor and a joy to go back and shoot this film and we hope you enjoy it.
Science and Nonduality is a community inspired by timeless wisdom, informed by cutting-edge science, and grounded in direct experience. We come together in an open-hearted exploration while celebrating our humanity.
utopias4all: I have a dear friend who lives off the grid on Maui. She is also brilliant and well educated (we went to college together). She left the world of things and competition many years ago. She lives without internet, without running water, with barely any electricity (one tiny solar panel). She grows a little bit of food on native land, observes the miracles around her, and reads. If she doesn't know Michael, she should meet him. Her name is Emily.
Gently Fierce: Could be love at first sight "feeling it in my waters Laura Civitello: You must be talking about the wonderful Emily Ball!
Si I: We are living the same in South Devon UK, it was old ravaged farm land with no top soil 10 years ago, now its re-wilded and insect and reptile life is thriving, wild foods and trees everywhere... It can be hard work farming just the two of us (UK law stops us gaining more people) and I'm a people person, but now when I feel lonely it's a reminder that I am asleep to being here and I look to meditating back to appreciation and source energy.
utopias4all: Still waiting for Emily to give me permission to give Michael her number. She only calls once a month and she may already know him.

So the Frohlich Effect is called on - just as Dr. Mae-wan Ho and PProf. Stuart Hameroff also rely on.

So they are focusing on the "classical limit" as standard symmetric math statistics instead of the noncommutative phase time-frequency truth as the new "causative force" that Professor Basil J. Hiley talks about (along with Penrose and Connes and Kauffman and Eddie Oshins).

So the claim that the energy HAS to cancel out is ONLY due to the time-frequency uncertainty relation that is created OUT of noncommutativity!! This all goes back to the wrong music theory used to create the irrational magnitude symmetric based math of algebraic geometry as commutative logic.

After that they get bogged down in the "hidden variables" conundrum which is really just a hang up about the mathematics - as Hiley points out.

Modern science has replaced the Aristotelian adage, "Nature abhors a vacuum," with the notion that "the vacuum is all of physics." Indeed, the vacuum contains (in a "virtual" sense; see Section 7) all known quantum particles (as well as those yet to be discovered). Moreover many theoretical and experimental physicists today are spending their time studying "nothing at all" - the vacuum state. But as noted by Pagels, "that nothingness contains all of being." In a sense the vacuum represents the ground state of material being, out of which elementary particles appear as "excitations ." .. ~ There is an analogous situation in the living state. One might state, as a dictum, that "the nature of living systems abhors molecular chaos," The more we pry into the microscopic workings of the "living state," the more we realize that the chaos of the bulk (aqueous) solution phase is antipathic to the coherence and.....

Deformation or Defamation? The Hunt for Malformations within Pakalâ€™s Family
A potential match between the depictions of Janaabâ€™ Pakalâ€™s deformity and the skeletal evidence was established during the Second Palenque Round Table. In their work, Greene, Rosenblum, and Scandizzo conclude from the sculptured portraits of the ruler that he suffered from a severe unilateral clubfoot. They argue that the full-figure portraits of Pakal on the Simojovel Plaque, on Piers B and D of House D in the Palace, and on the sarcophagus lid show a twisted foot. They say a similarly malformed foot is displayed on the Dumbarton Oaks Panel 2, attributed to Pakalâ€™s grandson Hok.
Apart from clubfoot malformations, Greene and her colleagues propose from the broad nose, finger clubbing, elongated jaw, and large head in the portrait of Lady Sâ€™akâ€™uKâ€™, that Pakalâ€™s mother must have suffered the disfiguring effects of advanced acromegaly. Kan Bâ€™alam, Pakalâ€™s son and heir to the throne, had a sixth toe and finger, as depicted in his palace portrait (Pier D, House A). Additional examples of polydactyly come from the Temple of the Inscriptions, the Temple of the Foliated Cross, and the Temple of the Sun, all ascribed to Pakalâ€™s successor. Pakal himself is proposed to have been affected by polydactyly as well. Greene, Rosenblum Scandizzo, and Scandizzo encountered what they consider to be hints of his affliction on the sarcophagus lid, which they suggest depicts Pakalâ€™s split left fifth toe.

It is our responsibility to educate people about what is planned, remove plausible deniability, live with as much integrity as possible, and leave the rest to god. I came to Provo, just as I came to the Unitarians in the leafy liberal Mount Airy neighborhood of Philadelphia and via Zoom to the faithful in Israel, to show them where the road goes. It is a road trod by Golems, Kratts, dancing brooms -- animatronic life turned mechanical counterfeit. Some interests out there feel it is God's will that we use advanced technology to put humans on par with god in world-building as creators. I, myself, don't think that is the right position to take. I prefer Robin Wall Kimmerer's assessment that we are the younger sibling beings, and we should know our place and learn from the older beings of the Earth.

the post before that quotes from the same source:

Alison McDowell promotes my research (from 20 years ago!) - thanks!

I had found Drew Hempel's analysis early in my investigations, but didn't have enough context at the time to truly appreciate what a revelation it was -- and from almost 20 years ago! I'll be getting back to this, but for now take a look and know that his findings are aligned with my independent research. I encourage you to check out the astute observations of a music theorist and one-time progressive organizer in the Twin Cities.

Alison "World Brain Neutralizer" McDowell

@Philly852 --- Apr 11: Going back to Drew's framing - music theory. I picture the global brain situated as a composer/conductor, replacing a cacophony of joyful sacred songs arising from humans existing harmony with their sibling beings and lands with set universal symphony aligned to disharmony.

I am writing this blog in tribute to the critically important work on the history of education and its intersections with military research and automation done by brothers David and Douglas Noble. Finance and defense interests are in the process of manifesting digital enclosures designed to contain our material selves as ESG investment opportunities. This is happening in concert with government officials, faith leaders, and non-profits, most of whom have NO concept of the changes now underway. Are we to be locked a Metaverse tower like Saint Barbara? Will we allow a future of permanent digital incarceration through synthetic programmable hallucinations to bewitch the children and the not yet born? No. We won't allow such a future to pass uncontested. For that reason we study, travel, question, witness, film, and tell stories of healing and redemption. We plant seeds for trees we may never see to replace oak forests felled and burned to boil whale oil on California beaches. Despite the odds, we plant acorns of ideas, because life stands with life and all can be washed clean.

So the logical question then is what happens after death? I realized we were doomed by 1996 so I focused on finishing my master's thesis by training to see what happens after death. I can assure you that ghosts are real for example.

Two-Headed Babies from Depleted Uranium should be the minimum requirement for any future presidents on Earth

If you're trying to blame me for supply side economics - yes the interstate highway system was built so we all could supposedly escapes nukes faster. My dad was hired as an attorney for the state nuke utility as he was the former Chief Deputy Officer of the Attorney General and the state AG tried to make the routine radiation emission standards stricter than the federal standard. The Nuke utility won the case since nuclear power is really controlled by the military but that doesn't meant that the cancer rate isn't increased for those living near nuke power plants. Also the routine emissions are along side routine accidents. This idea that we can "control" nature is pretty funny.

JC: Ok... from direct experience, I can tell you that 'music' is maybe encoding information/ or is engaging in some form of sequence-channeling within the process of melody generation. I'm not sure. When I play piano and variate upon a root melody, I feel like it's not me creating it, that I am just a conduit. And that is strange. There are sequences and hierarchies but yet the whole experience feels like being in a rhizome. The hierarchies are not important in themselves but are necessary to be there for the structure as whole to be beautiful/ strong. Maybe this is more about 'music' and not 'sounds'... anyways, all of these inherent structures within the hierarchies/ sequences of 'sounds' maybe shouldn't be articulated lest they ossify/ die. Kind of like when you cut open a frog to see how it lives but in doing so you have to kill it.

3 DAYS AGO:

If you travel closer to the speed of light past a light gas reflecting in a mirror box - the clock frequency decreases as momentum (with the wavelength increasing) while the light frequency increases since you are seeing the light closer to the speed of light.

That is the de Broglie Law of Phase Harmony, creating a "beat" between those two frequencies as the phase harmony.

This is what we do in meditation by turning the light around! The spacetime slows down as the "mirror" of spacetime!!

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fBwFo68KgTY>

Your body is the box. Your mind is spirit TURNED AROUND back into the box....

So the reflection in the box is spacetime slowing down as frequency (wavelength increasing). Your internal perception as your mind increases to resonate the reverse time negative frequency from the future.

The phase harmony of the two is the speed of light.

A DAY LATER:

<https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S0960982216000877>

“Here we analyze 55 complete human mitochondrial genomes (mtDNAs) of hunter-gatherers spanning ~35,000 years of European prehistory. We unexpectedly find mtDNA lineage M in individuals prior to the Last Glacial Maximum (LGM). This lineage is absent in contemporary Europeans, although it is found at high frequency in modern Asians, Australasians, and Native Americans. Dating the most recent common ancestor of each of the modern non-African mtDNA clades reveals their single, late, and rapid dispersal less than 55,000 years ago. Demographic modeling not only indicates an LGM genetic bottleneck, but also provides surprising evidence of a major population turnover in Europe around 14,500 years ago during the Late Glacial, a period of climatic instability at the end of the Pleistocene.”

That's how "gone" people are in terms of concepts that you might think are valuable to retrieve. And no, there's nobody there that's going to understand why you think it's important to get your sovereignty. They don't want that kind of stuff. They just want good radio, good video, good MTV, good TikTok. They just wanna be engaging in the super angelic state of infinite consumption.

So, McCarthy said, there's something goin' on here, we're becoming communists. What he meant is the acoustic effect of radio that already happened became a figure; it became conscious of it. And he projected the literate persons anti group mind into Washington and the bureaucracy, said they were communists running the world there. It was a literate response to the increasing acoustic tribal factor.

The Israeli research turned out to be blockbuster stuff, not only because it identified the cause of metabolic mischief, but also because it clears up the chain of events that has led to debauchery of food and farming, the annihilation of the health profile, and the probable incubation of the modern black death about to overtake planet Earth. The poisons that guide high science are tabun, soma, sarin and eserine, which were first isolated from the Calabar bean in the early 1840s.

What links and separates Benjamin's "Goethe's Elective Affinities" and his Origin book is contained in a translation Benjamin summons in his study of the Baroque mourning play: Gryphius deliberately replaces deus ex machina with spirit from the grave (313). The stricken world of allegory is the turf of what recently was. Signification begins once life lapses into lifelessness. It is, as in its visitation by ghosts, a world of mourners or un-mourners. When they enter the stage they left, ghosts shock. It is part of the nature of allegories to shock. That is how they become dated (359), how they leave a date mark. When Tolkien altogether rejects the claim that there are allegories in The Lord of the Rings, he takes issue, specifically, with the timely or tendentious reach of allegories that cannot but inscribe onward into the work's real-time setting or context. The Lord of the Rings, Tolkien emphasizes, is in no wise shaped by the events of World War II otherwise surrounding his scene of writing. Allegorization thus looks forward to the gadget connection, the spin of a dial or flick of the switch that, according to Benjamin (in his essay "Über einige Motive bei Baudelaire"), mediates and buffers the incapacitating shock of technologization. The pushbutton control release of shock, its administration as inoculative shots, preserves or internalizes a bodyproportional comfort zone inside technologization. The gadget controls also stamp moments with date marks, marking them as dated memories, emptied out but secured, and which are, as far as their determining force goes, forgettable. Thus in the forgettogether of moviegoers doubling over with sadistic laughter over Mickey Mouse's destructive character the realization of sadistic fantasies and masochistic delusions is prevented just as psychotic disintegration under techno mass conditions is forestalled on the shock or shot installment plan ("Das Kunstwerk im Zeitalter seiner technischen Reproduzierbarkeit," 462).

FROM THE LAST OF THE FIRST AUD FILE BATCHES ....

----- SeaMikki, 5 hours ago

Have a great weekend Unkle Andy a zinger of a frist and slat line ... in my comment [quoting from Laurence Rickels pulling Dick into his comsik theater billballcannon fold] only .. no ... especially the last line has true ouchie zingzing early on aud part 10:

Benjamin closes the 1928 review of his mad book collection with a guarded, tongue-in-check, update on difficulties attending acceptance of insane works for publication. Our tolerance and interest must have risen by now. "And yet I've known for a few months now about a manuscript that in terms of human and literary value at least equals Schreber's book and surpasses it in accessibility, and which nevertheless seems as hard as ever to sell to a reputable press" (619). "How could Benjamin not be referring, at least at the same time, to his own book, Origin of the German Mourning Pageant, as the other mad book with a Freudian reception already in place. Although by 1928 it had at last survived its submitted manuscript status, his Origin book would for Benjamin never shake its martyr role on the stage of intrigue." 3 Thus Benjamin appears to summon his Origin book in a setting of exchange or interchange with Schreber's Memoirs and Freud's study and down the transferential corridors of disappointment in a former world of legitimation through which both books first had to pass before a public, published forum could be reached on the outside. What would then also be encapsulated here, at this turn of identification, is Freud's highly reflexive performance of the staggered interchangeability of his theory, the workings of the psyche this theory uncovers and illustrates, and the delusions Schreber records in his Memoirs. The inside-out view of the inner workings of the psyche projected outward as the delusional representation or mass mediatization of our funereal identifications was termed by Freud endopsychic perception.

third fourth of same:

Yearning for transformation and liberation from her bewitchment is the projection outward of an inner state reminiscent of the psychic origin of fairy tales and related mythic material. They are, Silberer credits Freud, endopsychic perceptions projected into the outside world. Silberer brackets out the doctrine of magnetic healing, the frame of reference for Kerner and Hauffe. What's more important is that the clairvoyante served the Duchess as the idol of a belief that, by suggestive power alone, can move the mountains inside the Duchess under which secrets had been buried alive. The cathartic experience of breaking through is set off between this belief in the clairvoyante and the talking cure she conducts with her husband. The rest is case history of a successful treatment. The follow-up phase is equally important. Silberer cites both Freud and Jung on the work of fortifying breakthrough or insight. The sudden insight is adolescent: to make it into adulthood and sanity the flash must be secured within the infrastructure of its staying power. Mrs. Hauffe prescribed religious exercises, and that much more adamantly when the patient showed resistance.

Thus she was first able to release energy in the patient through transferential trust. Subsequently she was able to ground the released energy through the power workout on resistance. The patient's complex dated back to her years in convent school where dream and reality had commingled. The patient resisted going back to school, though it was here that clarity had to be energetically introduced. She goes back not to find religion. Like Faust staying his suicide attempt when he hears children singing Easter hymns, the Duchess renews her vows with her early years to face her disturbing thoughts freed of their religious-delusional nimbus.

compare 'abgewinnen' to abject ... close readers will have caught me identifying 'resistance' as a euphemism for rock decades ago .. trust for thrust and power for powder of course.

. It is possible to argue that preliminary to the treatment of psychosis, religious belief must be reformatted as transference and as working through resistance. What makes this possible is the endopsychic structuring of the beliefs or delusions themselves. Silberer sees the relay of secular transformations clearly enough. But, clinically speaking, you cannot see through the murky whether-or-not conditions of the endopsychic advisory while making your approach to psychosis's borderline. In the course of developing ways of understanding Schreber's delusion of the end of the world Freud admits that he lacks the coordinates of a wellgrounded theory of drives. But beyond the acceptance by psychoanalysis of the popular distinction between egoic and sexual drives, between selfpreservation and preservation of the species, Freud identifies "only hypotheses, which we have taken up . . . in order to help us to find our bearings in the chaos of the obscurer processes of the mind" (Standard Edition, 12:74).

At its outer limits the psychic field is at a psychotic loss of world or words. But at the end Freud restores stability by finding reflected in Schreber's rays of God the concrete representation and external projection of libidinal cathexes. He thus addresses Schreber's endopsychic perception at the undecidable intersection between the possible truth of Schreber's delusions and the possible delusional dimension of his own theories. When Freud enters a paranoid system he encounters analogies internal to it that are doubly endopsychic:

“these and many other details of Schreber's delusional formation sound almost like endopsychic perceptions of the processes whose existence I have assumed in these pages as the basis of our explanation of paranoia. I can nevertheless call a friend and fellow specialist to witness that I had developed my theory of paranoia before I became acquainted with the contents of Schreber's book. It remains for the future to decide whether there is more delusion in my theory than I should like to admit, or whether there is more truth in Schreber's delusion than other people are as yet prepared to believe” (12:79).

Freud's proprietary frenzy at this juncture, a paranoia of sorts, out of sorts, refers in the first place to the source of the Schreber book: it was one of Jung's transference gifts. Freud was wary of its unconscious itinerary and purpose. Another stopover in Freud's contemplation of such inside viewing, Jensen's Gradiva, was another one of Jung's gifts.

If we keep in mind that the endopsychic perception first emerges in the correspondence with Fliess, it proves possible to assign this perception to a field of reference through which the transference has passed and has not yet passed. Or, in other words, endopsychic perceptions supply the gap of noncorrespondence or unfulfillment between the ruinous materiality of the transference (whether in session or in action) and the theory that would contain or caption it. In yet other words, endopsychic perception drives or meets half way Freud's work of analogy in the theorization of the transference, a work commensurate with that of mourning, through which, moreover, the psyche builds up to or through our ongoing technologization. Once Freud could see it coming, namely, the recurring dissolution of all his same-sex friendships, he addressed the transference both as a medium of haunting, whereby, in his case, each new friend was really a returning spook, and, in its reproducibility, as an effect of the printing press: each new phase of the transference was but a reprinting of the same old cliché. At the end of where he drew the line with regard to the homosexual component, Freud identified an early libidinal bonding with John Freud, the son of one of his older half brothers and his playmate in early childhood, which got around while encrypting the relationship to his dead brother Julius. The psychoanalytic theory of ghosts first arose to account for Leonardo da Vinci's homoerotic disposition in the context or contest of a speed race between repression and sublimation that subtended his techno inventiveness, and then returned within the study of Schreber's paranoia to address the delusional order of technical media and ghosts in terms of a recovery from sublimation breakdown.

4 Freud emphasizes that Schreber repeatedly reproaches God for the limits of His self-awareness. When it comes to human life, God only takes cognizance of its corpse state, at which endpoint God reclaims the rays, souls, nerves that he originally deposited when he created the life-form that he apparently immediately represses. Only the afterlife of his creations (when he gets his nerves back) concerns Him. Schreber inadvertently challenged or entrapped God when, passing for dead “while, perhaps, melancholically playing dead” he was beset by the deity, who started harvesting the presumed corpse; but when the inert body came alive God was caught in the act contrary to the order of the world. The living nerves grab God and prove to be the kind of turn on that God can't readily let go. The dead cannot enter the state of bliss as long as the greater part of the rays of God are attracted to and absorbed in Schreber's voluptuousness. Because there is such a close relationship between human voluptuousness and the state of bliss enjoyed by the spirits of the deceased, Schreber looks forward to future reconciliation with God. But Schreber holds up the afterlife above while bringing the bliss down to earth.

As Freud underscores, Schreber sexualizes the heavenly state of bliss and thus, we can add, irrevocably secularizes the afterlife while allegorizing its Heavenly trappings as to be already dead for. Schreber's delusional system or project, even in its second phase and phrasing, is interminably in transit. It is unlikely that unmaning will ever be concluded. God's sense of self-preservation together with his inability to learn from experience (if only because the nerves that know better are the ones at the front of the line of the vanishing act of intercourse with Schreber) means that he will keep on attempting withdrawal, even though each attempt increases Schreber's attractiveness to God. There will only be gaps, delays, repetitions, or “estations” in this crossing over without end. The outside chance of renewal at this crisis point (that, in the eternity Schreber contemplates, happens because it recurs) will always be performed in the medium of a ghost seer:

“I am a seer of spirits . . . must under certain circumstances be unmanned (transformed into a woman) once he has entered into indissoluble contact with divine nerves (rays)” (45)

Schreber counts himself one of the greatest ghost-seers at the head of a line drawn through the Wandering Jew, the Maid of Orleans, the crusaders in search of the holy lance, the Emperor Constantine, and, in his own day, “so-called Spiritualist mediums” (78-80). In Radio Schreber Wolfgang Hagen carefully reconstructs the Spiritualist context of Schreber's Memoirs, beginning with its cornerstone, footnote number 36, which drops from Schreber's declared interest in scientific work based on the theory of evolution as evidence of his basically nonreligious sensibility, which, he submits, really should give credence to his newfound relations with God. Hagen shows, however, that “evolution” in Du Prel's cited work, for example, is linked to a basic sensibility or soul at the atomic level that causes the chaotic atomic mass to develop ordered structures on its own. Hagen's study is filled with the details of the works Schreber explicitly includes and the inevitable intertexts he doesn't name, like works by Johann Carl Friedrich Zöllner and Gustav Theodor Fechner. The complex, situated in the overlaps between science and Spiritualism, keeps returning to two basic assumptions: that of the atomic soul already mentioned and that of a fourth dimension that makes as much possible as it openly declares unprovable. Du Prel, again, turns, in the work Schreber claims to have read repeatedly, to the theory of a fourth spatial dimension, according to which the world we perceive is just the "projection picture of a fourdimensional world in a three-dimensional cognition apparatus." Fechner, one of the first to formulate the theory of a fourth dimension, argued, as Hagen cites for compatibility with Schreber's system, that because we are rolling in our threedimensional ball through the fourth dimension, as are all the balls within the big 3-D ball, everything that we will experience is already there and that which we have experienced is still there. Our threedimensional surface is only through the fourth dimension, has already passed through it and hasn't yet passed through it.

5 "I dare not decide," Schreber pauses to reflect in his Memoirs,

"whether one can simply say that God and the heavenly bodies are one and the same, or whether one has to think of the totality of God's nerves as being above and behind the stars, so that the stars themselves and particularly our sun would only represent stations, through which God's miraculous creative power travels to our earth (and perhaps to other inhabited planets). Equally I dare not say whether the celestial bodies themselves (fixed stars, planets, etc.) were created by God, or whether divine creation is limited to the organic world; in which case there would be room for the Nebular Hypothesis of Kant-Laplace side by side with the existence of a living God whose existence has become absolute certainty for me. Perhaps the full truth lies (by way of a fourth dimension) in a diagonal combination or resultant of both trends of thought impossible for man to grasp" (8).

The discourse of or on Spiritualism, pro or contra, relies regularly on analogies with media technologization. Among the scientists and theists gathered together in Schreber's note 36 we find immediate recourse to telegraphy and the telephone to describe the manner of communication with ghosts or to evoke the absurdity of the belief in spirits or even to signify its redundancy in our mediatized setting (with the telephone in place, for example, there is no need for telepathy, which is, in quality, a less direct connection)

7 In "Books by the Insane: From My Collection," Benjamin indeed identified the publishing house standing behind Schreber's Memoirs as a wellknown gathering place for Spiritist or Spiritualist studies, and recognized in Schreber's "theological" system (with its God Who can approach only corpses without danger to Himself, Who is familiar with the concept of the railways, and Whose basic language unfolds as an antiquated but powerful German) its Spiritualist provenance. But, and this Hagen indeed demonstrates, to know one it takes one immersed in Spiritualism to see through Schreber's discourse to the bare bones of its ghost communications. Before closing the Origin book, Benjamin returns to a contrast between the Baroque German mourning plays and the mourning plays of Calderón (whose successful mourning plays Benjamin associates with the exceptional case of Goethe):

"The inadequacy of the German mourning play is rooted in the deficient development of the intrigue, which seldom even remotely approaches that of the Spanish dramatist.

The intrigue alone would have been able to bring about that allegorical totality of scenic organization, thanks to which one of the images of the sequence stands out, in the image of the apotheosis, as different in kind, and gives mourning at one and the same time the cue for its entry and its exit. The powerful design of this form should be thought through to its conclusion; only under this condition is it possible to discuss the idea of the German mourning play" (409).

This thinking through requirement gives interminable mourning the last word. Benjamin conjures successful mourning, the kind that's only passing through, as limit concept of the German Baroque mourning play, right after floating a Devil pageant past us, according to which allegory cannot but fall for the Satanic perspective that introduces and subsumes it, and thus in the end "faithlessly leap" (in Benjamin's words) toward God. Benjamin describes allegory's act of suicitation, a return to Devil and God that allegory otherwise interminably postpones: everything unique to allegory, Benjamin underscores, would otherwise be lost.

Thus in this Christian niche death captions the ghost: but then this spirit of the departed is forgotten or forgiven in a comfort zone only for those who fall for resurrection. Otherwise, the apparitions in Elective Affinities are telepathic videophone connections, two-way dreams, which keep physically separated lovers in meta-touch. To borrow a term from Benjamin's mentor, Paul HÄberlin, a term cited in fact by Freud in Totem and Taboo, they are "sexual ghosts." HÄberlin, who introduced Benjamin to psychoanalysis in 1916 in a course of study at the University in Bern, which settled Freud's thought within range of occult analogies and phenomena, unpacked a couple of case studies to show that certain ghosts, even in households that counted a recent death, referred only to desired but prohibited contact with living sexual objects. Ottilie's undecaying corpse is ensconced within a certain psychoanalytic reception of the endopsychic doubling between Schreber and Freud. Down this receiving line, Hanns Sachs derived from Freud on Schreber and Victor Tausk's follow-up treatment, in light of the Schreber study, of the delusional system of Natalija A., a genealogical scheduling of narcissism's shift from body-based self-loving to the self-esteem of power surges and other strivings to the beat of self-criticism. In antiquity this shift could be deferred: the restriction of technical developments or difficulties to the invention of playthings only subtends this deferral. But the crisis point must always also be reached as the uncanniness of zomboid dependency on the dead or undead body that does not go or let go. According to Sachs, the invention of machines that undermine bodily proportions and limits skips the uncanny beat of the body by projecting its missing place way outside itself as the techno reassembly of parts and partings. The psychotic thus projects techno delusions to get out from under the uncanny body.

NO GRINDING QUIP HEADING????????????

The mill on the grounds of Eduard and Charlotte's estate that, through its grinding, its Mahlen, doubles, says Benjamin, as emblem of death (139), offers a supplemental scenario for Ottilie's preservation. Because as she lies there undecaying she is in the tightest spot imaginable of vulnerability, especially in a novel given to earmark the ambivalence toward commemoration that underlies, for example, the architect's plans for funerary monuments based on his study of the relics he has collected ultimately through desecration of graves. GRINDING like cremation represents then a removal of the site specific to desecration of all the contents of a complete and untouched tomb. Other than the mill we encounter in Goethe's novel only optical instruments and playthings, like the portable camera obscura the British traveler uses to record his landscape souvenirs.

.... HE COULD HAVE ADDED 'APPEAR' BUT FAILS TO ELABORATE ON THE 'EAR APP' VS VISUAL BIAS

Benjamin registers a certain pervasiveness of these placeholders of a missing technologization when he notes that the pictorial elements in Goethe's narrative are more in line with the perspective of a stereoscope. The assistant comments on how all the best plans of Eduard's father, which are only now achieving fruition, are ignored by Eduard and Charlotte as they make their improvements in other parts of the estate: "Few people are capable of concerning themselves with the most recent past. Either the present holds us violently captive or we lose ourselves in the distant past, and strive with might and main to recall and restore what is irrevocably lost" (278).

Charlotte is quick to understand, she says, but only up to a point of displacement, whereby she shunts to the side the direct impact of this span of attention or tension dedicated to mourning, and wonders instead whether the present tense doesn't serve to mislead us into thinking that we are the authors of our actions while we are in fact merely cooperating with the tendencies of the times.

LAST LINES OF SECOND AUD BATCH (overspill won't fit the billkill):

Dick's alternate reality of mourning or unmourning as half-life views the deceased and the survivor as always having in common that they both lost each other. Therefore it proves possible to travel through a time in which one cannot decide who died on whom. For the near future, the living and the and-dead, die Und-Toten (the and-and-dead?), just like the present and the recent past, remain in interchangeable but incalculable contact.

The Biblewheel was an extensive website with a forum and database that allowed visitors to perform searches for number references in the ancient manuscripts of the Bible. The Biblewheel's owner and operator, Richard McGough believed at the time, that the Bible had a single overarching code based on three concentric circles, i.e. The Biblewheel. He later claimed to debunk this concept.

The Number Movement however was less interested in the Biblewheel concept and far more interested in the mathematical patterns that his database allowed people for the first time in history to investigate. These two sites gave birth to more websites like Rob Slattery's BibleGematria.com, John Elias' 37x73.com and Bill Downie's thesecretcode.co.uk

Logos Report Vol. 7, April 2022

The Logos Report is the journal of the mathematics the alphanumeric of the original text of the Bible (biblical-gematria). This new field is a developing discipline with emerging regular features and recurrent patterns. The foundational work of Jenkins, Bluer and Paardekooper are still informing the theory and have been expanded upon in multiple dimensions by researchers around the world. The original Hebrew/Greek historical gematria, found in the control texts of the Masoretic-OT and the Textus Receptus-NT, are informed by the S/O Theorem.

The number 16 is another important coding system. Its reference is phi, the Golden Ratio. Gary Meisner has a wonderful website dedicated to it called the Goldennumber.net. To see how it is even further integrated in the Scriptures, read:

The Golden Ratio

<http://www.google.com/url?q=http%3A%2F%2Fsites.google.com%2Fsite%2Fthemathematicalstandard%2Fthe-golden-ratio&sa=D&sntz=1&usg=AOvVaw2tU7ZXLqFqY3lNFe1QBB-X>

God uses 1.6 as a Biblical approximate for phi, for two reasons: It is to the human eye, visually indistinguishable from more accurate representations of phi. Second, at the time of the composition of the original text, numbering systems and mathematics as a whole did not include decimal expansions. One of the great moments in the history of mathematics was the discovery of irrational numbers, a discovery that postdates the composition of the Tanakh.

This brings us at last to Mr. Stephen White's discoveries. His work is in its infancy, and I believe shows great promise. Although we always desire greater accuracy, this may come in time. History has shown that these sort of ideas often need to be fine tuned.

But most of the people donâ€™t know tajwid rules. The idea behind this concept is to color the wordâ€™s letter that contains a Tajweed rule, so as the reader recites the Quran; he/she will be able to apply the correct Tajweed rule through the color of the letter. This Quran is also ideal for students of hifz who will easily recognise the various rules of tajweed. However, those who know tajwid rules or can learn it easily should read in a black & white Quran.

But if these symbols refer to concrete "things" (that is, aggregates of behavior-stuff), then (z) does not hold, because if you add electrons and protons and radiation (a field) you get an atom. In that case the behavior of each entity is now a function of the properties of the non-additive (emergent) whole. Or if these three symbols represent musical notes (c, e, and g, for example), you get a musical chord. But for the same reason (the "chordiness" of a whole), the order in which the units are added is important, and in these cases the commutative law no longer holds. It is very significant that physicists are coming to recognize the importance of wholes in physics. To support this statement I quote at length the following passage from Herman Weyl's book, The Open World ---- 1933-; P 55- RESUME: ARISTOTLE, NEWTON, AND EINSTEIN

The state of a physical system is determined when for each physical quantity of the system the probability of its taking on each possible value is known. It is true therefore that the state of a system consisting of two electrons determines the states of both electrons, but the converse does not follow. The knowledge of the states of the two parts of a system by no means fixes the state of the whole system. We find here a definite and far-reaching verification of the principle that the whole is more than the sum of its parts. Modern vitalism, among whose proponents I mention first of all Driesch, has attempted to reduce the independence of life, its essential distinction from non-organic processes, to the concepts of Gestalt or the Whole. According to vitalism the living organism reacts as a whole; its functions are non-additive. The manner in which its structure is preserved throughout growth, in spite of all outside influences and perturbations, is not to be explained by small scale causal reactions between the elementary parts of the organism. Now we see that according to quantum physics the same applies even to inorganic nature and is not peculiar to organic processes. Some physicists may be displeased at this introduction of organic conceptions into physics, but we, as philosophers, must not overlook the fact that this, at the same time, makes it easier for the biological sciences to apply physical notions in physiology and psychology. .... A more technical illustration of the one-way character of psychical duration is found in music in the process of chord resolution in melodic and harmonic progressions. It is for this reason that playing a phonograph record backward takes the "meaning" out of it. .... 9 Cf. "The Tan Effect --An Example of Psychological Relativity," Science, 1930, Vol. 71, pp. 536-537- The quantitative study appears in Journal of Experimental Psychology, 1931, -- Vol. 4, pp.

.....the analogy helps to justify the use of such metaphorical phrases as the "music of consciousness/" the "melody" of an instinct, and so on, since "panicles" 1 on the undulatory theory of matter appear as interference effects, like "beats" in music, due to the superposition of of  $g\alpha$  waves. Thus, in a roundabout way, we return to our earlier supposition that the brain may be looked upon as a harmonic analyzer and synthesizer, with the melody and harmony of conscious life interpreted in terms of the consonance of the "fundamentals" and the "overtones" of the wave system of the brain-as-a-whole.

Robin Mackay februari 2013 on Land's 'inhumanism':

[Barker's] ... â€˜Cosmic Theory of Geotrauma,â€™ which combines Freudâ€™s theory of trauma with a syncretic perspective on the natural history of the planet. A sketch of a fictional speculative system, â€˜geotraumatismâ€™ draws on everything from geology and microbial evolution to human biology and vocalisation, reinterpreting Earth-history as a series of nested traumas of which human subjectivity is the symptom. â€˜Barkerâ€™ sought to hybridize Nietzschean genealogy, DeleuzoGuattarian stratoanalysis and information theory in order to â€˜decipherâ€™ this cosmic pain: creating a schizoanalytic geocryptography to replace oedipal psychoanalysis. In works from this period, Landâ€™s anti-humanist speculation is combined with a delight in wordplay and a renewed appreciation for the anthropological, mythological and psychoanalytical sources of Capitalism and Schizophrenia.

When I contacted Land about the republication of his works, he did not protest, but had nothing to add: Itâ€™s another life; I have nothing to say about it â€˜ I donâ€™t even remember writing half of those things ... I donâ€™t want to get into retrospectively condemning my ancient work â€˜ I think itâ€™s best to gently back off. It belongs in the clawed embrace of the undead amphetamine god.

Land opened up new possibilities at a time when â€˜Continental Philosophyâ€™ was beginning a sclerotic decline into institutional factions, each with their respective masters and their voluminous Bibles, their initiation rites and liturgies. He gave us another way to read the history of philosophy that made it fierce, communicative, connective and alive. Of course, his eventual collapse was occasion for the system to move in and heal the wound, in effect erasing all trace of this other path. But it is being rediscovered by a new generation of thinkers who, grown tired with philosophyâ€™s incarceration within â€˜the text,â€™ are returning to the question of â€˜thinking the outside.â€™

Landâ€™s uncompromising work also had â€˜ and retains â€˜ the power to polarize. On the one hand, leftists find indigestible its reckless aspect â€˜ the celebration of capitalism for its power to dismantle tradition, hierarchy and organisation. But by this token it presents a bracing alternative both to pious, benighted humanist ethics and to the voluntarist politics of the miraculous â€˜eventâ€™ peddled in recent years by Badiou and others. On the other hand, rightwingers equally deplore Landâ€™s irresponsibility and his abandonment of the pretense that the vector of capitalism is linked constitutively to any positive human program.

Now working as a journalist in Shanghai (â€˜neo-Chinaâ€™ as he used to write, in the days when its futuristic skyline was but a fevered anticipation on his part), Land still occasionally issues online commentaries, formulated in a unique journalistic-speculative alloy.<sup>9</sup> And they still attest to his unique talent for addressing the surface of the contemporary globe in direct and informed terms, without renouncing the philosophical ambition to construct a â€˜universal historyâ€™ of this global insanity.

One of Landâ€™s more memorable theses has it that, owing to the positive-feedback process of capitalismâ€™s artificialisation of the Earth, this process doubles its intensity in ever-decreasing periods:

Converging upon terrestrial meltdown singularity, phase-out culture accelerates through its digitech-heated adaptive landscape, passing through compression thresholds normed to an intensive logistic curve: 1500, 1756, 1884, 1948, 1980, 1996, 2004, 2008, 2010, 2011 â€˜
Nothing human makes it out of the near-future.

Garbage time is running out.

Can what is playing you make it to level 2?

(â€˜Meltdownâ€™)<sup>10</sup>

For Land, such theoretical propositions were also machines for excitation, devices to meld with and accelerate the planetary intensification that would finally allow the â€˜body without organsâ€™ to shed its human skin. If Philosophy thereby becomes a species of hype (or â€˜hyperstition,â€™ according to the CCRUâ€™s neologism) then are Landâ€™s detractors (now, as then) right to say that his outlook is ultimately indistinguishable from a passive acceptance of a â€˜neoconservativeâ€™ agenda â€˜ that his theoretical advocacy of the â€˜accelerationâ€™ of the capitalist process, in practice, simply endorses the maintenance of capitalist power structures rather than their dismantling (whether revolutionary or ameliorative)?

It is indeed true that Landâ€™s attempts to reach the intensive burncore of the planetary process, by hooking up conceptual thought to libidinising cultural energy, was always balanced between a romanticism of abolition and a dubious desire to identify with the â€˜excitingâ€™ and â€˜intenseâ€™ phenomena presented by capitalism. Land gradually abandoned as too-conservative even Deleuze and Guattariâ€™s â€˜cautiousâ€™ division of capitalism into a â€˜goodâ€™ destratifying or deterritorialising side and the â€˜badâ€™ mechanisms of reterritorialisation. In the name of a non-negotiable hatred for the fetters of the human, he may have risked wholesale capitulation to the new powers (all-too-human) that take hold of the earth as soon as its old power structures are dismantled â€˜ and which make use of every base reflex of homo sapiens for their own, ultimately banal, ends.

But to take this point of view is to avoid confronting the most potent aspects of Landâ€™s thought. His heresy was twofold: it consisted not only in his attempt to â€˜meltâ€™ writing immanently into the processes it described, but also in his dedication to thinking the real process of Capitalâ€™s insidious takeover of the human (and the legacy of this process within philosophy) â€˜ and in admitting the laughable impotence of â€˜manâ€™ in the face of this process. In this respect he has not yet been â€˜proved wrong,â€™ despite a recent upsurge in wishful thinking. His work still poses acutely â€˜ in a variety of forms â€˜ the challenge of thinking contemporary life on this planet: A planet piloted from the future by something that comes from outside personal or collective human intention, and which we can no longer pretend has anything to do with reason or progress.

apparently she did a few [and literally only a few] as long as 15 and 16 years ago:

UCHRONIA means Nowhen ----- Uchronia refers to a hypothetical time period of our world, in contrast to fictional lands or worlds. A concept similar to alternate history but different in the manner that uchronic times are not easily defined (mainly placed in some distant point near prehistory), reminiscent of a 'Conworld'. The word is a portmanteau of the word utopia (Greek u-topos not-land), replacing topos with chronos (time). It was originated by Charles Renouvier as the title of his 1876 novel Uchronie [...] The concept of Merry England is an example of uchronic myth. It refers to a poorly-defined point after Medieval England, mainly existing as a collective memory and nostalgia of a better past, although historically such a period never existed. Robert E. Howard's Hyborian Age is an example of an explicit uchronian period, while Tolkien's first three ages of Middle-earth are only implicitly located on the same planet as the modern Earth. In the uchronian interpretation of Middle-earth, this and other fantasy-genre fiction takes place during uchronian periods, set roughly in the prehistoric times, around and after Atlantis. The alternative and minor interpretation of an entirely separate mythology divorced from real history and taking place in another universe says that these stories are not uchronian. seanmortonsstrangeuniversechat te .. cannot find it but i do find this 2001 article [suspect of his claims]:

CLAIM: "T'ANG B'OICHE MONASTERY, MT. EVEREST VALLEY, NEPAL - In 1986, Sean David lived in a Tibetan monastery at the foot of Mt. Everest for seven months. He studied the disciplines of Tibetan Buddhism with the "Black Hat" monks. Here he studied ancient history, prophecy, astral travel, planetary healing, tantric sexual meditation techniques, ceremonial dance, and many of the hidden mysteries of the Universe. He also lived in the Dali Lama's compound in Dharmasala, India, studying with him personally at the Tibetan University there."

FACT: Other than Morton's claim, no evidence has been found to verify that he spent time studying Buddhism at Mt. Everest or spent any amount of time "personally" studying with the Dali Lama. No reference to T'ang B'oché Monastery could be found but a reference to a Tengboche Monastery was found (another mistake by Morton) [29]. It is a Buddhist monastery located at the base of Mt. Everest and apparently a large attraction for tourists as everyone is welcome to visit.

A few problems exist with Morton's claim. First, it has been alleged that Morton was still living in California during the time frame he claims to have been at Tengboche Monastery. A person wishing to remain anonymous contacted UFOWATCHDOG.COM.

This person alleged that Morton was employed as a DJ at a night club called Houlihans in Torrance, California in 1986. The person stated, "It was a while ago but I worked at Houlihans from 1986 through 1988. Sean had been there a [year] before I started and I know he was there at least a year after I left. During that time Sean was dating a very nice girl named Junis. I met Sean Morton in 1986 when I was putting myself through Loyola Marymount University as a DJ at Houlihans in Torrance, CA. Sean was also a DJ at Houlihans. Since then he faded from my memory, till Sunday April 7th 2002. I was watching television and there is Writer/Investigator Sean Morton on a program called, 'Conspiracy...Zone?' on TNN. Sean was boldly saying as no one has said before that the death of Princess Diana was a, 'classic military operation.' This amused and astounded me." Michael Schmitz, a former university professor leading the Thupten Choling Monastery Reconstruction & Tengboche Monastery Development Projects, was contacted regarding Morton's claims of studying "with the "Black Hat" monks" and studying "ancient history, prophecy, astral travel, planetary healing, tantric sexual meditation techniques, ceremonial dance, and many of the hidden mysteries of the Universe." ----- Tengboche monastery. Schmitz stated, "Nobody speaks English in Tengboche. In Tengboche you cannot study ancient history, prophecy, astral travel, planetary healing, tantric sexual meditation techniques, ceremonial dance, and many of the hidden mysteries of the Universe. There are no "Black Hat" monks in Tengboche. The Dali Lama is not teaching at the University in Dharmasala." If Morton did indeed live at the Tibetan monastery for that amount of time, then he should have no problem producing his passport and a copy of the visa issued to him for his extended stay.

v=UDMVYNX9xPw ===== Ideology, Intelligence, and Capital with Nick Land --- 88K views --- Jul 19, 2018 ---- 1.9K --- Justin Murphy ----- 13.4K subscribers ----- Jeremy Weate ---- 2 years ago (edited)
I was Warwick in the 1990s when Nick Land taught there and formed the CCRU. He attracted a clique around him and was charismatic from a certain perspective. He was fond of making grand millenarian claims back then too: that convergence would take place in 2010 and there would be a black box in your living room that did everything. In a sense he was right of course: the internet was the beginning of the acceleration and all media and human experience folded into technology. It's a shame his trajectory has become the intellectual parallel of Morrissey and he has become a grumpy old racist, beloved of Steve Bannon and the like.
Venom Groyper: This is an abundantly banal take. Nick's stated stance on ethnic politics is one of utter dismissal.
Jeremy Weate: @Venom Groyper would be nice to get a clear and unambiguous statement from Land that he disavows the Bannon school of political philosophy. As it is, Land appears to be caught by re-territorialising vectors, all under the guise of accelerationism.
mostlytranslucent: @Jeremy Weate "We can see from this derisory description of white nationalism that Land actually rejects its racist biological determinism as much as the left's social constructivist views of oppression. For Land, what both left and right's obsession with all-too-human differences overlooks is that an entirely new, artificially intelligent species is on the rise. Whereas white nationalists, conservatives and libertarians alike argue that capitalism is good for humanity (or at least the West) in that it generates the wealth of nations, Land holds that it is good because of the way it renders us obsolete before its technological march towards the creation of a new AI technospecies, or what Land calls "the bionic horizon": "when seen from the bionic horizon, whatever emerges from the dialectics of racial terror remains trapped in trivialities. It's time to move on".

Mostly what the libertarians want to hear is that the world is spiralling towards some sort of contradictory totalitarian wasteland and they're all going to be some kind of promethean John Conner figure, representing the last bastion of "masculinity" or "liberty" or "freedom" or their nationality, or some other abstracted noun that they're convinced is their duty to save from whatever it is that they feel deviates far enough from their amusingly archaic templates to constitute an existential threat, but which none of them have the capacity to define first. Debunking the ET Alien Tektite claims of Bruce Fenton
Voidisyinyang -- I debunked this person Bruce Fenton already - see my comments below. thanks
We know frustratingly little about the geographic distribution and demography of the Denisovans, except for the head-scratching finding that Aboriginal Australians and New Guineans are the only people alive today with substantial amounts of Denisovan DNA in their genome. ...â€œWe would like to know a great deal more about Denisovans. But I think itâ€™s important to know that just like the Neanderthals were known from Western Europe and the Near East, the Denisovans were a similar and closely related species that was found across a huge part of Asia,â€™ University of Illinois paleoanthropologist and study co-author Laura Shackelford said. Genome studies have shown that our species, Homo sapiens, interbred with Denisovans as recently as 30,000 years ago. As a result, some modern people share about 5 percent of their DNA with Denisovans including Indigenous populations in Papua New Guinea, Australia and the Philippines, with smaller DNA percentages among the broader Southeast Asian populations.

“This discovery [of the molar] is particularly important as it is the first direct evidence of the presence of Denisovans in Southeast Asia,” said Eske Willerslev, director of the Lundbeck Foundation GeoGenetics Centre and a study co-author. A common ancestor to Denisovans, Neanderthals, and Homo sapiens is thought to have lived in Africa 700,000 to 500,000 years ago, with a branch that led to Denisovans and Neanderthals splitting off 470,000 to 380,000 years ago. Homo sapiens first emerged in Africa roughly 300,000 years ago, then spread worldwide. By 200,000 years ago, four different archaic human species inhabited Asia including the Denisovans, Homo erectus, and diminutive island-dwelling peoples called Homo floresiensis and Homo luzonensis. Our species then joined the fray. Scientists have been searching in northeastern Laos for decades for prehistoric human remains. The cave bearing the tooth was situated near another where 70,000-year-old Homo sapiens remains were found.”

The Fenton Spectrum -- 6 hours ago: Thank you kindly to everyone for checking out my theory, hopefully, it inspires a few people to explore the topics we covered.

Voidisyinyang pastes another quote:

"We're comparing tektites with the source of tektites, which is the upper continental crust, to see what changed during the impact," Wang said. "How do you lose volatiles? What kind of volatiles do you lose first? What kind of volatiles will lose you less of? When you lose volatile elements, you don't lose them evenly." That's why this average, global view is a key starting point. Once scientists understand how volatile elements are lost in tektites, they can look for the same patterns in lunar samples to determine the conditions under which the Moon formed. In this study, Wang focused on moderately volatile elements, specifically potassium, copper, and zinc. Highly volatile elements, such as hydrogen, evaporate entirely during the tektite-forming process, but the behavior of moderately volatile elements during impact events reveals key details about the formation process for tektites and, by extension, the Moon." "Wang and his fellow researchers will be able to work backward from the products of impact events—tektites and lunar rocks alike—to learn about pre-impact conditions." Though lunar material is fundamentally different from terrestrial tektites, Wang believes the formation process is similar enough, particularly with respect to volatile loss, for scientists to create models describing both. "

Implications of K, Cu and Zn isotopes for the formation of tektites lYun Jiang abc Heng Chenc Bruce Fegley Jr.c Katharina Lodders c Weibiao Hsu d Stein B.J acobs ene KunWang(çŽæ†)ce Geochimica et Cosmochimica Acta Volume 259, 15 August 2019, Pages 170-187

I thought mainstream science now has documented the moon from after striking into Earth - a huge explosion and the moon formed:

"The current scientific hypothesis holds that our Moon was born of a calamitous giant impact. "

Tektites are distal impact glasses formed by melting of terrestrial rocks upon hypervelocity meteorite impacts<sup>8</sup>. Microtektites are the sub-millimeter analogs of tektites, thought to have solidified from smaller droplets of melt. Both tektites and microtektites are ejected from the source crater, travel ballistically, are quenched in flight, and are deposited hundreds to thousands of kilometers away from the source crater, in so-called strewn fields. A key feature of tektites is their volatile-depletion, observed for water, as well as for volatile and moderately volatile elements<sup>9</sup>. Of the four historically recognized strewn fields, the Australasian tektite and microtektite strewn field is the largest and most recent example. Australasian tektites and microtektites are linked to a hypervelocity impact origin by their geochemical compositions and features characteristic for shock melting: the absence of primary minerals, the presence of lechatelierite and shocked mineral grains in a subset of tektites and microtektites--<sup>10</sup>, as well as the occurrence of high-pressure mineral phases in some tektites<sup>11</sup>. The recovery of shock metamorphosed rock and unmelted mineral fragments in Australasian microtektite layers in the South China Sea<sup>12</sup> further supports the impact origin. Australasian microtektites have been collected from deep-sea sediment cores from the Ocean Drilling Program (ODP), Deep Sea Drilling Project (DSDP), as well as from piston cores by a variety of oceanographic institutes in over 60 locations in the Indian and western Pacific Oceans and adjacent seas--<sup>12,13</sup>, and from several sediment accumulation traps in Antarctica--<sup>14,15,16,17</sup>.

Christ's Discourse with the Pharisees --- Verses 51â€”59 ----- In these verses we have,
I. The doctrine of the immortality of believers laid down, John 8:51. It is ushered in with the usual solemn preface, Verily, verily, I say unto you, which commands both attention and assent, and this is what he says, If a man keep my sayings, he shall never see death. Here we have, 1. The character of a believer: he is one that keeps the sayings of the Lord Jesus, ton logon ton emonâ€”my word; that word of mine which I have delivered to you; this we must not only receive, but keep; not only have, but hold. We must keep it in mind and memory, keep it in love and affection, so keep it as in nothing to violate it or go contrary to it, keep it without spot (1 Tim. 6:14), keep it as a trust committed to us, keep in it as our way, keep to it as our rule. 2. The privilege of a believer: He shall by no means see death for ever; so it is in the original. Not as if the bodies of believers were secured from the stroke of death. No, even the children of the Most High must die like men, and the followers of Christ have been, more than other men, in deaths often, and killed all the day long; how then is this promise made good that they shall not see death? Answer, (1.) The property of death is so altered to them that they do not see it as death, they do not see the terror of death, it is quite taken off; their sight does not terminate in death, as theirs does who live by sense; no, they look so clearly, so comfortably, through death, and beyond death, and are so taken up with their state on the other side death, that they overlook death, and see it not. (2.) The power of death is so broken that though there is no remedy, but they must see death, yet they shall not see death for ever, shall not be always shut up under its arrests, the day will come when death shall be swallowed up in victory. (3.) They are perfectly delivered from eternal death, shall not be hurt of the second death. That is the death especially meant here, that death which is for ever, which is opposed to everlasting life; this they shall never see, for they shall never come into condemnation; they shall have their everlasting lot where there will be no more death, where they cannot die any more, Luke 20:36. Though now they cannot avoid seeing death, and tasting it too, yet they shall shortly be there where it will be seen no more for ever, Exod. 14:13.

why bring up terror? why twist the subject of terra/taste and stone broke to powder into it's opposite?????

Why should a good man be afraid to die, when Abraham is dead, and the prophets are dead? They have tracked the way through that darksome valley, which should reconcile us to death and help to take off the terror of it. Now they think Christ talks madly, when he saith, If a man keep my sayings, he shall never taste death. Tasting death means the same thing with seeing it; and well may death be represented as grievous to several of the senses, which is the destruction of them all.

Christ requires of us (John 8:51 John 8:51) that we KEEP HIS SAYINGS; and he has set before us a copy of obedience, a copy without a blot: he kept his Father's sayings; well might he who learned obedience teach it; see Hebrews 5:8; Hebrews 5:9.

[3.] Our Saviour gives an effectual answer to this cavil, by a solemn assertion of his own seniority even to Abraham himself (John 8:58 John 8:58): "Verily, verily, I say unto you; I do not only say it in private to my own disciples, who will be sure to say as I say, but to you my enemies and persecutors; I say it to your faces, take it how you will: Before Abraham was, I am;" prin Abraam genesthai, ego eimi, Before Abraham was made or born, I am.

First, How they were enraged at Christ for what he said: They took up stones to cast at him, John 8:59 John 8:59. Perhaps they looked upon him as a blasphemer, and such were indeed to be stoned (Leviticus 24:16); but they must be first legally tried and convicted. Farewell justice and order if every man pretend to execute a law at his pleasure. Besides, they had said but just now that he was a distracted crack-brained man, and if so it was against all reason and equity to punish him as a malefactor for what he said. They took up stones. Dr. Lightfoot will tell you how they came to have stones so ready in the temple; they had workmen at this time repairing the temple, or making some additions, and the pieces of stone which they hewed off served for this purpose. -----

What were you saying on Justin's podcast about the curious capacities and predilections of Ashkenazi Jews? Anecdotally, I've noticed from dating several A.Js that besides being sapiosexual (this seems true for sure) they also have a high kink/sexual deviance quotient. You seem to support this notion. ; )

One interpretation makes 666 equal the summation of the Greek Numbering of the Arabic word "ELLAH," which means "GOD" in the English language, where E=5, L=30, A=1, H=600 (according to above table of Greek Numerical System).

Thus the total of the word = 5 + 30 + 30 + 1 + 600 = (600)(60)(6)=666.

In the Arabic language and Islamic culture, it is common for individuals to use the name of "Ellah" (as in "Seif Ellah" which means in English "Sword of the God"); taken in context, this could mean that the prophesied Beast could be an "Arabic Moslem"; his mark in such case could be the name of "Ellah" written in Arabic letters and shaped within : Sword figure (as shown beside) which is equal to "Turned Over Cross" figure used by Satanism

Such interpretation gives one understanding of the Beast's potential name, its number, and its mark; in addition, it reads well into the next chapter of the Book of Revelation: ....

Compare CBS & Harry Reasoner "On Hippies" -- (circa 1966) versus Trey Parker ---- /yoism.reality-movement.org/

In the face of the monotonous repetition of human wars and destruction, people have long pondered this question: Why is there so much ugliness and destructive stupidity in the world? The answer is really quite simple: Because those with the healthiest, sanest notions about how we can live together -- i.e., those who consider all humans to be divine beings, those who value the individual over groups and their belief systems, and those who look to the observable real world (and not to dogma or unquestioned authority) for guides to effective action -- are less effective at creating and less willing to join ideologically organized identity groups that can effectively compete for power.

Unfortunately, the Leary/hippie notion that one can avoid joining and avoid being co-opted by social institutions is a delusion. And the paranoia-driven notion that one ought to try to avoid participating in social structures -- the belief that, by withdrawing from group participation, one can avoid being exploited or exploiting others -- is a self-deceptive attempt to escape from the inevitable problems inherent in being a member of society. It is a self-deceptive delusion because it only provides the illusion that one is avoiding the problems of exploitation. Not only can no one really opt out, trying to opt out may be one of the most exploitative options! It is an avoidance of one's responsibility, both to oneself as well as to others.

Probably no one has expressed this pseudo-paradoxical truth and the emptiness of anarchistic, hedonistic worship of the individual (and the avoidance of the need for self-sacrifice and hard work) better than Saint Trey, in the Die Hippie, Die! episode of South Park: Trey Parker "On Hippies" - Excerpted from "Die Hippie, Die!" (South Park episode 902)

Lyotard in 1985 [transl. by RMackay]:

PA RT I: DOCUMENTAfter Six Months of Work... (1984)

Jean-François Lyotard

After six months of work in partnership with the team at the Centre de Cr  ation Industrielle (CCI), and with one year to go before the opening of the exhibition entitled Les Immat  riaux, I would like to take stock, firstly by making a few clarifications concerning the conception of this exhibition, then by setting out the question of installation as we have collectively thought it through, and reporting on our intended responses to the question of installation, or at least their general direction. Those are the principal points that I would like to cover here. The initial title of the exhibition, as stated in the plan of the Centre Georges Pompidou, was Les nouveaux mat  riaux et la creation [New Materials and Creation]. Such a title obviously brings with it a whole way of thinking, a whole horizon of thinking which we might set out as follows: in making a very fine-grained analysis of natural givens, intelligence arrives at certain elements; it synthesises these elements, it reorganises them, aided by the creative imagination, and in this way engenders hitherto unknown objects. And the philosopher, when he scans this horizon, recognises the figure of modernity, which is perpetuated in the form of a subject that is intelligent, imaginative, and voluntary, a subject that takes hold of a world of given objects and analyses them – that is to say, a subject that reduces them to their finest, most imperceptible elements, and proves his mastery of these givens by creating from these elements completely new tools, new materials, new matter, even. By calling the exhibition Immatériaux, we had, if I may say so, a number of claims in mind. Firstly, we must understand materials in a broad sense, as we have already written, extending the meaning of the word material [matériau] to also cover referents [matières], hardware [matériels], matrices [matrices], 30 30 Years after Les Immatériaux and even maternity [maternité]. Tracing the common origin of these terms to the sense of the root mètre, which means both measurement and construction, we tried to rethink everything that the modern project, the project of the figure of the subject I just mentioned, tends to treat as a sort of passivity to be conquered, as data to be analysed. That is to say that I would like personally, in my capacity as a philosopher, to give the word –œmaterial– a philosophical pertinence that necessarily exceeds the sense of the word as it is used, for example, by the architect or the painter. If in saying –œmaterial– I also understand something as maternity – that is to say, as origin – then obviously I am posing a problem, that of authentication – a problem of authority, a problem of beginnings; and from that point of view, the term –œmaterial– immediately raises a question that is generally not considered in relation to the figure of modernity – precisely that of the intelligent, imaginative, and voluntary origin which exerts its domination, its hegemony, its mastery, over what is given. That is the first point. Of course, by distinguishing between content [matière], hardware [matériel], matrix [matrice], maternity [maternité], and support [matériau], we seek to redistribute the term –œmaterial–, which as a term remains rather vague with regard to certain extremely precise and specific functions that are generally distinct for the communications engineer, for example, but also for the linguist and, probably, for the philosopher. This is why, in the first project plan connected with this exhibition, we took as a reference-point the model of the structure of communication that distinguishes between the sender and the recipient of a message – which already gives us two instances – but also the code in which this message is written – a third instance – the support upon which it is written – a fourth instance – and the referent of the message – a fifth instance.

Robin is mess of a moron to do this work and then to not see my work's connexion to the problems adressed 20 years later .....

last lines [p66]: This chapter began by maintaining that the Kantian discovery of the transcendental required a revolution in the nature of time. The classical conception which conceived of time as equivalent to the phenomenal world of change and motion had to be overthrown. In its place Kant constructed an account of a constant, formal time within which all variation takes place. He called this the 'form of inner sense' due to the fact that it conditions all thoughts and perceptions from within. Yet, as we have seen, in located time inside the subject, Kant radically altered the notion of interiority by subordinating it to the exteriority of time. In the chapter on the schematism this exteriority of time overturns the transcendence of Ideas and of God by replacing them with an immanent plane of abstract production which is nothing other than the transcendental production of time.

Among the extraordinary collection of James Joyce manuscripts acquired by the National Library of Ireland in 2002, 1 one of the most fascinating is the notebook used by the author in Paris and Pola in 2003/04. 2 Long believed to have been lost, 3 this jotter, its cover damp-stained and well-worn, was for the aspiring writer something of a pocket atelier or ambulant workshop. Filled with a variety of notes, reflections, accounts, 4 booklists, poems and quotations, it affords precious insights into both his daily concerns and artistic interests during that formative period. Until now scholars have referred separately to the –œParis Notebook– and the –œPola Notebook–, famous for the earliest formulations of Joyce's literary and aesthetic theories. 5 While the most important contents were known through the transcriptions of Joyce's biographer Herbert Gorman, the original allows us a privileged position as bystander at Joyce's literary workbench. 6 Of special value is the evidence which the notebook provides for Joyce's study of Aristotle. Particularly revealing are the thirtyone quotations which he wrote into his notebook, and upon which he drew during the decades which followed. Joyce's choice is testimony to what he himself regarded as important in Aristotle; the act of selecting a text and transcribing it in careful longhand into his cahier is significant of itself. Having given up hope of studying medicine in Paris (on learning that fees had to be paid in advance), 7 Joyce turned his attention from physic to metaphysic. Letters of the time indicate his earnest application to the study of Aristotle; in February 1903 he wrote to his brother Stanislaus: "I am feeling very intellectual these times and up to my eyes in Aristotle's Psychology." 8 The following month he wrote to his mother: "I read every day in the Bibliotheque Nationale and every night in the Bibliotheque Sainte Genevieve ... I am at present up to my neck in ALLWISEST STAGYRITE in Aristotle's Metaphysics and read only him and Ben Jonson." 9

The 12 Primary Sounds of Chimpanzee Language!! 390 Words strung into sentences - now proven!

According to the study, the researchers "from France, Germany and Ivory Coast" found that the primates can combine 12 primary sounds to form 390 "words" or unique sequences, forming a precursor to language.

The 12 primary sounds they identified included grunts and hoos, which the chimps combined into groups to form phrases of varying meanings, the study says.

Why Eco-Doom is not just a Western problem even though it primarily spread through Western "white" civilization

Agriculture created patriarchal hierarchies based on warfare around the planet but that's only the tip of the iceberg of humanity. We have patriarchal war for the first (most recent) 10% of modern humans but as Professor Brian Ferguson points out - before agriculture there is no documented warfare before 10,000 years ago or so. White skin, as DNA science has proven, is literally from lack of Vitamin D in the monocultural wheat farm diet. So for example people living in Europe had dark skin quite recently - until the first wheat farmers started moving into Europe and that wheat farming process took thousands of years to spread into Europe. The original hunter-gatherers of Europe were Africans with Dark Skin - and so for example the far north of Europe had dark skin more recently since farming spread their later. So a good book on this is "Ecological Imperialism" by Professor Alfred Crosby. Essentially the cattle Milk wheel wagon Yamnaya culture spread into Europe around 3000 BCE - and took over Europe much faster as they were primarily pastoralists. They were white skin since they had taken wheat-farming women as the cattle pastoralists also spread south into West Asia area. So the wheat farming women got stolen into the patriarchal pastoralist cattle culture and then that culture took over Europe much faster. Then it spread around the world a bit over 500 years ago - as the book "Ecological Imperialism" documents. Most of the genocide was from disease since intensive animal agriculture causes more diseases to build up and spread - all the manure and blood, etc. But the Aztecs spread pederasty into the Mayans - and the Incas captured the matrifocal lunar based hunter-gatherer cultures around them. So this is found all over the world where Agriculture is more of a patriarchal Solar culture as there is a plow tool used for farming. The males then have to pay taxes with their farm crops so they can get married and then also have to volunteer to join the military so the elite can spread via warfare. I call this Chimpanzee Culture - it's literally the

SAME culture as what chimpanzees rely on.

Well Sandy - really Lincoln at first did not want to free the slaves. The Civil War was more about the South being against the Tariffs the North had installed to protect the industrialization of the North. The South was trading basic commodities - slave tobacco for British industrial goods. And then Lincoln realized the slaves had to be freed to win the war and there was a fairly large freed black union section of fighters. But Lincoln warned that the power of Corporations would actually take over after the war - because Industrialization - primarily through railroads - made the corporations too powerful. Originally the Corporate Charters were granted by state legislatures and each charter was for a limited time with no limited liability and corporate charters were routinely revoked! The Republican Party at the time, including Lincoln, were against what they called "Wage-Slaves" since most workers were either independent land-owning farmers or craftsmen with small businesses. Industrial wage workers were not that common yet but that was changing. So then by the late 1880s - the corporations were ruled to have LEGAL PERSONHOOD but a corporate lawyer "secretary" who added the corporate legal personhood into a court commentary - it was not even an official ruling. But the commentary set the precedent necessary for the sold out Supreme Court Judges to then rule that corporations were protected by the Bill of Rights!! And if you look it up the 14th Amendment has been legally used to PROTECT the corporate "due process" Personhood Bill of Rights MUCH MORE than to protect African-Americans. Even more so with Jim Crow laws - the Constitutional Amendment - the 13th - made Slavery Legal again as Prison Slave Labor. My own Grandfather was forced into chain gang prison labor that he refused to do when he was 18 years old until he relented after being submitted to a holding cell of I think 1 foot by 2 foot for 24 hours in California. The scam is that the county sheriffs got the free labor from the prison wardens when normally the Hobos on the Railroad were arrested by the railroad workers as security - instead the County Sheriffs would go into steal the poor hobos as prison labor free for county construction. The Netflix Series on the 13th Amendment goes into detail on the Jim Crow Laws continuing Slavery as Prison labor. Also the Bacon's Rebellion in 1676 was both European and Africans united against the Corporate Virginia Colony elite - so that's why the U.S. was based on British "Divide and Conquer" racism so that by the early 1700s the whites could not be whipped in public while FREE Ne-grows (youtube censor) could not own weapons NOR vote!! And thus the U.S. was born and the US "revolution" by 1776 was to make sure the U.S. STAYED a Slave "republic" unlike the bubbling up Haitian Revolution and the British move to outlaw slavery.

thanks for that clarification. I'm just now watching the very intense and excellent Harvard Law trained documentary - "Who We Are: A Chronicle of Racism in America" - and I have been taking a daily spiritual training class from an African-American spiritual healer who trained from a Chinese qigong master, Chunyi Lin. So what I find fascinating is that the British "divide and conquer" racism that got codified into a structural legal system in the U.S. Constitution via the corporate charters of the colonies, etc - this racism originates from a deeper mind control that can be traced back to Platonic Philosophy. This is how I finished my master's degree by doing qigong meditation through the African Studies Department inspired by the book, "The Racial Contract" that points out how Platonic philosophy argued for a racist "natural law." The Eugenics of Plato actually originated from the wrong music theory that was promoted as "social harmony" as logarithmic or equal-tempered music theory. That's how DEEP the racism is - that "democracy" in the US has an inverse exponential growth of the elite built into the logarithmic mathematics that everyone learns - and that also drives abrupt global warming. So the founding of the U.S. was part of the "Ecological Imperialism" that spread around the world, as Prof. Alfred Crosby titled his book, but it originates back in the foundation of agriculture in West Asia through the wheat monocultural farming (that created the white skin from lack of Vitamin D in the wheat monocultural diet). Science can "reverse engineer" the source of the problem - while the solution is actually a deep rewiring of our psycho-physiology - an actual spiritual transformation of our awareness or perception. It takes a lot of courage to escape the enslaved minds and souls that our modern society exists in - to "leave the Matrix" as it were. Qigong Master Jim Nance is literally a Morpheus just as in the movie the matrix. haha. A lot of this stuff is even too intense to detail - he was supposed to have his memoir published. I don't know if it's going to happen. This training is inherently based on a deep listening as logical inference that even challenges the human development of "language." Our original human language is a secret of music that got covered up. So nonwestern music is a better means of leaving the Matrix. We think of just our deeply embedded the racism is but the materialistic greed in other cultures can be just as strong. It's just the Western modern science worldview has been more successful in exploiting and extracting energy through a structural mathematical process. In the midst of biological annihilation we have to consider what our future life forms will be. Jim told me that there are spirit gateway caves in West Africa - as Malidome Some also details. In other words - post-apocalypse radioactive life forms that survive in a highly mutated manner. We continue on in spirit form as ghosts and how we then "embody" new matter as life should be quite interesting indeed. Ghost Pollution is a real thing and has to do with the frequency of the light - along with the phase I suppose. For example the first compound eyes arose due to the "quantum diffraction gradients" just as the back of a CD has rainbow light from the small changes in the grooves at the angstrom wavelength. So the spiritual masters can actually change spacetime and the creation of new matter. But the overall trajectory of life in Earth is difficult to tell. Our perception of linear time is an illusion of our insistence on a 3D spacetime from modern mathematics of the continuum - this assumes a basic symmetric definition of space to measure time, as is even found in general relativity geometry.

So the truth is something called noncommutativity - a concept in science that very few scientists know much about but it is also the secret of nonwestern music as meditation - and the original inspiration of Pythagorean philosophy as well (from African philosophy).

Awesome. Yes my master's thesis was on "radical ecology" and what I called "sound-current nondualism." So in fact when I was in a noise band in high school - I would sing about "walking in the woods." haha. My friend used to paint trees when she became an art teacher - we used to talk about trees together as we met at a camp in the woods. I did a photography project when I was 12 years old of just trees - that I developed myself. Then when I used to meditate a lot - I had dreams about the trees in the yard I grew up on - the big old oak tree. First one tree had a rainbow aura around it. The next dream was of another tree that had a big white bear up against it. I thought that was strange and so I went back to see the yard and that big old oak tree was now cut down!! I had seen it recently - so it had just happened. This made me realize that trees not only have auras - as I knew qigong master Chunyi Lin talked about reading a tree's aura to heal the tree - but trees also have a consciousness! I realized those trees had not just watched over me as I was a child always in the yard but those trees had cared about me with an unconditional love. We as primates are from the forest - and we belong in the forest. That is our natural habitat. Modern humans left the forest for the savannah but in the forest our primary perception is listening - not vision. Modern humans define reality by external vision - this is why our delusions exist because with our eyes open then our lower emotional subconscious is in control. By listening we can make direct resonance with the source of reality that Sir Roger Penrose calls "protoconsciousness." Penrose and Stuart Hameroff have developed a whole model that was corroborated by Dr. Anirban Bandyopadhyay with whom I've corresponded. So Ultrasound is key to that model - our collagen, the most common protein in our body, resonates at ultrasound. So my master's thesis on "sound-current nondualism and music theory and radical ecology" was about consciousness as nondual awareness another term for what Penrose calls protoconsciousness. I did not have the math correct in my master's thesis - I was still searching. The math is actually something called noncommutativity and the physics is called negentropy or negative entropy. haha. Of course the key is to keep meditating. A lady who did her Ph.D. in psychology wrote a book called "Transcendent Dreaming" - Christina Donnell. That book is about her precognitive healing dreams that transform physical matter also. She trained in Tai Chi and she also trained in Andean shamanic meditation. So yes precognitive dreams are more vivid than being awake! It's quite fascinating to be sure. Physics has proven that matter is actually made of light yet light itself has a hidden "supermomentum" from quantum physics - the "supermomentum" is from the future that is precognitive. We can resonate with the future as an inherent healing harmonizing energy that physicist Louis de Broglie discovered as the Law of Phase Harmony. His protege Olivier Costa de Beauregard then argued the paranormal and spiritual is proven real, de facto, based on relativistic quantum physics and even the CIA emphasized his paranormal research. ----- at June 19, 2022

Twin Turbo Chevrolet Straight Six vs Abrupt Global Warming Ecological Biological Annihilation Crisis -- 46 views - Jun 20, 2022 - Voidisyinyang Voidisyinyang -- 519 subscribers --- Replacement of V8s by the new Twin Turbo Straight Six engine..... Why a Straight Six with deep displacement or height (35 inches) is more efficient than a V8 (28 inches).

And yet Abrupt Global Warming debunks all of this. haha. <https://www.sciencedaily.com/releases...>
We need to rethink everything we know about global warming
New calculations show scientists (Daniel Rosenfeld, et. al.) have grossly underestimated the effects of air pollution

"The fact that our planet is getting warmer even though aerosols are cooling it down at higher rates than previously thought brings us to a Catch-22 situation: Global efforts to improve air quality by developing cleaner fuels and burning less coal could end up harming our planet by reducing the number of aerosols in the atmosphere, and by doing so, diminishing aerosols' cooling ability to offset global warming."

James Hansen, NASA top global warming scientist recently posted this:

"It follows that the global warming acceleration is due to the one huge climate forcing that we have chosen not to measure: the forcing caused by imposed changes of atmospheric aerosols. "

Agriculture created patriarchal hierarchies based on warfare around the planet but that's only the tip of the iceberg of humanity. We have patriarchal war for the first (most recent) 10% of modern humans but as Professor Brian Ferguson points out - before agriculture there is no documented warfare before 10,000 years ago or so. White skin, as DNA science has proven, is literally from lack of Vitamin D in the monocultural wheat farm diet. So for example people living in Europe had dark skin quite recently - until the first wheat farmers started moving into Europe and that wheat farming process took thousands of years to spread into Europe. The original hunter-gatherers of Europe were Africans with Dark Skin - and so for example the far north of Europe had dark skin more recently since farming spread their later. So a good book on this is "Ecological Imperialism" by Professor Alfred Crosby. Essentially the cattle Milk wheel wagon Yamnaya culture spread into Europe around 3000 BCE - and took over Europe much faster as they were primarily pastoralists. They were white skin since they had taken wheat-farming women as the cattle pastoralists also spread south into West Asia area. So the wheat farming women got stolen into the patriarchal pastoralist cattle culture and then that culture took over Europe much faster. Then it spread around the world a bit over 500 years ago - as the book "Ecological Imperialism" documents. Most of the genocide was from disease since intensive animal agriculture causes more diseases to build up and spread - all the manure and blood, etc. But the Aztecs spread pederasty into the Mayans - and the Incas captured the matrifocal lunar based hunter-gatherer cultures around them. So this is found all over the world where Agriculture is more of a patriarchal Solar culture as there is a plow tool used for farming. The males then have to pay taxes with their farm crops so they can get married and then also have to volunteer to join the military so the elite can spread via warfare. I call this Chimpanzee Culture - it's literally the SAME culture as what chimpanzees rely on.

WTF or Well Tempered Fiths means that all 12 semi-tones in the octave are equal across space-time (Hz).
This enables music to be: written-in-time & in-tune & played-in-time & in-tune & while modulating-in-time & in-tune between all 12 keys, while remaining equally in-time & in-tune, i.e. it all commutes (or 'balances out').

C&C is also known as The Well Tempered Climate Accord (WTCA) which uses the equalization of semi-tones analogous to carbon-rights per capita globally. As in music, this is done as the result is the model works at all rates of C&C; here is a sample of a million possible rates.
----- 8. Note - The original Well Tempered Climate Accord
The original Well Tempered Climate Accord (WTCA) was introduced at COP-2 to UNFCCC climate negotiations in 1996. Whatever the rates of contraction and convergence applied, it remains stable because of the application of Well Tempering to the model.

En este Post vamos a tratar un tema importante, los ciclos "grandes" en el cÃ³digo 37. Hoy mismo estamos en el de 513 ciclos de 37 dÃas, 703 ciclos de 27 dÃas, y 999 ciclos de 19 dÃas. Esto visto a la inversa se lee asÃ, 37 ciclos de 513 dÃas, 27 ciclos de 703 dÃas y 19 ciclos de 999 dÃas. Simplemente en este artÃculo, vamos a calcular en que ciclo estamos actualmente, siguientemente, vamos a hacer un anÃlisis exhaustivo de todos los ciclos, con grÃficos of Britainâ€™s first modernists; yet, while maintaining a continuously high standard of artistic production, both critical and creative, he eventually became its most articulate anti-modernist and an apologist for a particular kind of classicism. 1 In a civilization evermore under threat, and with most contemporary art of an unprecedentedly banal quality, it seems worth exploring the reasons someone who worked so energetically in both painting and literature should have ended up lambasting The Demon of Progress in the Arts, the title of Lewisâ€™s anti-avant-gardist polemic of 1954. By the mid-1920s the polytheistically inclined Lewis had come to believe that art began with the ancient Egyptians and that it had not improved since their 3,000-year civilization had ceased to prevail. Where Edward Gibbon regretted the destructive effect of Christianity on the civilization of ancient Rome, Lewis lamented the longer-term legacy of Egypt which had been even more thoroughly "obscured or destroyed by Christianity"

NOTE: 83. O. G. S. Crawford, "Egypt as a place-name", Notes & Queries 10.258 (1908), pp. 447-48. The Eye Goddess (London, 1957) was published just a few weeks before his death. A return to the kind of ideas that characterized his early interests, and to the kind of diffusionist framework that was falling from favour, his surviving correspondence at the Bodleian Library shows considerable support from peers and contemporaries while the book was being researched and written. Professionally and academically, its publication was barely acknowledged.

"Distorted mirage, aloofest of the plain"

(264.15-266.19) In preparation for HCE's inevitable return, today's passage presents a bird's eye view of Chapelizod and environs and zooms its focus onto HCE's home there. As part of our "sojournemus" (a fake Latin word for "let us journey") through the area, the description of the scenes are loaded with references to actual places within Chapelizod. For instance, McHugh notes that the phrase "with our king's house of stone, belgroved of mulbrey" references King's House, Stone House, Belgrov, Mulberry Hill, and Mulberry House. These ubiquitous references add color to the passage while grounding it in (a version of) reality.

One thing I liked about today's reading was the way this scenic view of Chapelizod incorporated verbal scenes we've encountered throughout the Wake. Two particular passages jumped out at me as references to chapter endings. When discussing the female river figures ALP and Isabel, we read: "but Izolde, her chaplet gardens, an litlee pads af liefest pose, arride the winnerful wonders off, the winnerful wonnerful wanders off." This calls to mind the closing of the eighth chapter: "Beside the rivering waters of, hitherandthithering waters of." And the description of the sleeping HCE includes: "D'Oblong's by his by. Which we all pass. Tons. In our snoo. Znore. While we hickerwards the thicker. Schein. Schore." This echoes the conclusion of the third chapter: "Humph is in his doge. Words weigh no no more to him than raindrops to Rethfernhim. Which we all like. Rain. When we sleep. Drops. But wait until our sleeping. Drain. Sdops."

The passage ends, as I've noted, inside the Earwicker home. HCE, as I just mentioned, is snoring in his sleep (apparently somewhere downstairs in the pub). We leave the barroom, walk past the breakfast table ("Morningtop's necessity") and toilet ("Harington's invention") upstairs, and encounter the children at their studies: "the clarience of the childlight in the studiorium upsturts." Some days these readings are nicely self-contained, and this is a particularly good example of one of those.
